THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE

MINUTES OF THE ONE HUNDRED NINETEENTH ANNUAL MEETING

WITH THE STATISTICS

LAWRENCE, MAY 16, 17, 18

THE PILGRIM PRESS
BOSTON CHICAGO

EDITOR'S NOTE

The promise of an earlier volume of Minutes this year, before the meeting of the National Council, has been fulfilled as far as the editor's part is concerned. This final word is written June 27. It is hoped that the printer's difficulties with the pressmen will allow a July volume.

Another change is proposed to Article V of the Rules, offered by the Committee on Religious Education and Young People's Work, that each church be permitted to send pastor and Two delegates to the annual meeting of the Conference; the idea being that the second delegate shall be a young person representative of the youth of the churches. This amendment is offered in writing on page 20, and is hereby submitted to the churches and associations "at least three months before the [illegible] when action will be taken.

Once more the Conference secretary makes an earnest [illegible] minister on the state and local association rolls to keep the local scribe and the state secretary advised as to change of post office and of pastorates. It is a courtesy that will react to the advantage of the party of the first part.

RULES OF THE CONFERENCE

ARTICLE I. — Name

This body shall be called The Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

ARTICLE II. — Object

Its object is to promote (a) intercourse and fellowship between Congregational ministers and churches of the Commonwealth; (b) the cooperation of the churches with one another for their mutual comfort and development, and for the religious care of the home field; (c) the presentation and discussion of matters vital to our faith, and the interests of our denomination; and (d) the cooperation of this body with other ecclesiastical bodies for the general increase of Christian union and spiritual efficiency, and the advancement of Christ's kingdom in the earth.

ARTICLE III. — Doctrinal Basis

This Conference declares its steadfast allegiance to the faith which our fathers confessed, which, from age to age, has found its expression in the historic creeds of the Church Universal and of this Communion.

ARTICLE IV. — Denominational Basis

Being based exclusively upon Congregational principles, this Conference shall, under no circumstances, exercise ecclesiastical authority over churches or individuals, or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches, or consent to hear appeals, or give advice in ecclesiastical causes of any kind.

ARTICLE V. — Members

1. Each evangelical Congregational Church, Conference, and Association in this Commonwealth may choose one delegate, and these delegates, together with the pastor or pastors of each church (who shall be members ex officio), the officers and committee members of this body, two delegates from the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, one from the Board of Ministerial Aid, one from the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, one from Andover Theological Seminary, and one from the Board of Pastoral Supply, shall constitute the Conference.

2. Delegates from corresponding bodies, ministers appointed to preach before the Conference, and chairmen of committees who attend to present reports, together with such other persons as the Conference may vote to admit, shall be honorary members, with the privilege of speaking, but without vote.

ARTICLE VI. — Officers

1. The officers shall be a Moderator, a Vice-Moderator, a Secretary, a Registrar, an Assistant Registrar, and a Treasurer. All members of Congregational churches in this Commonwealth shall be eligible to any of these offices. The officers shall be elected by ballot, the Moderator and Vice-Moderator each to serve one year, the other officers each to serve three years and until the election of their successors. The terms of all officers, save when chosen to fill vacancies, shall begin at the close of the meeting at which they are elected.

2. The officers, together with three delegates annually chosen by ballot for this purpose, shall constitute an Executive Committee.

3. The Moderator, or in his absence, the Vice-Moderator, shall preside over all the meetings of the Conference and shall be chairman of the Executive Committee.

4. (a) The Secretary shall conduct the correspondence of the Conference, collect and publish in connection with the annual "Minutes" the statistics of ministers and churches, distribute the publications of the Conference, copies of which he shall preserve for permanent use, give suitable notice to the churches of the time and place of each annual meeting, notify officers and committees of their election or appointment, and fulfil such other functions as the Conference may from time to time direct.

(b) The Secretary shall receive a salary of one thousand dollars, and by the authority and under the direction of the Executive Committee, he may, when necessary, employ an assistant, at a compensation to be fixed by the Executive Committee.

5. The Registrar shall keep a full record of each meeting, which he shall preserve as the permanent property of the Conference, and he shall also keep the minutes of the Executive Committee.

6. The Assistant Registrar shall aid the Registrar in making the records; shall take his place during his absence; and, in the event of a vacancy in the Registrar's office, shall act as Registrar until the office shall be filled by the Executive Committee or by a regular election.

7. The Treasurer shall receive all money raised for the use of the Conference, disburse the same as directed by the Executive Committee and shall make an annual report, to be audited as the Conference may direct.

8. The Executive Committee shall have charge of all the interests and business of the Conference between the annual meetings, shall fill all vacancies occurring during the interim, and shall make an annual report to the Conference.

9. The traveling expenses of the Secretary, Registrar, Assistant Registrar and Treasurer, in attending the annual meetings, shall be paid by the Conference.

ARTICLE VII. — Trustees

1. A board of five Trustees shall also be elected, two to serve three years, two to serve two years, and one to serve one year; and on each election succeeding the first, the successors of those whose terms expire shall be chosen for three years and until others are appointed in their stead by ballot; and all members of Congregational churches in this state shall be eligible thereto.

2. The Board of Trustees shall hold and manage trust funds for the benefit of the Conference and perform such duties as may be prescribed by vote of the Conference for their government, making an annual report to the Conference. The Trustees may receive such property, real and personal, as may be given to the Conference or to the Board of Trustees to be invested, used, and managed in such manner as the Conference shall from time to time direct; and in the absence of such vote of the Conference, in such manner as a majority of the Trustees shall by vote determine at any regular or special meeting of the Board of Trustees, for the use and benefit of the objects of the Conference.

ARTICLE VIII. — Annual Meeting

The annual meeting shall be held at the appointed place on the third Monday of May at two o'clock P.M., or at such other hour as the Executive Committee may find expedient.

ARTICLE IX. — Organization

The Moderator or, in his absence, the Vice-Moderator, shall call the Conference to order. In the absence of both, any member of the Executive Committee may call the Conference to order, and a moderator pro tem shall be chosen to serve during the absence of the proper officer.

ARTICLE X. — Committees

1. Immediately after the opening of the annual meeting the Moderator shall appoint: —

(a) A Committee on Credentials, to which all credentials shall be referred.

(b) A Business Committee, the duty of which shall be to prepare and present all matters of business at each session, not presented through some other committee of the Conference. All matters of business presented by any member of the Conference shall be referred to the Business Committee unless ordered to some other committee by the Conference. All matters of business referred to any committee shall be reported for action before the final adjournment of the annual meeting.

(c) A Budget Committee of three, which shall report before the close of the meeting on the state of the treasury, the amount of money needed for the ensuing year, and ways and means for meeting the need.

2. At each annual meeting there shall be elected by viva voce vote:

(a) A Program Committee of eight members, of which the Secretary of the Conference and the pastor of the Church which is to entertain the next annual meeting shall be members ex-officiis, the other members to be elected two for three years, two for two years, and two for one year, subsequent elections to be for three years each. This committee shall prepare the program for the next annual meeting, selecting the preacher of the annual sermon, and the various speakers for each session.

(b) A Committee of two, to be elected for one year, to audit the Treasurer's report.

(c) A Nominating Committee of seven, consisting of the retiring Moderator or, in his absence, of the retiring Vice-Moderator, of each annual conference, together with six other members; two to be elected annually for three years, which shall make all nominations required by the Rules of the Conference or by vote. The retiring members of this committee shall not be eligible for re-election for at least one year.

(d) Such other committees as the Conference may vote to elect. Members of these committees shall be elected for such terms as the Conference shall determine. The Executive Committee shall present at each annual meeting a list of the committees the appointment of which it recommends.

3. The reports of all committees that are to be presented to the Conference shall be furnished to the Secretary on or before April 1 of each year and shall be printed and distributed to the churches not less than two weeks before the annual meeting. These reports shall not be read to the Conference save by special order; but the Program Committee may arrange for the adequate discussion of any or all of the topics presented in the reports.

ARTICLE XI. — Massachusetts Home Missionary Society

In the practical administration of its home missionary work, the instrument of the Conference shall be the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, a place for which shall be made in the program of the annual meeting.

ARTICLE XII. — Board of Ministerial Aid

The Board of Ministerial Aid shall be the agent of the Conference in the work of aiding needy ministers and their families, and shall make an annual report to the Conference. On notice of a vacancy in the membership of the Board of Ministerial Aid, the Conference shall nominate a person to fill the vacancy.

ARTICLE XIII. — Boston Seaman's Friend Society

The Boston Seaman's Friend Society shall be the agent of the Conference in the work of promoting the spiritual and temporal welfare of seamen, and shall make an annual report to the Conference. The Conference shall annually nominate a person for membership in the Board of Managers of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society.

ARTICLE XIV. — Board of Pastoral Supply

1. The Conference shall elect eight members to represent it on the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply, two members to be elected each year to serve for a period of four years.

2. The Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply shall, through its Secretary, make an annual report to the Conference.

ARTICLE XV. — Special Orders

1. Each session of the annual meeting shall be opened and closed with divine worship, and one minister to have charge of these services for all sessions of the Conference shall be named by the Program Committee.

2. On each morning of the annual meeting, after the first day, the minutes of the preceding day shall be read; the minutes of the last day shall be read immediately before the final adjournment.

3. On Monday evening of each annual meeting the annual sermon shall be preached, followed by the celebration of the Lord's Supper.

4. The place of the next annual meeting shall be recommended each year by the Business Committee and designated by vote of the Conference.

5. As far as possible, all business of the Conference shall be completed by noon of the second day of the annual meeting.

ARTICLE XVI. — Rules of Order

The Rules of Order shall be those of common parliamentary usage subject to the following specifications:

1. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the Conference.

2. When a question is before the Conference the Moderator shall entertain motions only as follows: To adjourn, to table, for the previous question, to postpone to a fixed time, to commit, to amend, or to postpone indefinitely; these several motions shall have precedence in the foregoing order.

3. No vote not essential to the conduct of the business of the Conference shall be passed except by a two-thirds vote of those present and voting; nor shall any such vote be passed, except by unanimous consent, until at least fifteen minutes shall have been allowed for debate.

ARTICLE XVII. — Amendments

1. Any of the above articles, except the first five, may be amended at any annual meeting by a two-thirds vote, provided that the proposed amendment shall have been submitted to the Conference in writing on the day previous.

2. Either of the first five articles may be amended by a two-thirds vote but only after the proposed amendment has been submitted to the Conference in writing at the previous annual meeting, and notice has been sent to the several associations, conferences, and churches connected with this body at least three months prior to the meeting at which action is to be taken.

Credentials: Rev. Benjamin Swift, Princeton; Rev. R. R. Morson, Palmer; Rev. H. L. Bailey, Longmeadow.

Budget: H. K. Hyde, Ware; Rev. W. B. Tuthill, Lowell; G. J. Esselen, Roxbury.

Tellers: Rev. E. C. Camp, Watertown; Rev. H. G. Person, Newton.

The Treasurer, E. L. Miller, Boston, made his annual report. The report was accepted and his recommendation referred to the Business Committee.

The report of the Auditing Committee was read by the Secretary. The report was accepted.

The following deacons were appointed by the Moderator to serve at the Lord's Supper:

C. W. Abbott, Lawrence; Benjamin Smith, Lawrence; G. J. Esselen, Roxbury; C. E. Swett, Winchester; D. M. Dustan, Worcester; M. A. G. Meads, Newton.

The report of the Board of Pastoral Supply was presented by Secretary A. J. Covell, Boston. The report was accepted.

Rev. M. A. Farren, Secretary of the Seaman's Friend Society, made the report of that society and the report was accepted.

The Moderator being called away, the Secretary, Rev. H. L. Bailey, was called to the chair.

The topic of the afternoon, The Church Ministering to the Spiritual Needs of the Day, was presented by Rev. F. H. Page, Waltham, who spoke on the subject: Deepening the Sense of God; and by Rev. R. M. Grey, Worcester, whose subject was, How This May Be Done.

Prayer was offered by Rev. B. F. Leavitt, East Boston, and recess was taken until 7.30.

MONDAY EVENING

The evening session opened at 7.45 with worship conducted by Rev. L. R. Howard, Cambridge.

The work of the Board of Ministerial Relief was presented by Rev. Austin Rice, Wakefield, and an offering of $111.34 was made.

The Conference Sermon was preached by Rev. Robert MacDonald, Worcester, from the text: Prov. 11 :30, "He that winneth souls is wise." Topic: A lost art.

The Lord's Supper was administered by Rev. H. G. Person, Newton.

Following this the Conference took a recess till 9.00 Tuesday.

TUESDAY

The session opened at 9 o'clock with worship conducted by Rev. L. R. Howard, Cambridge.

The minutes of Monday's sessions were read and declared approved as read.

The report of the Missionary and Apportionment Committee was presented by the chairman, Rev. J. L. Cross, Fitchburg. The report was accepted. The recommendation of the committee regarding an appropriation for its use was referred to the Budget Committee, the other recommendations were deferred to a later session.

The Business Committee made the following recommendations which were adopted:

To the Senate: The Massachusetts Congregational Conference, representing 606 churches and 143,000 members assembled at Trinity Church, Lawrence, respectfully petitions your honorable body to pass House Bill 1612 as it passed the House without amendment, and to oppose any substitute.

That the invitation of the Rollstone Church, Fitchburg, to hold the conference of next year with that church, be accepted.

The Committee on Federation of Churches made its report by Rev. J. J. Walker, Boston. Rev. E. T. Root, Boston, secretary of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches was introduced and spoke of that work. The recommendation, was adopted.

That a similar committee of thirty, one-half of whom shall be ministers and one-half laymen, be appointed for the coming year, to represent the Conference in the Massachusetts Federation of Churches and to promote the co-operation of Christian forces in this state.

The recommendation regarding an appropriation was referred to the Budget Committee.

The report of the Committee on Evangelistic Work was accepted as printed.

The report of the Committee on Rural Conditions was presented by Rev. A. H. Wheelock, Needham. The report was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Religious Education was presented by Rev. G. W. Owen, Hyde Park. The report was accepted. It was voted that the committee recommend ways and means of enlisting our young people in life service for Christ, both for missionary and pastoral service in the furtherance of our Congregational church work.

The report of the Executive Committee was accepted.

The Nominating Committee presented the list of officers for the ensuing year.

The report was accepted and it was voted that one vote be cast for those officers. The following is the list as elected:

Moderator: Rev. Shepherd Knapp, Worcester.
Vice-Moderator: W. K. Bigelow, Salem.
Secretary: Rev. H. L. Bailey, Longmeadow.
Registrar: Rev. F. J. Marsh, Upton.
Assistant Registrar: Rev. H. L. Packard, Winchendon.
Executive Committee: Rev. H. G. Hale, Brookline; Howard Hill, Lynn; S. H. Thompson, Lowell.
Trustees: Rev. A. F. Pierce, Dorchester; F. W. Dickerman, Allston.

On recommendation of the Business Committee Rev. E. V. Bigelow, Andover, was allowed two minutes to speak in behalf of the meetings at the Isles of Shoals.

The topic of the morning, The Church Ministering to the Intellectual Needs of the Day, was opened by Rev. Vaughan Dabney, Dorchester, who spoke on The Church and Our College Youth. Rev. R. H. Clapp, Northampton, spoke on The Church and the Current Movements of Thought.

Rev. C. E. Burton, New York, spoke in behalf of the Missionary Apportionment.

A recess was taken at 12.25 until the close of the meeting of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The conference convened at 5.05 for a business session.

The following recommendations of the Missionary Committee were adopted:

That the apportionment for the Churches of Massachusetts as their share of the $5,000,000 asked by the Congregational World Movement for 1922, be the same as that adopted by the Conference for 1921, namely: $1,087,500, and that our various Associations and Churches be urged to co-operate with every means in their power to raise this amount which is the minimum responsibility of Massachusetts Congregationalism for the pressing needs of our State, National and World-wide enterprises.

That the scale of percentages by which the funds raised are distributed among the various constituent objects included in our Congregational Forward Movement for 1922, be left to the decision of the State Committee on Apportionment in co-operation with the National Commission on Missions.

The Business Committee made the following recommendations which were adopted:

That there be added three words to section 1 of Article V, so that it shall read:

Each evangelical Congregational Church, Conference and Association in this Commonwealth may choose one delegate, and these delegates, together with the pastor or pastors of each church (who shall be members ex officio), the officers and committee members of this body, etc.

That notice be given of a proposed amendment to Article V: "That each Evangelical Congregational Conference and Association may choose one delegate and each church two delegates," etc. Action on this amendment to be taken next year.

That the Massachusetts Congregational Conference representing 606 churches and 143,000 members congratulates and thanks the House of Representatives and Senate of the Commonwealth for the passage of House Bill 1509: To Regulate Motion Pictures; and earnestly petitions His Excellency, Governor Channing H. Cox, promptly to make the measure a law by his signature.

Resolved, that a telegram to this effect be sent to the Governor and letters to the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate.

That the Massachusetts Congregational Conference in line with the action of the National Council, call upon each church in its membership to assume as an item of the regular annual budget, and to instruct its treasurer to pay annually, one-half of the dues of the Pastor's membership in the Annuity Fund for Congregational Ministers, this action to apply to any minister regularly settled over the parish during the period of his incumbency.

And Further Resolved

That this Association appoint a committee of three, charged to bring and to commend persuasively, the action herein taken to the attention of the churches of our Association and, finally, that this committee be asked to report to the next meeting of this body.

The recommendations regarding the memorials from Old South Church, and Suffolk South Association, were referred back to the committee.

The Annual Banquet was served in the Lawrence Street Congregational Church, Rev. H. L. Bailey, Longmeadow, acting as toastmaster.

TUESDAY EVENING

At 7.45 the Conference reassembled in Lawrence Street Church. In the absence of the Moderator, the Secretary, Rev. H. L. Bailey, was in the chair.

The Devotional Services were again led by Rev. L. R. Howard, Cambridge. This was followed by the address of the evening by Rev. H. J. Chidley, Winchester, on the theme "The Church Ministering to the Moral Needs of the Day."

The benediction was given by Secretary Bailey and the Conference took a recess till Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Parallel to the regular Conference session and a part of the Conference there was held a Young People's Rally at Trinity Church. There were short speeches at the social hour by Rev. Arthur Barber, Lawrence; Paul Morgan, Lawrence; Miss Eva M. Arel, Lawrence; Arthur Merritt, Dorchester; Rev. T. C. Richards, Medford; Miss Marion Stickney, Hyde Park; L. H. Wardman, Haverhill; Rev. A. M. Parker, Bridgewater; Rev. Vaughan Dabney, Dorchester.

The praise service was conducted by E. H. Gallup, Hyde Park. Rev. F. M. Sheldon, Boston, gave an address on Our Denominational Program, and Rev. E. F. Bell, Boston, on Loyalty to the Cause. Large delegations of young people were present from the Congregational churches nearby.

WEDNESDAY MORNING

The session opened at 9.00 with worship conducted by Rev. L. R. Howard, Cambridge.

In the absence of the Moderator, Rev. H. G. Person, Newton, was elected Moderator for the remainder of the session.

The Minutes of Tuesday's sessions were read and approved as corrected.

It was voted that Section 2 of Article XI be dropped from the rules.

The report of the Budget Committee was made by its chairman, H. K. Hyde, Ware. The report, which follows, was accepted and adopted:

That the conference make an assessment of eleven cents per member on the churches, and that it make these appropriations:

National Council	$8,587.98
Board of Pastoral Supply	2,147.00
Federation of Churches	1,212.00
Secretary's Salary	1,000.00
Secretary's Expenses	400.00
Printing	750.00
Missionary and Apportionment Committee	350.00
Religious Education Committee	150.00
Rural Work Committee	100.00
Evangelistic Committee	100.00
Moral and Social Welfare	100.00
Expenses of Delegates	300.00
Gift to Secretary	200.00
Contingencies	100.00
	$15,496.98

The Business Committee made the following recommendations which were adopted:

That it is the desire of the State Conference that it reaffirm its policy in apportionment and that it be clearly understood that any apportionment adopted by this Conference in line with the total askings of our Benevolent Boards and reapportioned by its Missionary and Apportionment Committee and the local associations is to be considered by the churches and their members as a suggestion of their share of their responsibilities, but in no sense shall they be regarded as an assessment or a tax.

On the other hand, while in recognition of the autonomy of the local church there is no legal obligation or external constraint involved therein, we would also recognize the principle of our fellowship and its call to cooperate in some constructive plan to provide adequately for the needs and opportunities of our missionary work.

Resolved: That we memorialize the executive committee of the National Council to take immediate steps to determine if its acts in connection with apportionments and expenditures for the support of the established activities of the denomination create an obligation legally binding upon the individual church.

Resolved: That in case legal obligation is found to exist, that such changes be made in the By-Laws as will make it an impossibility.

Resolved: That the Conference accepts the courteous communication of the Old South Church of Boston and the Suffolk South Association, and appoints Dr. Page of Waltham a committee to communicate to the Old South Church and the Suffolk South Association the action taken in the previous resolutions and to inform them of the spirit in which their communications were received.

Prof. E. C. Moore, Cambridge, gave the address of the morning on the topic: The Church's Part in Reconciling the Nations.

The Business Committee offered the following resolution:

Resolved: That the Conference express its gratitude and deep appreciation to the Trinity, Lawrence Street, and Central Methodist churches of Lawrence, and their pastors, for their abundant hospitality and adequate provision for all the needs of the Conference.

The Committee on Credentials made the following report:

		Individuals
Churches represented	222
By pastor only	114	115
By delegate only	28	28
By pastor and delegate	80	161
Association of churches represented	12	12
Association of ministers represented	1	1
Affiliated boards and societies	4	4
Officers	5	5
Total membership		326
Deducting duplicates		16

It was voted that the Registrar be authorized to complete the Minutes, subject to the approval of the Executive Committee.

The benediction was pronounced by the Acting Moderator, Rev. H. G. Person, Newton, and the Conference adjourned.

THOMAS WESTON, Moderator.

FRANCIS J. MARSH, Registrar,

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY

The Massachusetts Conference is no stranger to Andover Association, having met twice in Andover and four times in Lowell; but this is its first meeting in Lawrence and it is 16 years since the last meeting in Lowell. Four changes have been made in the roll of churches in 1920, with a net gain of two, making the total 606. Olivet in Springfield has merged with South, but three new churches have joined us, Medford Hillside in Woburn Association, West Bridgewater in Norfolk, and Shirley Point, Winthrop, in Suffolk North.

Our 606 churches have 143,133 members, a net gain of 2,867, and an average of 236 members to each church. When the present secretary made his first report a dozen years ago the average church membership was 198. Then the men were but 31.22 per cent of the membership, but they have been steadily gaining and this year they have passed the one-third ratio and stand at 33.66 per cent. Of the net gain this year 1,480 were men and 1,387 women. The male membership has increased 29 per cent in a dozen years and the female 15 per cent. While other denominations voice the fear that woman's suffrage, leading eventually to women delegates in their national assemblies, will alienate the men, Massachusetts Congregationalists, with women in their pulpits and every office except the diaconate, and long recognized as delegates to state and national assemblies, reports an ever-increasing ratio of men in the church. Victims of gynephobia must look elsewhere than to us for comfort.

Church clerks have been busy making changes in local membership rolls, there being an average of 29 changes for every church, 17 additions and 12 removals. As 129 churches had no additions, the average of the rest rises to 21. There were 57 who received 50 or more new members, and seven of them received more than 100. South of Springfield besides absorbing some hundreds from Olivet gained 195 others. Faith and First of Springfield added 137 and 131. Park Street, Boston, welcomed 129, Union of Quincy, formerly known as Park and Downs, 116, Melrose 103, and Roslindale 101. In addition to these All Souls of Lowell shows an addition of 242 by letter, the result of counting the total membership of the merger which included a Unitarian church. Book-keeping will become increasingly difficult for clerks of new union churches where not Federation but actual union of different denominational units takes place. While the old lists are kept separate, the tendency of new members is to join neither wing but the new union body. The simplest solution is to report the total, even though it is repeated in some other denominational report.

While total accessions ran high, the more rigid test of prosperity, additions on confession, shows well also. There were 68 churches receiving 25 or more, and 17 went above 50. Quincy Union leads with 78, Norwood is next with 70 and Central of Jamaica Plain, Faith of Springfield and Pilgrim of Worcester are close behind with 69, 68 and 66. On the other hand 202 churches, exactly one-third of the whole, report no additions on confession. This number has been exceeded only twice in recent years.

New records are made in granting and receiving letters of dismission. The number added by letter, 4,598, is more than 20 per cent above the previous high mark. In detail the totals are, added on confession 5,525, by letter 4,598, total 10,123; removed by death 2,142, by letter 3,198, by roll revision 1,916, total 7,256, a new high record. Adult baptisms were 1,980, and a new record of 3,251 is made in infant baptisms, the Armenian church of Worcester reporting 73. Slight increases are found in Sunday schools, young people's societies and men's organizations, while boys' clubs jump more than 1,000. The totals are 121,671 in Sunday schools, 19,168 in young people's societies, 17,454 in men's clubs, and 6,397 in boys' clubs. So many city churches, not to mention others, find it so difficult or burdensome to report the number of their non-resident members and of the families associated with their church, that your secretary is somewhat skeptical of the value of such statistics. For 16 years, while the total membership has increased nearly 30,000, the absentee total has been 21,000 odd or 22,000 odd. It does not mean that the ratio of absentees is diminishing but that the number of non-reporting churches is increasing. Similarly we seem to have lost 4,000 families from our constituency this year, but the loss is due to blanks in that column.

With great comfort the statistician turns to the figures of benevolence. We have rolled up a total of $1,409,698, one third larger than the banner year of 1917, when war-time charities swelled our undenominational gifts to more than $600,000. For 1920 we have the Pilgrim Fund of $455,134 to help swell the total, and the Congregational World Movement, whose results are merged with the regular apportionment figures and lift last year's large figures nearly 40 per cent higher to $619,559. Other Congregational gifts not applicable on apportionment amount to $171,819, and miscellaneous charities are $163,186, the smallest item of the four. The American Board received $187,277, and the Woman's Board $108,262. Of the home societies home missions lead with $107,906, American Missionary Association $84,956, Church Building $54,867, Education $42,354, Ministerial Relief $18,141, and Sunday School $15,796. The Women's Home Missionary Federation distributed $42,336 among the six home societies. Aside from last year when the emergency call brought in the first fruits of enlarged benevolence, this year's figures are substantially just double the usual figures for the past decade, but the Church Building gifts have trebled, the A. M. A. has a good margin above the double, and the Sunday School Society barely maintains its usual average. From other sources than our 606 churches the national societies also report various receipts totaling $2,144 credited to Massachusetts, and this amount changes the Year-Book totals to figures slightly variant from those you will find in the Conference Minutes.

While benevolences have thus increased, the amount spent for maintenance and progress in our own parishes has gone up nearly half a million dollars. The total is $2,629,988. The average salary is $1,784 besides house rent in about three fifths of the parishes. If salary returns were complete for the state it would be safe to say that we pay our ministers $1,800 and furnish them a house seven months in the year. This is a salary increase of $100 over last year. Our property is estimated as worth almost $22,000,000, and we have invested funds totaling $4,371,000. As an offset there are debts reported to a total of $526,384, some $80,000 larger than the low mark of last year.

The necrology of the conference year, May to May, embraces 19 names so far as the secretary is informed. It seems appropriate to include the name of one man not ordained but a licentiate of Suffolk South and acting pastor at Montvale, Woburn. Hamilton S. Conant was a faithful attendant upon our annual sessions and in his quarter century of Sunday school leadership he made his influence felt across the state. Of the 18 ordained men, five were local pastors, one had lately gone to a western pastorate, and two were driven from active service by illness that after a few or many months proved fatal. One was a pastor emeritus, one a seminary professor, one was connected with college administration, and seven were retired. Their clerical career from ordination to death varied from the five years of John W. Threlfall to the 60 of John V. Hilton, with an average of over 35 years. All but four were ordained in the last century. Prof. John Winthrop Platner was older than his ordination date of 1901 would indicate, Tyler Gale began in 1904 and Albert Goodwin in 1911. Mr. Goodwin was pastor at Hardwick; Robert R. Kendall was rounding out a long life of activity by caring for two churches, Dover and South Natick, although past 80; John R. Richards, 42 years in the ministry, the first half in Great Britain, had been with the West Parish in Haverhill since 1914; John Christopher Williams, another Welshman, had given 30 years of service, chiefly in New England, and had been three years at Dennis when death took him; and Charles F. Wood, 34 years a pastor, had less than 18 months of service in this state at Chesterfield where he died in April. Thomas Simms had resigned from the double Ipswich pastorate but I have no record that the churches released him in his last illness. Tyler E. Gale had been at South Braintree since 1911, but for two years was helpless in the clutch of a fatal disease. Leroy M. Pierce had been pastor at Medfield from 1897 and emeritus from 1909. Prof. Platner had been a teacher since he graduated at the age of 20 from Yale in 1885, and was in his twentieth year of service in Andover Seminary. Charles H. Dutton, after a number of pastorates, including Ashland and South Natick in this state, was treasurer of Lincoln Institute in Kentucky at the time of his death. And then there are those seven listed as retired or without charge: Horace Dutton, past 80, pastor, merchant, city missionary; Burton S. Gilman, 56, for 23 years at Gardner and killed by accident just as he was beginning to enjoy the freedom and bondage of a farm; Frederick A. Holden, 35 years in the ministry, chiefly in Connecticut; John V. Hilton, more than 60 years past his ordination, once pastor of Maverick, East Boston, and from Colorado holding his Suffolk North standing for 40 years; Francis H. Johnson, three years at Hamilton, but since 1864 a student and writer; George E. Martin, almost 70, 16 years a Presbyterian pastor but holding also our pulpits in Brockton, Lowell and Lexington; and William H. Teel, more than half a century in service, including our churches at Lanesville and Waverley. It is not as long a list as is sometimes read, but there are names there that some of us would have deferred enrolling had we the authority. It is a list of men of varying talents but I feel that each in rendering account heard his Lord say "Well done."

REPORT OF THE AUDITING COMMITTEE

Newtonville, Mass., May 6th, 1921.

To the Massachusetts Congregational Conference:
Gentlemen:

I have examined the cash account of Ernest L. Miller, Treasurer of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference for the year ended April 30, 1921, and found it correct. Vouchers are on file for all disbursements. The balance of $3,249.28 was on April 30, 1921, on deposit with the Beacon Trust Company of Boston, as attested by certificate from that bank.

The treasurer has in his possession a $500 bond of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts registered in the name of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

Respectfully submitted,

RUSSELL C. GIBBS, Auditor.

REPORT OF THE CONGREGATIONAL BOARD OF PASTORAL SUPPLY

REV. ARTHUR J. COVELL, SECRETARY
ROOM 610, CONGREGATIONAL HOUSE, BOSTON

BOSTON, MASS., April 1, 1921.

To the Congregational Conferences of New England the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply presents this year its sixth annual report. To the Massachusetts Conference this is the twenty-seventh report.

Through removal from New England the Board has suffered the loss of one of its most loyal and valued directors. Rev. Frank W. Merrick, D.D. was summoned to serve in arranging the supplies for the Sundays during the session of the International Congregational Council when it met in Boston, in 1899. Since that time he has been in close touch with the work of the Board, serving for most of these intervening years as Director, and for a time as Chairman. He was influential in shaping the policy of the Board at the time of its transition into a New England Board. His counsel and his devotion to our work have been of greatest value.

The past year has been for our office a busy and varied one. We have had our typical experiences and our new phases of work. In certain respects we have seen a return toward normal church conditions. The number of available Sunday supplies has increased, through release from Inter Church, Pilgrim Memorial, and kindred activities.

The minds of ministers and church leaders have been less diverted to the unusual, and more concentrated upon the central life of the church. The magnificent spiritual fruitage at Easter may be a result of this stress upon the fundamentals. But the abnormal and the unusual are still with us. There is no immediate prospect of a return to normalcy in our specific work. Usually the demands upon us are at lowest ebb about the time of the Christmas Holidays. This year we had unusual and perhaps unprecedented demands at that time. There is imperative need for more ministers. Congregationalists suffered as great ministerial loss, through the world upheaval, as any denomination. This is a penalty of the flexibility of our order and of our exaltation of civic duty and forms of patriotism. With the small churches this shortage is real and serious. Hence, the auto has been assuming increasing importance in our work. One enterprising pastor has cared for four parishes twenty miles apart. The missionary spirit has shown itself sacrificially in many a minister in his care for small churches near by his parish. Part time men have been in demand and theological students have been kept busy. An immediate result of the withdrawal of the half fare privilege on the part of the New England Railroads was to deprive of pastoral service many churches at some distance from centers where theological students were studying.

We have had a good year statistically, and in several respects have established new records.

We have rendered service in response to requests for aid in pastoral settlements to 372 churches. This number has been exceeded twice in the Board's history. The great majority of these churches were in New England but they were altogether in 31 states. Of these churches, there were in Maine, 44; in New Hampshire, 45; in Vermont, 42; in Massachusetts, 142; in Rhode Island, 6; in Connecticut, 32; in New York, 11; in Florida, 7; in Ohio, 5; in California, 4; in Illinois, 4; in Michigan, 4; in Arizona, 3; in Louisiana, 3; in Georgia, 2; in Kansas, 2; in Texas, 2; and one each in Alabama, Indiana, Montana, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Washington and Wisconsin.

In accordance with our usual custom, the above statement does not include the furnishing of occasional or temporary supplies, nor the successful commendations for a limited number of positions outside the pastorate.

So far as reports have come to us, the number of pastoral settlements in which the Board had an important part was 115. We have included in this enumeration, stated supplies for 6 months or more, but omitted those for lesser periods, and have not included positions secured for other than for pastoral service.

Of the churches conferring with the Board about pastoral settlement during the year, 122 had each less than one hundred members; 182 had from one hundred to three hundred members; while 68 had each more than three hundred members. Of these same churches, 98 are reported to have paid less than $1,000 salary; 210 paid salaries of from $1,000 to $2,000 each; while 64 paid more than $2,000 each. This salary classification cannot be relied upon, particularly, since salaries in the smaller churches have been subject to revision, and the amounts given have quite generally been increased.

The last Year-Book, for example, would be quite out of date in this respect; and we have partly relied upon the Year-Book in this salary classification.

Opportunities for preaching were furnished during the year to 333 men, of whom 186 were candidates for settlement. This is the largest number of candidates ever sent out from the office in a single year. With the major portion of these men there were repeated opportunities.

The whole number of occasional supplies was 726. This does not include the special appointment made on July 4 for delegates to the International Council by the committee of which the Secretary was chairman.

The whole number of appointments for the year was 1,242.

The Secretary has travelled on Board business during the year more than 6,900 miles.

The number of letters sent out from the office the past year was 8,195. The Treasurer's account with the Auditor's statement, will be found in the Appendix.

The Treasurer's Report from the constituent New England Conferences indicates the following:

Massachusetts.	Paid in full to February 28, 1921.
	(Since the closing of the books, March 31, the amount due for March has been paid, but will be entered on next year's statement.)
Connecticut.	Paid in full for 1920, and $500 for 1921.
Maine.	Paid in full for 1920.
Vermont.	Paid in full for 1920.
New Hampshire.	Paid in full for year ending March 31, 1921.
Rhode Island.	Paid in full for year ending March 31, 1921.

Since there are variations in methods of payment, a paragraph from previous reports may be helpful:

> " Maine, Connecticut and Vermont begin their year January 1, and compute the one and one-half cent per member from the Year-Book at hand at the beginning of the calendar year. Massachusetts begins her year January 1, but changes her basis of computation May 1, taking the figures of the new Year-Book for the balance of the year. Rhode Island's year begins April 1, and New Hampshire's begins May 1, these states using the figures of the Year-Book issued after January 1, each year."

The receipts of the office are the largest in the Board's history. The office fees are nearly $100 more than in any previous year, while the amount received for the Secretary's preaching, $924.29, is more than $200 more than received in any previous year. However, the expenses also increased so that our surplus has been drawn upon for about $250. Aside from modest increases for the office force, the chief items of increase were for stationery, printing, rent, and the traveling expense of the Secretary since January 1, when the half fare privilege to clergymen was withdrawn by the New England Railroads. However, our Board has not had occasion to call upon the New England Conferences for any increase in the amount assigned to it since before the war. And this is a financial record not easy to duplicate.

One of the new features of our work, introduced at the time of the reorganization in 1913, was the suggestion of an Advisor to the Board from each local association. The purpose was to bring the work in a real Congregational way closer to the life of the churches. The original resolution as adopted, reads: "That the several Associations of Churches and Ministers in the state be asked to appoint a representative, who with others so chosen shall act as Advisors to the Board." It was intended that this feature should be left flexible. The work of the Advisors has been construed to be a two-fold one; on the one hand, an Advisor is one to whom the Secretary may turn for information about church conditions in his section. On the other hand, any suggestions he may have to offer about how the work may be improved, particularly in his region, are welcomed by the Secretary and Directors. It has been customary to hold a joint meeting of the Directors and Advisors of each State in connection with the State Conferences, when the time of the meeting permits the Secretary's presence. At these gatherings there is an opportunity to consider any phase of the work peculiar to that State, to make clear methods and results of the work, and to have a better understanding of local conditions. In some of the States, not every Association has reported the appointment of such Advisors. In these cases, the Directors from the State have invited the Scribes of the associations to serve as Advisors for the time being. The Association chooses whomsoever it desires for this office, without suggestion from representatives of the Board, unless suggestion is sought. The value of this work varies in different States and in different sections of the same State. But the Advisor has proven a vitalizing factor in our work, and helped to bring it into much more helpful relations with the churches and ministers. It has been customary to send an annual letter to each Advisor, asking questions pertaining to our specific work, with an occasional question concerning the general situation. A copy of the last letter sent to the Vermont Advisors will be found in the Appendix to this Report.

During the year the Board has been in touch with the sources of world-wide Congregationalism. The secretary, privileged to act as Chairman of the Pulpit Supply Committee of the International Council, was brought into close contact with our foreign delegates, and this acquaintance will enrich the work of the Board. Much of the detail work at the time of the Council was carried out by two of the choicest helpers to be secured among the pastors in the vicinity of Boston, but the correspondence before and after the Council was mainly through the office. In addition to our regular work, we were able to make more than one hundred individual assignments to churches on Council Sunday, as well as to arrange for a dozen or more simultaneous meetings in New England cities where British and Americans inculcated Pilgrim principles, and helped cement the bonds of friendship between the two great English-speaking nations. The files of our office were greatly enriched as a result of this work. Hereafter, when there is need to send inquiries about ministers to Ireland, Scotland, Wales, England, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand, there will be those to whom we may write who will have special interest in the work of the Board.

At the time of the International Council it was interesting to meet the titled Congregationalist who gave an account of the embryonic Board of Pastoral Supply started in the north of England under the inspiration of our Board. It was encouraging to hear the emphatic expression of the need of our type of work for Australia. It was gratifying to read in an article by one of our English friends, " Britain ought to envy America its efficient Board of Pastoral Supply." It was stimulating to answer the questions of official representatives of Scottish Congregationalists. All this means that the international aspect of our work ought henceforth to be of greater value.

Each year brings illuminating experience as to how our churches ought to go about their search for a pastor, and how they ought not to go about it. Candidating in some form is inherent in our system of church government. Our churches are committed to the democratic ideal. " Self-determination " was practiced by Congregational churches some centuries before Mr. Wilson coined the expression. And candidating, like Aesop's " Dinner of Tongues," is what we make it. As with other democratic forms it is capable of finest results and of greatest abuses.

An unfortunate feature of indiscriminate candidating is the effect upon the minister himself. If the members of our churches were more keenly sensitive to this, it might tend to increase the number of men in the ministry. Blessed is the man who can endure the tribulations of candidating with a fine sense of humor. In a personal letter recently received, one of our choice men sets forth his experience in a certain New England church in racy fashion. He writes: " When I came here I went out in my impetuous way to get acquainted with everybody, and in particular to let everybody get acquainted with me, so that everybody might be competent to judge whether my voice was suitable, my clothes were cut right, my education sufficient, my nose the right shape, to make a suitable pastor for this historic church. After the first sermon, Dr. Blank said he thought there would be no trouble about my preaching, the question would be whether I was a ' good mixer,' whether I would be successful as a pastor. So I proceeded forthwith to demonstrate — to mix and pasteurize. But early in my second week I learned that I was mixing too well, and appeared too anxious to be a pastor. So I slowed up, put the brakes on and shut off some of the gas. Yesterday, I learned some things the matter with my preaching. I walked around the pulpit too much for some. One man did not like the way I used my hands. I was too dramatic for one or more. One man liked the top and bottom of my sermon, but not the stomach of it — principally because I used the word ' stomach.' And yet some people liked that sermon very much.

"Now if I could have foreseen all of these expert opinions on my homiletic ity I might have suggested just what to write — that I was a very tractable man, who was inclined to mix in just the proportions specified, if the church would agree on a recipe; that I had been accustomed in past years to stand still as a statue when preaching and might easily be persuaded to revert to that habit, or to take just the number of steps about the pulpit which might seem most desirable to any recognized authority; and that in general I do not say much about the stomach in the pulpit."

This man is not alone in his experience. The Secretary once commended a man to a certain church, who preached for them four weeks. At the end of three weeks he wrote, "I do not think I shall settle here. Professor Jones, the leading man here is an Easterner and I am a Westerner. Professor Jones is a classical type, and I am hardly that. He is conventional, and I am inclined to be unconventional! If I wished to express a certain sentiment, I should say with the poet 'Twinkle, twinkle, little star.' But if Professor Jones wished to express that same sentiment, he would say, 'Scintillate, scintillate, diminutive asteroid.' I think I shall not settle here." It is no wonder that a certain minister during the candidating period was wont to console himself with the utterances of the "Cheerful Cherub," clipped from the newspaper.

But however distasteful and sometimes humiliating the process of candidating, it is probable that the ultimate ill-effects upon the church are as serious as those upon the minister. Within a few weeks, a report from a trusted correspondent came to our office, and is as follows: "If he fails to receive the call to become our pastor, the fault will not be his, but rather due to unreasonable and contradictory ideas of what they want, which have been created by the orgy of candidating in which the church has been indulging for almost a year."

The report of one man visiting a Massachusetts church shows one of the peculiarities of our churches which a candidate must face. This minister diagnosed the situation in that field thus: "Parents, and others among the people who during the past years have largely neglected to counsel, guide, and even restrain the children and youth of the community along moral and spiritual lines, are now seeking for a clergyman who they hope will because of his youth, somehow be qualified to counteract the disastrous results of their own neglect."

Another report came from a correspondent in a Union Church which had appealed to our Board to aid in finding a minister, and described the attitude of a certain element (not Congregational) in that church: ". . . The old sexton refused to ring the bell and took the bottom out of the chairs the Sunday a Methodist minister was to supply. He also fixed the doors so that we could not use our keys to get in for rehearsal." These illustrations would seem to bear out the contention of a certain minister who wrote that "The secretary took too literally the instructions of committeemen as to what they wanted, when the fact is they do not know what they want and need to have some one tell them."

Yet on the whole our system of securing ministers has advantages which neither the church nor the minister would like to forego. Properly modified by the wisdom which experience bestows and by sanctified common sense, it tends to efficiency and contentment in the pastoral relation. At any rate only a limited number of our ministers seek fellowship in the more highly organized denominations, while a great multitude are ready to exchange the sway of bishops for the rule of the congregation. Ministers wish to see the field and test the atmosphere of a congregation before committing themselves to a church. And churches have the right to test a man in some fashion before committing themselves. And self-commitment to a pastor means vastly more than commitment by proxy. Many sorrows fall to the man forced upon a field — sorrows not often realized by Congregational ministers.

Increasingly, the custom prevails among our larger churches of having the preliminary selection of a man made through a representative committee. This committee follows its lines of investigation, and not only hears a man in the pulpit, but learns of his effectiveness in those other ways so essential in these days. When the committee is satisfied that it has found the man for the place, he is invited to preach before the congregation. If the impression made is a mutually happy one, a call may result; if not, the committee continues its search. No minister need object to this modified form of candidating.

In the work of our Board, we endeavor to persuade churches to consider one man at a time and reach at least a preliminary conclusion concerning him before negotiating with another man. In almost every congregation there are those who call for more candidates. One of our prominent New England churches recently, proceeding in wise fashion, was about to call the only candidate who had been before the church. The desire for more candidates was expressed. A member of the church who had been a tailor arose and said, " In my business I have noticed that when I go to a store and find a piece of goods that exactly suits me, and then look at other goods, I go from the store without purchasing." The illustration was effective, the man was called, and the church is prospering under choice leadership.

The securing of a minister is not altogether unlike the securing of a wife. There are different methods of courtship. The Orientals have one way, and the Occidentals another. On the whole after all is said, we Americans conclude that the method of personal choice is best. There is a fitting place in our western life for friendly aid in promoting ideal matrimonial alliances, but the issue is likely to be happier as a rule if the ultimate responsibility rests upon the parties principally concerned.

While not the function of this Board to raise up men for the ministry, yet we may have a worthy share in that work; brought into close contact with the needs of the churches, we may aid by calling attention to the imperative need of more ministers. Federations, district missionaries, student supplies, lay workers, have in part, but only in part, met the need. And the end of the shortage of ministerial material is not yet visible. One of our well known theological schools issued recently a bulletin calling attention to the falling off in the number of its students since last year, and noting also that two other nearby schools likewise had a small attendance. The bulletin reads: " . . . The same is true of many other theological schools, especially of eastern schools of high academic requirements. The phenomenon is disturbing to all persons who are interested in the church life of our Country. Many denominations are experiencing great difficulty in the matter of recruiting their ministry, especially with thoroughly trained men of good quality. It seems certain that the churches of this country will, in the course of the next ten years, be confronted with a still more serious shortage of educated ministers, and that they will be tempted to fill their pulpits with ill-trained men who have taken short cuts into the ministry." The warning is timely. We are told that the shortage of teachers is passing, that the training schools already have the material to meet our future needs. But the reserves for the ministry have not yet been mobilized. A Dean of one of our Congregational Seminaries in a personal letter to the secretary writes " The reduction this year of 36 per cent of enrollment in seminaries training especially for the Congregational Church, following a considerable reduction the last two or three years, makes a very threatening situation.

" There are only 113 Congregational students who are American College graduates now studying in the schools of theology in this Country, as nearly as I can discover. I have gathered the statistics from the twelve leading schools which train for the Congregational ministry, even including the Divinity School of the University of Chicago.

" The outlook is somewhat better for next year so far as this school is concerned, but this year we are at the lowest ebb in numbers and less than half our men are Congregationalists. Congregational Churches, homes, and schools have stopped sending their sons into the ministry." The situation thus depicted is sufficiently serious.

And yet there are signs of hope. Recently in visiting three of our Theological Seminaries, the Secretary found in each men who had been led through experiences in the War to turn to the Christian ministry. The number of such men is not large, but shows spiritual salvage from the source which had most of all drained our ministerial supply.

But quality is even more important than quantity. Recently in a report from a layman about a minister of good intentions, but limited training, the account closed with the words: "Am sorry not to be of any use to you. If we are to be saved from the rule of brute force, the church must do it, and we need earnest and thoughtful workers." Idealism in the ministry is required to overcome on-sweeping materialism. There is no more imperative need in church life than for prophetic and sacrificial leadership.

THE BOARD OF MINISTERIAL AID

In behalf of the Board of Ministerial Aid the Executive Committee presents the following report:

January 1, 1920, there were 57 beneficiaries, 17 men, 40 women. During 1920 there were added 19 — 11 men, 8 women. In 1920 there were seven deaths. Two withdrew — one temporarily, the other transferred to another society. April 26 there are on the roll 68 names, 44 women, 24 men. Several new applications are before us for immediate action.

At the Annual Meeting of the Board $17,500 was placed at the disposal of the Executive Committee to meet present needs and any calls that might come during the year. An increase in some cases has been made during the year. The present high cost of living makes it imperative that larger grants be made in many more. The smallest grant made during the year was $50; the largest $400. The National Board of Ministerial Relief makes a maximum grant of $400. The Executive Committee seeks to make grants according to the needs of each applicant.

Through the help of the National Board, a Christmas present of $25 was made to every beneficiary. The letters received from the friends receiving this aid from the Board show deep appreciation of the help given.

In some cases, the aid extended helps mothers to keep their children at school, and more, it lightens the eventide of life with cheer and comfort from the goodwill of the churches, manifesting the goodwill of God.

Grants are made for one year from April 1.

The large interest in the Annuity Fund must not make us overlook the needs of men and women who cannot participate in it. Old Age pensions have come into our modern life. They have come to stay — their field will be widened. The faithful men and women, who on slender salaries have been the leaders of the Commonwealth of our Congregational fellowship, deserve not charity, but simple justice in the days of old age or poor health. The prayer of the Psalmist, Psalm 39 : 13, marginal reignad, American revision, that he may brighten up before he goes hence, can be answered by the Churches of our communion.

REPORT OF THE BOSTON SEAMAN'S FRIEND SOCIETY

America has rediscovered the sailor. Like certain lost arts the Yankee sailor, for a long period, seemed lost beyond recovery. For nearly two generations the major part of our citizens never gave a thought to the thousands of men who earn their livelihood on the sea and to whom we are indebted for the many necessities, comforts and industrial products which they bring to us from all parts of the world. It was the war that rediscovered the sailor for us and aroused America's interest once more in ships and men to man them. Our lads turned to the sea to help win the war; that object accomplished, many of them have continued in that vocation as a worthy and useful one.

The life of the sailor is an abnormal one. He is away from home the greater part of his time. His trips to distant lands consume weeks and even months, when he can hear from home and loved ones only at infrequent intervals. His life at sea is one of deprivation, hardship and peril. When he reaches port he needs a place like the Sailor's Rest in Boston, and our Bethel at Vineyard Haven, where he may enjoy recreational and religious privileges and meet friends who are there for his comfort and help. Especially does he need the chance to meet women of the right sort who will call out that which is pure and chivalrous in his nature.

More than 50,000 merchant sailors and navy men the past year enjoyed the social and religious privileges provided by this Society. More than 19,000 of these men have attended our religious services during the past season, a number considerably in excess of anything known in former years. The concerts and the various forms of entertainment have been attended by 12,529 men. These entertainments have been without expense to the Society, being furnished by churches, organizations within the churches, colleges and other educational institutions, social and fraternal societies, and individuals. At these entertainments and at the Sunday evening services light refreshments are served by the Society to all present.

Some 10,000 seamen have, during the past season, enjoyed at a very nominal cost the use of our spacious and airy dormitory. The increasing demand for dormitory accommodations by the men of the merchant marine, in addition to the men of the navy, has necessitated an enlargement of our equipment at a considerable expense. A number of individual compartments have been provided for those who prefer them at a slightly increased charge. Surely it is for the best interest of the sailor that, having spent the evening until a late hour at the Rest, he be lodged under the same roof and not be compelled to seek rest for the night at an undesirable boarding-house, or worse.

Through its canteen the Society has been able, during the past year, to render an important service to the men who have visited us. Good, nutritious meals have been served on Sunday evenings to the men for a slight charge. If we were financially able to enlarge our canteen equipment and thus meet a very worthy and legitimate demand we would be able to further extend the Society's influence and usefulness for the men of the sea.

The present business depression has wrought temporary havoc with our shipping. Many boats are tied up at the wharves, lacking cargoes and awaiting a revival of business. In the meantime large numbers of sailors are temporarily unemployed and in need of food and shelter. Nearly 1,500 destitute seamen have been provided with food and lodgings during the past season. Our Society is doing its best to assist these unfortunate men and tide them over until ships or other employment can be found, but our limited resources make our best fall far short of meeting their pressing needs.

As a Society we are engaged every day in the year in the serious and very important business of making better sailors and better men. In this worthwhile task we need and deserve the help of every Congregational church in New England.

MERRITT A. FARREN,

Corresponding Secretary.

REPORT OF MISSIONARY AND APPORTIONMENT COMMITTEE

The outstanding fact in the record of the past year in the missionary work of our churches is the noteworthy advance made in the amount given for benevolent objects. At a specially called meeting of your committee in the spring of 1920, the Emergency Fund Drive was endorsed and the original regular apportionment of the state was increased two-and-a-half times. In other words, to the old apportionment of $435,000. a further quota of $652,500. was added as our proportional share of the three-million dollar Special Emergency Fund asked by the Congregational World Movement Commission. This made our total apportionment under the old plan, plus our share of the Emergency Fund, $1,087,500. for 1920. Of this total apportionment the sum of $661,259 was actually raised during 1920. According to the best estimates obtainable, the Emergency Campaign was responsible for $238,008.51 of this, leaving $423,250.49 credited to the regular apportionment, a sum slightly in excess of the amount actually apportioned by the associations to the Churches in 1920, and only slightly less than the original quota assigned to us under the old apportionment plan. With the aid of the impetus given by the Emergency Campaign, the total amount raised by the Churches of Massachusetts for our Congregational Boards and other constituent objects has been increased about 68 per cent. The total contributed in 1919 was $392,540. as against $661,259. in 1920, which makes a net gain of $268,719. With this we must also take account of the spiritual gain involved in the more wide-spread interest and information among our Churches.

The number of Churches reported as having participated in the Emergency Campaign was 329 out of a total of 607. From this it is clear that, in spite of the advance made during recent years, there is still much to be accomplished in the cultivation of the non-participating and unresponsive Churches and in bringing them into a more intelligent co-operation in the forward looking program of our denomination. The great difficulty seems to be in getting the facts before the people of our Churches. Whenever this is done almost without exception enthusiastic response is made and gratifying results obtained. In this connection your Committee wishes to recognize the splendid service rendered to our Churches and to this committee by our Regional Director of the Congregational World Movement and his Associates. Through timely advice, brotherly co-operation and by the presentation of the needs and challenges of our Missionary enterprises in pulpits and special conferences throughout the State the work has been reinforced to a degree that cannot be estimated. It is the conviction of this Committee, growing out of the work done by the Regional Director, that a permanent field-worker giving all of his time to the presentation and promotion of the interests of our State Apportionment and the Congregational World Movement, supported jointly by the State Conference and the C. W. M. is the only efficient way of meeting the problem of getting the facts to our local Churches and of selling our proposition to our constituency. We believe that such a worker actually circulating among our Churches would, within three or four years, enlist practically all of our Churches in our forward movement.

We would also urge upon our Churches and Pastors the adoption of such methods of Missionary promotion as have demonstrated their success through a considerable period of years in every conceivable type of church. A foundation of systematic Missionary Education touching all groups in the Church, a weekly-pledge system, an every-member canvass once a year, and the adoption of a stewardship program cannot fail to produce real advances in benevolent giving. Seldom, if ever, has a Church failed to achieve its missionary goals when such methods have been carefully planned and faithfully executed. In this connection we commend to your attention the "Manual of Missionary Education" compiled by our Secretary of Missionary Education, Dr. Herbert W. Gates, and the "Stewardship Referendum" issued by the Congregational World Movement. We also commend the use in every Church of the chart sent to each Church by our National Commission portraying the record of each Church in Missionary giving for two generations.

Your committee held the usual Conference with the Associational Chairmen of Apportionment and Missionary Committees at which the whole question of the apportionment assigned to us by the Congregational World Movement was discussed, together with the probable attitudes of our Churches toward it. By vote of that Conference the apportionment of $1,087,500. proposed by the State Committee and adopted by the State Conference for 1921 was accepted. Returns from all but one of the Associations have been received indicating that some part of this total was reapportioned to the local churches, and in most cases the full share of each Association accepted.

The display charts showing the regular apportionments for 1921 by Associations and Churches with the actual results obtained in 1920, has been compiled and published for distribution as in previous years. This chart does not include in the receipts for 1920 any funds collected through the Emergency Campaign, but is compiled solely on the basis of the old apportionment of $435,000. The gift by Churches to the Emergency Fund, during the year 1920, will be furnished if desired by the Conference. Your Committee considered it impossible to present a fair and accurate comparison between the Churches and Associations which would include the results of that effort, because of the late date of that drive and the wide diversity among our Churches of raising and collecting the pledges. We wish to impress upon our Churches the importance of these display charts published at the request of your Associational Chairmen and collaborated at considerable trouble and expense. Their value from the standpoint of your committee depends upon the use which each pastor makes of them for educational purposes in his own Church.

We submit the following recommendations for your consideration and action at this Conference:

1. That the apportionment for the Churches of Massachusetts as their share of the $5,000,000. asked by the Congregational World Movement for 1922, be the same as that adopted by the Conference for 1921, namely: $1,087,500. and that our various Associations and Churches be urged to co-operate with every means in their power to raise this amount which is the minimum responsibility of Massachusetts Congregationalism for the pressing needs of our State, National and World-wide enterprises. In recommending this apportionment we desire again to go on record as endorsing the budget of askings of the Congregational World Movement and its effort to raise the sum of $5,000,000. for our Missionary and Educational undertakings in 1922. It is, however, the feeling of the Committee, in view of the present financial conditions throughout the country at large, that those of our leaders who are responsible for the compiling of our benevolent budgets should exercise such caution and conservatism in the recommendation of increases and advances as are compatible with the vital interests of our denominational responsibilities.

2. That the scale of percentages by which the funds raised are distributed among the various constituent objects included in our Congregational Forward Movement for 1922, be left to the decision of the State Committee on Apportionment in co-operation with the National Commission on Missions. This seems to be the wise course in view of the possibility that some modifications in that scale of percentages may have to be made in certain States in order to maintain equity of distribution among the various Congregational Societies.

3. That the usual appropriation of $250. for the work of this Committee during the ensuing year be voted by the Conference.

In submitting this report, your committee recognizes the fact that without the loyal support and hearty co-operation of the majority of our Churches and their Pastors, and the faithful and painstaking work of our Associational Chairmen and their associates, much of the progress we are able to report to you would have been impossible. To all of these, as well as to many devoted officials and multitudes of church members who have participated both in the work and the giving, we desire to express our deep sense of indebtedness and sincere gratitude. To the many Pastors who have given of their valuable time from parish duties without remuneration as district leaders under the Regional Director we also express our appreciation for the work accomplished in arousing a greater sense of responsibility for, and loyalty to, the splendid and far-reaching work of our Benevolent Boards. This spirit of team-work and solid loyalty to our forward program has been one of the most encouraging features of our work, offsetting some of its discouragements. Your Committee is optimistic concerning the future of our Missionary giving in Massachusetts. We recognize the difficulties and the failures, but certainly real progress has been made. The amount raised in our State last year would have been unbelievable three years ago. We are highly confident that a continual, patient, wise and sympathetic promotion of this great cause will eventually bring the great majority of our Churches up to the new standard set before us and put Massachusetts solidly behind the great Missionary enterprises which are the glory and crown of Congregationalism and through which her influence is exerted and her resources directed for the upbuilding of the Kingdom of God in the world.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FEDERATION OF CHURCHES AND COOPERATION WITH OTHER DENOMINATIONS

This committee has represented the Conference in the voting membership of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches; and members of the committee have served on the standing committees of the Federation. The committee was represented also on the committees of the Inter-church World Movement.

The surveys of the religious conditions in this state, left unfinished by the Inter-church World Movement, have been taken up by the Federation and are being carried forward as rapidly as its resources permit. For the study of the results of the surveys in the rural towns follow-up conferences have been held in Barnstable, Dukes, Hampden and Norfolk Counties; these have contributed much to the strengthening of neighborly relations between the churches and to the better understanding of their common work. The meeting of the Federal Council in Boston also gave emphasis to the worth of co-operation. With the increasing stress put by each denomination upon its own program, it is the more important that we shall remind one another that we are but parts of the larger Church of Christ.

The Congregational Churches in Blackstone, Feeding Hills, and Warwick have become federated with churches of other denominations, the resultant church in each case being the only Protestant church in its community. The churches in Blackstone and Warwick had required the assistance of the Home Missionary Society for many years; by federation they have now become self-supporting.

With the increasing work of the Federation and the unavoidable increase in the costs, it has been necessary to ask each denomination to provide by appropriation or otherwise, a sum equal to $3.00 for each church included in its fellowship. We wish that our appropriation might be increased to this rate; but we realize that the present budget of the Conference scarcely permits such an advance. We, therefore, must depend upon the generous response of members of our fellowship to the call for personal contributions to supplement the appropriation of the Conference.

We submit the following recommendations:

1. That a similar committee of thirty, one-half of whom shall be ministers and one-half laymen, be appointed for the coming year, to represent the Conference in the Massachusetts Federation of Churches and to promote the cooperation of Christian forces in this state.

2. That a sum equal to $2.00 for each church in the Conference be appropriated for the support of the Federation.

ARTHUR J. COVELL,
EDWIN STOCKIN,

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON EVANGELISTIC WORK

In the fulfillment of its appointed task your Committee has endeavored to foster the spirit and work of Evangelism throughout the churches of the State during the year. The heartiest cooperation has been given the National Council Commission on Evangelism and Secretary Fagley, in getting the "Program of Parish Evangelism" and other suggestive and helpful literature into the hands of our pastors. This literature was supplemented by a special letter prepared by the committee and sent to every pastor urging definite action along the following lines: Every Sunday Evening Evangelism; Cooperative Evangelism, in which neighboring pastors shall lend their services to one another; Special Evangelistic services with an accredited evangelist, when such method seems the wiser one; Lenten Evangelistic Services culminating in Holy Week Consecration Services, and the Easter in-gathering; Sunday School Evangelism, by which the regular teaching of the School shall lead the pupils to dedicate their lives to Christ, and unite with the church.

The Scribes of the several local Associations were also addressed with the suggestion that the matter of Evangelism be stressed in all Associational meetings.

The increasing use of the Lenten Period by our churches and pastors for the deepening and strengthening of the spiritual life, and for the winning of new recruits to the service of Christ is gratifying and bound to be productive of much good. Large numbers in many of our churches were received on confession of faith at Easter time, the figures for which it is impossible to give at this writing. Reports have also come to the committee of several special evangelistic efforts in different parts of the state that have resulted very favorably.

We have a profound conviction that the stress of the times is demanding more than ever the realization, on the part of our churches, of the fact that there can be no substitute for personal religion. And, that, therefore, the main business of the Church is to be about the Master's business. The method and message of Jesus — "Repent, Believe, Follow" — must still be our main dependence. Magnificent as have been the results of the unprecedented giving of our people in recent months, the real test of vital growth comes upon the plane of our spiritual aggressiveness. Christ must have men's hearts else the church cannot long have their gifts. The dedication of self is first in order. Soundest spiritual strategy would therefore seem to give priority to the program of winning men for Christ in the counsels of His Church. An increasing consciousness of this fact will be the surest token of the vital perpetuation of Congregationalism in the life of our Commonwealth.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON RURAL CONDITIONS

The problems of rural life are as old as human nature and as new as jazz music. A woman recently wrote to one member of the Committee, "The two chief characteristics of this town are, first, selfishness, and, second, social inequality," referring to "the class of people who recognize you only when you are correctly gowned." Here you have two of the deadliest foes of democracy and true religion, — selfishness and snobbishness. They enter into and complicate urban and rural conditions alike. In the country, however, their ill effects seem to be more in evidence because there are fewer people and everybody knows everybody else.

Your committee has considered the different ways in which selfishness and snobbishness manifest themselves — socially, racially, theologically — greatly to the injury of unity and good will. As a result the committee makes a few suggestions, largely get-together hints, which, if more fully emphasized, may tend to increase the good will of true religion and the "all for each and each for all" of democracy. We ask rural churches and pastors to consider carefully the following:

First, — Avail yourselves of the results of the Inter-Church survey of your town. A careful perusal of this survey will yield information that may be helpful. Apply to Rev. E. Tallmadge Root, Room 427, 6 Beacon St., Boston, for a copy. The cost will be slight.

Second, — Encourage the organizations that are working in the community for the public good along any line of effort, — The Farm Bureau, the Red Cross, the country Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., the Grange, etc. If they do not come to the Church, the Church should go to them for co-operation. Much is to be gained by favorable consideration of the service they render, and by working with them.

Third, — We especially urge rural churches and pastors to closer and more sympathetic co-operation with the local Grange. It is an organization with plans and purposes of special value to those who live in country towns and villages. It is unwise for the Church to stand aloof from it or to oppose it. There is nothing in the Grange in any way antagonistic to the Church. Rightly guided, the Grange will be a great help to the Church. If the Grange in your town is headed wrong, get in and set it right. Even the Church, without right leadership, is a source of evil.

Fourth, — Appreciate and assist what is being done for health and intelligent motherhood in your town, and for the physical well-being of the children in the public schools. Indifference or opposition here is a crime. Emphasize the fact that the cost in dollars, if these things are done, is not the chief consideration, but the cost in health and morals if they are not done. Take the doctors and nurses into your councils and confidence. Invite them to give health talks under the auspices of the churches, or in co-operation with the Grange.

Fifth, — Have Church Neighbors' Nights. Invite churches from the surrounding towns and churches in your own town of different denomination, to a social afternoon or evening or both, with a supper between. Somewhere in the program have a symposium on rural problems and the relation of the church thereto. A great need of rural churches and pastors is a wider fellowship, and the inspiration of a more varied human touch.

Sixth, — Organize groups for cultural reading, study, and discussion. "It is the life in literature that acts upon life," said J. G. Holland. The minister will find the teachers and other educated folks in town glad to assist him. Draft near-by ministers and other professional men or women to give talks on literary, historical, artistic or vocational themes, or upon current events. Thinking and talking over together the "thoughts that breathe" will quicken and enrich the community life. Encourage the ownership of the best books, even though you have a public library. There needs to be a book-shelf as well as a pantry-shelf well filled, or the soul will go hungry.

Seventh, — Push the Community Day idea. Secure the co-operation of the town officers and all churches and other organizations in town for the setting apart of a day, or half-day, now and then, when all, old and young, shall unite in doing something together for the common good. Have dinner, music and something for all to do.

Example: Needham, Mass., April 19, 1921, had a Community Day. From twelve to fourteen hundred people got together to "dig in" for a public park and playground dedicated to the memory of the Needham boys, who fell in the Great War. It was the greatest day in Needham's history. They were all together with one accord in one place. With plow, spade and rake, men, women and children began work for the beautiful park that shall be. It was a "mix-up" that spelled "Democracy." The influence of it for good will never die in the town. They are to have other days like it. Of course, it took organization and planning and hard work, but it paid a thousand fold in money saved, and in the spirit of unity and good will created.

Is not this possible in every town? Try it in yours. Clean up the old cemetery; make beautiful some of the ugly spots; plant trees and shrubs; create a public playground. There are hundreds of things that might be done by all the people for all the people in a Community Day carefully planned and carried out.

Eighth, — Take more interest in the play-life of the community. If work is prayer then play is praise. Recreation is a necessary part of every life. The appeal of pleasure is so strong, that it is apt to become a peril.

It needs to be guided and guarded, especially for the young. Is the church doing her full duty here? It is not enough to have church socials once in a while, and leave young people to their own devices the rest of the time. There should be organized supervision of the recreational life in towns and villages; ways and means provided for the young people's play so that health and character may be safeguarded. There is a duty here that should not be evaded by those who are the moral guardians of the community. The Church should be large-minded and forward-looking in this matter.

Ninth, — Arrange for laymen from some of the larger churches nearby to take a Sunday or a mid-week service now and then. Have a conference with them before or after the service on the problems of the country Church and minister. It will give them a personal insight into matters of which they know all too little. We Congregationalists do not use our laymen enough for such purposes. We should organize them for such visitations all over the State. Take the initiative in this matter, and invite them.

Tenth, — Do not let pessimists or croakers disturb you. In spite of ancient grudges, jealousies, prejudices, go ahead for the public good. In the words of the old song, " Push along, push along, keep moving."

The members of this committee stand ready to help you in any way possible. They also solicit correspondence with you on all matters related to rural conditions.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION AND YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK

In connection with the International Congregational Council held in Boston, June 29 to July 6, 1920, the committee assembled a valuable exhibit of educational and young people's methods which was given generous space, and which called forth much comment and brought considerable correspondence to those whose work was exhibited.

An effort has been in progress during the year to arrange and make available for the use of the churches, a set of slides dealing with our religious educational problems in an accurate and attractive way. It is expected that such a set of slides with lecture will be available for all the churches of the state in the fall.

For several years the committee has planned and attempted young people's conferences in various parts of the state, the object of which has been to bring young people into their rightful place of responsibility in their local churches. Three such conferences have been held this year at Haverhill, Hyde Park, and Taunton, and several others are in process of arrangement. For the benefit of those who may wish to arrange such conferences a sample program is inserted here.

SUGGESTED PROGRAM FOR YOUNG PEOPLE'S CONFERENCE

3:45 P.M. Registration.
4—6 P.M. Game period with supervised mass games.
5—6 P.M. Leaders' Conference.
6:00 P.M. Supper with toastmaster and brief after-dinner addresses by the young people.
7.30 P.M. Evening mass meeting of young people.

SONG SERVICE

Address " Definite plans for young people's work."
Five minute addresses by young people:
1. " The relation of older and younger members in the same church."
2. " Young People's ideals for their church."
3. " A well-rounded young people's program for my church."
4. " What has the church a right to expect of its young people? "

Inspirational Address, " There is Joy in Service," or " What shall I do with my life?"

Closing devotional service.

At one of these conferences there were 253 registered young people delegates from a district representing 31 Congregational Churches. The young people of the entertaining church did practically all of the preparatory work. A group of them went in advance to the young people's meetings of the other churches to enlist cooperation. These are being followed up. At the conclusion of this conference twenty-one young people expressed their determination to devote their lives to some form of Christian service. Many others signified their purpose to try to put some new plan which they had learned at the conference into practice in their local churches, and others expressed a determination to go back with renewed consecration to do church work. Sample programs may be had from the chairman of the committee or from Rev. W. Vernon Lytle, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass. Those who are interested are urged to communicate and plan such conferences.

One feature of these conferences has been the presentation of the Pilgrim Federation. A leaflet under this title describing this plan may be had from the Congregational Education Society.

The object of the committee is to stimulate and help not only in young people's activities in the local church but also in the entire educational program. Among the best materials for use will be found the following pamphlets, also obtainable from the Education Society:

A Program of Religious Instruction and Training in the Local Church.
The Committee on Religious Education in the Local Church.
The Pilgrim Standard.
The Religious Education Program of the C. E. S. and the C. P. S.
How Parents May Help the Church School.
The Home and the Church School.
The Home Division of the Church School.
Principles and Methods of Missionary Education.
The Pilgrim Federation.

Pastors and educational directors are urged to consider the following essentials for an adequate advance.

(1) Better grading and higher standards in the church school.

(2) More religious instruction than a half hour on Sunday. Week day church school.

(3) A community school of religious education for the training of leaders.

(4) As a necessary basis for these the development of an educational atmosphere and emphasis in the local church. Preaching. Conferences.

(5) A closer cooperation between the instructional and expressional part of our work. For example, the Pilgrim Federation.

Last year an effort was made to have religious education and young people's work presented at all of the district associations. Without the same stimulus and suggestion this has continued in many of the associations during the current year.

In cooperation with the program committee of the State Conference, a young people's mass meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, May 17th, 1921, preceded by a box luncheon. The speakers of the evening will be Rev. F. M. Sheldon, D.D., and Rev. Enoch Bell. This meeting has been very carefully planned. It is hoped that the churches will send delegations of young people, and that a long cherished hope will be realized to make this a practical rallying point for the young people's work of our churches throughout the state. The committee offers its services to the local churches and to the conferences and invites correspondence.

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The committee met in June for its regular annual session. One vacancy in the list of Conference officials was filled by putting Waldo E. Conant of Littleton on the Committee to Audit Accounts. The secretary was empowered by vote to fill vacancies that might occur during the year, and he later named Charles H. Sagar of Worcester as member of the Missionary and Apportionment Committee. Messrs. Packard, Hale and Bigelow were elected Finance Committee. The treasurer's bond for $3,000 was ordered renewed. The secretary was instructed to print the same number of Minutes as usual (1,800). The bill of Rev. Nehemiah Boynton for expense of $20, attendance at Plymouth, was ordered paid.

Rev. J. L. Kilbon appeared in behalf of the International Council Exhibit, and it was voted that the Conference authorize payment of a sum not to exceed $150, the same as appropriated by the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society for financing the exhibit. It was also voted that the secretary correspond with the officials of the other New England Conferences with the view of securing their cooperation.

The moderator, Rev. N. M. Hall, expressed the possibility of his not returning from a long sojourn in Europe in time to preside at the annual meeting in 1921, and it was agreed that in case of his remaining abroad his resignation would automatically raise Mr. Weston to be moderator. Dr. Hall's resignation was received in March, and Mr. Weston thereupon became moderator.

For the Committee,

FRANCIS J. MARSH, Secretary.

STATISTICAL TABLES

EXPLANATORY

The tables which follow comprise:

1. The statistics of the churches, giving the ministers, church membership, additions, removals, baptisms, Sunday schools and families; the statistics of the Young People's Societies and Men's organizations; the amount of benevolences and expenses. These tables, in accordance with the vote of the Association, in 1887, are made to conform to those in the Year-Book; but names in the pastoral column are changed according to the latest information before going to press.

2. The Associations of the churches, with the names of officers and the times of meeting.

3. The Ministerial Standing, giving the date of ordination of each minister, the date of membership, the residence and his "employment." "P. C." means pastor by council; "P.," pastor otherwise; "W. C." means without church; "Prof." means professor; "C. M.," church missionary; "T.," teacher; other abbreviations are self-evident. "W. C.," however, includes many who have retired from active service, and some who are in business.

4. The Ministerial Record, containing lists of ordinations, installations, dismissals, marriages and deaths.

The tables of the first part contain the names of all the Congregational churches in Massachusetts, the towns and cities being arranged alphabetically; churches in each town according to age.

Church members and families are reported as numbered January 1, 1921. Admissions, removals and baptisms cover the year 1920. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females" and "total," but included in them. "Sunday school" includes total membership of officers, teachers and scholars, January 1, 1920, or when the school is in operation (if not at that date), covering "branch schools," "mission schools" and "home departments," so far as maintained by the reporting church.

The months and days in the dates of the organization of churches are omitted. They will be found in the publications of 1873, those of churches since organized being given in the "Minutes" of each year. Also the months and days in the dates of ordination and installation of ministers are omitted. The former may be found in the lists of the local Associations which follow the tables.

"Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry by the "laying-on of hands." "Installed" denotes the date of the beginning of his present pastorate.

In accordance with the recommendation of the National Council, in the Statistical Tables pastors installed are marked "i."; pastors recognized by a council called for that purpose are marked "r."; pastors duly called by their churches, but not installed or recognized by council, are not marked.

Blanks in any column of figures are never equivalent to "none," but mean "no report"; but blanks in the column of ministers do mean that the church has no pastor or acting pastor, and the blank is left for the convenience of those who note changes.

All post-office addresses are to be found in the "List of Ministers," and NOT IN THE TABLES.

Note. — The "year" means what changes were comprised in the twelve months preceding January 1 of the year mentioned. The table was begun in 1866, all preceding years now given being compiled from past "Minutes," — the number of churches in some years varying from the "Minutes" as they were to what they should have been.

The changes in list of churches, ordinations, installations, etc., for the past year, condensed in the above table, are given in detail in their proper place.

* Prior to 1876 "acting pastors" are included in "others" in columns of deaths of ministers.

V. CONTINUED TABLE OF SUMMARIES

In the above table, the columns of " Additions," " Removals," " Baptisms," and " Benevolent Contributions " cover the twelve months next preceding January 1 of the year mentioned in a given line. The number of churches, members, and of Sunday Schools was enumerated January 1 of the year mentioned. Previous to 1903 the number of churches " Vacant " includes all churches supplied by licentiates, or ministers of other denominations. Beginning with 1903, churches supplied by licentiates, or by ministers of other denominations, are counted " supplied." For Churches, Membership and Sunday-School Membership, for 1830, 1835, 1840, 1845, 1850, 1855 and 1860, see " Minutes " of 1900.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF MINISTERS

This list gives the names of pastors, or acting pastors, and of all Congregational ministers who are members of the Associations or Conferences that guard ministerial standing.

Ministers who are not reported as having ministerial standing in this state, and who have not been installed by council, are designated by a star (*). This does not mean that the man has no ministerial standing.

The first column of figures gives the page on which names may be found of all in pastoral service. A blank in the first column signifies that the person is not reported as being in pastoral service in this state.

The second column of figures gives the page on which ministerial standing is recorded.

The post-office addresses as given below often differ from the places named in the tables, and are supposed to be correct in this list.

An alphabetical list of licentiates follows this list.

SPECIAL NOTICE. — If your name is not correctly printed in the preceding tables, if one Christian name is not given in full, if your ordination is not correct or is not in its proper place, if your post-office is wrong, or if before you receive the next Year-Book your post-office is changed, or if your name is omitted from this list, the needed change or correction should be reported at once to the Rev. Henry Lincoln Bailey, Longmeadow, Mass., Secretary of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

MINUTES OF THE ONE HUNDRED TWENTIETH ANNUAL MEETING

WITH THE STATISTICS

FITCHBURG, MAY 15, 16, 17

THE JORDAN & MORE PRESS
BOSTON

EDITOR'S NOTE

The editor wishes first to ask readers to read footnotes in order to save time, postage and vexation. The use of the star (*) against a minister's name does not mean that he is a star preacher; neither is it a derogatory symbol as some infer. In the Year Book tables, pp. 2–35, it means that the minister has two or more Congregational churches under his pastoral care. In the index, pp. 65–71, it indicates that the minister has not entrusted his ministerial standing to a Massachusetts association, and has not been "recognized" or installed by a council. Ministerial standing, like church membership, has to carry a long list of absent members; and valid arguments about transfers for laymen are equally valid in the minister's standing.

The Executive Committee gives notice of two amendments to the Rules, made necessary by other amendment or Conference action: to rewrite Article XIII in view of the reorganization of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society (pp. 20, 45); and to omit "chairmen of committees," etc., in Article V, section 2, because in section 1 they are given actual membership. The committee would also change in Article V, section 2, the phrase, "ministers appointed to preach," making it read, "persons appointed to speak." The proposed amendment to section 1 of Article V, in relation to two delegates from each church, is referred to the Committee on Young People's Work, to report next year.

The Conference secretary records with gratitude some random instances in recent months of a church clerk informing him of the resignation, calling, or death, of a pastor. The secretary is not omniscient, and the public press is not infallible. A postal-card to the secretary to advise of a minister's accepting a call, resigning, change of address, or being settled or dismissed or ordained by council, would be of great value in statistical work.

RULES OF THE CONFERENCE

ARTICLE I. — Name

This body shall be called The Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

ARTICLE II. — Object

Its object is to promote (a) intercourse and fellowship between Congregational ministers and churches of the Commonwealth; (b) the cooperation of the churches with one another for their mutual comfort and development, and for the religious care of the home field; (c) the presentation and discussion of matters vital to our faith, and the interests of our denomination; and (d) the cooperation of this body with other ecclesiastical bodies for the general increase of Christian union and spiritual efficiency, and the advancement of Christ's kingdom in the earth.

ARTICLE III. — Doctrinal Basis

This Conference declares its steadfast allegiance to the faith which our fathers confessed, which, from age to age, has found its expression in the historic creeds of the Church Universal and of this Communion.

ARTICLE IV. — Denominational Basis

Being based exclusively upon Congregational principles, this Conference shall, under no circumstances, exercise ecclesiastical authority over churches or individuals, or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches, or consent to hear appeals, or give advice in ecclesiastical causes of any kind.

ARTICLE V. — Members

1. Each evangelical Congregational Church, Conference, and Association in this Commonwealth may choose one delegate, and these delegates, together with the pastor or pastors of each church (who shall be members ex officio), the officers and committee members of this body, two delegates from the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, one from the Board of Ministerial Aid, one from the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, one from Andover Theological Seminary, and one from the Board of Pastoral Supply, shall constitute the Conference.

2. Delegates from corresponding bodies, ministers appointed to preach before the Conference, and chairmen of committees who attend to present reports, together with such other persons as the Conference may vote to admit, shall be honorary members, with the privilege of speaking, but without vote.

ARTICLE VI. — Officers

1. The officers shall be a Moderator, a Vice-Moderator, a Secretary, a Registrar, an Assistant Registrar, and a Treasurer. All members of Congregational churches in this Commonwealth shall be eligible to any of these offices. The officers shall be elected by ballot, the Moderator and Vice-Moderator each to serve one year, the other officers each to serve three years and until the election of their successors. The terms of all officers, save when chosen to fill vacancies, shall begin at the close of the meeting at which they are elected.

2. The officers, together with three delegates annually chosen by ballot for this purpose, shall constitute an Executive Committee.

3. The Moderator, or in his absence, the Vice-Moderator, shall preside over all the meetings of the Conference and shall be chairman of the Executive Committee.

4. (a) The Secretary shall conduct the correspondence of the Conference, collect and publish in connection with the annual " Minutes " the statistics of ministers and churches, distribute the publications of the Conference, copies of which he shall preserve for permanent use, give suitable notice to the churches of the time and place of each annual meeting, notify officers and committees of their election or appointment, and fulfill such other functions as the Conference may from time to time direct.

(b) The Secretary shall receive a salary of twelve hundred dollars, and by the authority and under the direction of the Executive Committee, he may, when necessary, employ an assistant, at a compensation to be fixed by the Executive Committee.

5. The Registrar shall keep a full record of each meeting, which he shall preserve as the permanent property of the Conference, and he shall also keep the minutes of the Executive Committee.

6. The Assistant Registrar shall aid the Registrar in making the records; shall take his place during his absence; and, in the event of a vacancy in the Registrar's office, shall act as Registrar until the office shall be filled by the Executive Committee or by a regular election.

7. The Treasurer shall receive all money raised for the use of the Conference, disburse the same as directed by the Executive Committee and shall make an annual report, to be audited as the Conference may direct.

8. The Executive Committee shall have charge of all the interests and business of the Conference between the annual meetings, shall fill all vacancies occurring during the interim, and shall make an annual report to the Conference.

9. The traveling expenses of the Secretary, Registrar, Assistant Registrar and Treasurer, in attending the annual meetings, shall be paid by the Conference.

ARTICLE VII. — Trustees

1. A board of five Trustees shall also be elected, two to serve three years, two to serve two years, and one to serve one year; and on each election succeeding the first, the successors of those whose terms expire shall be chosen for three years and until others are appointed in their stead by ballot; and all members of Congregational churches in this state shall be eligible thereto.

2. The Board of Trustees shall hold and manage trust funds for the benefit of the Conference and perform such duties as may be prescribed by vote of the Conference for their government, making an annual report to the Conference. The Trustees may receive such property, real and personal, as may be given to the Conference or to the Board of Trustees to be invested, used, and managed in such manner as the Conference shall from time to time direct; and in the absence of such vote of the Conference, in such manner as a majority of the Trustees shall by vote determine at any regular or special meeting of the Board of Trustees, for the use and benefit of the objects of the Conference.

ARTICLE VIII. — Annual Meeting

The annual meeting shall be held at the appointed place on the third Monday of May at two o'clock P.M., or at such other hour as the Executive Committee may find expedient.

ARTICLE IX. — Organization

The Moderator or, in his absence, the Vice-Moderator, shall call the Conference to order. In the absence of both, any member of the Executive Committee may call the Conference to order, and a moderator pro tem shall be chosen to serve during the absence of the proper officer.

ARTICLE X. — Committees

1. Immediately after the opening of the annual meeting the Moderator shall appoint: —

(a) A Committee on Credentials, to which all credentials shall be referred.

(b) A Business Committee, the duty of which shall be to prepare and present all matters of business at each session, not presented through some other committee of the Conference. All matters of business presented by any member of the Conference shall be referred to the Business Committee unless ordered to some other committee by the Conference. All matters of business referred to any committee shall be reported for action before the final adjournment of the annual meeting.

(c) A Budget Committee of three, which shall report before the close of the meeting on the state of the treasury, the amount of money needed for the ensuing year, and ways and means for meeting the need.

2. At each annual meeting there shall be elected by viva voce vote:

(a) A Program Committee of eight members, of which the Secretary of the Conference and the pastor of the Church which is to entertain the next annual meeting shall be members ex-officiis, the other members to be elected two for three years, two for two years, and two for one year, subsequent elections to be for three years each. This committee shall prepare the program for the next annual meeting, selecting the preacher of the annual sermon, and the various speakers for each session.

(b) A Committee of two, to be elected for one year, to audit the Treasurer's report.

(c) A Nominating Committee of seven, consisting of the retiring Moderator or, in his absence, of the retiring Vice-moderator, of each annual conference, together with six other members; two to be elected annually for three years, which shall make all nominations required by the Rules of the Conference or by vote. The retiring members of this committee shall not be eligible for re-election for at least one year.

(d) Such other committees as the Conference may vote to elect. Members of these committees shall be elected for such terms as the Conference shall determine. The Executive Committee shall present at each annual meeting a list of the committees the appointment of which it recommends

3. The reports of all committees that are to be presented to the Conference shall be furnished to the Secretary on or before April 1 of each year and shall be printed and distributed to the churches not less than two weeks before the annual meeting. These reports shall not be read to the Conference save by special order; but the Program Committee may arrange for the adequate discussion of any or all of the topics presented in the reports.

ARTICLE XI. — Massachusetts Home Missionary Society

In the practical administration of its home missionary work, the instrument of the Conference shall be the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, a place for which shall be made in the program of the annual meeting.

ARTICLE XII. — Board of Ministerial Aid

The Board of Ministerial Aid shall be the agent of the Conference in the work of aiding needy ministers and their families, and shall make an annual report to the Conference. On notice of a vacancy in the membership of the Board of Ministerial Aid, the Conference shall nominate a person to fill the vacancy.

ARTICLE XIII. — Boston Seaman's Friend Society

The Boston Seaman's Friend Society shall be the agent of the Conference in the work of promoting the spiritual and temporal welfare of seamen, and shall make an annual report to the Conference. The Conference shall annually nominate a person for membership in the Board of Managers of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society.

ARTICLE XIV. — Board of Pastoral Supply

1. The Conference shall elect eight members to represent it on the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply, two members to be elected each year to serve for a period of four years.

2. The Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply shall, through its Secretary, make an annual report to the Conference.

ARTICLE XV. — Special Orders

1. Each session of the annual meeting shall be opened and closed with divine worship, and one minister to have charge of these services for all sessions of the Conference shall be named by the Program Committee.

2. On each morning of the annual meeting, after the first day, the minutes of the preceding day shall be read; the minutes of the last day shall be read immediately before the final adjournment.

3. On Monday evening of each annual meeting the annual sermon shall be preached, followed by the celebration of the Lord's Supper.

4. The place of the next annual meeting shall be recommended each year by the Business Committee and designated by vote of the Conference.

5. As far as possible, all business of the Conference shall be completed by noon of the second day of the annual meeting.

ARTICLE XVI. — Rules of Order

The Rules of Order shall be those of common parliamentary usage subject to the following specifications:

1. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the Conference.

2. When a question is before the Conference the Moderator shall entertain motions only as follows: To adjourn, to table, for the previous question, to postpone to a fixed time, to commit, to amend, or to postpone indefinitely; these several motions shall have precedence in the foregoing order.

3. No vote not essential to the conduct of the business of the Conference shall be passed except by a two-thirds vote of those present and voting; nor shall any such vote be passed, except by unanimous consent, until at least fifteen minutes shall have been allowed for debate.

ARTICLE XVII. — Amendments

1. Any of the above articles, except the first five, may be amended at any annual meeting by a two-thirds vote, provided that the proposed amendment shall have been submitted to the Conference in writing on the day previous.

2. Either of the first five articles may be amended by a two-thirds vote but only after the proposed amendment has been submitted to the Conference in writing at the previous annual meeting, and notice has been sent to the several associations, conferences, and churches connected with this body at least three months prior to the meeting at which action is to be taken.

At 2 o'clock the Conference was called to order by the Moderator, Rev. Shepherd Knapp, Worcester, and a service of worship was conducted by Rev. Austin Rice, Wakefield. The appointment of committees was deferred by the Moderator until a later hour in the afternoon.

On motion of the Registrar the program as printed was voted the program for the entire session.

On motion of Rev. W. M. Macnair, Cambridge, it was voted that the Secretary send an invitation to Attorney-General Allen to be present and address the Conference on Wednesday morning.

Rev. J. L. Cross, pastor of the entertaining church, welcomed the Conference and response was made by the Moderator.

The Secretary, Rev. H. L. Bailey, Longmeadow, read his annual report, the Conference standing during the reading of the necrology. The report was accepted.

The Moderator appointed the following committees:

Business: Rev. A. A. Madsen, Gloucester; Rev. O. A. Price, Leominster; Rev. R. M. Timberlake, Dalton; Mr. W. M. Gaylord, Easthampton; Mr. Frederick Fosdick, Fitchburg.

Budget: Dr. E. H. Bigelow, Framingham; Rev. E. E. Shumaker, Adams; Rev. W. C. Gordon, Ware.

Credentials: Rev. J. B. Lewis, East Longmeadow; Rev. W. L. Boicourt, Maynard; Rev. H. L. Bailey, Longmeadow.

The Treasurer, E. L. Miller, Boston, rendered his annual report and this was followed by the report of the Auditing Committee, read by the Secretary. Both reports were accepted and referred to the Budget Committee.

The report of the Board of Pastoral Supply was presented by Rev. A. J. Covell, Boston. The report was accepted.

The report of the Seaman's Friend Society was given by Rev. E. H. Byington, West Roxbury. The report was accepted and the recommendations referred to the Business Committee.

Rev. C. S. Mills, New York, was introduced and spoke upon the Pilgrim Memorial and the Annuity Funds.

The Secretary presented the notice given by the Business Committee of the Conference a year ago respecting the Amendment to Article V of the Rules of the Conference.

The address of the afternoon, " The Making of an Efficient Church through Parish Evangelism " was given by Rev. W. H. Day, Bridgeport, Conn.

Mr. Wheeler, Rutland, and Rev. E. E. Shumaker, Adams, participated in the discussion which followed.

The following deacons were appointed to serve at the Lord's Supper:

Messrs. Charles Davis, W. K. Bailey and F. H. Lane of Fitchburg; G. H. Whitcomb, Townsend; G. J. Esselen, Roxbury, and C. E. Swett, Winchester.

After prayer by Rev. H. F. Holton, Brockton, the Conference took a recess till 7.30 in the evening.

MONDAY EVENING

The evening session was opened with worship conducted by Rev. Austin Rice, Wakefield.

The work of the Board of Ministerial Aid was presented by Rev. C. S. Mills, New York. An offering of $115.15 was made.

The Budget Committee gave notice of a proposed change in the Rules in Article VI, Section 4b, to read $1200 instead of $1000.

The Annual Sermon was preached by Rev. H. G. Ross, Pittsfield, from the text 1 John 4 : 8, "He that loveth not knoweth not God, for God is love."

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by Rev. F. A. Poole, South Weymouth, and following this the Conference took a recess till Tuesday morning.

TUESDAY MORNING

The session opened at 9 o'clock with worship conducted by Rev. Austin Rice, Wakefield.

The minutes of Monday's sessions were read and declared approved as read.

The report of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment presented its report by Rev. E. D. Gaylord, Dorchester. The report was accepted. The recommendation regarding apportionment to the churches was amended to read:

"That the Conference adopt for 1923 100 per cent of the sum of $1,087,500 as the amount to be provided among the churches."

The recommendations, that,

The State Conference should request that the National Commission on Missions assign a director to Massachusetts for the promotion of the apportionment and missionary education, in consultation with the Missionary and Apportionment Committee of the State Conference, and were adopted and the recommendation regarding an appropriation for the work of the Committee was referred to the Budget Committee.

That the scale of percentages by which the funds raised are distributed among the various constituent objects included in our Congregational Forward Movement for 1922, be left to the decision of the State Committee on Apportionment in co-operation with the National Commission on Missions,

The Committee on Federation of Churches presented its report, and Rev. E. T. Root, Secretary of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches was introduced to speak of the work of that organization. The report was accepted.

The recommendation,

That a similar committee of thirty, one half of whom shall be ministers and one half laymen, be appointed for the coming year to represent the Conference in the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, and that the chairman of that committee be authorized to designate alternates for those members who cannot attend the meetings of the Council of the Federation, as such shall be called, was accepted and the recommendation that a sum equal to two dollars for each church in the Conference be appropriated for the work of the Federation was referred to the Budget Committee.

The Business Committee presented the following recommendation which was adopted:

The Business Committee desires to commend the proposed reorganization of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society in accordance with the recommendation of the Commission on Missions whereby that Society becomes the agent of the New England Conferences and subject to their control.

In the light of the steps already taken by the Boston Seaman's Friend Society as expressed by its newly adopted By-Laws, the Business Committee recommends to the Conference the ratification of the action of the Commission on Missions, to wit, that the Conference accept its share of an apportionment of $25,000 among the six New England States for the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, this apportionment to be in addition to the national apportionment and to be distributed among the six states in the ratio of the national apportionment. It is understood the share of the Conference of Massachusetts will be $12,775.

The Secretary read a proposed message to Senator Borah regarding the Anti-Lynching Bill, which was referred to the Business Committee.

A resolution to be sent Governor Cox was presented by Secretary G. A. Gordon of the Anti-Saloon League and was referred to the Business Committee.

Rev. W. W. Patton, Haverhill, presented the report of the Committee on Moral and Social Welfare. The report was accepted and the request for the appropriation of $75.00 for the work of the committee was referred to the Budget Committee.

Rev. T. W. Davison, Atlantic, presented a memorial regarding the money raised for the Church Building Society. It was referred to the Business Committee.

The report of the Evangelistic Committee was accepted as printed.

The Congregational Foundation for Education was presented by Rev. E. D. Eaton, Wellesley.

By consent of the Conference the order of the addresses of the morning was reversed and Hon. Payson Smith, Commissioner of Education of Massachusetts gave an address upon "The Task of the School in Moral Education." Upon motion of Rev. J. L. Findlay, Easthampton, a rising vote of thanks was given Dr. Smith. "The Task of the Church in Religious Education" was given by Rev. M. H. Lichliter, Newtonville.

Prayer and Benediction were offered by Rev. E. B. Robinson, Holyoke, and the Conference took a recess until the close of the Home Missionary Meeting.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The Conference convened for a business session at 4.30 o'clock.

Rev. E. B. Robinson, Holyoke, presented a resolution that a committee be appointed to study the relation of the churches and colleges, which was referred to the Business Committee.

The Business Committee presented the following recommendations which were adopted:

To Senator W. E. Borah,
Washington, D. C.

The State Conference of Congregational Churches in Massachusetts, representing 146,000 communicants assembled in their annual meeting at Fitchburg, do respectfully urge you and your Committee to report out to the Senate, the bill now in your custody, known as the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill, and to support said bill when before the Senate.

To His Excellency, Channing H. Cox, Executive Chamber,
State House, Boston, Mass.

Whereas House Bill No. 1600 is now before Your Excellency for consideration, after having passed the House by a two-to-one and the Senate by a three-to-one vote, and,

Whereas under a probable Referendum to the voters next November this bill may not become operative before December 7 of the present year, thus giving the Legislature opportunity to amend this legislation should it deem necessary, be it,

Resolved, by the Massachusetts Congregational Conference in the one hundred twentieth annual meeting at Fitchburg, May 15–17, 1922, that you be urged, in keeping with your Inaugural recommendation to the Legislature, to sign House Bill No. 1600 in its present form and not return the same to the Legislature with the suggestion of any specific change, thereby jeopardizing, we believe, the enactment of this measure by the present Legislature.

Resolved, that this Conference put on record its hearty appreciation of the great steps toward world-peace taken by the Washington Conference on Reduction of Armaments, called by President Harding.

Resolved, that the power of concerted expression of Christian opinion, demonstrated in connection with the calling and opening of that Conference and the ratification of its Treaties by the Senate, must continue to be exerted until war is outlawed and a peace-system established; and to this end, approves the recommendation of the Federal Council and the Massachusetts Federation of Churches that every church appoint a "peacemakers' committee" of one or more members.

Resolved: That the Congregational Conference of the State of Massachusetts requests the Massachusetts Federation of Churches to set apart from the appropriation of said Conference the sum of $60.50 to pay for 605 subscriptions to the quarterly of the Federation, "Facts and Factors," to be sent to the acting pastors of all its churches within the State of Massachusetts.

Whereas, the Executive Committee of the Hampden Association has made inquiry of this Conference whether it has already made provision for a course of reading to be recommended to those to whom are granted licenses as lay preachers, and

Whereas, the Conference has never taken any such action,

Be it Resolved, that the Conference approves the preparation of such a course of reading and requests that a committee of five be appointed to prepare such a course and send a copy to the Scribe of each Association.

The Business Committee recommends that Mr. Ivan Nowlan, the new Secretary of the Massachusetts Sunday-School Association be given five minutes tomorrow, Wednesday morning, to introduce his plans and become known to the Congregational pastors and delegates.

The Business Committee recommends that the Conference accept the cordial invitation of the First Congregational Church of Great Barrington, seconded by urgent invitation of the Berkshire South Association, that the Conference meet with the church at Great Barrington next year.

Whereas, the Congregational Church Union of Boston and vicinity has submitted to the Conference plans to promote Church Extension Work within the state through the local administration of funds contributed for church building, your Business Committee suggests that since these proposals are of a far-reaching and important nature, and require proper consideration of all facts, many of which have not been laid before us, that the Conference appoint a special committee to whom the matter may be referred, this committee to study the need for Church Extension Work within the state, to what extent in the past this need has been met, what proportion of Massachusetts contributions to the Church Building Society have been expended within the state of Massachusetts, and any other data which may help to a sane and profitable decision, and report at the next session of the Conference in 1923.

Whereas, the National Council of Congregational Churches, meeting in Los Angeles in 1921, expressed its deep interest in the sane, practical and promising proposals of the American Council on Organic Union as presented through its own delegation, and has submitted these proposals for an expression of judgment to the various state meetings, requesting a definite vote before July, 1922. Voted, that the matter be referred to a special committee to report next year.

The required notice having been given, the following change in the Rules was made so that Article VI, Section 4, shall read:

"The Secretary shall receive a salary of twelve hundred dollars, etc."

The Budget Committee made the following recommendation of appropriations for the coming year, which was adopted:

National Council	$8,768.22
Board of Pastoral Supply	2,192.06
Massachusetts Federation of Churches	1,210.00
Secretary's Salary	1,200.00
Secretary's Expenses	200.00
Printing	650.00
Missionary Committee	250.00
Religious Education Committee	150.00
Committee on Moral and Social Welfare	100.00
Committee on Rural Work	100.00
Evangelistic Committee	100.00
Delegates' Expenses	300.00
Contingencies	100.00
	$15,320.28

It was voted that a levy of 10 cents per member be made, yielding $14,613.70, and the balance be taken from cash on hand.

The report of the Committee on Religious Education and Young People's Work was accepted. The resolutions that the National Secretary of Missionary Education be ex-officio a member of this committee; and that week-day religious education be a theme for a half-day session at the Conference in 1923, were adopted.

Rev. G. W. Owen was asked to make a further report Wednesday morning.

The report of the Executive Committee was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Rural Conditions was accepted and adopted.

A recess was then taken until 7.45 in the evening.

The Annual Banquet was served in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce with Rev. S. H. Woodrow, Newton Highlands, as toastmaster.

TUESDAY EVENING

The Conference convened at 8.00. Worship was conducted by Rev. Austin Rice, Wakefield.

Addresses were given by Rev. E. D. Eaton, Wellesley, on "The Congregational Tradition of a Learned Ministry," and by Rev. A. D. Leavitt, Brookline, on "The Perpetuation of Such a Ministry."

Following these addresses the Conference took a recess until Wednesday morning.

Parallel to the evening session and as a part of the Conference a Young People's Rally was held at the Calvinistic Congregational Church.

Addresses were given by Rev. H. W. Gates, Boston, on "Youth's Share in the Work of the Church," and by Rev. G. W. Owen, Hyde Park, on "The Power of a Great Dream."

WEDNESDAY MORNING

The session opened at 9.00 with worship conducted by Rev. Austin Rice, Wakefield.

Rev. G. W. Owen, Hyde Park, made a supplementary report to the printed report of the Committee on Religious Education presented Tuesday afternoon.

The minutes of Tuesday's sessions were read and approved.

Mr. Ivan Nowlan, Boston, presented the work of the Massachusetts Sunday School Association.

The Nominating Committee presented a list of officers and committees. The report was accepted and adopted and it was voted that the assistant registrar cast one ballot for the officers, who were declared elected. Following is the list of officers and committees as chosen:

The Business Committee presented the following resolutions which were adopted:

That a commission of five be appointed by the Moderator to study the relation of the colleges and churches of this Commonwealth, the said Commission to report at the next annual meeting.

Resolved, that the Conference express its gratitude and deep appreciation to the Rollstone Congregational Church and its pastor, the Calvinistic

Church, and the Pilgrim Church of Leominster and the several committees, for their abundant hospitality and adequate provision for all the needs of the Conference;

Likewise, that we extend our thanks to the speakers, and to the singers, who have so largely contributed to our inspiration and enjoyment.

It was voted that the proposed amendment to Article V, Section 1, viz.:

Each evangelical Congregational Church, Conference and Association in this Commonwealth may choose two delegates, etc., be tabled for a year and placed in the hands of the Committee on Young People's Work to be reported on.

The matter of distribution of pre-conference literature was left in the hands of the Executive Committee. An informal vote, practically unanimous, indicated a desire that this literature be sent out.

Rev. J. T. Theodore, Medford, made an appeal for the work for the Near East Relief.

Following the business, Principal A. E. Stearns, Andover, gave an address on " The Task of the Church in Maintaining a High Moral Tone in the Community "; and Attorney-General J. W. Allen, Newton Highlands, spoke on " The Youth of Today, the Citizen of Tomorrow."

A rising vote of thanks was given to Messrs. Stearns and Allen.

The Nominating Committee made the following supplementary report which was adopted:

FRANCIS J. MARSH, Registrar.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY

Fitchburg welcomes the state body for the fifth time, its first welcome being extended in 1826 and the fourth in 1904. Eighteen pastors are still where they were when we came here eighteen years ago. We have added 33 new churches to our roll since then and dropped 39, of whom 16 disappeared by merger with other churches. This does not include the casualties of 1922. The roll on January 1 carried 605 names, the Finnish church of West Wareham being added, while the Globe Village church in Southbridge dissolved, and the Second Swedish of Worcester withdrew, being out of harmony with our progressive theology and our apportionment ideals. Since then West Deerfield has closed its doors, temporarily we hope; New Marlboro First is trying to die, having only three resident members in a total of 34; Immanuel-Walnut Avenue in Roxbury has united with Eliot; and Ipswich First and Second are now one, save possibly for a bit of legislative adjustment.

Our 605 churches have now 146,137 members, a gain of 3,004 over last year. Since the last Fitchburg meeting we have grown 26 per cent, but the Fitchburg churches have grown 41 per cent. The year's gain has been general in the state, only Hampshire East Association failing to gain, although Brookfield and Worcester Central by the loss of a whole church each are set back for small net losses. Additions on confession, 6,028, have only once been larger. Additions by letter, 4,309, have only once been larger, and the same is true of the total, 10,337. But the total losses are the largest on record, 7,333, the loss of two churches counting 322; and the national effort to reduce our absentee list has borne some fruit in the record of 3,267 dismissions by letter, a record mark. On the contrary, the deaths number only 1,936, the smallest figure in eight years.

Twenty-one churches report additions of 75 or more, seven going above 100, the leaders being Springfield South with 132, and Boston Park Street with 118. Sixteen churches added as many as 50 on confession, Holyoke Grace leading with 86 and Maverick of East Boston reporting 72. Seventeen churches made a net gain of 50 or more, the leaders being West Somerville, 78, and West Newton, 77. The small churches have no chance to compete in such contests for aggregate achievement, but they have their innings when proportionate achievement is measured. Seventy-six churches report additions on confession exceeding 10 per cent of their membership, and 21 were above the 20 per cent mark. The two New Salem churches, First and North, under one pastor, head that list with 65 and 46 per cent, West Bridgewater being third with 40 per cent. Twenty-six churches made a net gain of 20 per cent, and again the New Salem churches are at the head with 74 and 53 per cent, Harwichport getting second honor with 58 per cent, and four other churches above 40. While some have been gaining, others have been losing, though their apparent losses by pruning may be tokens of strength rather than weakness. Twenty-three churches report net losses in membership of 20 or more, the Harvard church of Boston being 98 behind, and Dedham 59.

Five times previously the present secretary has reported a new record mark in infant baptisms. This year the mark of 3,833 is nearly 600 above last year's record. The banner still stays in the Connecticut Valley, Springfield First reporting an even 100, with Holyoke Grace a poor second with 46. The Sunday school total shows an increase of 2,932, standing at 124,603, the largest in four years but by no means our best showing in the last decade. Societies of young people likewise show a positive reaction, gaining 2,102 members, the largest reported since 1918.

The new Year Book will report the largest national gain in membership ever recorded, almost 19,000, making the total 838,181. Something over 17 per cent of these are credited to Massachusetts, but our net gain of 3,004 is only 15 per cent of the whole. Last year, then, the other states gained faster than we. Let it be a spur to progress this year, while we take this bit of comfort from the past, that three years ago we gained over 1,000 while the whole denomination lost.

The first glance at the totals of benevolence is very cheering. Apparently our apportionment giving has jumped over nine per cent. But the familiar phrase about " the deadly parallel " is only too true. The total of $677,240, an apparent gain of nearly $58,000, includes a column of " other apportionment items " amounting to $41,682; and there is a line of " undesignated " or uncredited gifts from miscellaneous sources, union churches, anonymous givers, etc., which totals $16,295, not to the credit of any of our conference churches. These two items more than offset the gain, forcing the conclusion that the societies received less from our churches than the year before; and if the Women's Home Federation had not shown a $30,000 increase which was distributed among the home societies, the showing would have been less favorable. The gifts from undesignated sources enabled the Woman's Board, Home Missions, and Ministerial Relief to show a strong advance. The Sunday School Society was a trifle to the good, the American Board a trifle to the bad; and the other societies scored a sad decline. We are cutting the rations of the older children to feed new comers in the family. A better solution would be to work a bit harder and increase the budget for the benefit of all.

We have been able to find $107,000 more than last year to spend on our own parish maintenance, most of which seems to reappear in the salary total, indicating that the average minister has now a salary of more than $1,900 as compared with less than $1,800 the previous year. We have paid 12 per cent of our total indebtedness which is now $460,000, and our property valuation has increased a million and a quarter dollars, standing at $23,268,000.

The obituary list of the ministers on the conference roll is happily a short one and reveals for the most part the passing on of veterans a good bit older than Paul when he anticipated Browning's Prospice with his triumphant farewell to Timothy. These also were ready and the time of their departure was at hand. Four were pastors, and the other eleven were all or nearly all retired from active service. Two were pastor emeritus; two were teachers enjoying the twilight after a long day in school; the others were just like most of us, only older and gone to their reward. Foremost among the pastors was John Whitehill, 60 years in the ministry, first at Hampden, then 52 years at Oldtown in North Attleboro, dean of our pastors, still bringing forth fruit in old age. Charles R. Sherman was not eight years past his ordination when death took him from his second pastorate, White Oaks in Williamstown. Thomas J. Lewis, 32 years in the ministry, was with us a dozen years at Abington and Paxton, going thence to Preston, Conn., where he died in office. Herbert A. Barker gave ten earnest years to the Boylston church in Jamaica Plain and six to Eliot in Lowell before health considerations drove him to a Green Mountain parish at Randolph Center, three years ago, where he worked until an early evening closed about him and hid him from our sight. George Harris had 14 years in the pastorate before he began to teach others, some of you, how to preach. He was 16 years in Andover Seminary and then presided successfully nearly as long over Amherst his alma mater. William Gallagher had a long experience as academy principal at Williston Seminary and Thayer Academy in South Braintree. Edward Norton had been nearly 57 years in the ministry, and had been at Quincy since 1873, pastor for 21 years and pastor emeritus since. Robert C. Bell, ordained in 1869, gave ten years of service to three Connecticut churches and 27 years to three Massachusetts churches before retiring as pastor emeritus at Granby in 1909. Sidney Crawford, ordained in 1870, came to us in 1893 for a score of years at Rutland, Provincetown and Wayland. Augustus M. Rice, ordained in 1873, had been from 1882 until a few years ago the pastor of several of our smaller churches. Charles H. Rowley had preached ten years before his ordination in 1881, and retained his Massachusetts standing for 35 years though long non-resident. Richard G. Woodbridge, 40 years in the ministry, had only recently returned to this state from a long Vermont pastorate. John P. Marvin is reported dead, no date or details, by the Worcester Central scribe. He had served two churches there in recent years and then gone into New York. His ordination was in 1889. James B. Gregg has just left us. Born and educated here, his two pastorates of 8 and 27 years were in Hartford and Colorado Springs. Coming back for his autumnal holiday, he served at Whitinsville a year or two ten years ago, and died, as all good Congregationalists desire to, within sight of Boston's gilded dome. Even more recently has George A. Putnam gone. He was 11 years in Yarmouth, Me., and since 1871 had been pastor of Millbury First, emeritus since 1910.

Sometimes the departure of the mistress of the manse means as sore a loss to the parish, directly and indirectly, as the loss of the pastor himself. No attempt has been customary to catalog such catastrophes in this report, but from opposite ends of the state such sad events the past winter have come under the secretary's eye; and he knows your sympathy will be unanimous to the crippled pastors of Hyde Park, Ashfield, Interlaken, Princeton, and South Williamstown, and to any others in like bereavement. " Her sun is gone down while it was yet day," but in God's sight these domestic tragedies may be perhaps the end of a perfect day, as we shall sometime know.

REPORT OF THE CONGREGATIONAL BOARD OF PASTORAL SUPPLY

REV. ARTHUR J. COVELL, SECRETARY

BOSTON, MASS., April 1, 1922.

The Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply respectfully presents this year its seventh annual report to the Congregational Conferences of New England. This is, however, the twenty-eighth report to the Massachusetts Conference.

It is good to be able to give, from the outlook afforded by our office, a cheering word about the prospect for spiritual leadership. While economic deflation has been keenly felt by the Christian minister, not so much in shrinking invoices as in the burdened lives of parishioners, and while the atmosphere of the time breeds distrust and criticism, yet the outlook for adequate leadership for our churches in these coming years, sufficient in quantity, and of the right quality, has distinctly brightened. We have apparently passed the most acute stage in our ministerial shortage. Federations, the yoking of churches together, the appointment of general missionaries by the Home Missionary Societies, and the raising of salaries, have brought a good measure of relief to the small churches. But beyond these temporary adjustments, there is a new appreciation of the need and opportunity of ministerial service. The prayers of earnest souls have been answered. In a Faculty letter from one of our theological schools, reporting for the first time since the United States entered the war a normal registration of high grade men, the letter goes on to say: "This situation accords with the condition generally reported in the leading theological schools in the country. The ebb tide which had been running strongly seems to have turned and now to be bringing an increased number of men of excellent quality into the ministry. The Theological Schools are receiving once more a normal supply of young men whose college careers have not been rudely interrupted by the war and the call to military service. Furthermore in many quarters there appears to be an awakening of interest in the ministry and a new realization of its vital importance for the life of America. In view of the grave moral and spiritual problems which concern our time, there has never been a period when the highly trained, vigorous and enlightened minister was more needed than to-day."

In our office since last summer the details of our work have been more like those of the years before the war. From early in November until well into the new year we expect a slackening of the demand for ministers. But last year, and in some other war and post-war years we had a strange increase during this period. This year we are normal again. Then too, we now have a large surplus from which to draw, and Boston can once more be spoken of as the congested spot so far as ministers are concerned. Economic conditions have something to do with this. Readjustments in colleges also have their influence and college presidents and professors are available for supply and settlement. The overflowing number of men studying in our educational institutions increases available supplies. The proportion of men desiring Sunday supplies to the supplies we can offer at a given time may not be as great as before the war, but it is sufficiently great, and the pressure is now again from this side.

In response to requests for aid in pastoral service we have rendered service to 313 churches. While naturally these churches are mainly in New England, they were altogether in twenty-three states, one district and one foreign country. Of these churches there were located in Maine, 41; in New Hampshire, 33; in Vermont, 34; in Massachusetts, 130; in Rhode Island, 4; in Connecticut, 35; in New York, 10; in Illinois, 5; in Ohio, 3; in California, 2; in Michigan, 2; in Nebraska, 2; in New Jersey, 2; and one each in Arizona, District of Columbia, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, North Carolina, Nova Scotia, Oklahoma, Oregon, Washington and Wyoming.

In harmony with our uniform custom we have not enumerated in this statement the furnishing of occasional or temporary supplies, nor have we taken account of commendations for positions other than pastorates.

So far as we have information, the total number of pastoral settlements in which the Board had an important part was 117. This number has been exceeded but twice in the history of the Board. Since this number does not include arrangements with ministers for less than six months, and since we have not made note of commendations for positions outside the pastorate, this is not a full statement of what we have been able to do for the regular work of the churches.

There is variation from year to year in the size and financial strength of the churches dealing directly with the Board in seeking pastors. Of these churches this past year, 119 had less than one hundred members; 121 had from one hundred to three hundred members; while 73 had more than three hundred members. Of these churches, 76 paid less than $1,200 salary; 160 are reported to have paid from $1,200 to $2,000; while 77 paid more than $2,000.

During the year opportunities for preaching were furnished to 304 men, of whom 164 were candidates for settlement. Repeated opportunities were given to the larger portion of these men.

The whole number of occasional supplies was 644. This is a smaller number than for several preceding years, and primarily indicates probably an increased number of men available for such service and actively seeking supplies through direct arrangements with the churches. The professor in charge of supply arrangements at one of our larger seminaries reported an unusually small demand for supplies this winter, with some Sundays when no new requests were received at the seminary, and fifty men would be clamorous for supplies.

The whole number of appointments for the year was 1,054.

The Secretary has travelled on Board business during the year about 5,500 miles. The demands of the office business and the cost of travel combine to curb undue travel.

The number of letters sent out from the office this past year was 8,097.

The Treasurer's account, with the Auditor's statement, will be found in the Appendix.

The office expenses for the year were a little less than for the previous year, but the office receipts were also less. Such items as advertising in The Congregationalist, and travelling expenses were materially increased. On the other hand, the bills for printing, postage, telephone and stenographic help, were reduced.

The Treasurer's report from the constituent New England Conferences reveals the following:

Massachusetts.	Paid in full to March 31, 1922.
Connecticut.	Paid in full for 1921, and $600 for 1922.
Vermont.	Paid in full for 1921.
Maine.	Paid in full for 1921.
New Hampshire.	Paid in full for year ending March 31, 1922.
Rhode Island.	Paid in full for year ending March 31, 1922.

In view of the variations in methods of payment, it is needful to repeat a paragraph from previous reports in order to avoid possible confusion:

> "Maine, Connecticut and Vermont begin their year Jan. 1, and compute the one and one-half cent per member from the Year-Book at hand at the beginning of the calendar year. Massachusetts begins her year January 1, but changes her basis of computation May 1, taking the figures of the new Year-Book for the balance of the year. Rhode Island's year begins April 1, and New Hampshire's begins May 1, these states using the figures of the Year-Book issued after January 1, each year."

Due to increases in church membership the amounts received from Massachusetts and Connecticut have been larger than in previous years. The amounts from Maine and Vermont are slightly less. As a result, our surplus, after allowing for advance payments of states, has been drawn upon but $207 this year, while last year it was drawn upon for approximately $250. Assuming expenses at the present rate, we shall in the course of some years need to do what we have not thus far done, seek some additional income.

Experience in the work of pastoral supply tends to deepen certain convictions. One such conviction is the need on the part of churches for discrimination in their search for young men. As has been pointed out in our annual reports from time to time, the spiritually valuable qualities in youth like buoyant optimism, the clear forward look, the power of adjustment to the real conditions of the present, and of detachment from the outworn conditions of the past, are valuable assets in any minister. Hawthorne in his Note Book speaks of one whose pack has become a hump. It is possible to have much useless material in one's organic intellectual and spiritual life. But ideal conditions in these respects do not invariably appear in men young in years, nor are they surely lacking in those of mature years. The personality is the determining factor, and there is evidence that our church committees are increasingly discriminating. But there is ample room for further improvement.

Another deepening conviction is that the carefulness of the Board, which sometimes may appear like needless caution, in insisting upon adequate references for a minister, is amply justified by the outcome. The Secretary recalls one instance of a worthy man from England who came without references, and whose name, through carelessness of his own, did not appear in the English Congregational year book, who was put to needless inconvenience because of the Board's delay in opening the way to Sunday supplies. This case raised the question whether we should not have taken him at his own appraisal at once. But the Secretary recalls no other similar case, but on the other hand many cases where the carefulness of the Board was clearly of great advantage to the churches. Experience leads to the clear conclusion that no church is justified in making arrangements for pastoral service for any considerable time simply on the strength of documents a man may himself present. Other verification is required. Our independent ways open us to danger from the ministerial adventurer. Doubtless it was due to proximity to a church that suffered from carelessness in looking up a minister's record, that a certain strong New England church wrote in its by-laws that the church must, before settling a pastor, confer with the Board of Pastoral Supply.

We have need in our work of continually perfecting our reports about men and their work. But once in a certain number of years we need to go systematically through our files and perfect those that are defective. It is not needful as a rule to follow the men who have turned to other denominations or gone into business, nor to perfect the records of those of an age not likely to be summoned again into the active ministry. But we do need information fairly adequate about the majority of our ministers. We have been engaged this past year in this systematic work with our defective files and shall continue until the work be completed.

In any work about which centers the strong desires of men, and the details of which are not fully known, misconceptions will arise. Under such conditions mythologies have been born. We labor under this disadvantage. And yet there is nothing mysterious about our ways of working, and no peculiarly subtle methods of diplomacy are cultivated. It may be well to state in this report something of the practical aims and methods of the Board along several lines concerning ministers.

Our work has been conducted with the purpose to make certain that all Congregational ministers, particularly those of New England, should receive justice through the action of the Board, and the methods followed are intended to secure justice. If they fall short of the ideal in this respect, this may be due to the fallibility of human nature rather than to the method employed. Life itself is the "Great Adventure," and any expression of life that achieves results runs risks. We have special safeguards constantly in use to promote the ends of justice. On every inquiry letter sent from the office is printed these statements: "The names of our correspondents are held in the closest confidence and any improper use of them is guarded against with systematic carefulness. It is hoped that all information will be gathered and given in an appreciative, considerate, and generous temper; but it is also needful that it should be done with discrimination and truthfulness. The Board depends largely upon assistance thus rendered, and is grateful for it.

"Knowledge respecting objectionable peculiarities or special limitations of any sort is never communicated except to those having clear official right to its possession. It is not used heedlessly. It is meant that it should be softened rather than sharpened as it goes from us.

"It is not of necessity to be inferred that pastors of churches concerning whom inquiries are made are themselves seeking a change of settlement."

We aim to live up to this standard and by so doing protect ministers.

It is our custom in reporting about men to eliminate or at least to modify unfavorable reports not in harmony with the trend of reports about a particular man. This safeguard is in harmony with the adage, "In a multitude of counsellors is safety."

In response to the suggestion that "any report recorded at the office of the Board unfavorable to a minister's prospects should not remain on record or be open to inspection, unless it first be referred to the minister concerned," it is to be said that any discriminating report may prove "unfavorable to a minister's prospects," if the committee reads between the lines things unsaid; and yet discriminating reports are safeguards to the cause as a whole, and ought ultimately to prove of value to individual men.

Our records are not open to inspection. Special privileges are granted to Home Missionary Secretaries, and to other Secretaries of kindred work; but the records themselves are kept within the hands of the secretary or assistant. There are very few exceptions to this rule.

Our fundamental desire has been to secure truth about a minister, not all truth, but essential truth, and then to use the truth with love. As pastor, the present secretary has been accustomed to commend men as an advocate. As secretary he is face to face with the moral compulsion to advocate only that which seems to be for the best good of the churches. He is compelled to use whatever judicial qualities he may possess.

As a matter of fact, the Board is frequently, perhaps continually making suggestions to men for the purpose of helping them to overcome limitations.

Further, the Board is frequently able to protect men from injurious reports that have no just basis. Fuller information from a wider range of correspondents often enables the secretary to speak with absolute confidence about a man concerning whom there may be injurious reports.

Again, every man registered with us (and this includes a majority of the ministers of the denomination, and practically all New England Congregational ministers of an age likely to be summoned into service by the churches) is asked (if it has not already been done) to give references to those who know best concerning his work and worth in the ministry. Every man gives his own references and practically all of these are consulted. Usually additional references are utilized, but there are cases where we have only a man's own references, and probably in a majority of cases the preponderance of references is from a man's own references.

It is to be said that men are likely to know of themselves of any injurious reports there may be about them, and the correspondents they themselves suggest ought to enable the office to correct false impressions. Further, protection to individual men is found in the policy of the office to keep exact copies of all letters of description concerning men. These copies are open to authorized inspection. In case injustice is done to any man, the matter can be fully investigated and the fact and degree of injustice may be determined. This sense of accountability is a constant deterrent from unwarranted statements about a man.

As we look to the question of spiritual leadership, we find that this is a time of burden for both churches and ministers. Economic deflation affects others than financiers. Returning to normal from an inflated period of any sort is a painful process. The world is in a state of convalescence. We trust it has made this much of progress. And since churches and ministers are in the world, they must share the troubled world life. They may indeed like Peter count it all joy that they have their portion in the common tribulation, knowing that the proof of their burden bearing worketh a demonstration that they are indeed a vital part of world life. But there are also specific causes for thankfulness clearly visible.

Surely there are new and re-emphasized grounds for encouragement for Christian ministers to-day. Certain grounds for hope for the ministry as a whole have become increasingly clear in these past months.

For one thing the economic conditions for the ministry have improved.

There has been some recognition of the inadequate support given to the ministry. Some may recall reading some years ago in pre-war days of the salaries of the graduates of a certain New England College for a specific period. This was in a time when it was admitted without special question that as choice men entered the ministry as turned to any other calling. And the alumni of this college were recognized as choice men. It was found that the men from this college who had been at their chosen work a specific number of years and had entered the legal profession were receiving on the average incomes of about $4,400 a year. The doctors for that same period seemed to fare a little better for they were receiving about $4,500 a year. The ministers among this body of alumni who had been away from college for the same length of time were receiving a little more than $1,500 each. In a general way this represents the disparity between the incomes of ministers and men of certain other callings. Some of this disparity might well remain for the good of the ministry (although not primarily for the good of the churches). The ministry is not an economic calling. And yet there has been grave injustice done the ministry. And this injustice perhaps never wrought more actual hardship than in recent war and post-war years. But there has been some remedying of the situation, and there is promise of better support in the future. The highest ratio of increase in minister's salaries since pre-war days that we have seen reported is 45 per cent. This is not large in a time when the cost of living has increased much more than this, but much of this increase will be maintained. The churches have become aroused to the situation and as a rule show no inclination to go back to the old salary standards.

The greater hope for the minister's calling is in the return of idealism. This is " his native air," this " his vital breath." There is a new realization on the part of the public of the absolute necessity for the idealism for which the church stands. With the coming of the war there was much said about the breakdown of the church. Now there is a realization of the need of the church to prevent the breakdown of the world. Materialism held the field somewhat brazenly during the profiteering era. But " man liveth not by bread alone " and we have come to the time when men realize that the " word of God " is that best fitted to nourish real life.

There is new ground for hope for the Christian ministry to-day because the ministry as a whole has come to a fresh realization of the world's need of what the ministry has to give. Never has the world been in greater need of the curative forces of the Gospel of Christ. It is of interest to recall the word spoken to a man seeking to know whether he should accept a professor's chair, a place on the editorial staff of a great monthly magazine, or return to the ministry even though under limitations. And the word was that in spite of the far-reaching power of the writer, and the moulding influence of the teacher, there had not been a time within a half century at least when men of ideals were more needed in the ministry. The advice was followed and the man is in the pastorate. Because the world's present need is so appealing, the recent word of one of our ministers gains added force. He wrote, in exalting the ministry, " There is no joy like that of living close to the Master, having it one's first business to think his thoughts, to echo his words, to interpret his teachings, to project his spirit into the lives of one's fellows." A part of the reason for this enthusiasm is the fact of the social necessity for this work to-day. Always the highest personal joy comes from richest spiritual and social service.

On the part of churches there is new ground for hope concerning spiritual leadership. The men in the ministry to-day have passed through a testing time. To them surely belong the promises held out to him that overcometh. The churches may be more sure now, than in decades, that the men in the pulpits are there because they have heard a divine summons to this work.

Undoubtedly we have lost choice men from the ministerial ranks, men who have not lightly turned away from their chosen professions. But men have been in the grip of forces they could not control and plans dear to them have been laid aside. Probably every man with any considerable acquaintance among ministers can name some good men who have been forced, for the time at least, to turn to other means of livelihood. And the way back to the ministry has not seemed clearly open.

Some whom we would gladly have kept with us have taken up various forms of social service not apart from the work of the Kingdom, but yet not so closely bound to the heart of it as the gospel ministry. With these we are closely bound in spiritual leadership.

But the men who have remained at their posts have not done so because they could not turn elsewhere. A large portion of these who were not too far past middle life have had more remunerative opportunities elsewhere. This has been particularly true of those who had special aptitude for or experience in other callings. If a man was weary of the ministry, the chances to leave it have not for generations been so enticing as during these past years. If it has not been the outer reward that has held these men steadily at their places, we may believe it was the inner conviction of duty and spiritual opportunity. That men remained in the work during these times was somewhat like a new and more definite commitment to the Christian ministry. The churches may hope to reap the benefit from this re-dedication of their pastors.

It may not be the specific function of this report to call attention to the new ground of hope for churches in the recognition of the need of that which alone the church can give before life can be rightly stabilized. In these past few years of heat and passion, the voice of the Great Peace-Maker has not always been heard with distinctness. But it is more and more dawning upon the world at large that until somewhat more of the message of Christ is heard, our various adjustments will not stand the test. Christian principles are to have, we may believe, increasing sway all the way from the conduct of the individual to the conclusions of International Conferences. And not a few are confident that history will repeat itself, and that the reactionary period through which we have passed will be followed by great religious awakenings.

There is very clear ground for hope in the better outlook for the supply of ministers. Some seminaries have already reported large increase in the attendance of theological students. Cheering news comes from the colleges. The appeal for recruits for the ministry has been heard and heeded by a goodly number of our choicest young men. We shall face the new time with better spiritual leadership than we feared a year or two ago. While the return to normal may not be as speedy as with that other idealistic calling, teaching, yet we have assurance that it is coming. The time for wise and devoted efforts to recruit men for the ministry has not passed, but we are beyond the acute period of ministerial shortage.

There is now ground for hope for the churches in the clear revelation that has come of the value of other fellowships and the necessity for co-operation. There has been a large increase in New England in the number of church federations. And while federation is not a panacea, and while in some quarters we may need to make haste slowly and assimilate that which has been accomplished before attempting further expansion, yet the progress of federation indicates the momentum that is coming to each body of churches through fellowship with other communions. The words "all one body we" may be sung with more truthfulness than a few years ago. The sense of oneness has greatly increased. And in this fellowship there is incentive and promise for the new time. While these past years can hardly be called years of tolerance, yet certain forces have been moving us on to a more tolerant and co-operative time.

And so in the work of pastoral supply, with its burdens and its rewards, its lack of perception of real conditions on the part of those with whom we have to deal, and its generous recognition of results achieved and difficulties in the way, with its changing standards of pastoral efficiency because of new times and new demands and yet with its clear goal to do the best possible for the churches, with its ever present pressure for special favor and yet with honest endeavor "to secure for the Congregational churches the most effective pastoral service," we render our report in the hope that our "labor is not in vain in the Lord."

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE BOARD OF MINISTERIAL AID

On the roll, January 1, 1921, there were twenty-four men and forty-five women, total sixty-nine, of whom one man and three women were enrolled for the first time. There were added during the year eight men and four women, total twelve, not including one man to whom payment was made January 1, as for October 1.

Special temporary aid was given to two men.

During the year, four men and four women died, total eight. Of these, one man was given aid for the first time during the year. One of the men was Rev. Joseph Kimball, whose generous gifts have come to our treasury for permanent fund. The widows of two of the men who died were enrolled later as beneficiaries, and a third has been enrolled for 1922.

The total payments for the year were $15,544.69.

On the Christmas Fund, December, 1921, seventy-three beneficiaries received the full amount, $35. There were three who received aid from other boards, national or state, who received the proportionate share on account of our grants. The total payments on the Christmas Fund were $2,617.50.

The relation between the National Board of Ministerial Aid and our Board continues to be eminently satisfactory. Both the National Board and our Board are seeking to increase the amounts given to our beneficiaries. This ought to be done in order to lighten the burdens of the men and women on our roll.

The Executive Committee at a recent meeting made grants for seventy-three beneficiaries, and we have increased the grant to twenty-four of the beneficiaries. Many have been increased only slightly, from $30 to $90 additional. Some measures ought to be taken by the churches in our state to increase the contributions for ministerial relief. A great many of our pastors, by reason of aid and other circumstances, are kept from sharing in the Annuity Fund, and these pastors and their widows must be helped, and so an effort ought to be made to make a stronger appeal to our churches to meet the full apportionment for the ministerial relief.

In a recent letter from Dr. Charles S. Mills, Secretary of the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief, he states " that the Methodist Boards had an income of $2,350,000, Presbyterian Boards, $1,000,000, Baptist Boards, $680,000, legacies are omitted in each case; also, interest on money in the Annuity Fund, paid by the ministers themselves, as we were concerned in the comparison with contributions by the churches only.

"It is a great reproach to us that we are so far behind the other denominations. There is quite a wide-spread feeling that we are in affluent circumstances because of the Pilgrim Memorial Fund. The answer is that the Pilgrim Memorial Fund does not affect the Board of Relief, that if we so applied it we should leave the central problem unsolved, that the Pilgrim Memorial Fund is ultimately to remove the present tragedy of the minister's old age, leaving the Board of Relief to deal with emergencies and such men as cannot make use of the provisions of the Annuity Fund, but that meanwhile we must not simply keep the Board of Relief where it is today, but greatly increase its resources to meet the conditions set forth in the enclosed. The low grants must be made greater. Provisions must be made for the rapid increase of applicants and for the enlarged policy which, I think we can be assured, every self-respecting man will uphold."

"At a recent meeting of the Executive Committee of the Commission on Missions, it was voted to increase the apportionment of the Board of Relief from two per cent to three per cent. This was done in a fine spirit and with absolute unanimity."

Every pastor ought to see that the full apportionment for the Board of Ministerial Relief is met.

In behalf of the Executive Committee of the Massachusetts Board of Ministerial Aid,

F. E. EMRICH, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE BOSTON SEAMAN'S FRIEND SOCIETY

The work of this Society for the past year has been most gratifying in its results. No single year in the history of the Society, with the exception of the war period, has seen so many men enjoying the privileges of the Sailor's Rest as during the past twelve months. The reason for this is not far to seek.

For more than a year maritime commerce has been at a low ebb due to the world-wide business depression. Nearly two thirds of the United States Shipping Board boats are tied up, while many privately owned ships are in a like situation. This condition means that thousands of seamen have been without employment for months and are in a state of dire destitution. These men in their extremity have looked to this ancient sailor welfare organization for help, and were not disappointed.

In the Society's ministrations to the sailor lads, our workers have had constantly in mind the needs of the whole man. He needed food, clothing and shelter. Money could buy these for him. He needed, too, that his morale be kept up. It is so easy when one is discouraged to give up the struggle to maintain one's character and self-respect. Sympathy and good cheer wisely supplied by our Chaplains and their assistants have strengthened the wavering spirits of many disheartened seamen. The mariner needed most, however, the religion of Jesus Christ in his heart as a moral motive power for sane, wholesome, Christian living. By religious services and personal work many a man has been reached and inspired to walk in the path that leads to the redeemed and glorified life.

The testimony of a Pittsburg sailor is typical of the spiritual work constantly being done by the Society's staff of workers:

> "I can't begin to tell you what this place (Sailor's Rest) has meant to me during the past year. A year ago, I came to Boston a dissipated and reckless man. I was taken sick and the friends I found here cared for me. I lost my ship, and work was found for me. Through the Christian influences of the workers at the Rest, I have forsaken my evil ways and am living an industrious life."

Today, this sailor is an earnest, clean, ambitious, religious man. The mother of this lad was so grateful for the help her son had received, that she came from her home in western Pennsylvania to thank our workers for reclaiming her boy. This grateful mother furnished a beautiful bouquet of flowers for the Society's opening concert in October. This incident is by no means an exceptional one, but is repeated many times over in the course of the year, both at Boston and at our Vineyard Haven Bethel.

The religious services the past season have been attended by 21,595, a larger number of men than in any year of which the Society has record. As the fiscal year ends April 30th, it is possible to furnish the figures for only eleven months of the Society's activities.

No less than 13,425 men have enjoyed the concerts and entertainments. The churches, schools and colleges have generously provided an abundance of splendid talent for the entertainment of their sailor friends.

Over 10,000 seamen have utilized our dormitory privileges. Free beds have been furnished for those who were unable to pay. The canteen facilities have been greatly enlarged, so that it has been possible to serve at cost, for those able to pay and gratis to those without funds, thousands of good, nutritious meals.

During the past season, thousands of sailor lads have found, under trying and discouraging conditions, a haven of refuge at the Sailor's Rest, 287 Hanover Street, and at our Bethel at Vineyard Haven, where warm-hearted friends have ministered unto their hungry bodies and aching hearts.

The attention of the Conference is called to the action of the National Council at Los Angeles last July, when the following resolution was unanimously passed:

> "Resolved: — That it is the sense of this Council that the important work being done by the Boston Seaman's Friend > Society, a Congregational agency of ninety-three years standing, is deserving of the moral and financial support of the churches of our order. The activity being one for a migratory group of men — a distinctively home missionary effort — it is hereby recommended that the work of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society be referred to the National Home Missionary Society to determine its place in the denomination's plan of benevolence and to make such provision for its support as shall be deemed necessary by the National Society."

After serious consideration by the Executive Committee of the National Home Missionary Society and in consultation with the officers of this Society, the Executive Committee recommended to the Commission on Missions the following resolutions:

> "Voted: — That it is the judgment of the Commission that the Boston Seaman's Friend Society should be so reorganized that the churches through their representatives shall control it, if it is to be supported regularly by the Congregational churches.
> "Voted: — That the Commission recommend to the six New England State Conferences an apportionment of $25,000 for the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, in addition to the national apportionment, to be distributed among the states in the ratio of the national apportionment."

These resolutions were adopted at the meeting of the Commission on Missions held at Chicago in January. The recommendation of the Committee will come up for consideration and action at this year's annual meetings of the New England State Conferences.

At the February meeting of the Board of Managers of this Society, it was voted to reorganize the Society in accord with the Commission's recommendation. A Committee on reorganization was appointed. This Committee reported a new set of By-Laws for the consideration of the Board at its March meeting. After thorough discussion the new By-Laws were adopted, subject to the approval of the several states.

These By-Laws will place the entire conduct of the work in the hands of a corporation whose voting membership will consist (a) of thirty-six members, elected by the State Conferences as follows: — Massachusetts, 15; Connecticut, 9; Maine, 3; Vermont, 3; New Hampshire, 3; Rhode Island, 3; and (b) six members at large elected by these and a secretary and treasurer, who if not already members shall become such ex officio.

Upon the Executive Committee chosen by the corporation to supervise the work, each state shall have at least one representative.

Printed copies of these By-Laws may be had at the Conference. Additional copies can be had on application.

MERRITT A. FARREN, Corresponding Secretary.

REPORT OF MISSIONARY AND APPORTIONMENT COMMITTEE

At the meeting in Lawrence a year ago the State Conference for the second time accepted an apportionment of $1,087,500 as its share of the $5,000,000 asked by the Congregational World Movement for the pressing needs of our missionary enterprises. This action was taken almost without debate, the debate later centering about the relation of the apportionment plan to the churches, and the machinery of the Congregational World Movement. As to the first, the Conference re-affirmed its position " that any apportionment is to be considered by the churches and their members as a suggestion of their share of their responsibilities, but in no sense shall they be regarded as an assessment or a tax." But the Conference also recognized " the principle of our fellowship and its call to co-operate in some constructive plan to provide adequately for the needs and opportunities of our missionary work."

As to the Congregational World Movement the sense of the Conference was for the changes which later were made by the National Council at the Los Angeles meeting, in which the work of the Congregational World Movement was put into the hands of the Commission on Missions, thus avoiding the duplication of machinery.

How have the Massachusetts churches responded to this second call for $1,087,500? In their answer is much of encouragement. The total contributions for the year 1921 as reported to date are $677,279, as against a total of $611,256 in 1920. This is an increase of $16,023. Not a large increase surely; but when we remember that this was accomplished in a year of deflation and business depression, and without the special drive of the Interchurch and Congregational World Movements, it is significant that the churches have not only held their own, but have even made a slight advance. With returning normal conditions in business, and with gradual completion of payments to the Pilgrim Memorial Fund (the figures of which are not included in above totals) still further gains should be looked for.

And yet the fact remains that we have by no means reached our objective in the state, only something over one half — 61.7 per cent to be exact. While we have gone far beyond the figures of the old apportionment, on the $2,000,000 basis, we are none the less far below the new figures. What ought we to do under these circumstances?

Your committee has carefully canvassed the whole situation, trying to take all the facts into account. We cannot feel that the apportionment for our state is excessive, or beyond our resources in the churches, if every church could be enlisted, and all in every church might be brought to know and face the facts of our missionary work. With our present membership in the state a per capita gift of $7.59 would raise the whole apportionment. That should not be impossible.

On the other hand, from every side reports come to our committee, both from Associational chairmen and from individual churches that the apportionments to the several churches are in most cases so far beyond the past giving of the churches that instead of being an incentive for effort, it is a discouragement of effort. We hear: "Give us an apportionment that there is some hope of our reaching and there will be far more incentive to make the effort, and attain much better results."

Whether this is true only experience can tell. With the old apportionment of $2,000,000 the experience of the State is as follows: that it was attained in Massachusetts by a succession of steps, in which the whole apportionment was not adopted the first year of the Apportionment Plan, but a certain percentage of it the first year, an increase over that the second, and so on. It was originally planned to take five years in which to reach the total asking of $2,000,000, but at the beginning of the fourth year, under the stress of the needs of the societies under war conditions, a double raise was made, and the whole apportionment accepted. The result was, under this plan of gradually raising the percentage until the whole was apportioned, a progressive movement of the giving of Massachusetts churches until the apportionment of $2,000,000 was reached and passed.

Would some such plan be helpful now? Under the general insistence that the present figures are impossibly high under present conditions, your committee is ready to recommend that it be tried, as follows: that for the year 1923 our state accept 75 per cent of the total askings of $1,087,500, having in mind that the following year it be 87½ per cent, and in 1925 the full 100 per cent. By that time the churches will have finished their payments on the Pilgrim Memorial Fund, and should be capable of much larger giving.

Now such a reduction for 1923 might seem a retreat and a confession of failure if it is not regarded as simply a step by means of which the churches may be encouraged to reach the larger goal. It should further be remembered that 75 per cent of the total askings for our state would be a great advance over the giving of last year, if that percentage were fully raised.

Of course it never will be raised if we are content to reduce our apportionment for 1923, and stop short at that. It can only be raised by adding to this a more intensive program of missionary education, a business-like weekly pledge system for missions, an every-member canvass once a year, an adoption of a true stewardship program, and more attention to those churches which have either contributed meagrely in proportion to their means, or else have contributed nothing at all.

Your committee feels that the promotion of such a program cannot be done adequately either by your state committee, or the associational committees working alone, or with the assistance of a volunteer Regional Director, who, no matter how efficient, is fully occupied with the responsibilities of his own office in another capacity. We believe that our Conference should request that the National Commission on Missions should assign a director to Massachusetts for the promotion of the apportionment, and missionary education.

Your committee has held three meetings during the year, one in Worcester, two in Boston. One of these was in connection with the annual conference with the Associational Apportionment and Missionary Committees in which after thorough discussion it was voted to re-apportion the sum of $1,087,500 for Massachusetts to the several associations on the same basis as in 1921. Nearly all of the associations have reported as accepting their apportionments, or, in some cases, a slightly smaller sum.

Besides sending the apportionments to the associations, the committee has printed and sent out a sheet showing the percentages for distribution, with names of Society treasurers, and the general treasurer, Walter E. Bell — a sheet most helpful for church treasurers. The display chart has also been compiled and distributed. This year it contains all sums received for the work of the societies, including contributions for the Congregational World Movement received in 1921, but not including payments on the Pilgrim Memorial Fund. The value of these charts largely depends upon the use made of them in the local churches.

Your committee gratefully recognizes the cordial support and co-operation of the great majority of our churches and their pastors, and the splendid work done by many of the Associational Committees and their Chairman. Their work speaks for itself in the figures of the chart. Dr. Patton and the other six secretaries at 14 Beacon St., have given helpful service as opportunity offered. Dr. Hodgdon as regional director for the New England district, since the first of the year, has been coming into touch with his field, and his service will be increasingly valuable.

In closing your committee submit the following recommendations for consideration and action:

1. It was voted that while agreeing that the amount assigned to Massachusetts for 1922, $1,087,500, is a fair share that the State should assume of the $5,000,000 goal, the Missionary and Apportionment Committee recommend that the State Conference adopt for 1923, 75 per cent of the sum of $1,087,500 as the amount to be provided among the Churches. This is the recommendation for 1923, having in mind the following scale,

75 per cent for 1923
87½ per cent for 1924
100 per cent for 1925

2. The Committee went on record that the State Conference should request that the National Commission on Missions assign a director to Massachusetts for the promotion of the apportionment and missionary education, in consultation with the Missionary and Apportionment Committee of the State Conference.

3. That the scale of percentages by which the funds raised are distributed among the various constituent objects included in our Congregational Forward Movement for 1922, be left to the decision of the State Committee on Apportionment in co-operation with the National Commission on Missions. This seems to be the wise course in view of the possibility that some modifications in that scale of percentages may have to be made in certain States in order to maintain equity of distribution among the various Congregational Societies.

4. That the usual appropriation of $250. for the work of this Committee during the ensuing year be voted by the Conference.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FEDERATION OF CHURCHES AND CO-OPERATION WITH OTHER DENOMINATIONS

Your committee has represented the Conference in the voting membership of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches in both the annual meeting of the Council in November and the special meeting of the Council in March. In these meetings expression has been given to the Christian conscience of the Commonwealth in matters relating to moral and social welfare and international peace. We have reason to believe that some of these utterances have had their effect in the policies of the Commonwealth and the Nation. It is our feeling that the churches of our fellowship should not be content with this representative expression, but should exert their influence directly toward the promotion of the same interests.

These are times of heightened denominational self-consciousness; there are threats of theological controversy. It is therefore the more important that we should express in every way possible our unity of purpose and our desire to co-operate in all good endeavors. We would urge that the spirit of co-operation be made manifest in local groups of churches, and that in every community having more than one Protestant church there should be a local federation, by whatever name it may be called, which will bring together and make more surely effective in their common tasks the Christian forces of the community.

We present the following recommendations:

I. That a similar committee of thirty, one-half of whom shall be ministers and one half laymen, be appointed for the coming year to represent the Conference in the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, and that the chairman of that committee be authorized to designate alternates for those members who cannot attend the meetings of the Council of the Federation, as such shall be called.

II. That a sum equal to two dollars for each church in the Conference be appropriated for the support of the Federation.

JOHN J. WALKER,
ARTHUR J. COVELL,
EDWIN STOCKIN,

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON EVANGELISM

One of the most gratifying features of the work of our Congregational churches during the year has been the continued and increased emphasis on Evangelism. This indicates a recognition of the fact that however important it may be, social service and general Institutional features, in the work of the churches, can never take the place of the Evangelistic appeal.

The National Committee deserves the greatest credit for its hearty co-operation in this work and its suggestive methods and helps. The work of the State Committee has been greatly reduced just because the National Committee has so largely covered the ground. Our particular work has been to re-enforce and especially emphasize what the National Committee has so admirably presented.

Your Committee is convinced that methods may easily be overemphasized while the importance of the fact may not be duly recognized. It is not a matter of so great importance that we should adopt this or that method of reaching the unconverted as it is that we do the thing aggressively, confidently and give it special prominence in our program of service.

Somewhat extended inquiry has lead your Committee to believe that there is danger of losing the primary significance of Evangelism and that it may easily degenerate into a mere Church Membership Campaign. If the word " Evangelism " has any significance it is to be found in John 3 : 16. and also that other part of Christ's answer to Nicodemus, " Ye must be born again." The experiences of the last five years are not calculated to lead any one to believe that human nature has advanced in Godliness to a point where the immediate and direct work of the Holy Spirit in the heart is made unnecessary. We urge therefore, that this word shall be given its rightful significance and that when we think of Evangelism we shall think of it in terms of Redemption.

In so far as our individual activity in Evangelism is concerned, there is one supreme objective ever to be held in view, namely, unreserved surrender to Christ and commitment to God. All of our effort must be directed to this one end, so far as Evangelism is concerned. The Church may well emphasize to each individual member the fact that witness-bearing for Christ involves in addition to a Godly life, definite personal appeal to the unconverted to become true Disciples of Jesus Christ.

Your Committee is glad to note that more and more church-wide evangelism is receiving attention. Here and here alone will we be able to solve the " unemployment problem " in religion. There are scores of people who seem to think unless they are given official recognition or some sort of committee work to do they are absolved from all responsibility. Church members should be taught that nothing less than distinct and definite evangelistic purpose on the part of each one can fulfill responsibility. It is indeed the greatest work in the world and the most important for the individual disciple. In this line of activity, we find the secret of Church unity and Church growth. Jesus said, " Follow Me and I will make you fishers of men." The church member who is not fishing is not following.

There is an almost inexplicable timidity on the part of many pastors which leads them to hesitate to make the personal appeal in connection with church services. It is however a well nigh universal experience that ventures of faith in this direction are abundantly rewarded. We plead therefore for a greater spirit of venture, a greater confidence in the power of the Gospel to secure response and above all else, absolute faith in the drawing power of the Exalted Christ. The one irresistible appeal which secures large congregations and is blessed with immediate and permanent results is the old, old appeal, — " Come to Jesus." We pray that a brighter and greater day may dawn in Christendom when the centrality and power of the Cross will be recognized by all believers and the blessed Saviour shall come to His own.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MORAL AND SOCIAL WELFARE

Your committee has, during the past year, directed its main interest towards the two issues of the Conference on Limitation of Armaments and the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. Both through correspondence and in meetings, the members have tried to shape a comprehensive policy, along these lines.

The possibility of circulating through the medium of The Congregationalist a petition voicing the approval of Congregationalism in Massachusetts and even farther afield, of the Washington Conference, was thoroughly discussed. The matter was taken up with our denominational social service department; with the secretary of the National Council; and with the editor of The Congregationalist. It was finally decided that such a move would simply be a duplication of similar work done by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. The committee itself, however, had a certain amount of correspondence with President Harding and members of the Conference.

On the matter of prohibition, the committee sent out circular letters to the Congregational ministers of Massachusetts; secured the insertion of editorials in our denominational paper; appeared at various hearings at the State House; and answered a number of inquiries from Congregationalists of the state. At the time of the controversy between two of the officials of the Massachusetts Enforcement Office, the committee became convinced that no public stand on their part was called for.

Other matters, such as the enforcement of the Sunday Amusement Law, county training schools, etc., are still under discussion in the committee, at the time this report goes to the secretary of our state conference.

The committee wants to express its deep satisfaction at the manifest interest which Congregational people all over the state took in the Washington Conference and are taking in the matters of the enforcement of prohibition and the Sunday Amusement Laws. The committee requests an appropriation of $75 to defray its expenses during the coming year.

WILLIAM W. PATTON, Secretary,

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION AND YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK

The work of the committee this year has been included largely under the following heads for each of which a sub-committee has been appointed.

1. A Young People's Rally at the State Conference in Fitchburg.
2. Life work literature.
3. Young People's Rallies independently and at district associations.
4. Week day religious education.

1. Young People's Rally at the State Conference. The rally on May 17, 1921, in connection with the Massachusetts Congregational Conference at Lawrence was such a distinct success that it seemed wise to make it, if possible, a permanent feature of the conference. The young people assembled with box lunches in the vestry of Trinity Church where general good fellowship was enjoyed and greetings and toasts given until the time for the evening service. The main service was addressed by Dr. Frank M. Sheldon and Rev. Enoch F. Bell. A count of the delegations of young people showed that 346 had come in groups from various churches, the following churches having delegations of twenty-five or more.

Andover Free Church,	25
Hyde Park,	29
Lowell Eliot-Union,	27

This was probably the first time in the history of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference that a young people's rally was ever held in connection therewith. It seems wise for the present to hold the young people's rally as a distinct service. In fact, it would have probably been impossible to accommodate both congregations at Lawrence in one building.

Plans for the rally at Fitchburg have been put into the hands of a special committee headed by Rev. F. L. Cooper of Lawrence who is very generously giving time and energy to acquaint the young people of the state with the general plan, and to secure the co-operation of the young people in the Fitchburg district to make the meeting a success. At the time of going to press with this report plans are not entirely completed.

2. Life work literature.

Last year the conference passed a motion requesting the state committee to prepare or recommend literature dealing with the enlistment of young people in the ministry or other forms of Christian service. The sub-committee appointed for this purpose suggests the following literature:

I. Pamphlets

1. What Shall I do with My Life. — F. M. Sheldon. (Congregational Education Society.)
2. Jobs for Men — A Statement of Actual Positions to be filled. (Congregational Education Society.)
3. But Why Preach? — Abridged from Harper's Magazine, June, 1921.
4. The World a Field for Christian Service. — Sidney A. Weston. (First Year Senior International Graded Course.)

II. Books Giving the Broader Aspects of this Problem

1. " Vocations Within the Church." — Crawford.
2. " Choosing a Vocation." — Parsons.
3. " Vocational Guidance." — Bloomfield.
4. " Vocational Guidance." — Puffer.
5. " Vocations for Girls." — La Salle and Wiley.
6. " Vocational Education." — Gillett.
7. " What can Young Men Do." — Rollins.

This question has also been treated in various series of articles published in The Wellspring.

In co-operation with the committee the Education Society sent out early in February the leaflet " Present Day Opportunities for Christian Life Service " to all the pastors. The committee especially recommended to the pastors the following leaflets: " From One Parent to Another," " But Why Preach." " What Shall I do with My Life." The work of this committee is to be continued and the chairman, Rev. Arthur W. Bailey, will be glad to receive suggestions as to the needs of the young people in the churches.

3. Young People's Rallies. The emphasis this year has been upon securing rallies in connection with the district meetings throughout the state. Many of the associations have responded favorably and some are planning rallies for the spring or fall meetings. Others are presenting the matter of religious education and young people's work by addresses and discussion on the regular program. It is hoped that these rallies will be continued during the coming year. The committee stands ready to suggest plans for the rallies and speakers for the program.

4. Week day religious instruction. The sub-committee on week day religious instruction sent several questions to the churches of the state asking for a statement of their attitude, and of any work done in the matter of week day instruction or vacation Bible schools. The replies received indicate a very deep interest in the whole problem. Many of the pastors wrote long and careful letters explaining the local situation, and suggested how the committee and Education Society can be of help. Of the forty-one churches reporting, only the following five have regular week day religious instruction:

First Church, Chelsea (Saturday mornings).
Eliot Church, Roxbury. (A careful program for boys and girls separately.)
Riverside Church, Haverhill (for 7th and 8th grades).
Mystic Side, Everett (send pupils to Malden school).
Hyde Park (one hour a week for all grades through high school).

Three conduct or participate in a Daily Vacation Bible School. Many however, say that they are hoping to start week day instruction soon.

The committee would recommend to churches and pastors, —

1. The careful study of week day religious instruction and the beginning of it where feasible.

2. The encouragement of young people's participation in summer conferences, community training schools, and young people's rallies.

3. The strengthening of the church school standards and the requirement of home work.

The committee recommends to the State Conference, —

1. That the National Secretary of Missionary Education be ex-officio a member of this committee.

2. That an appropriation of $150 be made for the work of the committee in the year 1922–23.

3. That week day religious education be a theme for a half day session at the conference in 1923.

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Your committee has held but one meeting since the last conference session. Two changes were made in the committees as elected at the annual meeting. William S. O'Brien of Abington was substituted for James E. Miller of Warren, on the Committee on Evangelistic Work, and Mrs. Millacent Yarrow was added to the Committee on Religious Education.

Frank Gaylord Cook of Cambridge and Rev. Howard A. Bridgman of Boston, were made Conference delegates to the National Council. It was ordered that all vacancies that may occur during the remainder of the year be filled by the Conference secretary.

The treasurer's bond for $3,000 was renewed. Rev. H. L. Packard and Rev. H. G. Hale were made the Committee on Finance. The matter of printing and distribution of the Minutes and other literature was put into the hands of the Conference secretary to carry out the same as last year.

For the Committee,

FRANCIS J. MARSH, Secretary.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RURAL CONDITIONS

While population has been concentrating in cities, and America has been changing from an agricultural to a manufacturing nation, attention is being focussed upon rural life as never before by leaders and experts. Reports are printed and circulated, and some constructive action is resulting. Already a new departure is in evidence towards a scientific and experimental survey of the objective field, leading to action and demonstration.

Your committee feels that there is need of more aggressiveness on the part of churches and pastors, in view of the vital issues, and far reaching implications of the rural problem.

The nature of the problem demands co-operation and comity among all the denominations in the study and solution of the great complexity of questions that arise. Efficiency and organization go hand in hand. It has seemed good that representative Christian interests should get together under the common impulse of community welfare and deep spiritual purpose. Accordingly, and as an outgrowth of a movement for several years in operation, an institute for country clergymen and others interested in rural welfare was held at the Agricultural College, Amherst, Easter Week.

The following agencies co-operated: the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society; the State Federation of Churches; the Methodist Episcopal Home Mission Board; the American Unitarian Association; the Baptist Church Home Mission Board; the Department of Missions of the Episcopal Church; the State Department of Public Libraries; the State Department of Public Health; the State Agricultural College.

Several members of this committee were in attendance at this Conference and testify of its unusual helpfulness. We feel we should go on record as definitely approving of this movement, and pledge our full support for next year. To this end, we recommend that our State Conference authorize its Committee on Rural Conditions to use whatever means seem best to create on the part of our churches and pastors an interest in this Institute.

Again; This committee recognizes a serious condition growing up around the larger towns which are surrounded by farming communities, where there is a strong church at the center, and a fairly large constituency in the town itself. Because of the demands made upon the pastor for service within the town itself the outskirts are neglected. There is a " no man's land " from three to five miles from neighboring towns that becomes no one's particular concern.

Attempts have been made to meet this situation. The committee believes that at some strategic point a demonstration of the larger parish plan might be tried to see whether definite work by one especially appointed to that task would result in the church itself eventually assuming the care of that larger field. The committee is led to believe that it would. Could that demonstration be worked out and the results produced at the next annual meeting of the Conference, other churches would try it.

To this end then, we recommend that the Conference authorize the Committee on Rural Conditions to use whatever means seem best to develop such a demonstration center.

For the Committee,

HENRY E. OXNARD, Chairman.

STATISTICAL TABLES

EXPLANATORY

The tables which follow comprise:

1. The statistics of the churches, giving the ministers, church membership, additions removals, baptisms, Sunday schools and families; the statistics of the Young People's Societies; the amount of benevolences and expenses. These tables, in accordance with the vote of the Association, in 1887, are made to conform to those in the Year-Book; but names in the pastoral column are changed according to the latest information before going to press.

2. The Associations of the churches, with the names of officers and the times of meeting.

3. The Ministerial Standing, giving the date of ordination of each minister, the date of membership, the residence and his "employment." "P. C." means pastor by council; "P.," pastor otherwise; "W. C." means without church; "Prof." means professor; "C. M.," church missionary; "T.," teacher; other abbreviations are self-evident. "W. C.," however, includes many who have retired from active service, and some who are in business.

4. The Ministerial Record, containing lists of ordinations, installations, dismissals, and deaths.

The tables of the first part contain the names of all the Congregational churches in Massachusetts, the towns and cities being arranged alphabetically; churches in each town according to age.

Church members and families are reported as numbered January 1, 1922. Admissions, removals and baptisms cover the year 1921. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females" and "total," but included in them. "Sunday school" includes total membership of officers, teachers and scholars, January 1, 1921, or when the school is in operation (if not at that date), covering "branch schools," "mission schools" and "home departments," so far as maintained by the reporting church.

The months and days in the dates of the organization of churches are omitted. They will be found in the publications of 1873, those of churches since organized being given in the "Minutes" of each year. Also the months and days in the dates of ordination and installation of ministers are omitted. The former may be found in the lists of the local Associations which follow the tables.

"Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry by the "laying-on of hands." "Commenced" denotes the date of the beginning of his present pastorate.

In accordance with the recommendation of the National Council, in the Statistical Tables pastors installed are marked "i."; pastors recognized by a council called for that purpose are marked "r."; pastors duly called by their churches, but not installed or recognized by council, are not marked.

Blanks in any column of figures are never equivalent to "none," but mean "no report"; but blanks in the column of ministers do mean that the church has no pastor or acting pastor, and the blank is left for the convenience of those who note changes.

Note. — The "year" means what changes were comprised in the twelve months preceding January 1 of the year mentioned. The table was begun in 1866, all preceding years now given being compiled from past "Minutes," — the number of churches in some years varying from the "Minutes" as they were to what they should have been.

The changes in list of churches, ordinations, installations, etc., for the past year, condensed in the above table, are given in detail in their proper place.

* Prior to 1876 "acting pastors" are included in "others" in columns of deaths of ministers.

V. CONTINUED TABLE OF SUMMARIES

In the above table, the columns of "Additions," "Removals," "Baptisms," and "Benevolent Contributions" cover the twelve months next preceding January 1 of the year mentioned in a given line. The number of churches, members, and of Sunday Schools was enumerated January 1 of the year mentioned. Previous to 1903 the number of churches "Vacant" includes all churches supplied by licentiates, or ministers of other denominations. Beginning with 1903, churches supplied by licentiates, or by ministers of other denominations, are counted "supplied." For Churches, Membership and Sunday-School Membership, for 1830, 1835, 1840, 1845, 1850, 1855 and 1860, see "Minutes" of 1900.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF MINISTERS

This list gives the names of pastors, or acting pastors, and of all Congregational ministers who are members of the Associations or Conferences that guard ministerial standing.

Ministers who are not reported as having ministerial standing in this state, and who have not been installed by council, are designated by a star (*). This does NOT mean that the man has no ministerial standing.

The first column of figures gives the page on which names may be found of all in pastoral service. A blank in the first column signifies that the person is not reported as being in pastoral service in this state.

The second column of figures gives the page on which ministerial standing is recorded.

The post-office addresses as given below often differ from the places named in the tables, and are supposed to be correct in this list.

An alphabetical list of licentiates follows this list.

SPECIAL NOTICE. — IF your name is not correctly printed in the preceding tables, IF one Christian name is not given in full, IF your ordination is not correct or is not in its proper place, IF your post-office is wrong, or IF before you receive the next Year-Book your post-office is changed, or IF your name is omitted from this list, the needed change or correction should be reported at once to the Rev. Henry Lincoln Bailey, Longmeadow, Mass., Secretary of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference..

EDITOR'S NOTE

The editor wishes first to ask readers to read footnotes in order to save time, postage and vexation. The use of the star (*) against a minister's name does not mean that he is a star preacher; neither is it a derogatory symbol as some infer. In the Year Book tables, pp. 2–35, it means that the minister has two or more Congregational churches under his pastoral care. In the index, pp. 65–71, it indicates that the minister has not entrusted his ministerial standing to a Massachusetts association, and has not been "recognized" or installed by a council. Ministerial standing, like church membership, has to carry a long list of absent members; and valid arguments about transfers for laymen are equally valid in the minister's standing.

The Executive Committee gives notice of another proposed amendment to the Rules whereby section 1 of Article V would be changed to permit each church to send three delegates instead of one, two of them to be young people under the age of 25, these two to have voice but not vote.

The Conference secretary records with gratitude some random instances in recent months of a church clerk informing him of the resignation, calling, or death, of a pastor. The secretary is not omniscient, and the public press is not infallible. A postal-card to the secretary to advise of a minister's accepting a call, resigning, change of address, or being settled or dismissed or ordained by council, would be of great value in statistical work.

The Minutes are late this year, owing partly to a division of the printing between two widely separated plants, but more to the secretary's added duties in connection with the National Council meeting this year. But there are advantages in a fall issue over one in midsummer, for the pastoral changes have been brought as completely as possible up to September 1 or even beyond.

RULES OF THE CONFERENCE

ARTICLE I. — Name

This body shall be called The Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

ARTICLE II. — Object

Its object is to promote (a) intercourse and fellowship between Congregational ministers and churches of the Commonwealth; (b) the cooperation of the churches with one another for their mutual comfort and development, and for the religious care of the home field; (c) the presentation and discussion of matters vital to our faith, and the interests of our denomination; and (d) the cooperation of this body with other ecclesiastical bodies for the general increase of Christian union and spiritual efficiency, and the advancement of Christ's kingdom in the earth.

ARTICLE III. — Doctrinal Basis

This Conference declares its steadfast allegiance to the faith which our fathers confessed, which, from age to age, has found its expression in the historic creeds of the Church Universal and of this Communion.

ARTICLE IV. — Denominational Basis

Being based exclusively upon Congregational principles, this Conference shall, under no circumstances, exercise ecclesiastical authority over churches or individuals, or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches, or consent to hear appeals, or give advice in ecclesiastical causes of any kind.

ARTICLE V. — Members

1. Each evangelical Congregational Church, Conference, and Association in this Commonwealth may choose one delegate, and these delegates, together with the pastor or pastors of each church (who shall be members ex officio), the officers and committee members of this body, two delegates from the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, one from the Board of Ministerial Aid, one from the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, one from Andover Theological Seminary, and one from the Board of Pastoral Supply, shall constitute the Conference.

2. Delegates from corresponding bodies and persons appointed to speak before the Conference, together with such other persons as the Conference may vote to admit, shall be honorary members, with the privilege of speaking, but without vote.

ARTICLE VI. — Officers

1. The officers shall be a Moderator, a Vice-Moderator, a Secretary, a Registrar, an Assistant Registrar, and a Treasurer. All members of Congregational churches in this Commonwealth shall be eligible to any of these offices. The officers shall be elected by ballot, the Moderator and Vice-Moderator each to serve one year, the other officers each to serve three years and until the election of their successors. The terms of all officers, save when chosen to fill vacancies, shall begin at the close of the meeting at which they are elected.

2. The officers, together with three delegates annually chosen by ballot for this purpose, shall constitute an Executive Committee.

3. The Moderator, or in his absence, the Vice-Moderator, shall preside over all the meetings of the Conference and shall be chairman of the Executive Committee.

4. (a) The Secretary shall conduct the correspondence of the Conference, collect and publish in connection with the annual " Minutes " the statistics of ministers and churches, distribute the publications of the Conference, copies of which he shall preserve for permanent use, give suitable notice to the churches of the time and place of each annual meeting, notify officers and committees of their election or appointment, and fulfill such other functions as the Conference may from time to time direct.

(b) The Secretary shall receive a salary of twelve hundred dollars, and by the authority and under the direction of the Executive Committee, he may, when necessary, employ an assistant, at a compensation to be fixed by the Executive Committee.

5. The Registrar shall keep a full record of each meeting, which he shall preserve as the permanent property of the Conference, and he shall also keep the minutes of the Executive Committee.

6. The Assistant Registrar shall aid the Registrar in making the records; shall take his place during his absence; and, in the event of a vacancy in the Registrar's office, shall act as Registrar until the office shall be filled by the Executive Committee or by a regular election.

7. The Treasurer shall receive all money raised for the use of the Conference, disburse the same as directed by the Executive Committee and shall make an annual report, to be audited as the Conference may direct.

8. The Executive Committee shall have charge of all the interests and business of the Conference between the annual meetings, shall fill all vacancies occurring during the interim, and shall make an annual report to the Conference.

9. The traveling expenses of the Secretary, Registrar, Assistant Registrar and Treasurer, in attending the annual meetings, shall be paid by the Conference.

ARTICLE VII. — Trustees

1. A board of five Trustees shall also be elected, two to serve three years, two to serve two years, and one to serve one year; and on each election succeeding the first, the successors of those whose terms expire shall be chosen for three years and until others are appointed in their stead by ballot; and all members of Congregational churches in this state shall be eligible thereto.

2. The Board of Trustees shall hold and manage trust funds for the benefit of the Conference and perform such duties as may be prescribed by vote of the Conference for their government, making an annual report to the Conference. The Trustees may receive such property, real and personal, as may be given to the Conference or to the Board of Trustees to be invested, used, and managed in such manner as the Conference shall from time to time direct; and in the absence of such vote of the Conference, in such manner as a majority of the Trustees shall by vote determine at any regular or special meeting of the Board of Trustees, for the use and benefit of the objects of the Conference.

ARTICLE VIII. — Annual Meeting

The annual meeting shall be held at the appointed place on the third Monday of May at two o'clock P.M., or at such other hour as the Executive Committee may find expedient.

ARTICLE IX. — Organization

The Moderator or, in his absence, the Vice-Moderator, shall call the Conference to order. In the absence of both, any member of the Executive Committee may call the Conference to order, and a moderator pro tem shall be chosen to serve during the absence of the proper officer.

ARTICLE X. — Committees

1. Immediately after the opening of the annual meeting the Moderator shall appoint: —

(a) A Committee on Credentials, to which all credentials shall be referred.

(b) A Business Committee, the duty of which shall be to prepare and present all matters of business at each session, not presented through some other committee of the Conference. All matters of business presented by any member of the Conference shall be referred to the Business Committee unless ordered to some other committee by the Conference. All matters of business referred to any committee shall be reported for action before the final adjournment of the annual meeting.

(c) A Budget Committee of three, which shall report before the close of the meeting on the state of the treasury, the amount of money needed for the ensuing year, and ways and means for meeting the need.

2. At each annual meeting there shall be elected by viva voce vote:

(a) A Program Committee of eight members, of which the Secretary of the Conference and the pastor of the Church which is to entertain the next annual meeting shall be members ex-officiis, the other members to be elected two for three years, two for two years, and two for one year, subsequent elections to be for three years each. This committee shall prepare the program for the next annual meeting, selecting the preacher of the annual sermon, and the various speakers for each session.

(b) A Committee of two, to be elected for one year, to audit the Treasurer's report.

(c) A Nominating Committee of seven, consisting of the retiring Moderator or, in his absence, of the retiring Vice-moderator, of each annual conference, together with six other members; two to be elected annually for three years, which shall make all nominations required by the Rules of the Conference or by vote. The retiring members of this committee shall not be eligible for re-election for at least one year.

(d) Such other committees as the Conference may vote to elect. Members of these committees shall be elected for such terms as the Conference shall determine. The Executive Committee shall present at each annual meeting a list of the committees the appointment of which it recommends.

3. The reports of all committees that are to be presented to the Conference shall be furnished to the Secretary on or before April 1 of each year and shall be printed and distributed to the churches not less than two weeks before the annual meeting. These reports shall not be read to the Conference save by special order; but the Program Committee may arrange for the adequate discussion of any or all of the topics presented in the reports.

ARTICLE XI. — Massachusetts Home Missionary Society

In the practical administration of its home missionary work, the instrument of the Conference shall be the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, a place for which shall be made in the program of the annual meeting.

ARTICLE XII. — Board of Ministerial Aid

The Board of Ministerial Aid shall be the agent of the Conference in the work of aiding needy ministers and their families, and shall make an annual report to the Conference. On notice of a vacancy in the membership of the Board of Ministerial Aid, the Conference shall nominate a person to fill the vacancy.

ARTICLE XIII. — Boston Seaman's Friend Society

The Boston Seaman's Friend Society shall be the agent of the Conference in the work of promoting the spiritual and temporal welfare of seamen, and shall make an annual report to the Conference. The Conference shall annually elect five members of the Society for a term of three years each.

ARTICLE XIV. — Board of Pastoral Supply

1. The Conference shall elect eight members to represent it on the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply, two members to be elected each year to serve for a period of four years.

2. The Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply shall, through its Secretary, make an annual report to the Conference.

ARTICLE XV. — Special Orders

1. Each session of the annual meeting shall be opened and closed with divine worship, and one minister to have charge of these services for all sessions of the Conference shall be named by the Program Committee.

2. On each morning of the annual meeting, after the first day, the minutes of the preceding day shall be read; the minutes of the last day shall be read immediately before the final adjournment.

3. On Monday evening of each annual meeting the annual sermon shall be preached, followed by the celebration of the Lord's Supper.

4. The place of the next annual meeting shall be recommended each year by the Business Committee and designated by vote of the Conference.

5. As far as possible, all business of the Conference shall be completed by noon of the second day of the annual meeting.

ARTICLE XVI. — Rules of Order

The Rules of Order shall be those of common parliamentary usage subject to the following specifications:

1. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the Conference.

2. When a question is before the Conference the Moderator shall entertain motions only as follows: To adjourn, to table, for the previous question, to postpone to a fixed time, to commit, to amend, or to postpone indefinitely; these several motions shall have precedence in the foregoing order.

3. No vote not essential to the conduct of the business of the Conference shall be passed except by a two-thirds vote of those present and voting; nor shall any such vote be passed, except by unanimous consent, until at least fifteen minutes shall have been allowed for debate.

ARTICLE XVII. — Amendments

1. Any of the above articles, except the first five, may be amended at any annual meeting by a two-thirds vote, provided that the proposed amendment shall have been submitted to the Conference in writing on the day previous.

2. Either of the first five articles may be amended by a two-thirds vote but only after the proposed amendment has been submitted to the Conference in writing at the previous annual meeting, and notice has been sent to the several associations, conferences, and churches connected with this body at least three months prior to the meeting at which action is to be taken.

---

At 2.30 the Conference was called to order by the Registrar, Rev. F. J. Marsh, in the absence of the Moderator.

Worship was conducted by Rev. Sidney Lovett, Boston, chaplain of the Conference.

The address of welcome was given by Rev. C. T. Chase, pastor of the entertaining church. Response was made by the Moderator, Mr. A. H. Wellman, Topsfield.

It was voted that the program, as presented, be the order of the Conference, with such additions as the Executive Committee shall provide.

The Secretary, Rev. H. L. Bailey, read his annual report, the Conference standing during the reading of the necrology. The report was accepted.

The reports of the Treasurer and Auditing Committee were also read by the Secretary and referred to the Budget Committee.

The report of the Board of Pastoral Supply was read by its Secretary, Rev. A. J. Covell. The report was accepted.

In the absence of Senator G. D. Chamberlain, Springfield, the report of the Seaman's Friend Society was presented by Secretary M. A. Farren. The report was accepted.

It was voted that the recommendations of the Board of Pastoral Supply be referred to the Budget Committee.

Rev. C. S. Mills, New York, made a report of the Pilgrim Memorial Fund, the Annuity Fund and the Board of Ministerial Relief. His recommendations were referred to the Budget Committee and his report was accepted.

The Moderator announced the following committees:

Business: Rev. C. N. Thorp, Holyoke; H. S. Davis, Boston; Rev. F. T. Rouse, Worcester; H. V. Blackford, Stockbridge; Rev. T. B. Lathrop, Framingham.

Budget: Rev. J. L. Findlay, Easthampton; H. L. Sampson, Middleboro; Chester Warner, Sunderland.

Credentials: Rev. A. K. Chalmers, West Springfield; Rev. S. R. Swift, Hinsdale; Rev. H. L. Bailey, Longmeadow.

The first topic of the afternoon, " The Energizing Touch of Christ," was presented by Rev. J. B. Lyman, Sharon.

Rev. Raymond Calkins, Cambridge, presented the second topic, " The Place and Meaning of Common Worship."

After a brief discussion a recess was taken till 7.30.

MONDAY EVENING

The evening session opened with a brief musical program and was followed by worship conducted by Rev. Sidney Lovett, Boston.

Rev. J. J. Walker presented the work of the Massachusetts Board of Ministerial Relief and an offering of $146.44 was made.

The sermon was preached by Rev. Robert R. Wicks, Holyoke, from the text: " Are not the very hairs of your head numbered? " — Luke 12 : 7.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by Rev. H. A. Kernen, Westfield, the following assisting as deacons: W. S. Powell, Great Barrington; W. L. Phelps, Greenfield; Otis Hager, South Deerfield; G. J. Esselin, Roxbury; F. M. Rice, Natick; D. F. Hamilton, Greenfield; J. W. Fairbanks, Boston; R. G. Logan, Great Barrington; H. V. Blackford, Glendale; W. T. Marden, Great Barrington; H. E. Rice, Norwood; F. W. Forbes, Westboro.

Following this the Conference took a recess till Tuesday morning.

TUESDAY MORNING

The session opened at 9 o'clock with worship conducted by Rev. Sidney Lovett, Boston.

The minutes of Monday's sessions were read and, after corrections, were declared approved.

The Secretary, Rev. H. L. Bailey asked that the name of Rev. Edward Evans, Holbrook, be added to the necrology.

The Business Committee presented the following recommendations which were adopted:

Resolved, that the Conference urges the pastors and churches to assist in securing the prompt payment of pledges to the Pilgrim Memorial Fund.

Resolved, that the churches be reminded to do their part in cooperating with pastors in the payment of dues to the Annuity Fund, and that each district association be urged to appoint a special committee of laymen to bring this matter to the attention of the churches.

That the Conference accepts the cordial invitation of the Brockton churches and that the meeting of the Conference in 1924 be held in South Church, Brockton.

Whereas, several of our Massachusetts pastors are to preach in England during the summer, be it resolved that they be empowered, as fraternal delegates, to bear our messages of affectionate greeting and good will to our sister churches across the sea and to assure them of our earnest hope and fervent prayer that Great Britain and America may continue to work together for world reconstruction according to Christian ideals; and that Rev. J. Burford Parry be requested to present a similar message from the Massachusetts Congregational Conference to the London Congregational Council.

The Budget Committee presented the following budget which, with the recommendation that the Treasurer's and Auditor's reports be accepted, was adopted:

National Council, 6c. on 149,289 members	$8,957.34
Board of Pastoral Supply, 1⅝c. per member	2,736.97
Massachusetts Federation of Churches, 603 churches at $3.00	1,809.00

The Missionary Committee made its report through its chairman, Mr. E. S. Harvey. The report was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Federation of Churches was presented by Rev. J. J. Walker, Boston. The report was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Moral and Social Welfare was made by Rev. Austin Rice, Wakefield. The report was accepted.

The Committee on Rural Conditions was made by Rev. H. E. Oxnard, Rehoboth. The report was accepted and the following amended resolutions were adopted:

Your Committee recommends a minimum salary of $1,500 for every well trained minister in charge of rural work that is a man's job, and that to this end rural churches use the offices of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, which is just the Right Hand of all the 604 Congregational churches of our Commonwealth. This is justice and not charity and the resources in the hands of the Society ought to be a Sustentation Fund for that purpose.

Your Committee recommends that wide publicity be given to the Institute and Conference of rural ministers of all denominations to be held at Amherst Agricultural College in July, and that leaflets relating thereto be distributed to the end that many workers may avail themselves of this opportunity.

The report of the Committee on Religious Education was presented by Rev. G. W. Owen, Hyde Park. The report was accepted and the following recommendations were adopted:

1. That the name of this committee be changed so as to be The Committee on Religious Education.
2. That an appropriation of $150.00 be made for the work of the committee in the ensuing year.
3. That the young people's rally at the state conference be a separate meeting in the preparation and conduct of which the young people of the State have as large a share as possible.
4. That the District Secretary for New England and the National Young People's Secretary be ex-officio members of the State Committee.

Secretary, C. E. Burton, New York, gave an address on the subject, "Our National Denominational Outlook" and at its conclusion Rev. Raymond Calkins, Cambridge, presented the following resolution which was adopted:

Voted, by the Massachusetts Congregational Conference, that the Executive Committee of the National Council be requested to print and insert at the beginning of the volume containing the Advance Reports of the Committees of the Council a brief summary of the major matters to be voted upon by the National Council, with reference to the full statement of these matters as found in the Reports.

Judge C. L. Hibbard, Pittsfield, gave an address on the subject, " Law and Morals."

The Piedmont Quartette of Piedmont College favored the Conference with selections at this time.

The work of the Congregational Foundation for Education was presented by President George W. Nash.

Hon. Sanford Bates, State Commissioner of Correction, gave an address on the subject: " The Church and the Moral Delinquent."

Following the address the Conference took a recess till the close of the Home Missionary Society Meeting.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The Conference convened at 5.15 for a business session.

The following recommendation of the Committee on Religious Education was adopted:

That in view of the need of a generation of children brought up to the idea of the wrong of attempting to settle international disputes by means of war and of the necessity for the promotion and practice of peace, this Conference take action to put into the church and the church school an effective program of education against war and for peace.

That to this end we petition the National Council at its coming meeting in Springfield to appoint a special committee for this purpose or to refer it to some committee already in existence.

That the resolution be sent to the editors of our educational publications with the request for its most careful consideration.

Rev. E. B. Robinson presented resolutions regarding the relation of the churches and the colleges, and regarding the Isles of Shoals Conference, which were referred to the Business Committee.

The report of the Committee to Plan a Course of Reading was accepted.

It was voted to hear the report of the Committee on Relations and Plan of Union Wednesday morning.

The report of the Executive Committee was accepted and the following recommendations were adopted.

1. In Article V, section 2, omit the words " and chairmen of committees who attend to present reports," because not only the chairmen but all committee members are made actual delegates in section 1; and to change the words "ministers appointed to preach" to "and persons appointed to speak."

2. To change the last sentence of Article XIII to read, "The Conference shall annually elect five members of the Society for a term of three years."

A resolution that the Conference Sermon be printed was referred to the Business Committee.

The following recommendations of the Business Committee were adopted:

Resolved, that this Conference herewith records its approval of the proposition of President Harding, that the United States become a party to the convention for the establishment of the Permanent Court of International Justice.

Resolved, that the Conference herewith records its warm appreciation of the action of Governor Cox in approving the act for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, recently passed by the General Court, and in returning to the General Court without his approval the so-called "Adlow Bill," and urges upon our churches the vital importance of giving their hearty support to the Enforcement Act.

That the invitation of the Holyoke churches that the Conference meet with Second Church, Holyoke, in 1925, be received and placed on record.

The Conference then took a recess till 8 o'clock.

The Conference Banquet was held in the Oakwood Hotel with Rev. E. B. Robinson, Holyoke, as toastmaster.

A simultaneous Young People's Conference was held in the Methodist Church with Rev. Harry T. Stock, Boston, in charge.

TUESDAY EVENING

At 8.30 the Conference convened, Vice-Moderator, Rev. E. P. Drew, Auburndale, being in the chair. Worship was conducted by Rev. Sidney Lovett, Boston, assisted by Rev. O. D. Sewall, Boston.

On account of the illness of the speaker of the evening, Rev. A. E. Krom, Providence, an address was given by Rev. S. H. Woodrow, Newton Highlands, on the topic: "The Essential Contribution of the Church to all Days."

After benediction by the Vice-Moderator the Conference took a recess till 9 o'clock, Wednesday.

WEDNESDAY MORNING

The session opened at 9 o'clock with worship conducted by Rev. Sidney Lovett, Boston.

The minutes of Tuesday's sessions were read and declared approved.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Moderator: Rev. E. P. Drew, Auburndale.
Vice-Moderator: Frederick Fosdick, Fitchburg.
Executive Committee: G. E. Brock, Brighton; Rev. C. H. Williams, Jamaica Plain; E. E. Kent, Newton.
Trustee for 3 Years: Rev. J. H. Lockwood, Springfield.

The Business Committee presented the following resolutions which were adopted:

We commend the effort of the Isles of Shoals Summer Conference to provide a vacation spot for our Congregational church people where inspiration, recreation, and good fellowship can be mingled in wholesome proportions. Particularly we would commend the effort this year to provide a retreat the last week in August, which at reasonable cost will enable our ministers in delightful fellowship to get ready for the activities of a church year.

Resolved, that the Nominating Committee be directed to name a committee of five, who shall study the relation of church and college in Massachusetts, and develop plans for a finer cooperation, whereby Christian faith and living may be stimulated, and offer a report at the next meeting of the Conference.

Resolved, that the 121st Annual Conference of Congregational Churches desires to express its gratitude for the gracious and abundant hospitality of the First Congregational Church, and the community of beautiful Great Barrington. Especially would we record our appreciation of the untiring courtesy of the pastor, Rev. C. Thurston Chase, and of the Local Committee, under the chairmanship of Judge Walter B. Sanford. Our thanks are also extended to the church organist and choir, and to the Piedmont College Quartet, for the inspiration of their music, to the Methodist Church, and the Thursday Morning Club, for the use of their buildings, to the Chamber of Commerce for cooperation and to the Wyantenuck Club for hospitality. We present sincere thanks to all who have assisted in making this one of the memorable meetings of the Conference.

The report of the Committee to Investigate the Plan of the United Churches in America was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Relations was accepted.

The following recommendation was made by the Missionary Committee and was adopted:

That the chairman of the Missionary Committee of this Conference be and hereby is instructed to send to the chairman of the Missionary Committees of the local associations of churches and also to request the latter to send to each church the following statement:

Upon the recommendation of the Commission on Missions of the National Council this Conference, in cooperation with the other five of the New England Conferences, has voted to recognize the Boston Seaman's Friend Society as an agent of the New England Conferences and has earnestly asked the churches of the state to make an appropriation for the work of this society equal to 1.2 percent of the apportionment for the National Societies and in addition to that apportionment.

In accordance with this recommendation and vote the apportionment of ———— Association of Churches (or of ———— church) is $....., representing 100% for the National Societies.

$....., representing 1.2% for the Seaman's Friend Society.

All treasurers who remit lump sums to be divided either in Boston or New York are earnestly requested to instruct the office to include the Seaman's Friend Society. In case no instructions are received it will be understood that the churches accept this recommendation.

The following amended resolution of the Committee on Plan of United Churches, was adopted:

Resolved that the Massachusetts Congregational Conference at its One Hundred and Twenty-first Annual Meeting, held in Great Barrington, May 21–23, 1923, records its approval of the movement toward organic union among the leading evangelical churches of the U. S. A., as set forth in the Plan of Union endorsed by the National Council of 1921, on the understanding that the completed constitution of the new organization shall be reported back to the State Conferences for final approval.

The Nominating Committee presented the following nominations and they were elected:

Members of Seaman's Friend Society: For 2 years, A. H. Merritt, Dorchester. For 3 years: Ernest Hood, Salem; John Gordon, Boston; Rev. J. H. Quint, Chelsea; Samuel Usher, Cambridge; W. H. Barker, Newton;

Member of the Massachusetts Board of Ministerial Aid: Rev. J. H. Quint, Chelsea.

Committee on Relation of the Colleges and Churches: Pres. K. L. Butterfield, Amherst; Rev. J. A. Hawley, Amherst; Rev. E. B. Robinson, Holyoke; Rev. Eric Lindh, Quincy; H. S. Cowell, Ashburnham.

The Budget Committee made the following recommendation which was adopted:

That the Committee on Religious Education be granted $50 additional and the Committee on Relation of Colleges and Churches be granted $50.

The following resolution regarding gifts to the Church Building Society was adopted:

That we petition the Massachusetts Conference of Congregational Churches to adopt an arrangement with respect to the gifts of the churches for Church Extension, similar to that governing their gifts to home missionary work, by the appointment of a Treasurer to receive such gifts, and a council to pass upon the distribution of such funds, with the understanding that so much of said funds as are not absolutely needed to maintain church efficiency within the State, shall be forwarded to the Church Building Society for use elsewhere: and that the Treasurer of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society be appointed treasurer of said funds, and the trustees of said Society be constituted the council to pass upon the applications of the Congregational Church Union, and other recognized organizations, or individual churches outside the territory served by the Union.

The Committee on Credentials made its report and the report was accepted. The enrollment of the Conference follows:

		Individuals
Churches represented	187
By pastor only	78	78
By delegate only	28	28
By pastors and delegates	81	163
Associations of churches represented	14	14
Associations of ministers represented	1	1
Affiliated boards and societies	4	5
Officers and committee members	6	6
Total membership		295
Deducting duplicates		16
Net enrollment		279

It was voted that the Registrar complete the minutes, subject to the approval of the Executive Committee.

Rev. J. L. Findlay, Easthampton, gave notice of a proposed amendment to the Constitution that Article V, Section 1 of the Rules of the Conference be changed to read: "Each Evangelical Congregational Church and Association in this Conference may choose three delegates, two to be young people under the age of twenty-five, and these delegates together with the pastor or pastors of each church . . . shall constitute the Conference, it being understood that the two delegates under twenty-five years of age shall have the right to speak but without vote."

In the absence of Rev. H. F. Cope, Chicago, the topic of the morning, "Week-day Religious Education," was presented by Rev. E. L. Shaver, Boston.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. T. Chase of the entertaining church and the Conference adjourned at 11.55 A.M.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY

Rarely has this body invaded southern Berkshire. It came to Great Barrington just 20 years ago, and back in 1834, when it was an association of ministers only, it met in Lee. In those easy-going days a minister could drive a horse across the state to attend the annual meeting; today he is hard pressed for time to attend even with the aid of steam, electricity and gasoline. Since the geographical center of Massachusetts Congregationalism is in Newton, 90 miles east of the Connecticut River, a meeting anywhere west of the river is regarded by our Boston and Barnstable brethren as considerably off center.

Our roll of churches on January 1 showed a net loss of two and a total of 603. The Amherst College church has finally persuaded the census takers that it is not in our sense of the word a church, and has been released from the Hampshire East Association and therefore from the Conference. Immanuel-Walnut Avenue of Roxbury has joined Eliot, losing its name but as usual in matrimony becoming the better half. Two Ipswich churches have completed their merger and are one under the joint name of First and South. Against this loss of units, we balance the name of Lawrence, Armenian; and if we may anticipate next year's report, we may name Melrose Hillcrest as a new member of Woburn Association.

Our membership has gained 3,152, the largest but twice in 45 years. The total is now 149,289, giving us an extra delegate to the National Council. In round numbers we have gained 35,000 in the 20 years since our last meeting here, an average of 1,750 per year. The average annual increment has been one and one-third per cent, which means that since 1903, 75 church members have been able each year to increase their number to 76 despite the casualties among the 75. It might have been worse, but the tendency is to the better. The new Year Book will again report the largest national increase, over 19,000, slightly better than last year, and with Massachusetts now as then just below our proper ratio. While we have made a net gain of two and one-seventh per cent, the other states have gained two and three-quarters. Slowly but surely the unequal balance between men and women is adjusting itself in this state; twenty years ago the men were but 31 per cent of the total; now they are 34 per cent and still gaining.

Briefly stated, the annual statistics are these: we have 50,977 men and 98,312 women in our membership. The churches which have taken the trouble to count their non-resident members report 21,351, but the number would be near 30,000 if all the churches reported. Additions on confession were 6,380, and by letter 4,039, a total of 10,419. Losses included 2,015 deaths, 3,028 letters, and 2,225 removed by roll revision, a total of 7,268. None of these items create new records, but most of them are second best. Adult baptisms have often exceeded 2,327, but 3,619 infant baptisms rank next to last year's high mark. The Sunday school total of 123,745 shows a decrease of 858, and the Young People's column a decrease of 893, the total being 20,377.

In 1903 the secretary's report named the dozen largest churches. The contrast with the dozen largest today is remarkable. Only six of the first dozen are in that class today, and the largest then, Worcester First, with 1,200 members, was smaller than the average of our big twelve today, 1,258. Then the third on the list had 824 members; now the twelfth has more than 1,000. At the other end of the line we have 31 churches with less than 25 members, the average for the state being 247. Twenty churches report total additions of 75 or more, Holyoke Second leading with 203. Seventeen report a net gain of 50 or more, Holyoke Second again leading with 146. Sixteen report 50 or more received on confession, and once more the Holyoke church leads with 150. On the other hand a dozen churches have pruned their rolls so vigorously as to score a net loss of 40 or more, Worcester First being the chief loser to the amount of 142. The large churches are always the winners of quantity events, but quality or proportionate achievement may distinguish the smallest churches. The most remarkable statistics of the year come from Pelham which with six members was last year next to the smallest on our roll. Seven have been added on confession, 117 per cent, and two more by letter, making the net growth 150 per cent. Fifty-two churches added 10 per cent on confession, 10 of them above 20 per cent, among which was one church above average size, Middleboro Central. Fifty-seven churches made a net gain of 10 per cent, 16 of them above 20 per cent, one large church, Norwood, being in the first dozen.

In regard to benevolence I shall report here only in round numbers, referring you for exact figures to the pages of the forthcoming Year Book. Our total of apportionment benevolence, $656,832, is $20,000 smaller than the year before. The American Board received almost $190,000, $3,100 more than last year, but the Woman's Board fell off $10,700. The Church Building Society had $6,300 less, Home Missions and the American Missionary Association $400 and $300 less. The Education Society broke even, and the Sunday School Society and Ministerial Relief were $1,000, more or less, to the good. The Woman's Home Federation collected $5,500 more than before, but the column of other apportionment items shrinks some $14,000. It was to be expected that the Pilgrim Memorial Fund would show smaller receipts as it nears the end of its five-year period of collecting, but its total is nearly $130,000. Our other charities, appearing in two columns of special Congregational and undenominational, almost balance with last year, only $1,200 less; but while the two columns were nearly equal last year, the undenominational preponderates this year. So far as our total Congregational gifts are concerned, we are about $80,000 behind, but have given an extra $14,000 to outside charities. We report almost a quarter million more than before spent on parish maintenance, the total falling a trifle short of $3,000,000; and our property valuation has increased about three-quarters of a million, passing the $24,000,000 mark with a few of the costliest churches not reported.

Massachusetts is to have the honor of welcoming the National Council once more when it comes to Springfield in October. We are entitled to 74 delegates, 15 for the Conference and 59 for the 25 district associations. Matters of vital importance will come up for discussion and decision, and Massachusetts ought to have its full quota of delegates present. Other states take pride in having a 100 per cent representation, but we have never come near that ideal. At Boston, in 1910, only 56 of 73 possible delegates were enrolled. The district associations ought to make sure that delegates are chosen who will attend.

Our death roll is the longest in a quarter century. Two dozen men who held their standing in our various associations, and one Methodist brother in a Congregational pastorate, have been called to their reward. For the most part they were veterans, for their average ministerial life since ordination was 42 years, only four having been ordained in this century. Six were pastors; four were emeritus pastors, and one or two others had just laid down pastoral work, anticipating another earthly call instead of the heavenly. Six resided in other states, Connecticut, Florida, Maine, Maryland and Syria. Of the men dying in service, Theophilus S. Devitt had been with Fall River Central for three years; most of his ministerial career of 31 years was spent at Branford, Conn., and Winona, Minn. George W. French had been 5 years at Templeton, coming thence from my own first parish in Vermont. By a sad coincidence Templeton is also mourning the passing of its latest ex-pastor, Edward G. Smith, 14 years there and 51 in the ministry. Edward L. Hobein gave nearly all his ministry of 19 years to the German church at Clinton. Another of our foreign-speaking churches, the Swedish at Quincy, lost its pastor, Karl F. Ohlson, two days later. Charles C. MacDonald had been but 10 years in the ministry, beginning at North Abington, then in Medford, and going thence to Maine, where he died. William H. Cobb had been 35 years librarian of our Congregational Library, giving 15 years of pastoral service previously to three of our churches. John A. Hamilton will be remembered by the older men as secretary of the Education Society 15 years. Harvey Porter, veteran teacher at Beirut, Syria, was ordained in 1880. Daniel E. Adams was the senior minister on the list, with 62 years of a ministerial career, one-third of which he gave to two of our churches and another third to retirement. Temple Cutler was ordained a few weeks later, beginning in Maine but coming to Athol for 7 years and later giving 21 years to three churches on Cape Ann. The ministry of Thomas M. Davies for 54 years was chiefly in Maine, but included Manomet and West Tisbury in this state. George S. Dodge had passed the semi-centennial of his ordination. Nearly all that time he was a pastor of churches in the Worcester Central Association, especially Rutland and Boylston. George L. Gleason had been 56 years a minister, two Haverhill churches claiming his latest active ministry. Willis A. Hadley had served in Lynn, Southbridge and Chelsea, but was more recently at Bloomfield, Conn., where he died as pastor emeritus. George A. Hall gave 20 years to the South church of Peabody. Archibald McCullagh gave 9 years, and Andrew B. Chalmers a dozen to Plymouth church, Worcester, and Charles E. Harrington a dozen of his 48 to Waltham. George M. Howe was 10 years at Princeton and 18 at Groton. Newton I. Jones in 40 years served several of our churches, notably South Hadley, and had recently left the Worthington pastorate. George A. Tewksbury, in the 60th year of his ministry, active almost to the end, served Plymouth, Cambridge and Concord in our state, historic names all, besides Portland and Seattle. Alexander Viswall gave a large part of his more than 40 years of service to Upton and Uxbridge, and though nominally retired had received a call to another church just before his death. Benjamin W. Pennock, ordained in 1888, held no pastorates in this state but had been a member of Middlesex Union Association 11 years. Edward W. Jobbins had just begun pastoral work at Northbridge Center when he was called to higher service. How scanty, almost perfunctory, these official notes appear in contrast with those 25 lives and ministries, brilliant some, faithful and fruitful all, loving and beloved, across a period of three score years. Some of them are released from pain and tribulation, while others fell asleep in the peaceful twilight of a late evening, but I am sure that for all of them, soldiers of their country some, and all good soldiers of Jesus Christ, " the trumpets sounded for them on the other side."

[Rev. Edward Evans, lately of Holbrook and Worcester, died in Boston the day before the Conference assembled, too late to be included in the summaries above.]

REPORT OF THE CONGREGATIONAL BOARD OF PASTORAL SUPPLY

REV. ARTHUR J. COVELL, SECRETARY

BOSTON, MASS., March 31, 1923.

The eighth annual report of the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply is herewith presented. To the Massachusetts Conference this is the twenty-ninth report.

It is interesting to note each year how our work reflects not only certain special influences that may prevail among the churches but also general world conditions. In war we found unexpected resources. Our churches were rising to meet the emergency. The Secretary recalls a visit to a church which had loaned its pastor for patriotic purposes, and the work of that church seemed to be moving more vigorously and successfully than when the pastor was on the field. And he was an effective pastor, too. But the people were nobly meeting the responsibility laid upon them. Likewise, pastors were in that period doing double service in preaching and serving. But in times when there is less unity of spirit and when reactionary tendencies prevail, our church life is likely to share the tendencies of the time. Some features with which we have been in contact this past year have not been as near the ideal as in some former years. The war-time togetherness has been followed by the peace-time separateness. Co-operation between churches in supporting a minister is less conspicuous than two or three years ago. Each church tends to insist upon its own minister whether there be sufficient resources to support suitably a minister or material at hand to demand the full time of a capable man. Loyalty to the minister of the church and toleration of possible limitations have not been as conspicuous as in some recent years. And now and again the spirit of thrift has shown itself in the matter of the minister's salary.

Nevertheless, the silver lining has appeared in the clouds. In many instances the churches asking full-time instead of part-time ministers have come to realize the situation and have made adequate financial preparation, and have caught the spirit of a fuller ministry to their communities. And if some ministers this year have been treated according to another standard than that gendered by the gospel, there has usually been some saving remnant of the congregation that has realized, rather slowly perhaps, but that yet has realized the injustice, and will another time stand more firmly against it. And not a few churches have righted the long standing wrong of inadequate salary in a well-to-do community.

We have rendered service this past year, in response to requests for aid in securing pastors, to 315 churches, two more than in the preceding year. Since we are the official organ of the New England Conferences, these churches were for the most part in this section. However, they were from 24 states, one district, and one foreign country. Of these churches there were in Maine, 39; in New Hampshire, 44; in Vermont, 27; in Massachusetts, 132; in Rhode Island, 4; in Connecticut, 22; in New York, 12; in Illinois, 4; in Florida, 3; in Ohio, 3; in Montana, 3; in Pennsylvania, 3; in California, 2; in Michigan, 2; in Missouri, 2; in New Jersey, 2; in Wisconsin, 2; and one each in Colorado, Idaho, Minnesota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, District of Columbia, and Quebec.

We have not enumerated in this statement the furnishing of supplies, occasional or temporary, nor taken account of commendations for positions outside the pastorate.

So far as information has come to the office the number of pastoral settlements in which the Board had an important part was 94. This is but a partial accounting of results achieved by the Board since it does not take account of arrangements for pastoral service for less than six months nor of a limited number of successful commendations for positions outside the pastorate.

Of the churches conferring with the Board this past year about pastoral settlement, 114 had less than 100 members; 127 had from 100 to 300 members; while 73 had more than 300 members. Of these same churches, 56 paid a salary of less than $1,200 and parsonage; 179 are reported to have paid from $1,200 to $2,000 and parsonage; while 79 paid more than $2,000 and parsonage.

Opportunities for preaching were furnished during the year to 286 men, of whom 128 were candidates for settlement. To the greater portion of these men repeated opportunities were given.

The Secretary has travelled on Board business during the year approximately 6,000 miles.

The number of letters sent out from the office this past year was 8,586, several hundred more than in any preceding year. This increase was due to the fact that a larger number of inquiry letters was sent out than in any preceding year in an effort to gain additional information about men concerning whom our knowledge was inadequate.

The Treasurer's account, with the Auditor's statement, will be found in the appendix.

The Treasurer's Report from the constituent New England Conferences indicates the following:

Massachusetts.	Paid in full to April 30, 1923.
Connecticut.	Paid in full for 1922, and $600 for 1923.
Maine.	Paid in full for 1922.
Vermont.	$175.60 due for the year 1922.
New Hampshire.	Paid in full for year ending March 31, 1923.
Rhode Island.	Paid in full for year ending March 31, 1923.

Since there are variations in methods of payment, a paragraph from previous reports may be helpful.

> " Maine, Connecticut and Vermont begin their year January 1, and compute the one and one-half cent per member from the Year-Book at hand at the beginning of the calendar year. Massachusetts begins her year January 1, but changes her basis of computation May 1, taking the figures of the new Year-Book for the balance of the year. Rhode Island's year begins April 1, and New Hampshire's begins May 1, these states using the figures of the Year-Book issued after January 1, each year."

The expenditures for the year have been materially increased by the enlarged quarters, mentioned in some detail later in the Report. The amount mentioned for office changes is due mainly to the cost of furnishing our new quarters, and would have been materially more had it not been for the generous gift of a friend. The rent was $230 more than for the previous year. Since, however, rent for the new space did not begin until November, and since the increased rate on the old quarters did not begin until last fall, the cost of rent for next year will be several hundred dollars more than for this.

In the Annual Report of last year space was given for a statement of certain phases of the work of the Board, particularly in relation to ministers. Our work is of a delicate nature and misconceptions concerning it are possible. Therefore it seems needful to call attention to the fact that we are guided by certain definite principles and to set forth what these principles are. The work of the Board has been organic, and, while subject to frequent change and adaptation, these changes have sprung out of practical experience in the work.

In order to learn how far the present methods of the Board in its relation to ministers have approved themselves, the Secretary asked two questions in the letter sent last year to the Advisor in each Association of Churches in New England. The first of these questions was: " Does the statement of office policy in the last Annual Report, set forth in the section including the last two paragraphs on page 4 and extending to the middle of page 6, meet with your approval?" The other question was: " What improvements would you suggest in the Board's policy as thus defined in the Annual Report?" In the replies received there was general commendation of the work. From three of the New England states the approval was unqualified. From the other three states were seven suggestions of how the work might be improved. The suggestions were in substance there: No improvement to suggest, but a development of the present policy might be effective; an exhortation to be as thorough in finding out the character and quality of the church as in determining the effectiveness of the minister; if within the Board's scope, an exhortation that strong advice be given to men coming into our churches from other denominations as to the need of a thorough education in our denominational history and present institutions, especially those of a missionary nature; a suggestion that any unfavorable report concerning a minister be submitted to the minister himself and he be given opportunity to disprove it; another, that the Board offer to Conference Secretaries information about men who may need advice or correction; another, that the Board furnish at given periods a summary statement to a man of the improvement demanded to advance a man's efficiency; and the seventh suggestion was that the Board might well take steps to shorten certain pastorates. The great bulk of the reports, however, from the Advisors, chosen by the Conferences themselves, were distinctly commendatory and approval was voiced in such expressions as these: "Heartily"; "Very emphatically"; "Entirely"; "Do not see how can be more fair"; "Splendidly taken care of"; "Unqualifiedly 'yes'"; "No improvements. Live up to 1922 report"; "In heartiest sympathy with its methods"; "Heartily approve. Right lines."

The replies from the Advisors indicate that all were appreciative of the Board's work. The Directors aim to have an open mind to the suggestions from the Advisors, especially to those that come in the conference between the Directors and Advisors of each state in connection with the Annual Meeting of the State Conference. This gives opportunity to consider any special phases of the work that may be called for in a given state, as well as to confer about the work as a whole. It has been the constant aim in the work of the Board to make its by-products helpful as well as to do faithfully the specific work of aiding churches to "secure the most effective pastoral service." However, there are limits to what the Board may properly attempt to do. It is of significance that this Board, attempting that for which there were practically no precedents twenty-nine years ago, has been able to do an effective work while so many other efforts to organize as an agency of pastoral supply have failed. And the reason undoubtedly is that the Board has aimed to follow the Congregational way of advice and co-operation rather than more autocratic ways. We have not attempted to cure all the ills that may afflict the Congregational ministry or the Congregational churches; it is not for us to usurp the functions of the local association in dealing with shortcomings in the ministry, nor to interfere with the internal workings of the local church, nor to take the place of the theological seminary. We are continually co-operating with associations in maintaining the purity of the ministry, and with local churches that ask advice in finding the Christian way to meet some difficult situation, and with the theological seminaries in placing men, and with individual ministers in suggesting ways of practical helpfulness to them in the work of the ministry. To find some short cut to achievement is an age-long effort, and permanent values are sacrificed in the search. The old adage exhorts to make haste slowly. The world is to-day searching for some expeditious method of escaping from its tragic state, and the more haste in laying hold of the method of force the less speed. Democracy itself has been tested and found wanting. Nevertheless, in the long run we shall find the democratic way more effective in accomplishing permanent ends than the method of autocracy. And in the matter of pastoral supply we shall accomplish more permanently helpful results by holding to the method of co-operation and moral suasion than by usurping functions that more properly belong to other forms of our Denominational life.

The most significant event of the year, so far as the comfort and convenience of those who call at the office and of those who work there is concerned, has been the enlargement of our office quarters. It has been recognized that we were in the most crowded quarters of any of the workers in the Congregational House. Some of our neighbors have been accustomed to intimate that we were in the slums. If that be true, it is now correct to say that we have moved up town.

It was clearly recognized when the Board was organized as a New England agency that its accommodations were entirely inadequate, and that as soon as possible suitable additional space should be secured. But no such space was available where it could be advantageously utilized. And so the old quarters were so adjusted as to use every foot of space, and the Secretary was granted the privilege of renting a room occasionally outside of the building for special work. The enlarging of the Congregational House offered the desired occasion. The Directors felt it necessary to use the only opportunity likely to be offered for some years to obtain additional room. As small an amount of extra space as could be obtained was secured, and the Board now has as much room as it will ever have occasion to use.

Since the enlarged office was not obtained at the outset the Board accumulated a surplus. War conditions have forced us to draw upon this for the past few years. A raise in rent upon our old quarters and the increased rate upon the new space force us to secure additional income. At the present rate of expense our surplus will be practically exhausted by January 1, 1924. To meet our needs the Board feels that we require one-third of a cent additional from each Congregational church member of New England. This would change the amount apportioned to us from 1½c. per member to 1 5/6c. per member, the increased rate to begin January 1, 1924. While we should have been pleased had there been no necessity for this change of rate, yet we believe our record unusual, if not unique, in that we have sought no increased income up to the present time.

The question of standards in the ministry is an ever present one. This does not refer to such standards as might be considered by an ecclesiastical council, nor those set forth in the instruction of a theological seminary, but those suggested by the practical work of our Board. We have need to consider not infrequently whither we are tending. It is well not only to see what new forces may be operative, but also to determine how far the permanent enduring forces of the Christian ministry are working.

The beginning of pastoral work may have a decisive influence. For that reason it is important that the young minister should have the right field for his first parish. The Secretary has been accustomed to tell church committees now and then that they ought not to endanger the future ministry of inexperienced ministers by inviting them into fields where veterans in the service should be summoned. And he has invariably assured young men from the seminary that a prime requirement in a first parish is that a man should have a warm wholesome atmosphere in which his power to serve would surely develop. Early frosts have a blighting effect upon plants and men. The influence of a first parish will prove formative for a man's ministerial life. In spite of occasional exceptions, fortunate is the man whose first field is not too large and exacting. The tragedy of the man who takes too large a field at the outset of his career, and then fails to adjust himself happily to fields that naturally open to him, is known to every man with experience in the ministry. And happy the man who in his first parish may be a somewhat different type from his immediate predecessor, so that he may be able to summon forth somewhat different reserves in the parish.

In any pastorate the beginnings are formative. How shall a man proceed? Dr. Jefferson some years ago in an article declared that a man should not start any organization in a parish until he had been upon the ground a year. Whether to be literally followed or not, that position will bear reflection. A certain New England church some time ago had a different experience. It was upheaved by a cyclone. Not that the building was affected, but the church installed a man who came from that section of the country where cyclones germinate. He seemed to have no ecclesiastical traditions, and was imbued with the Hegelian doctrine that life is a perpetual becoming. In the course of six weeks he literally changed everything in the way of organization of the church that could be changed in that time, revolutionized the forms of church service and methods of church business, and proposed a change in the name of the church. Then the authorities of that church rose up and assured the minister that their name had been with them two hundred and fifty years before his arrival, and would be likely to remain after his departure. Dr. Jefferson's method is preferable. Wise New England ministers have learned the value of judicious seed sowing. They drop germinal ideas in the minds of influential but conservative church officials, and then wait until the season is farther advanced. And in due time the full corn in the ear doth appear. Wise pastors are less concerned about recognition of the final source of improvements in church life than they are to secure the improvements themselves. And when spiritual seed brings a harvest, the wise pastor is quite willing that the good soil may have the credit for the maturing grain.

The way in which a pastorate ends is epochal always in the life of the minister and frequently in the life of the church. It is often a time of spiritual growth for both minister and church. And after such a parting men have realized as never before the closeness of the ties that have bound them to their people, the vitality of the work of the faithful minister, and have come to see that a man ought not to put himself in the way of many such heart-breaking experiences. At such a time a man realizes that some who have with him passed through experiences that come but once in a life-time can never again have a minister who means so much to them as he.

But there are endings of a different sort. There are strained relations, and arbitrary conduct on the part of both ministers and church officials, and misfits. And the reality of martyrdom is brought home to a man. He may feel that the ideals to which he dedicated his life when he entered the ministry are imperilled. He may have a sense of great injustice coupled with deep humiliation. He may feel that to leave the field without making clear the causes that impelled him to go might perpetuate for another the wrongs he himself has suffered. How far in this final stage of a pastorate shall the reforming spirit lead? Who can say in advance of the actual experience?

Yet some things are fairly clear. A man in that situation may not be in a position to draw a clear line between principle and passion. There is danger that other motives than the ultimate welfare of the field may actuate him. Surely the good pastor will "fight the good fight of faith" up to the time when it seems best to resign. He will do this without threat or undue pressure. If he fails to accomplish ends that seem vital, and decides that his real work is finished, he may then with a clear conscience turn aside from what had been his major task, and devote himself to the work of leaving that field in the best possible condition for his successor. Let him be particularly mindful of the gracious response that has come to his efforts from a portion of his parish, and let his parting ministry be largely for them. His militant ministry had better end with the time when he decides to resign.

A question on which advice is often sought at our office is whether the pastorate or some wider form of ministerial service is preferable. The incentive for the question may come from burdensome experiences in the pastorate, or from summons to some one of the increasing number of general positions called for in the life of the church to-day. No general formula can be given. Some men have special gifts for such work and Providence summons them to it. The call for youth sometimes leads men of experience to turn to the work where experience is in greater demand. A minister's wife may not be able to bear the strain of continuous pastoral effort, or his children may require special educational advantages. Conditions differ. Sometimes the advice is clear and emphatic for the man to seek the more general positions. But as a rule it is to be said that the pastoral relation is the vital and satisfying relation for the minister of the Gospel. Unless the reasons are clear a man will speedily realize the mistake in thinking that any work can be of more value to the Kingdom of God than that of the devoted and beloved pastor of a church. And it would seem that in a time when there is confusion of thought and instability in moral standards the pastorate offers real opportunities nowhere else found.

It is not easy in these days to keep the spiritual and the mechanical in just the right relation to each other. The spiritual and the material are closely intertwined. Disembodied spirits are not effective, and bodies without spiritual interpenetration are not useful for high ends. The work of the ministry needs to harmonize with the Time Spirit if it attains best results. But what shall it profit a minister if he gain all skill in adjustment, and identify himself with every popular movement, and utilize the forces that seem to make for outward success, and yet lose the vision of God, and the passion for summoning men into the image of God? The demand for the practical is compelling to-day. Men are clamoring for the immediate and the concrete. Ideals are not quite so popular as they have been not long ago, nor as much controlling as they will be in the not distant future. The emphasis upon organization has continued. Propaganda methods as exemplified in politics and the press have gained increasing vogue. The present-day minister is called upon constantly to emphasize this worldliness. And he is likely to try to qualify as an expert in more lines than man can hope to qualify. In such a time it is well to remember continually that the spirit is supreme, and that the minister's business is to reveal God to men and to make that revelation vital in life. This is the one place where he needs to qualify as an expert. The spiritual requires means for expression, but mechanism may quench the spirit.

The question whether salary or service is to be preferred does not often come in a bald form to a minister. But it can hardly be altogether banished from a minister's thought. Idealism is surely in the ascendency in his first choice. The young man of good qualifications cannot hope to secure for himself any such financial rewards as come easily to less gifted men in other callings. And the majority of ministers maintain a high ideal. Many go out from seminary seeking a hard rather than an easy place. But a great preacher once gave a notable sermon on the perils of middle life, pointing out the danger that comes after one has passed through a period of disillusionment. In addition to this general tendency, there has been of late a very special emphasis upon the economic phase of a minister's life,— an altogether timely emphasis. And with family and personal claims, a man's emphasis is likely to change. And yet the ministry is not an economic calling. Its rewards are not financial. True ministers realize that "a man liveth not by bread alone." And continually in the work of our Board we have revelations of the fact that service and not salary is dominant. Men decline calls where the possibility of service is slight no matter what the salary may be, and they accept small salaries frequently where the possibilities of service are clear.

In so far as we are able to aid men to find the fields for which they are best fitted, and to aid both men and churches to find the generous and Christian way of closing a pastorate, and to magnify the pastorate itself as the real source of power in our church life, and to so counsel that spirit may use mechanism rather than mechanism use spirit, and to have some part in magnifying the work itself above all possible material rewards — in so far as we can do this we count our work a God-given one.

In conclusion we would call attention to the specific recommendation of the Report that the amount allotted us be increased one-third of a cent per church member beginning January 1, 1924.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF MINISTERIAL AID

During the year ending December 31, 1922, it has been the privilege of the Board to minister in behalf of our Congregational fellowship to thirty-four men and fifty-one women, a total of eighty-five. Of this number four men and three women passed from our fellowship on earth into the life beyond before the end of the year. One widow, whom it has been our joy to help, has now undertaken to go on without further aid in order that others may benefit by the money thus released.

The average annual grant, not including three emergency grants, was $229.97. The amount paid on these grants was $17,426.50, and on the emergency grants $310, making a total of $17,736.50.

The Christmas Fund, raised by the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief in cooperation with us, brought to those on our rolls a total of $2,898.14 permitting the distribution to each at the rate of $40 (including the pro-rata shares received from other State boards and the National Board).

The direct receipts from the churches were $3,496.08, from other contributors $195.15, from the Woman's Home Missionary Association $1,004.67, a total from such sources of $4,695.90. The net income from invested funds has been $2,819.88. The administrative expense has been $172.88.

The happy relationship has continued between the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief and our Board. The National Board, in accordance with its agreement with us, honors our requisition each quarter for the payment of our grants. There has been frequent correspondence and personal conference between the executives of the two Boards.

A gift of $1,000 for the permanent fund has been received from children whose mother was on the roll of the Board for a number of years.

During the year the Reverend George A. Hall, a member of the Board, passed into the life beyond. Up to the time of his long illness he was a devoted member of the Board.

In behalf of the Executive Committee,
F. E. EMRICH, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE BOSTON SEAMAN'S FRIEND SOCIETY

A year ago this Society made overtures to the New England Congregational Conferences to assume the support and management of this Congregational agency for seamen. As a result of this request five of the New England Conferences at their annual meetings in 1922 voted to approve the plans submitted to them for the re-organization of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society. These plans included the making this seaman's activity a New England one to be administered and controlled by representatives chosen by the several state bodies. An apportionment of 1.2% for the support of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society was recommended to the churches in addition to that accepted for the National Societies. Massachusetts set for its goal $12,775.00 to be raised in the 1923 budget for seaman's work.

The representatives elected by the Conferences met last June and completed the re-organization of the Society by the adoption of a new set of By-Laws and the election of officers. In October the former Board of Managers transferred to the new Corporation more than $200,000 worth of real estate and other assets, including land and buildings in Boston and Vineyard Haven, and invested funds.

The Society's present plans include the extension of the work to cover all New England. An arrangement has been entered into with the Woman's Seaman's Friend Society of Connecticut to co-operate with that organization which has maintained for many years the Seamen's Bethel at New Haven.

Plans are now being considered to inaugurate a needed work for seamen at Portland. Tentative plans have been agreed to by committees representing the Maine Conference and this Society. The matter will come before both bodies for action at their annual meetings in May.

The Woman's Seaman's Friend Society of Boston, for many years the efficient and helpful auxiliary of this Society, is splendidly seconding our plans for a larger and more inclusive work.

More than 50,000 merchant sailors and navy men enjoyed, during the past year, the social and religious privileges provided by this Society. Seamen to the number of 17,721 attended our religious services. There was an attendance of 11,120 at our entertainments. Eight thousand, one hundred and sixty-six men have occupied our dormitory. Some 12,105 good, nutritious meals have been served at a moderate cost to the men of the sea. Destitute seamen in large numbers have been supplied with food, clothing and lodging. Over 17,000 packages of good reading matter have been distributed. Testaments and Scripture portions are provided for all who desire them. Knitted articles, comfort and first aid bags are furnished when needed.

This Society is engaged every day in the year at its Bethels at Boston and Vineyard Haven in the serious and very important business of making better sailors and better men. In this worthwhile task we need and deserve the help of every Congregational church in New England.

MERRITT A. FARREN, Secretary.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MISSIONARY WORK AND APPORTIONMENT

The total of gifts of the Massachusetts churches to the national missionary societies under the apportionment during the year 1922 was $657,574, comparing with present apportionment and gifts in recent previous years as follows:

Apportionment for Massachusetts,	$1,087,500
Gifts in 1918,	$315,656
" " 1919,	392,557
" " 1920,	423,199
" " 1921,	667,740
" " 1922,	657,574

There has been a substantial gain in sustained giving during the past five years, but the giving is not yet in proportion to the need in the field, or the ability in the churches.

REPORT OF ACTIVITY

The Committee met in June, 1922, in Boston, and took preliminary steps to finding a Superintendent of Missionary Education for the State as voted by the conference in Fitchburg in 1922. This led to the selection of Rev. Francis L. Cooper, then Pastor of the Lawrence Street Church, Lawrence, Mass., who took up work with the Committee Sept. 1, 1922.

A conference was held at Worcester in June with representatives of the State Associations, and the Committee met again in January, 1923. Two laymen's dinners were held in November, one in Boston and one in Springfield, with 70 and 35 present respectively. These meetings were helpful in strengthening interest and for making plans.

Mr. Cooper has taken his office on the sixth floor of the Congregational Building, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, sharing quarters with Rev. Frank W.

Hodgdon, who represents the Commission on Missions in Massachusetts, as to one-third of his time, which is now assigned to Massachusetts.

Mr. Cooper and Mr. Hodgdon have cooperated in bringing the message of the societies to the churches. They have been going to individual churches and to small groups of churches, so as to reach as large a part of the church membership as possible. Mr. Cooper places the main emphasis upon missionary education, and wherever he goes tries to arrange for increase of this. Under his direction we are not conducting a drive or holding a promotional campaign, but rather cooperating with the churches with a view to increasing the interest, and thereby increasing the giving, and laying the foundation for future increase.

A careful tabulation of returns from the churches leads Mr. Cooper to the hope that total gifts in 1923 will approximate $800,000.

We have not adopted the national plan of campaign for the 1924 budget drawn up by Secretary Baird, of the Commission on Missions, as it has seemed to us that the work as now carried on by Mr. Cooper, with the assistance of Mr. Hodgdon, best fits the needs of this State. We, however, have adopted many of the splendid ideas suggested by Mr. Baird, and are cooperating with him to the fullest extent possible.

For 1924 the Commission on Missions has made no change in apportionment, and has recommended that the following percentages be paid to the societies; these the Committee has accepted and is recommending to the churches:

American Board Commission of Foreign Missions	27.5%
Woman's Boards of Missions	14.0%
Congregational Home Missionary Society	19.0%
Congregational Church Building Society	9.0%
Congregational Sunday School Extension Society	3.0%
Congregational Education Society	6.5%
Congregational Educational Foundation	3.0%
American Missionary Association	13.0%
Congregational Board Ministerial Relief	4.0%
Ministerial Annuity Fund	1.0%
Total	100.0%

The Committee requests an appropriation of $250 for its expenses. Mr. Cooper's salary, which is $4,000, and his expenses are borne by the Commission on Missions. Also $1,500 of Mr. Hodgdon's salary and a proportional amount of his expenses are borne by the Commission on Missions, the balance of his work being under the Ministerial Relief Boards.

The Committee expresses the following convictions:

1. It is essential that the pastors become familiar in greater degree than at present with the work in the field, and its needs, so that they will present a persistent and undeniable appeal to their churches. Many men are now doing this splendidly but in many of our churches the people do not know. The men and women with the cheque books are not sufficiently exposed to the tremendously valuable work that is being done. Missionary education is the great need in our churches.

Furthermore, we still have in our churches the momentum in missionary interest of those pioneers in the work who sent out the first missionaries. That is, we are still enjoying the benefit of the missionary education of a former generation. The fact that we are producing an insufficient supply of new missionaries is evidence of the fact that our missionary interest is not widespread or intense. Giving cannot be generous when interest is not intense. We must concentrate on informing our people about what is going on in the field. If our whole church membership could visit the missionary stations our budget would be many times $5,000,000. We must find a way of bringing this great work intimately before our young people as the future lies in their hands.

2. The $5,000,000 budget is not an arbitrary figure. It has been set by the requirements from the field after the most heartbreaking pruning. The failure of the churches to respond is not only crippling the work, but running the societies into debt. In the last few years the national societies have incurred a floating debt of $364,000, and this will be increased in 1923 unless the churches respond more generously than in 1922. The situation for the societies is really dangerous, the force is curtailed, salaries are still wretchedly inadequate, plant is being insufficiently maintained and therefore deteriorating, and the American Board has come to the resolution that if it is compelled to increase its floating debt during 1923 it will curtail its work materially. It is inconceivable that our 800,000 members fully appreciate this situation and still withhold support.

3. It is important that we analyze correctly the financial problem. The National societies are now expending about $5,500,000 annually, something less than $3,000,000 being received from the churches under the Apportionment Plan, and the balance from invested funds and other sources. The Societies need $7,500,000 and are asking the churches for $5,000,000. In Massachusetts the total Congregational Church giving is about as follows:

Home Expenses	$3,000,000
Missionary Societies under Apportionment	657,000
Other Benevolences	650,000
Total	$4,307,000

To bring this missionary giving up from $657,000 to the apportionment of $1,087,500, means an additional $430,500, or 10% of the present total church giving. This is not an impossible task. It means increasing total per capita church giving from $30 to $33.

4. At present there is too much printed matter, too many publications, too many programs and too many expensive conventions. We long for the day when one or two societies will have charge of the entire work with proportional simplification in programs and publications. We recommend urgently a reduction in quantity and an increase in quality. One missionary monthly of outstanding quality and comprehensive of the entire work, published with the purpose of bringing the field to the church and affording the basis of missionary education at home would be of outstanding value to the churches. Why should existing organizations and publications and positions stand in the way of such a need?

5. The individual association and church apportionments in Massachusetts are not yet on an entirely equitable basis. Mr. Cooper is gaining a knowledge of the field, which will make possible an adjustment later on, when sufficient information is in hand to appraise the individual situations throughout the State.

6. The every member canvass is proving successful whenever it is carried on in a vital and thoroughgoing way. The committee recommends that the pastor of every church familiarize himself with the methods which have been successful.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FEDERATION OF CHURCHES AND COOPERATION WITH OTHER DENOMINATIONS

While this Committee may properly take account of all matters relating to our cooperation with other denominations within Massachusetts, its specific duty is that of representing the Conference in the Massachusetts Federation of Churches. That body, organized in 1902 with Rev. Reuen Thomas, D.D., a Congregationalist, as a leader in the movement and its first President, and with the representatives of four denominations participating, includes now the duly appointed delegates of twenty-five ecclesiastical bodies, representing sixteen denominations. These denominations have more than 90% of the total Protestant church membership in Massachusetts. This suggests the potential power of the Federation to act in behalf of the religious and moral welfare of the Commonwealth, if only it shall be able to organize and make effective the mind and will of its constituency.

A test of the strength of the Federation came on Election Day in 1922, when the ballots brought to the citizens two referenda which had very direct bearing upon the moral welfare of Massachusetts. For many months the Federation had been active in preparation for this test. The defeat of the measures for the enforcement of the Volstead Act and for the censorship of moving pictures revealed the strength of the interests arrayed against these measures. The experience, however, proved, not that the Federation of Churches is ineffective and useless, and therefore may be discarded, but rather that it provides the method for the enlistment of the cooperation of the people of Christian mind, and needs only to be made the stronger, in order to be able to overcome the forces opposed to it.

For this, if for no other reason, we would recommend the continued participation of our Conference in the Federation, through the appointment of a similar committee for the next year, and an appropriation from the Conference treasury to be applied to the expenses of the Federation.

There are many other forms of cooperative work, as suggested by the names of the standing committees of the Federation. They are as follows: Comity, Evangelism, Finance, Home Missions Council (which brings together the executive officers of all the denominations engaged in home missionary work), Industrial Relations, International Relations, Legislation, Local Cooperation, Moral Welfare, Religious Education, and Rural Life. These committees, in whose work many of the members of our own fellowship participate, are doing thoroughly constructive work. Special mention should be made of the worth of the work of the Committee on Religious Education, of which Rev. Frank M. Sheldon, the Secretary of our Congregational Education Society, is the chairman, and the Committee on Rural Life, of which Pres. Kenyon L. Butterfield of the Massachusetts Agricultural College is the chairman.

We count it even more important to give, through our participation in the membership of the Federation, corporate expression to the spirit of Christian unity which we believe prevails among us as Congregationalists, and is steadily gaining throughout the Commonwealth, the entire nation, and the whole Christian world. It is " the unity of the Spirit " which expresses itself in " the bond of peace," the covenant to work together, with mutual respect and good will, for the Kingdom of God in this Commonwealth.

We therefore recommend:

I — That a similar committee of thirty-two, one-half of whom shall be ministers and one-half laymen, be appointed for the coming year to represent the Conference in the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, and that the chairman of that Committee be authorized to designate alternates for those members who cannot attend the meetings of the Council of the Federation, as such shall be called.

II — That a sum equal to $3.00 for each church in the Conference be appropriated for the support of the Federation.

In accordance with the vote of the Committee,

JOHN J. WALKER, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MORAL AND SOCIAL WELFARE

At a meeting of the Committee which was held in the Fall it was deemed advisable to send out letters to our ministers and churches relating to the subject of national prohibition and moving pictures.

The Committee took a positive attitude in these letters in favor of our people supporting all measures which uphold national prohibition. In spite of the wide spread opposition to state supervision of moving pictures manifest even among many having the general welfare at heart, the Committee nevertheless announced itself as decidedly in favor of such control, pointing out especially the important effect of moving picture exhibitions upon the impressionable minds of the children.

At the request of the Baptist Social Commission of Massachusetts the Federation of Churches called a meeting in January of the Social Service Commissions of the various denominations to take united action in reference to questions of vital importance to the welfare of the State. In this general meeting our Congregational Committee on Moral and Social Welfare participated. As an outcome of this meeting and subsequent conferences suggestions were formulated relating to the enforcement of prohibition and the necessity of vigilant watchfulness on the part of the people of our churches for the purpose of improving the character of moving pictures. It was also advocated that the denominations co-operate in promoting President Harding's recommendation in favor of the entrance of the United States into the World Court.

While the members of the committee as individuals were apparently heartily in sympathy with the last named proposal it did not seem to them to be within the province of the Committee to make any specific recommendation on a matter of this nature.

Our Committee is in entire accord with the suggestions of the inter-denominational conferences regarding national prohibition and moving pictures. In accordance with these suggestions we urge that our Congregational people who may witness the display of any moving picture which seems to them detrimental to public welfare and the spirit of good will among the various classes and races within the Commonwealth report the same to the State Committee on Motion Pictures, 55 Kilby Street, Boston.

We also urge that the people of our churches oppose every measure, legislative or otherwise, which tends to weaken the effectiveness of national prohibition.

The Committee has used only a part of its appropriation for the current year, due to the fact that we have sought to avoid duplicating the efforts of other moral and social agencies along the same lines. Nevertheless the work of the coming year may call for the expenditure of a larger sum and we ask for an appropriation of $75.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RURAL CONDITIONS

Your Committee would urge upon our churches just recognition of the country field, followed by action which is meet. As many at the lure of the city are abandoning farm and village home, and yielding their inheritance to aliens, we must take counsel of Christian generalship, both for the sake of the original stock and the aliens themselves.

Half of our strength, social, economic and religious is in the country. The Country is primal, original, basic. Agriculture is not a luxury but a necessity and holds kinship with the fine arts. Jesus was from the country. Christianity is enshrined in metaphors and parables of country life.

God holds us to his Great-Out-of-Doors as the major chapter in his self-revelation. What was Christ's task cannot be less than a man's job. St. John's apocalypse was in the vision of the city of God, but Jesus' life was largely spent in the service of Galilee, and from Olivet was the vision that lifted men's eyes to heaven. It is significant that St. Paul had his Arabia, and that Jesus had the mountain side and wilderness and garden for his holiest communings. The Early Church was scattered abroad from its concentration at Jerusalem, and the Pilgrims were the Pioneers in making the soil of a new Republic. The better country means the better city.

The dearth of men for the rural field has become increasingly acute and calls for wise and definite action. To this end the suggestions of former committees include, Thorough survey and knowledge of the field, The building of church programs with respect to the whole community, Federation of competing churches with the implied inter-denominational comity, Cooperation with the Grange, town and school officials and other welfare bodies, The raising of special funds for the larger design, The larger Parish Plan and pastoral extension service, Yearly Institutes and Conferences of rural ministers and leaders, as for several years at Amherst and at Northfield, The recognition of the need of interpreting the spirit of the Gospel to the rural mind in terms of the native life. John Frederick Oberlin is cited as a type of life needed.

The call is for men who have caught the vision and will obey.

> " Give me men to match my mountains,
> Give me men to match my plains."

The " Andover Band " idea should be revived in the seminaries, to give the early and latter years to the country service, and ministers in larger centers should be stirred, as many are, to minister to adjacent sparsely settled territory. The yoking of fields under the guidance of the Home Missionary Society is specially stressed as practical and efficient. The adventure of Faith in the use of personal talents, be they of the head or the hand, will find as fertile a field in the humanity of the country as in the city.

Your Committee recommends a minimum salary of $1,200. for every well trained minister in charge of rural work that is a man's job, and that to this end rural churches use the offices of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, which is just the Right Hand of all the 604 Congregational churches of our Commonwealth. This is justice and not charity and the resources in the hands of the Society ought to be a Sustentation Fund for that purpose.

Your Committee recommends that wide publicity be given to the Institute and Conference of rural ministers of all denominations to be held at Amherst Agricultural College in July, and that leaflets relating thereto be distributed to the end that many workers may avail themselves of this opportunity.

For the Committee,
HENRY E. OXNARD, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

MAY 1923. RECOMMENDATIONS.

1. That the name of this committee be changed so as to be The Committee on Religious Education.
2. That an appropriation of $150.00 be made for the work of the committee in the ensuing year.
3. That the young people's rally at the state conference be a separate meeting in the preparation and conduct of which the young people of the State have as large a share as possible.
4. That the District Secretary for New England and the National Young People's Secretary be ex-officio members of the State Committee.
5. In view of the need that a generation of children be brought up to the idea of the futility and wrong of war, we recommend that the State Conference take action adopting measures to put this training into the program of the church and the church school, that all ages may be constantly receiving instruction on these points..

REPORT

The committee views its task as one of practical helpfulness to the churches in developing their local educational work with children and young people. It acts in close cooperation with other agencies in the same field.

In order to do its work effectively the task has been divided among the following sub-committees under the leadership of the chairmen indicated: —

Committee on Week Day Religious Education, Rev. A. W. Bailey, Chairman, succeeded by Rev. E. L. Shaver.

Committee on District Young People's Rallies, Mr. Bryant Nichols, Chairman.

Committee on the Development of Leadership, Rev. Harry Thomas Stock, Chairman.

Committee on Religious Education Stereopticon Slides, Mrs. M. P. Yarrow, Chairman.

WEEK DAY RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Early in the year this sub-committee communicated with all of the pastors in the State enclosing and calling attention to the pamphlet on Week Day Religious Education, published by the Education Society, and announcing the discussion to be held at Great Barrington. It urged the pastors to think over the problems involved and bring questions and suggestions to the conference. It urged the churches to prepare for week day instruction and begin it whenever feasible. There is a marked interest in the state and an increasing number of churches are beginning to meet the need.

By recommendation of this committee, Secretary Shaver is to hold office hours at the State Conference.

DISTRICT YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLIES

In September 1922 the committee sent personal letters to the scribes of the district associations suggesting young people's rallies in connection with the fall meetings. While there was a good response, a majority felt that it was not feasible to do this in 1922. The Suffolk West Association held a rally at which about eighty young people participated in a successful supper, and the young people helped in the evening program.

In March 1923 the committee, in preparation for the spring meeting, sent letters to 506 pastors asking,—

1. Whether they were in favor of the young people's rally at the spring meeting.
2. Whether they would urge their own young people to attend.
3. Whether they would favor a conference of pastors to discuss problems of young people in their churches.
4. What the pastor's most pressing young people's problems were.

Out of 206 replies received, 80% were unqualifiedly in favor of the first three suggestions. Less than 5% opposed. The replies furnished much valuable information under the fourth point.

Then a letter was sent to the scribes of the district associations giving the facts the pastors had furnished, and asking that they urge the promotion of young people's rallies at the spring meeting. It is too early, at present to tabulate results.

It is the determination of the sub-committee continuously and persistently to keep this plan before the associations until it is at least given a more thorough trial.

STATE CONFERENCE RALLY

At the Fitchburg Rally in 1922 about 250 shared in the supper, the accommodations not being sufficient for the numbers gathered. It was necessary to adjourn from the banquet hall to the auditorium of the church for the evening exercises. A conference was led by Rev. H. W. Gates during which a number of young people from different places gave experience or suggestions. Nearly all of the young people signed cards expressing their willingness to be called upon by their own pastors for local church service. An inspirational address was given by Rev. Geo. W. Owen. The conviction was deepened that the young people's rally should be a permanent part of the State Conference meeting, and that it is wisest to hold it separately from the other meetings of the conference. The organizing of the Fitchburg Conference was under the direction of a local committee of which Miss Dorothy H. Sawyer was chairman.

The sub-committee has been working upon plans for a similar rally and conference in connection with the meeting at Great Barrington, the details of which at the time of going to press are still too indefinite to report.

DEVELOPMENT OF LEADERSHIP THROUGH THE LOCAL PARISH

This committee has prepared a list of suggestions to pastors and leaders which can be had by writing to the chairman, Rev. Harry T. Stock, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, Mass. Among the general suggestions are the following:

a. That church constitutions give young people a larger share in the actual management of church affairs.

b. That the Young People's Department be assigned a section of the church auditorium and teachers see that the seats are as well filled as possible.

c. That young persons, representative of the young people, be on the standing committees of the church.

d. That young people be made delegates to conferences and associations, and report before the whole church, perhaps at a Sunday night meeting.

e. Tie up an older boy to a junior boy.

f. Have an adult councillor for the young people, whether organized into a department or not. This applies to ages 18-24 as well as to 15 to 17.

g. Educate in dramatic standards.

h. Educate consistently in money giving.

i. That annual church school reports tell what the young people are doing in the business of the church.

j. That Religious Vocations be presented, among others, in addresses and conferences on vocational guidance.

The committee has also carefully considered Recruiting, Summer Assemblies, and Teacher Training; and its findings are available by correspondence.

STEREOPTICON SLIDES

The sub-committee on the preparation of a set of stereopticon slides has secured some new photographs of thoroughly good departmental work in the church school and added these to some slide material already gathered for his lecture on Social Education by Doctor Holt, and some good material on church buildings, furnished by the Federal Council of Churches and is preparing a set of 60 slides which will be available for use by churches and pastors.

GENERAL SUGGESTIONS

Pastors are urged to avail themselves of the helps, agencies and expert advisors in the offices of the denomination, and to write to the members of the committee for help on special problems.

Pastors can help by sending to the committee or to the Educational Field Secretary, a list of selected young people to whom practical suggestions for the local work can be sent.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE TO PLAN A COURSE OF READING FOR LAYMEN LICENSED TO PREACH

The Committee has had four meetings, has had access to courses of study being used in other states, has prepared a three-year course of reading, and has added a supplementary list of books for additional reading.

A letter was sent to the registrars of the District Associations within the state to ascertain the need for such a course and in what manner it could best be made available to those who should use it.

The registrars of 12 Districts out of 25 replied. The information in those replies is summarized below.

SUMMARY

Have you had any such course of study?	Yes 0
	No 9
	Not answered 3
Have there been any special requirements in the way of study and reading for men who sought licensure and ordination?	Yes 3
	No 9

Extended course required by one Association as the result of action taken at its last meeting.

In just what ways can this Committee serve you in making this material available?

List of books might help. List of requirements of candidates for license.

Should have list of required reading. Think each of our ministers should have. There are some of our ministers many years out and who by the press of parish work have neglected their reading and need to bring themselves up to date.

By keeping the scribe posted. When the occasion arises he will call the attention of the Committee on Ministerial Standing to it.

No way. Protested in vain.

Give one or two-year course under the Committee on Ministerial Standing. Then have a special course of one year. This would give finishing touches under influence of professors and surroundings of study.

Ought the State Committee directly, or through some of our schools, to look after students of this kind for District Associations, or are you through your Committee on Ministerial Standing prepared to handle the same?

Should say that the theological schools are the best equipped to do this.

I think it would be helpful to have the State Committee make some such arrangements as you suggest, speaking from my own point of view.

The State Committee is better prepared to handle this matter than our Committee on Ministerial Standing.

Committee on Ministerial Standing would seem better agency.

Will you kindly give us any other data which would in any way bear upon what the State Conference has asked us to do?

Suggest that you get advice from Hartford, Yale, Andover, Harvard and Bangor. Such advice will have to be checked up by the fact that these institutions deal for the most part with college graduates, but I think such men as Dean Sperry of Harvard and Dean Brown of Yale are in close enough touch with actual conditions in the church to help in this problem.

It will be a good idea to confer occasionally with the Secretary of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society who sends students to fill the vacant Home Missionary pulpits.

The replies from District Association Registrars have some additional information which may be of value. They will be delivered in connection with this report to whomsoever the State Conference may direct.

Your Committee recommends:

1. That the Reading Course be printed in such numbers as shall supply the need of the District Associations for perhaps six to eight years and that it might be well to have a copy for each Congregational minister in the state.

2. That the District Association provide for oversight and examinations for those taking the course. If the District Association has not parties who can and will do this, it may be possible to secure the service of Congregational faculty members of our theological schools.

3. That, in case there were a number of licentiates, two or three days of lectures be held if feasible, in connection with the State Conferences, either before or after. These could be given by professors from colleges and seminaries.

The C. E. S. has been asked to prepare a similar course to submit to the National Council, which course the Council will recommend to the State Conferences in the hope that a larger measure of uniformity among the states may be secured. This course will be presented to the Council meeting in Springfield this coming October.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE THE PLAN OF THE UNITED CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

The scandal of a divided Protestantism in the face of the tasks of our day is a grief to all earnest Christians. In spite of the rapid growth of the spirit of co-operation, denominational rivalry is still a hindrance to the Christian enterprise both at home and abroad.

The Federal Council of The Churches of Christ has performed a most valuable service in uniting thirty-one Protestant denominations for practical work in evangelistic, social, economic, inter-racial and international enterprises.

But of these thirty-one religious bodies, perhaps twenty are ready to co-operate to this extent, but are not prepared to take any further steps toward closer union or amalgamation. The others, however, including some of the largest and most influential, are so nearly alike that they are naturally competitive. These Churches feel to an increasing degree that their similarity ought not to lead to denominational rivalry, but to impel to a closer union.

A plan for organic union of the evangelical churches of the United States originated in the Presbyterian General Assembly of 1918. It was developed by leaders from eighteen denominations, among whom our representatives were Dr. Raymond Calkins, Dr. Herring and Prof. Williston Walker. It was adopted by an Inter-Church Council, representing eighteen communions, in February, 1920. Our National Council appointed sixteen delegates to this gathering, of whom twelve were in attendance. Their favorable report was adopted by the National Council of 1921 at Los Angeles, which cordially approved the Plan and submitted it to the churches for consideration at their associations and conferences.

Of the twenty-five associations of Massachusetts, so far as your Committee is informed, fifteen have approved of this Plan of Union, two have voted adversely, and eight have as yet taken no action.

The Plan of Union does not propose to obliterate the existing denominations and make one great denomination out of the bodies which unite under it. Our brethren in Canada and Australia are ready to go even that far, and there are many among us who are impatient of denominational distinctions and eager to sweep them all away. But it is doubtful if the Protestant churches of the country are yet ready for that step. But it is proposed to unite these denominations under the common name of "THE UNITED CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA," retaining for the present the familiar designations as sub-titles, and preserving their own creeds, forms of government and modes of worship. In the words of Webster, it is " Liberty and Union " which is proposed.

It proposes, further, that a representative Council, with a proportionate membership of lay and clerical members in equal numbers, be created by the constituent churches. This Council is to meet every two years and will be a legislative body, seeking to harmonize and unify the work of the churches uniting, prevent overlapping, friction, competition and waste, and to lead in united educational, missionary and inspirational activities, working through such Commissions or Boards as it may create. Its powers are strictly limited by the constitution, yet the constituent churches may, year by year, if they wish, entrust to this body an increasing amount of guidance in their combined affairs.

In general outline, this Plan of Union is analogous to our National Council, working through its Commissions, and notably its Commission on Missions.

This Plan of Union is to become effective when formally assented to by at least six denominations. The Methodist Episcopal Church (North) at its General Conference in 1920, cordially commended the Plan to its churches for their careful study and authorized its Bishops to appoint delegates to the Council, if the Plan became operative by 1924. The Presbyterian Church in The United States at its General Assembly in 1920 approved the Plan and sent it down for ratification to the presbyteries. The Reformed Church in the United States adopted the Plan and sent it down to its Classes for approval or rejection. Our own National Council has approved the Plan and referred it to the churches for their endorsement.

It happens that all three members of your Committee are in The Suffolk West Association which considered this Plan of Union at length at its meeting in Brighton, in October, 1922, and passed a resolution recording its entire approval of the proposals. But the Association also put on record its conviction that these proposals might go much farther. There are groups of churches whose conception of the validity of orders in the Church is the same as ours, with whom we can sit at the Communion Table as members of one Christian family with no sense of embarrassment, and with whom our natural spiritual associations are close and precious. A declaration to this effect and an affirmation of our common principles, practices and purposes, more definite and pronounced than that in the Preamble of the proposed Plan of Union, to which assent might cordially be given by such bodies, might register a more marked advance toward union than has yet been attained.

Your Committee, therefore, submits the following resolution:

RESOLVED that the Massachusetts Congregational Conference at its One Hundred and Twenty-first Annual Meeting, held in Great Barrington, May 21-23, 1923, records its approval of the movement toward Organic Union among the leading Evangelical Churches of the U. S. A. as set forth in the Plan of Union endorsed by the National Council of 1921, and expresses its willingness to commit to the National Council of 1923 the adjustment of any essential details which the future may require.

Respectfully submitted,
EDWARD M. NOYES,
SAMUEL H. WOODROW.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON RELATIONS

OF THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH BUILDING SOCIETY AND THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH UNION OF BOSTON

Memorial to the State Conference of 1922, at Fitchburg, presented by Mr. Samuel Usher on behalf of the Congregational Church Union of Boston and Vicinity.

WHEREAS, The income of the Congregational Church Union of Boston and Vicinity, other organizations and agencies endeavoring to promote Church Extension work within the State, is entirely inadequate to present-day needs.

WHEREAS, Normal development along lines of improvement of properties used for church purposes, and the construction of new church edifices, has been seriously halted for several years by the excessive cost of labor and material, due to World War conditions; and

WHEREAS, The great missionary, educational and philanthropic agencies of the Congregational denomination have been, and still are, dependent in large measure upon the gifts of the churches of Massachusetts, it behooves us to take immediate steps to restore to full efficiency, at as early a date as possible, all the churches of our order located in large centers of population and to establish new churches in promising communities throughout the State, if the work of these honored agencies is to be continued and extended; and

WHEREAS, The present practice of forwarding the gifts of the churches for Church Extension directly to the Congregational Church Building Society, is not promotive of the best interests of the denomination nor in line with the practice of other denominations; therefore be it

RESOLVED, First, That we petition the Massachusetts Conference of Congregational Churches at its session in Fitchburg, to adopt an arrangement with respect to the gifts of the churches for Church Extension, similar to that governing their gifts to home missionary work, by the appointment of a Treasurer to receive such gifts, and a council to pass upon the distribution of such funds, with the understanding that so much of said funds as are not absolutely needed to maintain church efficiency within the State, shall be forwarded to the Church Building Society for use elsewhere;

Second, That we suggest, as a substitute for the foregoing,— in avoidance of a new organization,— that the Treasurer of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society be appointed treasurer of said funds, and the Executive Committee of said Society be constituted the council to pass upon the applications of the Congregational Church Union, and other recognized organizations, or individual churches outside the territory served by the Union; and Third, That the Conference be requested to endorse the work of the Congregational Church Union of Boston and Vicinity and give consideration, in this connection, to the question of enlarging the area of service of said Union, and the creation of co-operative organizations at strategic points throughout the State; and that the Conference urge upon the twenty-six local Associations of the State to co-operate heartily with these agencies.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE

A Your Committee has had personal conferences with representatives of both the Congregational Church Union and the Congregational Church Building Society and has sought to conserve not alone the interest of both Societies but also our local needs in conjunction with the nation-wide work of our churches.

We desire to express our very deep appreciation of the years of devotion given by the Congregational Church Union and the great results reached by it in strengthening the efficiency of the Congregational churches in Greater Boston. We recognize also the need of loyal backing for the Congregational Church Union in further enterprises which are now under contemplation by them.

B We are unanimous in believing that the best result will be reached by a conference to be held as early as practicable between the heads of the National Congregational Church Building Society, the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, and the Congregational Church Union, together with those of any other similar city organizations in the Commonwealth which may wish to be included. Such a conference of those most directly responsible and conversant with the facts would, we believe, lead to mutual understanding and a satisfactory agreement as to matters of common policy. We recommend that such a conference be held and we suggest that the Congregational Church Union take the initiative in calling it together.

C With regard to the definite proposal made in the Memorial your Committee would advance the following considerations:

1 We feel first of all that it is fundamental, whatever measures are adopted, to conserve all the sources of income for the work under consideration. The Congregational Church Union and similar organizations in other centers of the State, because of their local appeal, have been able to raise large sums of money in addition to the amounts contributed to the Congregational Church Building Society, and many of the churches, in their missionary budgets, include at present items both for the Congregational Church Building Society and for the Congregational Church Union or other local agencies. It is to be feared that if the National Society were to be made the agent for raising money for the local work, important local sources of income would not be reached, and the tendency on the part of the churches would be to include but one item for Church Building so that the total contribution would be diminished rather than increased.

2 We recognize that Massachusetts has always been, and must always continue to be, a strong supporter of the National Society. If Massachusetts does not carry a large share of the nation-wide work, what state can? But the plan proposed would give to the National Treasury only "so much of State funds as are not absolutely needed" for work in Massachusetts.
As the total gifts of Massachusetts to the Congregational Church Building Society in the latest Year-Book were but $47,854.00, it is clear that if the needs of all the communities of the Commonwealth were to be met first, out of this sum, little or nothing would be left for the National Treasury. The immediate needs in the vicinity of Boston only, as reported to your Committee by a communication from the Congregational Church Union, amount to $20,000.00.

3 On the present basis it is important to notice that of the $259,-241.00 contributed to the Congregational Church Building Society by Massachusetts churches in the period 1912–1921 $84,083.00 were applied to the aid of Massachusetts churches, or nearly one-third of the total Massachusetts gifts in that period. Considering the fact that in the newer parts of the country there are a far greater number of new churches to be equipped than in a region like Massachusetts, this seems like a very generous apportionment.

In view of these considerations the Committee does not see its way to recommend the adoption of the plan proposed in the Memorial of the Congregational Church Union, but strongly hopes that a personal conference of representatives of all the interests concerned may be called, as already recommended, leading to a satisfactory solution of the problem.

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

In our report for another year we have but few matters to mention, since few have been presented for consideration and action. A vacancy in the membership of the Seaman's Friend Society, occasioned by the resignation of James Logan of Worcester, was filled by electing William Woodward of the same city. As directed by the Conference, we appointed a committee to investigate the relations of the Conference and the Church Building Society. As finally constituted, the committee consisted of Rev. H. J. Kilbourn, Rev. E. D. Gaylord, and Rev. Shepherd Knapp. As additional members of the Committee on Federation of Churches, etc., Mrs. Nehemiah Boynton and Rev. C. S. Holton were appointed. The Treasurer's bond for $3,000 was ordered renewed. The expense bill of the Nominating Committee of the previous year was approved and ordered paid.

The Conference Secretary was instructed to print and distribute 1800 copies of the "Minutes" as usual, and to send as first class postage the program announcements for the next meeting. He was also authorized to fill all vacancies occurring during the year.

The committee recommends the following amendments to the Rules, made necessary by other amendments or other action of the Conference.

1. In Article V, section 2, omit the words "and chairmen of committees who attend to present reports," because not only the chairmen but all committee members are made actual delegates in section 1; and to change the words "ministers appointed to preach" to "and persons appointed to speak."

2. To change the last sentence of Article XIII to read, "The Conference shall annually elect five members of the Society for a term of three years."

Rev. H. L. Packard and E. V. Grabill were elected Finance Committee.

FRANCIS J. MARSH, Secretary.

STATISTICAL TABLES

EXPLANATORY

The tables which follow comprise:

1. The statistics of the churches giving the ministers, church membership, additions removals, baptisms, Sunday schools and families; the statistics of the Young People's Societies; the amount of benevolences and expenses. These tables, in accordance with the vote of the Conference, in 1887, are made to conform to those in the Year-Book; but names in the pastoral column are changed according to the latest information before going to press.

2. The Associations of the churches, with the names of officers and the times of meeting.

3. The Ministerial Standing, giving the date of ordination of each minister, the date of membership, the residence and his "employment." "P. C." means pastor by council; "P,." pastor otherwise; "W. C." means without church; "Prof." means professor; "C. M.," church missionary; "T.," teacher; other abbreviations are self-evident. "W. C.," however, includes many who have retired from active service, and some who are in business.

4. The Ministerial Record, containing lists of ordinations, installations, dismissals, and deaths.

The tables of the first part contain the names of all the Congregational churches in Massachusetts, the town and cities being arranged alphabetically; churches in each town according to age.

Church members and families are reported as numbered January 1, 1923. Admissions, removals and baptisms cover the year 1922. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females" and "total," but included in them. "Sunday school" includes total membership of officers, teachers and scholars, January 1, 1923, or when the school is in operation (if not at that date), covering "branch schools," "mission schools" and "home departments," so far as maintained by the reporting church.

The months and days in the dates of the organization of churches are omitted. They will be found in the publications of 1873, those of churches since organized being given in the "Minutes" of each year. Also the months and days in the dates of ordination and installation of ministers are omitted. The former may be found in the lists of the local Associations which follow the tables.

"Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry by the "laying-on of hands." "Commenced" denotes the date of the beginning of his present pastorate.

In accordance with the recommendations of the National Council, in the Statistical Tables pastors installed are marked "i."; pastors recognized by a council called for that purpose are marked "r."; pastors duly called by their churches, but not installed or recognized by council, are not marked.

Blanks in any column of figures are never equivalent to "none," but mean "no report"; but blanks in the column of ministers do mean that the church has no pastor or acting pastor, and the blank is left for the convenience of those who note changes.

MASSACHUSETTS.

CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE. Organized June 29, 1803. OFFICERS: Arthur H. Wellman, Topsfield, moderator; Rev. Frederick E. Emrich, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, Home Missionary Secretary; Rev. Henry Lincoln Bailey, Longmeadow, secretary; Ernest L. Miller, Newtonville, treasurer. SESSION OF 1923: Great Barrington, May 21-23.

Note. — The "year" means what changes were comprised in the twelve months preceding January 1 of the year mentioned. The table was begun in 1866, all preceding years now given being compiled from past "Minutes," — the number of churches in some years varying from the "Minutes" as they were to what they should have been.

The changes in list of churches, ordinations, installations, etc., for the past year, condensed in the above table, are given in detail in their proper place.

* Prior to 1876 "acting pastors" are included in "others" in columns of deaths of ministers.

In the above table, the columns of " Additions," " Removals," " Baptisms," and " Benevolent Contributions " cover the twelve months next preceding January 1 of the year mentioned in a given line. The number of churches, members, and of Sunday Schools was enumerated January 1 of the year mentioned. Previous to 1903 the number of churches " Vacant " includes all churches supplied by licentiates, or ministers of other denominations. Beginning with 1903, churches supplied by licentiates, or by ministers of other denominations, are counted " supplied." For Churches, Membership and Sunday-School Membership, for 1830, 1835, 1840, 1845, 1850, 1855 and 1860, see " Minutes " of 1900.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF MINISTERS

This list gives the names of pastors, or acting pastors, and of all Congregational ministers who are members of the Associations or Conferences that guard ministerial standing.

Ministers who are not reported as having ministerial standing in this state, and who have not been installed by council, are designated by a star (*). This does NOT mean that the man has no ministerial standing.

The first column of figures gives the page on which names may be found of all in pastoral service. A blank in the first column signifies that the person is not reported as being in pastoral service in this state.

The second column of figures gives the page on which ministerial standing is recorded.

The post-office addresses as given below often differ from the places named in the tables, and are supposed to be correct in this list.

An alphabetical list of licentiates follows this list.

SPECIAL NOTICE. — IF your name is not correctly printed in the preceding tables, IF one Christian name is not given in full, IF your ordination is not correct or is not in its proper place, IF your post-office is wrong, or IF before you receive the next Year-Book your post-office is changed, or IF your name is omitted from this list, the needed change or correction should be reported at once to the Rev. Henry Lincoln Bailey, Longmeadow, Mass., Secretary of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

MINUTES OF THE ONE HUNDRED TWENTY-SECOND ANNUAL MEETING

WITH THE STATISTICS

BROCKTON, MAY 19, 20, 21

THE JORDAN & MORE PRESS
BOSTON

EDITOR'S NOTE

The MINUTES seems to have shifted from an early summer to an early fall crop. Climatic changes in New England may account for it, or some may blame the editor or the printers. At any rate, here is the 1924 volume, and it has the advantage of having the Year Book pages and ministerial lists revised to September 1.

There are still some who desire to amend Article V of the Rules, concerning membership. The secretary gives this advance notice as required of the proposal to make the amendment at Holyoke next May so that the second section shall read:

2. Each church in the Conference may elect two junior delegates under the age of 25, who with delegates from corresponding bodies, persons appointed to speak to the Conference, and such other persons as the Conference may vote to admit, shall be honorary members with the privilege of speaking but without vote.

May the Conference statistician courteously beseech a prompter cooperation from those church clerks who let even February and much of March go by before sending their Year Book reports? It may seem a trifling thing to wait for one report out of 600, but there are a dozen or a score who think and act on that principle, and Massachusetts delays the Year Book more often than not.

RULES OF THE CONFERENCE

ARTICLE I. — Name

This body shall be called The Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

ARTICLE II. — Object

Its object is to promote (a) intercourse and fellowship between Congregational ministers and churches of the Commonwealth; (b) the cooperation of the churches with one another for their mutual comfort and development, and for the religious care of the home field; (c) the presentation and discussion of matters vital to our faith, and the interests of our denomination; and (d) the cooperation of this body with other ecclesiastical bodies for the general increase of Christian union and spiritual efficiency, and the advancement of Christ's kingdom in the earth.

ARTICLE III. — Doctrinal Basis

This Conference declares its steadfast allegiance to the faith which our fathers confessed, which, from age to age, has found its expression in the historic creeds of the Church Universal and of this Communion.

ARTICLE IV. — Denominational Basis

Being based exclusively upon Congregational principles, this Conference shall, under no circumstances, exercise ecclesiastical authority over churches or individuals, or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches, or consent to hear appeals, or give advice in ecclesiastical causes of any kind.

ARTICLE V. — Members

1. Each evangelical Congregational Church, Conference, and Association in this Commonwealth may choose one delegate, and these delegates, together with the pastor or pastors of each church (who shall be members ex officio), the officers and committee members of this body, two delegates from the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, one from the Board of Ministerial Aid, one from the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, one from Andover Theological Seminary, and one from the Board of Pastoral Supply, shall constitute the Conference.

2. Delegates from corresponding bodies and persons appointed to speak before the Conference, together with such other persons as the Conference may vote to admit, shall be honorary members, with the privilege of speaking, but without vote.

ARTICLE VI. — Officers

1. The officers shall be a Moderator, a Vice-Moderator, a Secretary, a Registrar, an Assistant Registrar, and a Treasurer. All members of Congregational churches in this Commonwealth shall be eligible to any of these offices. The officers shall be elected by ballot, the Moderator and Vice-Moderator each to serve one year, the other officers each to serve three years and until the election of their successors. The terms of all officers, save when chosen to fill vacancies, shall begin at the close of the meeting at which they are elected.

2. The officers, together with three delegates annually chosen by ballot for this purpose, shall constitute an Executive Committee.

3. The Moderator, or in his absence, the Vice-Moderator, shall preside over all the meetings of the Conference and shall be chairman of the Executive Committee.

4. (a) The Secretary shall conduct the correspondence of the Conference, collect and publish in connection with the annual " Minutes " the statistics of ministers and churches, distribute the publications of the Conference, copies of which he shall preserve for permanent use, give suitable notice to the churches of the time and place of each annual meeting, notify officers and committees of their election or appointment, and fulfill such other functions as the Conference may from time to time direct.

(b) The Secretary shall receive a salary of twelve hundred dollars, and by the authority and under the direction of the Executive Committee, he may, when necessary, employ an assistant, at a compensation to be fixed by the Executive Committee.

5. The Registrar shall keep a full record of each meeting, which he shall preserve as the permanent property of the Conference, and he shall also keep the minutes of the Executive Committee.

6. The Assistant Registrar shall aid the Registrar in making the records; shall take his place during his absence; and, in the event of a vacancy in the Registrar's office, shall act as Registrar until the office shall be filled by the Executive Committee or by a regular election.

7. The Treasurer shall receive all money raised for the use of the Conference, disburse the same as directed by the Executive Committee and shall make an annual report, to be audited as the Conference may direct.

8. The Executive Committee shall have charge of all the interests and business of the Conference between the annual meetings, shall fill all vacancies occurring during the interim, and shall make an annual report to the Conference.

9. The traveling expenses of the Secretary, Registrar, Assistant Registrar and Treasurer, in attending the annual meetings, shall be paid by the Conference.

ARTICLE VII. — Trustees

1. A board of five Trustees shall also be elected, two to serve three years, two to serve two years, and one to serve one year; and on each election succeeding the first, the successors of those whose terms expire shall be chosen for three years and until others are appointed in their stead by ballot; and all members of Congregational churches in this state shall be eligible thereto.

2. The Board of Trustees shall hold and manage trust funds for the benefit of the Conference and perform such duties as may be prescribed by vote of the Conference for their government, making an annual report to the Conference. The Trustees may receive such property, real and personal, as may be given to the Conference or to the Board of Trustees to be invested, used, and managed in such manner as the Conference shall from time to time direct; and in the absence of such vote of the Conference, in such manner as a majority of the Trustees shall by vote determine at any regular or special meeting of the Board of Trustees, for the use and benefit of the objects of the Conference.

ARTICLE VIII. — Annual Meeting

The annual meeting shall be held at the appointed place on the third Monday of May at two o'clock P.M., or at such other hour as the Executive Committee may find expedient.

ARTICLE IX. — Organization

The Moderator or, in his absence, the Vice-Moderator, shall call the Conference to order. In the absence of both, any member of the Executive Committee may call the Conference to order, and a moderator pro tem shall be chosen to serve during the absence of the proper officer.

ARTICLE X. — Committees

1. Immediately after the opening of the annual meeting the Moderator shall appoint: —

(a) A Committee on Credentials, to which all credentials shall be referred.

(b) A Business Committee, the duty of which shall be to prepare and present all matters of business at each session, not presented through some other committee of the Conference. All matters of business presented by any member of the Conference shall be referred to the Business Committee unless ordered to some other committee by the Conference. All matters of business referred to any committee shall be reported for action before the final adjournment of the annual meeting.

(c) A Budget Committee of three, which shall report before the close of the meeting on the state of the treasury, the amount of money needed for the ensuing year, and ways and means for meeting the need.

2. At each annual meeting there shall be elected by viva voce vote:

(a) A Program Committee of eight members, of which the Secretary of the Conference and the pastor of the Church which is to entertain the next annual meeting shall be members ex-officiis, the other members to be elected two for three years, two for two years, and two for one year, subsequent elections to be for three years each. This committee shall prepare the program for the next annual meeting, selecting the preacher of the annual sermon, and the various speakers for each session.

(b) A Committee of two, to be elected for one year, to audit the Treasurer's report.

(c) A Nominating Committee of seven, consisting of the retiring Moderator or, in his absence, of the retiring Vice-moderator, of each annual conference, together with six other members; two to be elected annually for three years, which shall make all nominations required by the Rules of the Conference or by vote. The retiring members of this committee shall not be eligible for re-election for at least one year.

(d) Such other committees as the Conference may vote to elect. Members of these committees shall be elected for such terms as the Conference shall determine. The Executive Committee shall present at each annual meeting a list of the committees the appointment of which it recommends.

3. The reports of all committees that are to be presented to the Conference shall be furnished to the Secretary on or before April 1 of each year and shall be printed and distributed to the churches not less than two weeks before the annual meeting. These reports shall not be read to the Conference save by special order; but the Program Committee may arrange for the adequate discussion of any or all of the topics presented in the reports.

ARTICLE XI. — Massachusetts Home Missionary Society

In the practical administration of its home missionary work, the instrument of the Conference shall be the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, a place for which shall be made in the program of the annual meeting.

ARTICLE XII. — Board of Ministerial Aid

The Board of Ministerial Aid shall be the agent of the Conference in the work of aiding needy ministers and their families, and shall make an annual report to the Conference. On notice of a vacancy in the membership of the Board of Ministerial Aid, the Conference shall nominate a person to fill the vacancy.

ARTICLE XIII. — Boston Seaman's Friend Society

The Boston Seaman's Friend Society shall be the agent of the Conference in the work of promoting the spiritual and temporal welfare of seamen, and shall make an annual report to the Conference. The Conference shall annually elect five members of the Society for a term of three years each.

ARTICLE XIV. — Board of Pastoral Supply

1. The Conference shall elect nine members to represent it on the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply, three members to be elected each year to serve for a period of three years.

2. The Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply shall, through its Secretary, make an annual report to the Conference.

ARTICLE XV. — Special Orders

1. Each session of the annual meeting shall be opened and closed with divine worship, and one minister to have charge of these services for all sessions of the Conference shall be named by the Program Committee.

2. On each morning of the annual meeting, after the first day, the minutes of the preceding day shall be read; the minutes of the last day shall be read immediately before the final adjournment.

3. On Monday evening of each annual meeting the annual sermon shall be preached, followed by the celebration of the Lord's Supper.

4. The place of the next annual meeting shall be recommended each year by the Business Committee and designated by vote of the Conference.

5. As far as possible, all business of the Conference shall be completed by noon of the second day of the annual meeting.

ARTICLE XVI. — Rules of Order

The Rules of Order shall be those of common parliamentary usage subject to the following specifications:

1. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the Conference.

2. When a question is before the Conference the Moderator shall entertain motions only as follows: To adjourn, to table, for the previous question, to postpone to a fixed time, to commit, to amend, or to postpone indefinitely; these several motions shall have precedence in the foregoing order.

3. No vote not essential to the conduct of the business of the Conference shall be passed except by a two-thirds vote of those present and voting; nor shall any such vote be passed, except by unanimous consent, until at least fifteen minutes shall have been allowed for debate.

ARTICLE XVII. — Amendments

1. Any of the above articles, except the first five, may be amended at any annual meeting by a two-thirds vote, provided that the proposed amendment shall have been submitted to the Conference in writing on the day previous.

2. Either of the first five articles may be amended by a two-thirds vote but only after the proposed amendment has been submitted to the Conference in writing at the previous annual meeting, and notice has been sent to the several associations, conferences, and churches connected with this body at least three months prior to the meeting at which action is to be taken.

At 2.22 the Conference was called to order by the Moderator, Rev. E. P. Drew, Auburndale.

Worship was conducted by Rev. J. E. Merrill, Aintab, Turkey, Conference Chaplain.

The address of welcome was given by Rev. R. W. Coe, pastor of the entertaining church. Response was made by the Moderator.

It was voted that the program as presented be the order of the Conference, with such additions as the Business Committee shall provide.

The Treasurer, E. L. Miller, Newtonville, read his report.

The report of the Auditing Committee was read by the Secretary. It was voted that the reports of the Treasurer and Auditing Committee be accepted and referred to the Budget Committee.

The report of the Board of Pastoral Supply was given by its Secretary, Rev. A. J. Covell, Boston. The report was accepted.

The report of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society was made by F. P. Shumway, Chairman of the Executive Committee. The report was accepted.

It was voted that Rev. R. R. Wicks, Holyoke, be granted the privilege of presenting a motion, to be referred to the Business Committee, and speak to the motion. Mr. Wicks spoke to a resolution regarding the abolition of war which was referred to the Business Committee.

The Moderator announced the appointment of the following committees:

Business: Rev. W. M. Macnair, Cambridge; Rev. F. D. Parker, Boston; Rev. E. I. Lindh, Quincy; H. G. Dixon, Neponset; Rev. S. H. Woodrow, Newton Highlands.

Budget: Rev. C. T. Chase, Great Barrington; Rev. R. S. Merrill, Longmeadow; T. K. McAllister, Springfield.

Credentials: Rev. M. O. Baltzer, Randolph; Rev. T. W. Davison, Atlantic; Rev. H. L. Bailey, Longmeadow.

The report of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment was presented by E. A. Harvey, Brookline. The following recommendations were adopted:

1. That the National apportionment budget of $5,000,000 for the year 1925 be approved and that Massachusetts accept the amount assigned to her, $1,087,500; and that this amount be reapportioned among the associations by the Committee on Missions and Apportionment.

2. That the sums given by the churches under the Apportionment Plan be divided between the societies on the following basis:

The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions	27.5%
The Women's Boards of Missions	14.0%
The American Missionary Association	13.0%
The Massachusetts Home Missionary Society	19.0%
The Congregational Church Building Society	8.5%
The Congregational Sunday School Extension Society	2.5%
The Congregational Education Society	7.0%
The Congregational Society for Ministerial Relief	4.0%
The Congregational Annuity Fund	1.0%
The Congregational Education Foundation	3.0%
Miscellaneous	.5%
	100.0%
The Boston Seaman's Friend Society an additional	1.2%

3. That, subject to the approval of the Committee on Missions and Apportionments, the office of State field representative now filled by Rev. Francis L. Cooper be continued for another year, the salary and expenses for office, traveling and incidentals, to be paid by the Commission on Missions.

4. That the societies under the Apportionment be authorized and urged to present their work in the pulpits of the State through their representatives in so far as they may be invited to do so by the ministers, but always as a part of the united work. However, we recognize that each representative can best tell of the work that he knows and we urge him to do so, but as a part of the work as a whole and in fairness to the other parts. We further urge that when any church has, during the previous year, given only an insignificant amount, or nothing whatsoever, to any society, the representatives of such society endeavor to secure a worthy contribution from that church by any method acceptable to that church.

5. That the Committee on Missions and Apportionment request the church treasurers in remitting funds, either to divide them according to the agreed percentages and remit separately to the societies, or remit the entire amount to the Treasurer of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, with the request that he divide the remittance among the societies.

The recommendation:

That the treasurer of the Conference be authorized to pay the expenses of the committee for travel, printing and other matters, to the extent of $500 upon approval of the Secretary or Chairman was referred to the Budget Committee.

The report was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Federation of Churches and Co-operation with other Denominations was made by Rev. J. J. Walker. The report was accepted. The resolution:

That a similar committee of thirty-two, one-half of whom shall be ministers and one-half laymen, be appointed for the coming year to represent the Conference in the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, and that the chairman of that Committee be authorized to designate alternates for those members who cannot attend the meetings of the Council of Federation, as such shall be called,

was adopted.

The resolution:

That a sum equal to $3.00 for each church in the Conference be appropriated for the support of the Federation, was referred to the Budget Committee.

The report of the Committee on Moral and Social Welfare was presented by Rev. A. S. Wheelock, Andover. The following resolutions, recommended by the committee, were adopted:

Last year the Welfare Committee took a pronounced position favoring the regulation of moving pictures by the state; we reaffirm that conviction. Our replies from many quarters convince us that the general condition of the moving picture theatres justifies a decided movement toward wise state regulation. It may be said that no plan which has yet been devised fits the case; but at least for the sake of the children of the community, we cannot supinely consent to things as they are. It is certainly within the province of the Commonwealth to devise methods of control and regulation which shall lessen existing evils. To the child, the moving picture is as much a part of his education as the school book; if the state has any duties whatever in relation to the training of children, it would seem to us that it has an obligation here.

Your committee urges that every effort be made by our people to turn the Commonwealth from its present anomalous attitude to hearty co-operation with the present Federal legislation on the subject of prohibition. Inasmuch as a referendum is to be taken in our state next November on our enforcement code we strongly urge the constituency of our churches to promote to the utmost the work of registering voters and then above all the casting of a large vote in favor of strict enforcement of the prohibition law. We are the more urgent in this plea in view of the fact that in November 1922, fifty per cent of Massachusetts' possible voters did not go to the polls.

We hereby call the attention of our State Commissioner of Education and our various superintendents of schools to this important subject and ask them to work out some definite policy of ethical instruction in our public schools.

It would seem to your committee, judging from our replies that in community work of the type carried on by these churches there is a field of endeavor too largely unutilized. Many rural churches should make themselves in a larger degree than at present social and civic centres and many city churches could well engage in welfare work as in the Holyoke instance.

The resolution asking for an appropriation of $75.00 for the use of the committee was referred to the Budget Committee.

The committee presented a resolution from the Anti-Saloon League regarding election of trustees to that body. Superintendent Forgrave of the League was given three minutes to speak to the resolution which was referred to the Business Committee. The report of the committee was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Religious Education was presented by Rev. Vaughan Dabney, Boston. The following recommendations of the committee were adopted:

Education for World Peace. In order to educate our youth for world peace we would recommend that in the various departments of our church schools, especially in the younger grades, by the means of worship programs, lesson courses and probiem projects, we seek to create definite and positive attitudes and ideals opposed to the principles of war and in harmony with the principles of good will and international brotherhood. In times of peace prepare for war and you get war. In times of peace prepare for peace and you get peace. Let us educate our young that they may organize the world into a Christian family.

Respect for Law. We would also recommend that the idea of the sanctity of the law be kept before our young and that they be reminded that obedience to law is liberty. This refers to all law, but has a special reference to the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Social Problems. We would further recommend that the members of our church schools both by precept and by example be taught that the ultimate and only solution of all of our social, racial and industrial problems is to be found in the Christian Gospel of justice, brotherhood, cooperation and righteousness.

In the light of our primary aim we would recommend that members of this committee be selected on the basis of their interest in religious education, their intimate acquaintance either through training or experience with the subject and their willingness to study the needs of the churches throughout the state.

Intensive Spiritual Cultivation. We would recommend that the conference approve our plans to secure results by actually demonstrating methods and ideas in certain selected fields, that these specific projects be carried to completion and the results of this intensive work be made available for the use of the churches.

The recommendation that an appropriation of $250 be made for the committee was referred to the Budget Committee. The report was accepted.

The report of the Committee on Relations between the Churches and Colleges was made by Rev. F. M. Sheldon, Boston. The recommendation that the committee be continued was adopted. The recommendation that $100 be appropriated for the use of the committee was referred to the Budget Committee. The report was accepted.

The report of the Evangelistic Committee was presented by Rev. A. P. Pratt, Greenfield. The following resolution was adopted and the report accepted:

That the Committee on Evangelism, co-operating when practical with the Home Missionary Society, arrange for a series of conferences of pastors at such strategic points in the state as would best serve those pastors to whom a conference of this nature might be acceptable.

The report of the Executive Committee was accepted.

An invitation from the Walk-Over Shoe Co. to visit its plant was read. It was voted that the Conference express its appreciation for the courtesy thus extended by the company.

The Nominating Committee presented the names of the following deacons to serve at the Lord's Supper, which list was accepted: W. L. Phelps, Greenfield; F. H. Bird, East Douglas; G. J. Esselen, Roxbury; B. F. Kimball, Woburn; J. M. Smith, West Springfield; A. G. Moody, East Northfield; G. M. Howard, Campello; John Kee, Brockton; Jesse Perkins, Brockton; Alternate, G. F. Kendall, Cambridge.

Prayer was then offered by Rev. A. F. Pierce, Boston; and the Conference took a recess until 7.30 in the evening.

MONDAY EVENING

The evening session opened with worship conducted by the chaplain, Rev. J. E. Merrill. Rev. F. W. Hodgdon, Boston, presented the work of the Board for Ministerial Relief and an offering of $163.55 was made. The Conference sermon was preached by Rev. E. M. Noyes, Newton, from the text: Hebrews 13 : 8, "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today, and forever."

The Lord's Supper was administered by Rev. G. E. Cary, Bradford, and following this the Conference took a recess till Tuesday morning at 9.00 o'clock.

TUESDAY MORNING

The session opened at 9.00 o'clock with Vice-Moderator, Frederick Fosdick, Fitchburg, presiding. Worship was conducted by the chaplain, Rev. J. E. Merrill. The minutes of Monday's sessions were read and after correction were approved.

The following proposed amendment to the Rules of the Conference was read, action to be taken at Wednesday's session:

"The Conference shall elect nine members to represent it on the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply, three members to be elected each year to serve for a period of three years."

The Nominating Committee made the following nominations. It was voted that the secretary cast one ballot for the officers and the three members of Executive Committee and that the report be accepted and adopted:

The Business Committee presented the following resolutions which were adopted:

That this Conference again place its stamp of endorsement on the work of the Near East Relief and that ten minutes of its time be devoted to hearing of the emergencies arising in that work, that time to be selected by the Business Committee.

That our Committee on Religious Education continue and if possible enlarge its efforts toward the training of our membership in the intelligent desire for world peace.

That the list of churches be printed in the same order as at present. To arrange them alphabetically by post office might effect some economies but in many cases it would lead to confusion, as in greater Boston.

That a commission composed of the following named gentlemen be appointed to study the inter-relationship between the Massachusetts State Conference, the Missionary Committee, the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, the Congregational Church Union, the City Missionary Society, the local associations, and matters relating thereto and make a report to the next Conference: J. H. Leman, Chairman; H. L. Sampson, Secretary; Rev. E. M. Noyes, Rev. W. R. Campbell, E. A. Harvey, E. H. Bigelow, Samuel Usher, William Ellison, Rev. Sidney Lovett, O. C. Boothby, Rev. A. M. Parker, and that this commission have power to fill vacancies and add to its number to a total not to exceed fifteen. Its Secretary is authorized to call the commission together at the earliest convenient date.

That the Nominating Committee bring in eight names as the trustees representing the Congregational Churches of Massachusetts in the Anti-Saloon League of Massachusetts.

That the Conference accept the invitation of the Second Church in Holyoke for its next meeting.

At 9.50 the first topic of the morning, "Recruiting the Membership," was taken up, Rev. C. H. Baldwin, Easton, speaking on the Rural Field, and Rev. J. L. Mitchell, Attleboro, speaking on the Urban Field.

The second topic, "Building Through Education," was in charge of Rev. Vaughan Dabney, Boston, and was opened with a discussion which was participated in by members of the Conference.

Prof. George A. Coe of New York gave an address on "An Adequate Program of Religious Education," and following this address there was further discussion. The Conference then took a recess till the close of the Home Missionary Meeting.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The Conference convened at 5 o'clock for a business session, the Moderator, Rev. E. P. Drew, being in the chair.

The Business Committee made the following recommendations, which were adopted:

That we commend the attitude of President Coolidge toward the World Court and we urge the United States Senate to adopt the recommendations of the President, under the reservations suggested by President Harding and Secretary Hughes. We recommend that copies of this resolution be sent to President Coolidge and our two Massachusetts senators.

We greatly regret the Japanese Clause in the Immigration Bill and express the hope that the President and Congress may alter it so that it will not be regarded as unfriendly to a sister nation.

We recommend that this Conference place itself on record as strongly opposed to weakening or modification of the Volstead Law and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Judiciary Committee of the House and Senate in Washington. We also favor the adoption of an enforcement code in Massachusetts.

The resolution regarding the menace of war was referred back to the Business Committee, and Rev. F. C. Seymour, North Amherst, and Rev. Hugh MacCallum, Everett, were added to the Business Committee to act with them on this resolution.

The Secretary, Rev. H. L. Bailey, presented the following amendment to Article V, Section 2, to be acted on at the next annual meeting, so as to read:

2. Each church in the Conference may elect two junior delegates under the age of 25, who with delegates from corresponding bodies, persons appointed to speak to the Conference, and such other persons as the Conference may vote to admit, shall be honorary members with the privilege of speaking but without vote."

The Nominating Committee made the following nominations and they were elected:

For Nominating Committee: For one year, Rev. R. W. Coe, Brockton.
Committee on Relation of Colleges and the Churches: Principal F. L. Boyden, Deerfield; Rev. J. A. Hawley, Amherst; Professor Eliza H. Kendrick, Wellesley; Rev. E. I. Lindh, Quincy; Rev. E. B. Robinson, Holyoke Principal A. E. Stearns, Andover; H. T. Stock, Boston.
Trustees of Anti-Saloon League: Rev. A. S. Wheelock, Andover; Rev. W. M. Macnair, Cambridge; G. D. Chamberlain, Springfield; Rev. M. A. Farren, Boston; Rev. E. C. Camp, Watertown; A. W. Robinson, Natick; C. A. Jenney, Brockton; Philip Emerson, Lynn.

It was voted that a committee of three be appointed to co-operate with the Secretary to secure a fuller representation next year.

The Conference then took a recess till 8 o'clock in the evening.

At 6 o'clock a banquet was served at the Walkover Club. A Young People's Conference was also held at the Porter Church with a banquet at 6.30 o'clock and an address at 8 o'clock by Rev. R. W. Coe, Brockton, on the subject, " What Part Should the Young People Have in the Local Church."

TUESDAY EVENING

The Conference convened at 8 o'clock. Worship was conducted by Rev. J. E. Merrill, Chaplain. In the absence by illness of Rev. C. S. Mills, New York, the address of the evening was given by Rev. Charles Wesley Burns, Bishop of the M. E. Church for Montana. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Raymond Calkins, Cambridge, and the Conference took a recess till 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

WEDNESDAY MORNING

The Conference convened at 9 o'clock. Worship was conducted by Rev. J. E. Merrill, Chaplain. The minutes of Tuesday's sessions were read and accepted.

The Budget Committee made the following report which was adopted:

National Council	$12,153.04
Board of Pastoral Supply	2,785.07
Massachusetts Federation of Churches	1,800.00
Secretary's Salary	1,200.00
Secretary's Expenses	200.00
Printing	750.00
Delegates Expenses	250.00
Contingencies	150.00
For Committees:
Moral and Social Conditions	75.00
Missions and Apportionment	500.00
Relation of Churches and Colleges	100.00
Rural Conditions	50.00
Evangelism	50.00
Religious Education	250.00
Total	$20,301.11

The Committee recommended a levy of 13 cents per member, the remainder to be taken from balance on hand.

The following amendment to Article XIV, Section 1, was adopted:

"The Conference shall elect nine members to represent it on the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply, three members to be elected each year to serve for a period of three years."

The Nominating Committee presented the names of the following persons for the committee to assist the Secretary in securing attendance, and they were elected:

Rev. J. L. Findlay, Easthampton; Rev. S. H. Woodrow, Newton Highlands; Mrs. G. E. Cary, Haverhill.

H. L. Willett of the Near East Relief Commission presented its work and the needs of the sufferers.

The Business Committee offered the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Inasmuch as war is the supreme moral evil of our time, having become under modern conditions so destructive and demoralizing to human life and character, and denying the doctrine that war is inevitable in international disputes, and asserting that it is contrary to the mind of Christ

Be it therefore resolved:

1. That we reaffirm our abiding faith and reliance upon moral and spiritual forces in the settlement of international difficulties;
2. That the abolition of war is the great task confronting the Christian church today, challenging her to use all her influence and power to develop the Christian conscience, and to arouse and mobilize public opinion against the war system and method;

3. In thus condemning the war system, we do not go on record as disapproving of the use of force under all conditions. We distinguish between the war system, which means competitive preparation by each nation for conflicts which are deemed inevitable, and a police system which means the co-operative effort of all nations to preserve the peace of the world.

4. That it is the duty of the Christian church to scrutinize and adequately criticize all secular or public policies that tend to make for war.

5. That in order to make these resolutions more effective, we recommend to the Conference the appointment of a committee consisting of the following persons: Rev. R. R. Wicks, Holyoke; Rev. A. B. Coe, Somerville; Rev. Sidney Lovett, Boston; Rev. J. E. Park, Newton; Rev. D. I. Patch, Arlington; H. A. Snow, Arlington Heights; Dr. W. N. Tenney, Canton; G. H. Leach, Brockton; President Mary E. Woolley, South Hadley; Miss Eliza H. Kendrick, Wellesley; Mrs. W. M. Macnair, Cambridge, who shall study the whole problem in the light of the teachings of Jesus, and shall seek to canvass and evoke the latent convictions of the members of our churches, recognizing that wide differences of view exist as to method, though springing from the same intense desire to rid the world of war.

6. That this committee shall endeavor to correlate the developing opinion within our churches, with similar opinion both Christian and secular, in this and other countries, as a basis for the abolition of war as a means for settling international disputes.

7. That the Budget Committee be authorized to appropriate the sum of $200 for the use of the Committee, and that the Committee be empowered to fill any vacancies.

It was voted that the report of the Budget Committee be reconsidered and that $200 be appropriated for the use of the Committee on Abolition of War.

The following resolutions presented by the Business Committee were adopted:

Whereas satisfactory adjustment is being made between local societies and the National Church Building Society with regard to the distribution and security of church building funds, and,

Whereas, the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society does not deem it wise to retain such funds within the state or take charge of such funds,

Resolved, that no further action be taken with regard to setting up a separate organization for church building in Massachusetts.

Recognizing the gracious hospitality and abundant good will of the people of the South Congregational Church and of the other co-operating churches in Brockton, we extend to one and all our most hearty thanks for every kindness and courtesy so generously extended to the members and visitors of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

A resolution from the floor regarding the League of Nations was referred to the Business Committee.

The address of the morning was given by Rev. W. L. Sperry, Cambridge, on the topic: "Cultivating the World Vision."

The Committee on Credentials made its report and the report was accepted. The enrollment of the Conference follows:

		Individuals
Churches represented	213
By pastors only	102	103
By delegates only	24	24
By pastors and delegates	87	177
Associations of churches represented	17	17
Associations of ministers represented	2	2
Affiliated boards and societies	4	5
Officers, speakers, committees	12	12
Total membership		340
Deducting duplicates		11
Net enrollment		329

The Business Committee recommended that no action be taken in regard to the resolution on the League of Nations, owing to the lateness of its submission, and the recommendation was adopted.

It was voted that the Registrar be authorized to complete the minutes subject to the approval of the Executive Committee.

Prayer was offered by Rev. R. W. Coe, Brockton, and the Conference adjourned.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY

It has been a quarter-century since the Conference met in what we have been accustomed to call Norfolk Association. Then, and previously in 1887, we met in Brockton, our only visits to Norfolk territory. Within the year Norfolk and Pilgrim have united, so that we are now in Pilgrim Association. The union makes the new Pilgrim the largest association in the state in the number of churches, 48; but Hampden still leads in the number of members, and Suffolk West has the largest average membership per church. Only nine pastors are today where they were in 1899 when last we met here. In the quarter century our total membership has increased 34 per cent, but the male membership has grown 46 per cent while that of the women is only 28 per cent larger. Brockton as a Congregational center has made notable growth. It has lost a large Swedish church from our fellowship, but the other six have almost doubled their size, and this South church of Campello which was then 66th in size in the state is today 13th.

One new church appears in the Year Book list this year, Melrose Hillcrest of Woburn Association. Suffolk South, besides annexing three Norfolk churches of Quincy at the time of the Pilgrim merger, has recently recognized and received the Houghs Neck church of Quincy which will figure in next year's report. Our statistics are based on 604 churches, really 601, for one is dead, one is playing possum, and one other, sponsored by no local association, should never have been entered on the roll, and like the princes in the tower it will be smothered by the secretary ere he calls the roll again. If Essex North could devise some way for putting the Fourth church of Haverhill on a retired list without detriment to a small proprietary interest involved, and if the Old Colony could help East Rochester to a sense of fellowship, our state roll would be the gainer.

Our membership is now 151,913, a gain of 2,644, which is above the average for this century though less than in the last three years. All but four of the associations increased, and three of those lost but 26 in all. In Barnstable, deaths alone outnumbered total accessions. Roll revision in Adams was 50 per cent greater than the loss in Berkshire North. Suffolk West and Woburn lead in gains. Apparently we have 21,719 absent members, but one-fifth of the churches with one-quarter of the membership fail to report absentees. If their absent members were in the same ratio as those reporting, the total would be almost 8,000 larger. Precisely the same situation obtains in reporting families. One-fifth of the churches with one-quarter of the members are silent on that census. Really we should report about 125,000 families instead of 93,000. Obviously clerks of large city churches and some others have a real difficulty in keeping up with parish changes, especially in a mobile population, yet there are more than a dozen churches of 30 members or less who omit to report on families. The secretary was sought as arbiter in one difference of opinion between conservative clerk and optimistic pastor as to the basis of reporting families. A compromise was effected without undue violence to either truth or prejudice.

Adult baptisms are a variable quantity; 2,156 is an average report. Infant baptisms tend constantly to higher figures; 3,685 is a number only once exceeded. Young people's societies, an inclusive term in recent years, are credited with the largest total but one in six years, 20,696. Sunday school figures are also subject to considerable change from year to year; 121,329 is a smaller figure than for three years and is near the bottom in a score of annual reports. Additions and removals show smaller figures than for three or four years. Sixteen churches received 50 or more on confession, and 18 received 75 or more in all; but 181 received none on confession and 133 received none at all. Home expenses were a third of a million dollars more than the year before, and our property valuation is estimated at a million and three-quarters more, being nearly $26,000,000. More churches report on the salary question, so the total seems much larger; the average salary is now $14 above that of the previous year and lacks six of an even $2,000.

Our benevolence shows some increase, but not enough to warrant the discharge of our missionary committee. The apportionment total of $688,903 is $32,000 larger than the year before and $11,600 more than the previous year. It is, therefore, our best apportionment year. Other columns show a trifle better for the Pilgrim Memorial fund, $5,000 more for special Congregational objects, $15,000 less for undenominational, so that our grand total is $1,137,781, which is $22,747 above the record of 1922. In the apportionment columns the increases are, in round numbers, $27,000 for the American Board, $6,000 for the Woman's Board, $10,000 for Ministerial Relief, $4,400 for Home Missions, $500 for Education, $300 for the American Missionary Association. On the other hand, the column of " other apportionment items " shows a shrinkage of $10,000, the Sunday School Society of $132, and the Building Society of $61.

In response to the message which the Conference voted to send to the English churches last summer, there came to the secretary in November from Rev. R. J. Evans, secretary of the London Congregational Council, " the Council's hearty appreciation of the message of the Conference. We welcome," he said, " the presence of American pastors at all times, and rejoice to think their service in our midst does bind us as nations together in following after those great ideals of the Christian religion which are essential to world reconstruction."

One problem the secretary wishes to share with the Conference for solution. Dr. Burton, who by his office as secretary of the National Council is the final authority on the Year-Book, believes that churches should for greater convenience be listed in the Year-Book alphabetically by post offices. The question has arisen among us before and was settled long ago by township rule in this state and generally in New England. Dr. Burton wants to look for Auburndale among the A's rather than in Newton. Cliftondale has wished to be among the C's rather than under Saugus, and was so listed for a time and then brought home. The proposition of Secretary Burton seemed so revolutionary to New England ideas that the Massachusetts secretary protested on the ground of creating more confusion than was inherent in the present system. A compromise was arranged continuing the old arrangement for this year and until the plan can be thoroughly discussed. Your state secretary does not wish to be a reactionary nor to obstruct real progress. Opportunity has not yet been afforded for conversational discussion. Such leaders in the state as have been shown the problem have for the most part doubted the expediency of change. The new plan would of necessity fail to apply to Boston, whose 35 churches are distributed among 16 post offices, and there might be other exceptions so numerous as to cause greater uncertainty whether to look in the old place or a new one for any church whose post office differs in name from the town or city. The problem should not absorb attention in the scanty business hours of this meeting, but the secretary and the business committee would welcome sage counsel.

Our list of those who have graduated from the church militant to the church triumphant includes 17 names, one a Methodist, William C. Townsend, who in the 55th year of his ministry was serving our church at Wayland. Two were English, one Scotch, one Canadian, and one was born in a missionary home in Ceylon. Henry T. Slocum should have been memorialized two years ago, but the fact of his death in January, 1922, has but recently come to official notice. With two exceptions these men were veterans. The average of their careers since ordination was more than 40 years, and without the two youngsters the average was 45 years. Theodore Lee Safford, assistant pastor of the Second church, Holyoke, was on the threshold of his career, ordained only last year. Frank B. Warner, missionary to China, had not reached the ninth anniversary of his ordination. Next youngest on the list, tragedy following hard after pathos, was H. Grant Person, killed in an auto plunge in France, almost at the age of 57. Eight of the group were born back in the 40's, the senior of all being Albion H. Johnson, well on toward 83. Six of the 17 were pastors, two of the six being pastor emeritus of one church and acting pastor elsewhere, Johnson and Noyes. Lyman was an editor at 82 and Dunning an editor emeritus. Woodruff was a college professor, MacQueen a lecturer just returning to the pulpit, Constant a federation secretary just leaving the pulpit.

Edward Constant, English born and bred, gave nearly a score of years of ministry to the First church of Ipswich, and retained his standing in Essex South though his later service was in Minnesota and Oregon. Albert E. Dunning was a Roxbury pastor 11 years, secretary of the Sunday School Society eight more and then editor of the Congregationalist more than 20 years. Albion H. Johnson was 14 years at the Clarendon church in Hyde Park and after an interval of eight years served 14 more in the same pulpit. Payson W. Lyman gave 43 years to Belchertown and Fowler church of Fall River, and when Fowler ceased to be he enlarged his editorial activity in the same city. Peter MacQueen, once pastor in West Somerville, had been a lecturer for many years and was pastor at Boothbay Harbor, Me. Philip S. Moxom was pastor of South church, Springfield, 22 years and then emeritus seven more. He and Noyes had both been president of the Boston Browning Society, and they died only two days apart. Charles L. Noyes was born in Ceylon, was 40 years pastor at Winter Hill, Somerville, and died in Japan where for a year he was ministering to an American church. Sampson Nicholls was for a few years pastor at Harwichport, Colerain and Southwick. Grant Person came to us from the Presbyterians 17 years ago to lead the Eliot church of Newton, until his death. Joseph B. Seabury spent most of his 77 years in Massachusetts but had only one pastorate, 14 years at Dedham, with occasional brief ministries elsewhere. Henry T. Slocum served the Hubbardston church six years from 1911. John A. Waterworth, English born and bred, was 73 years old when after ministries in Maine he came to Boston, joined the Suffolk South Association and was superintendent of the Dorchester Central church school when he died. Josiah G. Willis was physician as well as clergyman, but failing sight shelved him in 1905. His last parish was Holland. Frank E. Woodruff was a teacher, beginning in Andover Seminary but ere long transferring to Bowdoin College where he had been professor of Greek since 1887 and of religion since 1891. Time forbids suitable eulogy of these men of diverse talents but single aim. Concerning some whom I knew best I would gladly say more, but they live in the hearts of many whom they have led in paths of learning and loving and serving, and while they rest from their labors their works do follow them.

REPORT OF THE CONGREGATIONAL BOARD OF PASTORAL SUPPLY

REV. ARTHUR J. COVELL, SECRETARY
ROOM 615, CONGREGATIONAL HOUSE,

BOSTON, MASS., April 1, 1924.

The ninth annual report of the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply to the Congregational Conferences of New England is herewith presented. This is, however, the thirtieth report to the Massachusetts Conference.

If one should say that in the matter of pastoral supply we had returned to normal conditions, the statement would be likely to be challenged. Yet it is clear that we are nearer to stable conditions than in any previous year since the world upheaval. It is true that through the war we lost practically one generation of young men from the ministry. It is likewise true that there are occasional letters from churches that show a failure to realize the changed situation in the last ten years. It is certainly difficult to find the men needed for the smaller fields. Doubtless there is a shortage in the ranks of the ministry as a whole. The membership of our Congregational churches has of late been growing with some rapidity, but the number of Congregational ministers is 451 less in the United States than twenty years ago.

However, we are nearer normal than seemed possible a year or so ago. Choice young men in goodly numbers are turning to the work of the ministry in spite of alluring material rewards elsewhere. Some theological seminaries have record classes. A goodly number of men in colleges are looking toward the ministry. Churches find it easier to secure supplies and candidates than in the disturbed period immediately following the war. The fear that theology had passed into the background and that themes concerning economic policies were the only ones in controversy, has proven groundless. The old-time atmosphere, when liberal and conservative waxed warm in controversy, seems strangely familiar to some of the older men in the ministry, even though terms have changed.

In response to direct requests for aid in securing pastors we have rendered service to 319 churches, a larger number than for the two preceding years. Since we are officially a New England Board these churches are mainly in this section. They are, however, from twenty-eight states and one district. Of these churches there were in Maine, 30; in New Hampshire, 42; in Vermont, 26; in Massachusetts, 120; in Rhode Island, 5; in Connecticut, 29; in New York, 12; in Michigan, 6; in Florida, 5; in California, 4; in Illinois, 4; in the District of Columbia, 3; in Iowa, 3; in Kansas, 3; in Montana, 3; in Nebraska, 3; in Ohio, 3; in Pennsylvania, 3; and one each in Colorado, Indiana, Minnesota, Missouri, New Jersey, North Carolina, North Dakota, and Texas.

This enumeration does not include the furnishing of occasional or temporary supplies nor commendations for positions outside the pastorate.

So far as the reports have come to this office, the number of pastoral settlements in which the Board had an important part was 108, fourteen more than for the preceding year. Since this enumeration does not take account of arrangements with ministers for periods of less than six months, and does not include occasional commendations for positions kindred to but outside the pastorate, it is not a full accounting of the service rendered to our churches.

Of the churches conferring with the Board this past year in their search for pastors, 132 had less than 100 members; 110 had from 100 to 300 members; while 77 had more than 300 members. Of these same churches 101 paid a salary of less than $1,200 and parsonage; 143 paid from $1,200 to $2,000 and parsonage; while 75 paid more than $2,000 and parsonage. The increase in the number of churches paying sub-standard salaries does not of necessity mean that there are now more such churches. In many cases these small churches were in process of being yoked. However, it is unfortunately true that there are many cases where yoked churches have broken away from the arrangement with a sister church and have endeavored to secure a full-time man.

During the year opportunities for preaching were furnished to 269 men, of whom 130 were candidates for settlement. Repeated opportunities were given to the large majority of these men.

The Secretary has travelled on Board business during the year more than 7,200 miles.

The number of letters sent out from the office this past year was 7,660. The special work of sending out inquiries about men of whom our knowledge was inadequate has been practically finished. The work of completing information about men in continuous, and new men are continually appearing. But the special work of caring for defective files has been completed.

The Treasurer's account, with the Auditor's statement, will be found in the appendix.

The office fees are less this year. The unusual number of stated supplies and the distinct tendency on the part of ministers not to move in the winter and face the perils of fuel shortage or limited housing conditions, reacting upon the churches, in large part explains this. The receipts for the preaching of the Secretary are increased. In certain ways expenses have increased. The main item here is in rent. We anticipate that the apex has been reached and hope for some decline. Stationery and certain items of printing have cost more. Railroad fares have been increased. The Secretary's needful trip to the Mid-Winter Meeting at Chicago accounts for the added amount in his travel bill. Economy has been attempted where it could be practised without loss to the work.

The Treasurer's report from the constituent New England Conferences indicates the following:

Maine.	Paid in full for 1923.
New Hampshire.	Paid in full for 1923 and $75 for 1924.
Vermont.	Paid in full for 1923 and $82.20 for 1924.
Massachusetts.	Paid in full to March 31, 1924.
Rhode Island.	Paid in full for 1923.
Connecticut.	Paid in full for 1923 and $750 for 1924.

Since there are variations in the times and methods of payment of the different states it may save confusion to report specifically. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Connecticut begin their year January 1 and compute the 1 5-6c. per member from the Year-Book at hand at the beginning of the calendar year. Massachusetts begins her year January 1, but changes her basis of computation May 1, taking the figures of the new Year-Book for the balance of the year. Rhode Island's year begins April 1, and the figures of the Year-Book issued January 1 are used by this state.

Each year brings with it some new problems to consider. We have aimed in these reports to set forth some of the ideals actuating the Board and some of the practical means by which these ideals are realized. Our work deals with such vital human interests that we may expect continually the emergence of new problems, or the appearance of old problems in a new form. This year one of our Advisors brought before us this resolution, passed at the meeting of his Association: "Resolved: That we instruct our Advisor to the Board of Pastoral Supply to request the Board to destroy all records of churches and pastors which are more than fifteen years old."

The matter received sympathetic attention from the full Board at its Semi-Annual Meeting, and the unanimous conclusion of the Directors was voiced in this letter:

"The suggestion of the Blank Association concerning the destruction of records of men and churches of a certain age, presented through you, was brought before the Directors of our Board at their Semi-Annual Meeting yesterday. The Directors appreciate the courtesy shown in bringing the matter before them through our local Advisor, and also the motive to protect both ministers and churches from a past that has been retrieved. Our Board feels itself in fullest sympathy with that motive, and we have been striving with some persistence to attain that end. We seek fresh references continually, ask men to furnish references that are sympathetic and recent, and endeavor to interpret the past in the light of the present. Unfavorable reports are often placed in a sealed envelope, and marked ' to be opened by Secretary only,' and some secrets are guarded from any unnecessary revealing. We have some difficult cases, but feel sure that there is a time when the past in many a man's life is altogether in the background.

" After careful consideration, however, the Directors feel that the proposed method of destruction of records would not prove helpful, but rather that the way of progress is found along the line of our past methods, through interpretation of the past in the light of the present, so far as we may be able to obtain this light. History rightly used should be more of an asset than a liability in the lives of the great majority. The record of a man's training, the scholastic degrees he holds, the bent of his early life, the account of his first successes ought not to be lost. We are accustomed in our reports about men to give some of this material, and few men would care to have the past record wiped out, although most men might wish to eliminate certain selected portions of that record. We have felt at liberty to interpret the past by the present, have had a sense of responsibility in the transmission of a man's record, but have not felt at liberty to destroy records of facts.

" Our most difficult cases, perhaps, are with men who have spent a portion of their professional life in other denominations. If a man has been deprived of standing by some Congregational Association, or been refused standing with us, and there has been some public record through the press or otherwise of the facts in his case, and he then goes to some other denomination for a period of years, and then seeks a New England Congregational pulpit, and we may not be in touch with the officers and churches of that other denomination, and have no knowledge of this his later work, we can hardly commend him, or advise churches to accept him until evidence of retrieval is presented. Such past records have more than once saved churches from serious disaster, as the history of our work shows, and saved the ministry in this section from needless condemnation.

" The experience of our work gives us the conviction that security for the churches and for the ministry as a whole is best secured by not destroying records of authenticated facts, but by openness to new facts and by giving every man, so far as possible, the benefit of any later favorable record he may have won for himself. The discovery that some man who had a record that had appeared in public print, possibly in court records, had been given unqualified commendation by our Board would shake the basis of confidence in the Board, and we have sometimes unwittingly fallen into this error.

"And so, while appreciating the method of bringing this matter before us and the motive to do the best possible for ministers and churches, and while realizing the need of greater protection in our own ways of striving to serve both ministers and churches, we feel that the proposed destruction of records would not serve these ends, and would work needless harm, and would in the great majority of cases fail to give the credit due to ministers and churches."

A significant development of the year has been the unusual number of pastorless churches that have secured stated supplies. It is probable that there has not been, within the radius where the Board naturally and habitually sends Sunday supplies, one-half as many stated supplies at any time in the past ten years as in the year that has just closed. There are indications that this marks a definite trend in our church life. The custom is a helpful one. It utilizes the able and gracious-spirited men who have passed the time when they can best assume the burdens of a full pastorate. It answers in part the question, "What shall be done for the older ministers?" It puts a premium on experience at a time when experience is specially needed. It often saves a situation. Unfortunately divisions sometimes arise that require "time's solutions." After service by a pastor-at-large for six months or a year a church where sentiment has been divided is in a position to summon a new leader and go on with its normal work. The difficulties of securing fuel and of renting a house renders winter candidating burdensome. The stated supply tides over the church at the troublesome period. Of course the supply, giving but a limited time and looking upon his service as temporary, cannot take the place of a settled pastor. If for any reason the minister serving temporarily delays the securing of a more permanent leader, this is unfortunate, since the stated supply is not and cannot be the same to the church as a settled pastor. And yet the right kind of a man thus serving renders a unique service to our fellowship. We usually have men who invariably strengthen a church by such interim work, and render indispensable service to the coming pastor. Sometimes special problems that could hardly be cared for in a regular pastorate have been solved, and in the right way, by the stated supply.

Likewise, too, such service may help correct the "young minister obsession." In a very sane article in the daily press recently the writer said: "What the church needs is a mature man, with ripened powers, yet with keen sympathy and a joyous spirit. A minister with that is a young minister even at sixty; and a minister without it is old and decrepit at thirty. The ideal minister is the young 'old minister,' not the old 'young minister.'" The writer concludes his article on "The Young Minister Obsession" by saying: "It is a mild form of mental derangement, and if it can be diagnosed and corrected the life of our church will be more sanely guided, and the essential valuations — of churches and of ministers — will be more wisely and effectively distributed."

Incidentally the income of the Board has been reduced by the unusual number of stated supplies. We have assumed that supplies furnished ministers, when candidating was not involved, were a legitimate source of income to the Board and have charged ministers a small fee for such service, reducing by so much the expense of our work to the state treasuries. The majority of these stated supplies were arranged by the Board, and in this and in other respects we aim to keep constantly in mind that our mission is to serve the welfare of the churches.

The past year has been marked by discussion of the question how to improve the methods of our Denomination in locating and re-locating ministers. The question of a National Board of Pastoral Supply has been discussed. The state Superintendents for more than two years have had the matter under advisement. As a result of this the National Council, through its personnel department, offered for some months to aid ministers and churches throughout the country. The entire subject was discussed at the Mid-Winter Meeting of the State Superintendents in Chicago last January, and the Secretary of this Board was invited to give an address. The conclusions reached were in general harmony with those of our Board.

In our experience of nearly thirty years some clear conclusions have been reached. Starting on uncharted seas we have found a way of co-operation so that free churches may, without loss of freedom, utilize advantages of other communions. As a pioneer in the field the Board had no precedents to guide it. It passed through its struggle for existence, and then was reorganized in such a way as to meet more vitally the needs of the churches. Later, after twenty-one years as a State Board, we became, in response to requests from outside the state, a Regional Board, and for more than eight years have served as the direct representative of the six New England Conferences for pastoral supply. Not only have we had experience in these ways, but for more than ten years we have had occasion to consider the question of a National Board. When Dr. Herring came to Boston he was immediately impressed with the importance of our work and the value of our records. He was in conference with us at each step in the development from a State to a New England Board. Special committees of the National Council conferred with us at different times about the possibility of a National Board. The plan of cooperation with western and southern Superintendents was adopted for a year. We reached the conclusion that a Regional Board was the most effective agency, and that neither our Board nor any other could fully serve as a National Board without losing the close personal touch with churches and ministers which we felt to be the most valuable feature of our New England Board.

Your Directors have been responsive to the needs of our churches in the whole country. We have always ministered as best we might to churches asking aid from whatever section the request might come. And we have been willing to go as far as we might effectively go in cooperation with districts outside New England. But if our form of bringing about pastoral settlement should be adopted throughout the United States, then not less than three Boards would be required. This would seem an absolute minimum. More would be needed to do the work according to the ideals we cherish in our office. A single Board for the country would bring about an undue centralization. And further, each section of the country would be better satisfied with a type of work which it might itself shape and which might be located in its own section. There is a value, too, in a federation of states, since the states themselves elect the Directors, and a sense of responsibility is developed. The contact with local associations of churches through Advisors, elected by the associations themselves, helps make the work more democratic and in harmony with the spirit of Congregational churches. Consideration is being given to the formation of a Board in the central part of the country, adapted to the needs and methods of work of that section.

The work of our Board is that of a mediator between ministers and churches. We cherish the ideals and bear the burdens of both. Or, to use the figure sometimes applied to the Congregational Denomination, our work is elliptical. We are concerned with activities that have two centers. At times we look out upon the world from the point of view of a church seeking a minister, and again we are concerned with finding the field best fitted for a minister to achieve the most for himself and for the world.

Primarily we represent the churches in their search for the most effective man to serve as pastor. This is our main reason for existence and is always considered as fundamental. And it is important that we keep rather steadily in view the real reason for the life of the church. Church committees do not always realize fully their primary need, but understand themselves better when one is commended to them who exemplifies ability to meet that need. The use of terms may obscure as well as clarify. For example, if a church committee calls for a fundamentalist, it may well be that their demand is for a devout man with an evangelistic spirit and a conservative temper and positive convictions, who yet may not be a strict fundamentalist. And if a committee asks for a modernist, it may well be that they wish one interpreting religious thought in its latest intellectual applications to present-day life, and who may not be a modernist in the currently accepted sense. Those reared on the farm understand that good farmers often have old-fashioned notions and certain antiquated methods, and that others with up-to-date knowledge and the latest machinery may yet lack the qualifications of a good farmer. In our work we are primarily concerned to find the right spiritual husbandmen for the churches. And when church committees seek the young man who seems to them essential, it may be, after all, that they are not so much concerned about the number of a man's birthdays as with his points of vital contact with young life, and his spiritual buoyancy with more mature ones, and the personality that animates him in all his work. Church committees will recognize the truth when they find it embodied in a man.

And church committees have their burdens and cannot be blamed for moving with circumspection. They will be held to a good degree of responsibility for the results produced by the new minister. Ours is a democratic polity, and there must be consideration for others whether they have great wisdom or not. And then unfortunate past developments create such a sentiment in a congregation that there must be no suspicion of repetition of past mistakes. A little experience as a layman will show that churches are often very long suffering and bear with surprising Christian grace with the limitations of their ministers. But when the time for a new pastor comes they naturally seek one who will not repeat past errors, and will call forth dormant reserves in the parish. Our main purpose is stated in our By-Laws in the words, "The primary object of this Board is to secure for the Congregational churches the most effective pastoral service." We are not a ministerial bureau but a Board of Pastoral Supply.

We also need, however, to face situations from the other center of our ellipse. We must continually recognize the minister's viewpoint. Of course there is always temptation that a minister may over-emphasize the fact that he is in a class by himself, and may act on the assumption that he is immune from the obligations of ordinary men. Now and then the minister's class consciousness has been accentuated in these post-war days. In our Congregational ministry, however, we hold rather steadily to the truth that the welfare of the churches is clearly supreme. But however much he may be a man among men, the minister has his own point of view. He is open to misinterpretation. As a true minister of Christ he stands for ideals that are not dominant in the daily activities of his people. He has his peculiar temptations and his special burdens. Above all he is anxious to be about his Father's business, and there are many adversaries. It may take him a long time to learn that qualitative work, though limited in extent, is far to be preferred to quantitative work wrought in dubious ways. It may take him a long time, also to learn that not all fields are suited to his special abilities, and that success in a modest field is vastly to be preferred to failure or even indifferent results in a large place. The minister himself is a learner in the school of Christ, and must needs complete the course in which he is endeavoring to train his people. The minister who has served a goodly number of years as pastor will come to realize that there are certain common difficult experiences through which all ministers must pass, and that there are parallels in his experience with that of the Master himself. In the Congregational ministry we have a priceless liberty from which we would not part, but from time to time pay a price for our liberty. An abiding conviction of the Secretary of this Board has been that he must never forget in this work personal experiences in the ministry.

In so far as this mediatory work can be carried out with devotion to the real and permanent interests of the churches and with sympathy for the legitimate aspirations of the minister to invest his life where spiritual returns will be largest, its contribution to the life of our churches is of first importance.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF MINISTERIAL AID

The appropriations of the Board in force during the year ending December 31, 1923, have been as follows:

	Number	Rate per year	Average rate
To ministers	40	$10,777.50	$269.44
widows	52	10,894.50	209.51
single women	4	810.00	202.50
children	1	200.00	200.00
Total	97	$22,682.00	$233.83

Of these beneficiaries 13 received aid also from the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief, on account of ministerial service rendered outside of Massachusetts; 11 were on the rolls of other State Boards. The total paid on account of our appropriations has been $20,144.50 (some of the appropriations not having been in force for the entire year). For emergency grants, not included in the foregoing list, $400 has been paid.

It was the great privilege of the Board to distribute among those in its fellowship the sum of $2,951.43 from the Christmas Fund of 1923. A balance, received after the distribution was made, remains in the treasury to meet emergency needs as they shall appear.

The beneficiaries of the Board are found from Maine to California. We seek to carry on our ministry to them in the spirit of the founders of the Board. There is nothing perfunctory in the work of fulfilling the trust committed to us. The chairman of the Executive Committee endeavors to keep in close touch with each beneficiary either by visit or by correspondence, for they need not only the financial aid, but also Christian sympathy and encouragement.

We would express our heartfelt appreciation of the great work of the Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief under the leadership of Secretary Charles S. Mills. Through his masterly activity the large Christmas Fund has been gathered. He is making clear to our churches the imperative claims of our cause for a larger, more nearly adequate support.

F. E. EMRICH,
Chairman of the Executive Committee.

REPORT OF THE BOSTON SEAMAN'S FRIEND SOCIETY

Two years ago four of the New England States, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, on recommendation of the Commission on Missions fully accepted by vote of their several Conferences the administrative and financial responsibility of this Society. Last year the two remaining states, Maine and New Hampshire, took similar action. Under the capable management of the representatives chosen by the six Conferences, this reorganized Society has worked harmoniously and efficiently.

The apportionment recommended by the National Council for the sailors from all the New England churches is $25,000. During the calendar year 1923 the Society received from 375 New England churches $9,288.43. Out of an accepted apportionment for Massachusetts of $12,775.00 the amount received from 296 Massachusetts churches was $6,952.15. Half of the Congregational churches of this state gave nothing last year to their own work for seamen.

The Boston Seaman's Friend Society is sorely in need of a new building with a more ample equipment. So great are the numbers of seamen who seek the varied privileges our institution provides that we cannot begin to accommodate all who come in our present quarters. Especially is this true concerning the demand for dormitory accommodations. During the past season large numbers of seamen have been turned away nightly as every cot had been taken by early comers.

In spite of the limitations placed upon us by the inadequacy of our present structure a very substantial and rewarding work has been done. Upwards of 60,000 men have visited the Sailor's Rest during the year and other thousands have gone ashore to our Vineyard Haven Bethel. There have been 16,321 men at the concerts; 18,846 have attended religious service; 11,978 have used the dormitory privileges. Bibles and New Testaments to the number of 1,023 have been given to sailors who have asked for them. Thousands of packages of literature have been placed aboard ships.

Our auxiliary, the Woman's Seaman's Friend Society, is a very great help to us in all of our work for sailors. This Society recently removed its offices to the Congregational House, and is now heartily cooperating with us, especially at Hanover Street and Vineyard Haven.

At Christmas the women of this Society made and filled over 400 comfort bags, which the boys greatly appreciated; assisted in installing a motion picture outfit at Vineyard Haven, and are furnishing monthly entertainments at the Sailor's Rest, Boston.

The Woman's Society also has two lady visitors at the Naval Hospital, teaches occupational Therapy to disabled sailors, and besides much other helpful work, gives greatly needed assistance to naval men and their families.

The Boston Seaman's Friend Society is our only Congregational activity for seamen and is deserving of and entitled to the generous support of every church of our order in New England.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MISSIONS AND APPORTIONMENT

Last May at Great Barrington for the fourth successive year the Congregational churches of Massachusetts through this Conference accepted $1,087,500 as their share of the $5,000,000 budget. This committee has apportioned this sum among the 25 associations with the result that in 1923 $693,546 was raised or 63.77% of the apportionment. This figure compares with $656,832 in 1922 and $677,240 in 1921. The giving has been practically stationary.

The amount given in 1923 in the whole country was about $3,120,000 or 62.40% of the $5,000,000 budget, a percentage slightly less than that in Massachusetts.

We can hardly ask for congratulations on these results. Certainly as a committee we take no credit. On the other hand we do not offer any criticisms. We realize that the gathering of three million dollars for missionary work represents concentrated effort on the part of very many ministers and sacrificial giving in thousands of instances. If we could confine our report to comment on the noble achievements of those who have done this work, we would make this report an expression of thanksgiving, but unfortunately it is our duty to consider the result from the point of view of the needs of the field and the financial ability of all of the churches. We, therefore are forced to confess that either we are attempting an impossible goal or are making a poor showing. Your committee, however, is not unanimous in its judgment in this matter. The majority view is expressed in this report. Mr. Rowe is submitting a separate report in which he expresses a slightly different point of view.

Without having made or seen an extensive analysis of the financial requirements of the national societies, we believe that at least $4,000,000 is needed in 1924 to place the work on a parity with 1914, and that nothing less than $5,000,000 can be considered as necessary in view of the actual needs of today. We expect to make further inquiry along this line but at present we view the $5,000,000 budget as entirely practical and necessary, and $1,087,500 as Massachusetts' fair share, and therefore to be obtained if possible.

With the object of obtaining $1,087,500, we ask full consideration by the churches of the State and their ministers and representatives of the following objectives which we believe to be essential to success.

OBJECTIVES

I. Conviction on the part of each minister of the State of the need of $5,000,000; of the fairness of Massachusetts' assignment; of the fairness of the division between Associations; of the fairness of division between the churches in the Associations; of the necessity of the apportionment plan, and of the ability of his church to do its fair share, and its willingness to do more than its share, if through human fallibility, a particularly heavy burden has been assigned to it. We are convinced that determination on the part of the ministers to get to the bottom of these questions will bring conviction; and that conviction will bring results. So firmly do we believe this that we are preparing a pamphlet to go into the matter fully. Also we are making a careful analysis of financial conditions in all Associations during the past three years and making new Association apportionments, and requesting the Associations to make new Church apportionments. We bespeak your serious attention to these things. It lies with the ministers either to raise adequate sums in 1924 or change the apportionment at the next Conference. Let us go forward in this matter.

II. Presentation of missionary work Sunday mornings not less than twice a year and preferably more often. In this connection we beseech every minister to get into vital touch with some phase of this work, either directly or through missionary books, magazines and other publications. We shall never have full support of the field until every minister is fired with interest in the work, so that somehow through his pulpit his people shall catch his vision. This is a personal responsibility. In this connection we request that you open your pulpits to missionaries, secretaries and others who are in this work in so far as arrangements can be made with suitable persons, and we suggest that each man be asked to talk of his own work which he knows and can speak of from the heart and with power. We are missing the great special appeals of former days; we have talked too much of apportionments and budgets. These things are necessary but they are only the machinery. Our giving is now going on under this apportionment scheme. Let us now have more talk of the work and stir the interest of the givers with first-hand appeals by men on fire. We urge every minister to arrange with the societies or with the State Committee for speakers and let them speak from their hearts.

We especially urge such addresses Sunday mornings, as only then can all the givers be reached. The appeals at evening meetings, special missionary meetings, at classes, and conferences, reach only limited audiences and principally those already interested and already giving generously.

III. Mission Study. Some mission study in every church is vital, without this there can be no interest in missions. It is exposure to the field work that creates interest and obtains support. The more persons in any church that come into contact with the mission fields through travel, correspondence with missionaries, contact with home offices and boards, and reading missionary books and magazines, the more interest there will be.

We urge the pastors of the state to secure as many real contacts and secure as much vital study as possible, and we urge class work with organized courses of study wherever this can be done.

But we cannot expect all church members to do these things. Life is too complicated. Our problem is to increase the number who make missionary contacts, but not to be discouraged because many make none. Furthermore, we must find a way of obtaining contributions from persons who are not students of missions and who go to church only once a Sunday, and then only some of the time. It is for these that the Sunday morning presentations are necessary.

IV. Formal Church Action. We recommend that every church, in business session, take formal action in respect to its missionary program and apportionment. The apportionment is not a tax or an assessment. It is simply an estimate of a fair division of the cost of our common missionary work. It remains for the church to determine its own responsibility and then to meet it. In all fairness this problem should be presented to the whole membership. We therefore urge formal action by every church on its apportionment and on its missionary program including the every-member canvass.

V. Every-Member Canvass. No one can challenge the ability of the churches to supply the $5,000,000. The following figures summarize our church membership and giving (1922 figures):

	United States	Massachusetts
Churches	5,826	603
Membership	857,846	149,289
Home expenses	$16,781,755.00	$2,986,567.00
Apportionment giving	2,955,077.00	656,832.00
Other benevolent giving	2,230,139.00	458,202.00
Increase in property and investment	6,032,041.00	802,614.00
Total church support	$27,999,012.00	$4,904,215.00
Total per church	$4,806.00	$8,133.00
Total per member	$32.59	$32.85
Apportionment, percent of total	10.55%	13.59%

The question is, can $28,000,000 giving in the United States be increased to $30,000,000; can $4,900,000 giving in Massachusetts be increased to $5,300,000? Can giving be increased from $32.59 per capita to $35 per capita?

It is plain that the matter is not one of financial ability but of reaching that ability. The problem therefore is largely one of ways and means, and as such we plead for consideration of the every-member canvass.

We must recognize that our missions are supported by contributions from comparatively few who give because of knowledge of the work and deep interest in it. Most of our funds come in small amounts in plate collections from persons who give out of a sense of obligation to drop something in the plate. Our problem here is two-fold, first to obtain interest on the part of a larger number, and secondly to get adequate sums from those not particularly interested, that is to develop in them habits of giving in proportion to the need and their financial ability rather than according to a dollar, quarter or dime convention.

Someone has said that men are divided into three classes, about 10% to be counted on for all good works, always alert and trying to do the right things, another 10% at the other extreme, and between these two extremes 80% of good average people usually neutral and not concerned with the vital questions of the day but to be counted upon to do the right thing when informed and aroused. It is this that makes democracy difficult but ultimately safe. It was this on which Lincoln based his faith in the people. It is this on which the Congregational polity is founded. In our churches with respect to missionary work we have a small group very much interested, another group decidedly cold, with the great majority of church members not particularly interested but generally well disposed and easily aroused to support causes adequately presented to them. The trouble is that we are trying to obtain the principal support of missions from those who are intensely interested and failing to realize that in the Every-Member Canvass is a means by which those who are interested can secure from the rank and file of church members adequate support for missionary enterprises. The Every-Member Canvass is designed to obtain contributions from the 80%, Those who are deeply interested are now nobly doing their part in giving, but the 80% in too many churches is content to drop small coins into the plate. These people, however, can be counted upon to do their fair share in an approved community enterprise if properly approached. Many a man will subscribe $100, $500 or more for a definite objective adequately presented, and provided this is his fair share, who might otherwise be expected to put into the plate not more than $10 a year. Such a man may come to church only 25 times in a year and give to missions a quarter, a half dollar or a dollar at a time. We must find a way of changing this desultory giving into effective giving. Our missionary work is lacking support because we are not reaching this great 80% class. An Every-Member Canvass run by the right people will obtain the support of the 80%. Reaching the apportionment can be accomplished when this result is obtained.

The pastor of the church is the one to see that there is a real Every-Member Canvass. The responsibility falls squarely on him. His interest, his purpose, his determination is the principal factor in getting his church to give adequately. His interest is the sine qua non, and this is bound to find reflection in cooperation on the part of some of his members. Another essential is that the leadership of the Every-Member Canvass be placed in the hands of the right man or woman, having behind him the active support of the pastor, and commanding the respect of the whole church. This leader to be successful must be capable of inspiring confidence and of obtaining cooperation.

With these objectives in view, we, as a committee, have a comparatively simple program for giving them effect. We hope that the presentation of this report at the conference and the discussion it will arouse, will bring about greater determination on the part of you ministers to raise the full sum. We hope that the pamphlet presenting our position, arguing for the $5,000,000 budget, listing the literature and agencies of help available, and outlining plans of work, will place in your hands a more effective tool than heretofore. Through Mr. Cooper, our field representative, we hope to keep you in touch with all developments and arrange for such work conferences or group meetings as may be helpful. We plan for two state conferences of Association chairmen yearly, one in the spring and one in the fall, to discuss the work, and ways and means. That is all, we are trying to avoid an elaborate or confusing program. We as a committee, can do little other than pass on ways and means. Mr. Cooper can do something, the society secretaries can do something, and the association committees something, but the responsibility for this whole matter rests on the churches; it is their work, and the responsibility for leadership therefore rests on the ministers.

We recommend that the following resolutions be adopted by the Conference:

1. That the National apportionment budget of $5,000,000 for the year 1925 be approved and that Massachusetts accept the amount assigned to her, $1,087,500; and that this amount be reapportioned among the associations by the Committee on Missions and Apportionment.

2. That the sums given by the churches under the Apportionment Plan be divided between the societies on the following basis:

The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions	27.5%
The Women's Boards of Missions	14.0%
The American Missionary Association	13.0%
The Massachusetts Home Missionary Society	19.0%
The Congregational Church Building Society	8.5%
The Congregational Sunday School Extension Society	2.5%
The Congregational Education Society	7.0%
The Congregational Society for Ministerial Relief	4.0%
The Congregational Annuity Fund	1.0%
The Congregational Education Foundation	3.0%
Miscellaneous	.5%
	100.0%
The Boston Seaman's Friend Society an additional	1.2%

3. That, subject to the approval of the Committee on Missions and Apportionments, the office of State field representative now filled by Rev. Francis L. Cooper be continued for another year, the salary and expenses for office, traveling and incidentals, to be paid by the Commission on Missions.

4. That the societies under the Apportionment be authorized and urged to present their work in the pulpits of the State through their representatives in so far as they may be invited to do so by the ministers, but always as a part of the united work. However, we recognize that each representative can best tell of the work that he knows and we urge him to do so, but as a part of the work as a whole and in fairness to the other parts. We further urge that when any church has, during the previous year, given only an insignificant amount, or nothing whatsoever, to any society, the representatives of such society endeavor to secure a worthy contribution from that church by any method acceptable to that church.

5. That the Committee on Missions and Apportionment request the church treasurers in remitting funds, either to divide them according to the agreed percentages and remit separately to the societies, or remit the entire amount to the Treasurer of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, with the request that he divide the remittance among the societies.

6. That the treasurer of the Conference be authorized to pay the expenses of the committee for travel, printing and other matters, to the extent of $500, upon approval of the Secretary or Chairman.

In asking the indulgence of the conference for bringing before it views differing in degree from some of the other members of the Missionary and Apportionment committee the writer wishes to state that the contributions of the Massachusetts churches in 1923 under the Apportionment Plan amount to over 22% of the contributions of the total for the country and are a real testimonial to the hearty and continuing interest of our State in the missionary and educational interests of the denomination.

The former apportionment of Massachusetts was $435,000 and the sum of $1,087,500 was arrived at by the simple process of adding $1\frac{1}{2}$ times that amount or $652,500. The reapportionments to the local associations simply repeated the process proportionately.

The reapportionment of the sum of $435,000 worked out well as collections through the various associations were very even when compared with the sums allotted. But the returns of 1923 show contributions ranging from 29.5% for the lowest to about 76.2% for the highest, of the amounts allotted by our committee for 1923.

The committee is unanimous that simple justice requires a new reapportionment to the local associations of this sum of $1,087,500 plus the sum of $12,775 allotted to the Boston Seaman's Friend Society. By vote of the committee a conference is called for May 8 of the chairmen of the local associations for the consideration and adoption of a new reapportionment of the amount suggested for 1925 of $1,087,500 plus the sum for the Boston Seaman's Friend Society.

In the event of a decided lack of unanimity at this meeting on May 8 in accepting in full the new reapportionment of the entire amount the signer believes that following this meeting the State Conference at Brockton should take under most serious consideration the wisdom of adopting for the year 1925 so large an amount for Massachusetts as $1,100,275 (this sum includes the Boston Seaman's Friend Society).

At the Conference held in Fitchburg in 1922 the Conference rejected the advice of the Missionary and Apportionment Committee that graded apportionments be used for 1923, 1924 and 1925, rising by degrees from 75% in 1923 to 100% in 1925. This would have meant, excluding consideration of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, apportionments of $815,625, $951,562.50 and $1,087,500 for the respective years. It also would have given an opportunity forthwith to have made a reapportionment among the associations based upon the actual results of 1920 and 1921. Two years have passed and the amount raised in 1923 is $693,546, a sum less by $122,079 than the $815,625 advised for 1923.

The spread between the goal of $1,100,000 and $693,546 is $406,454. The last year in which the old apportionment of $435,000 for Massachusetts was used was 1919 and the amount raised that year was $392,557.

When the spread between goal and accomplishment in 1923 is greater than the entire sum raised in 1919 the writer believes that the conference must ask itself several serious questions and weigh carefully the answers which may occur as logical.

An apportionment is not an end in itself — it is, or should be, only a means of bringing home to the people what by common agreement is a fair allocation of a certain sum to be raised. For several years the Conference has voted a large apportionment, and as regularly the churches have failed to meet it. Meanwhile the work of the organizations is going on based on the sums the various officials estimate will actually be raised.

A budget for 1925 should have against it an apportionment that is attainable. A continuing failure to attain the apportionment really brings about a state of apathy or an entire abandonment of the apportionment scheme. Either condition is bad and a serious reconsideration of the subject may lead the Massachusetts churches to see the wisdom of adopting a sliding scale which would give heart to those working whole-heartedly in their attempts to raise additional funds. We all know more money could be used to the greatest advantage and no sensible means for raising it should be neglected.

If, however, a means is used which in too many instances only irritates and no longer serves to stimulate then it is sensible to take such steps as will restore confidence in the judgment of the Missionary and Apportionment Committee.

The conference itself by its vote carries the responsibility for the amount of the apportionment.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FEDERATION OF CHURCHES AND CO-OPERATION WITH OTHER DENOMINATIONS

The Massachusetts Federation of Churches, in which your Committee has represented the Conference, has continued its work with increasing usefulness under the efficient leadership of Rev. E. Tallmadge Root, its executive secretary.

The federated churches, in most cases formed by the help of the Federation, have commanded the general approval of the administrative leaders in the cooperating denominations. More proposals for such federation have been made during this year than in any previous year, some of these involving stronger churches in larger places. We take these as tokens of the increasing eagerness of the followers of the Master to realize true Christian unity.

The State Federation has fostered the work of local federations of churches. Most of these local federations are, of necessity, without paid executives, but in many cases they have shown gratifying progress. The Greater Boston Federation, under the leadership of its executive secretary, has strengthened its program, and is making the influence of the churches felt throughout the entire metropolitan district.

The influence of the Massachusetts Federation in matters of legislation relating to social and moral welfare has been exerted through its Committee on Legislation, working in cooperation with the similar Committee of the Greater Boston Federation. These committees give careful attention to all proposals for legislation, and see to it that the interests of the churches are represented at the hearings.

Much attention has been given to the promotion of the interests of international peace and good will, an d also to the nation-wide campaign in the interests of a more efficient citizenship.

A new development in cooperation among the denominations, in which the Massachusetts Federation has taken the initiative, has been the reinforcement of the religious work in Rutland, through the appointment of a Chaplain for ministry in the several sanatoria, in cooperation with the pastor of the Congregational Church. For the support of this additional worker appropriations have been assured from the leading Protestant denominations, and his ministry has already commenced.

We present the following recommendations:

I. That a similar committee of thirty-two, one-half of whom shall be ministers and one-half laymen, be appointed for the coming year to represent the Conference in the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, and that the chairman of that Committee be authorized to designate alternates for those members who cannot attend the meetings of the Council of Federation, as such shall be called.

II. That a sum equal to $3.00 for each church in the Conference be appropriated for the support of the Federation.

For the Committee,
JOHN J. WALKER, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MORAL AND SOCIAL WELFARE

Your Committee sent out a questionnaire to pastors and laymen in representative sections of the state with a request that answers be given to eight questions. We appreciate the satisfactory response which was made showing either a widespread interest in our queries or a Puritan conscience in making prompt and careful replies. We were looking for wit and wisdom and we think we were rewarded in each respect. But there was no unanimity of opinion on any subject capable of being debated. The result was typically Congregational. In one instance, the questions were submitted to a local church council; the answers in this case did not approach unanimity in opinion more than in the larger group of state-wide replies. Local conditions are by no means similar in all sections of the Commonwealth, but no mere differences in environment can explain the strikingly divergent points of view on nearly every proposition.

The following is a list of the inquiries which we submitted in our questionnaire:

1. Do you favor state regulation of moving pictures?
2. What is your impression of the moving picture theatres in your community?

3. In your opinion should the compulsory school age limit in Massachusetts be raised above the present requirements? — 14 years?
4. Do you see any change in your community since the enactment of the Volstead Law?

4a. Was your community " no license " before the Volstead Act?

5. Should ethical instruction have a more recognized or specific place in our public school curriculum?
6. In view of the adoption by many communities of the State law permitting Sunday sports, is it wise, in your judgment, for the churches to provide some definite recreation (such as " hiking," etc.) for Sunday afternoon?
7. What is your opinion as to the effect of the Daylight Saving Law on the general welfare of your community?
8. Does your church undertake in any specific way social or welfare work beyond the usual church activities?
9. Will you describe social or welfare work, if any, conducted by your church?

We take up the answers to these questions in the order which is indicated above with such suggestions in relation thereto as your committee feel it advisable to make.

Last year the Welfare Committee took a pronounced position favoring the regulation of moving pictures by the state; we reaffirm that conviction. Our replies from many quarters convince us that the general condition of the moving picture theatres justifies a decided movement toward wise state regulation. It may be said that no plan which has yet been devised fits the case; but at least for the sake of the children of the community, we cannot supinely consent to things as they are. It is certainly within the province of the Commonwealth to devise methods of control and regulation which shall lessen existing evils. To the child, the moving picture is as much a part of his education as the school book; if the state has any duties whatever in relation to the training of children, it would seem to us that it has an obligation here.

It must be stated, however, that this conviction is not the unanimous sentiment of those who have answered our questionnaire, or at least some doubt the usefulness of state regulation. The opinions as to the moving picture theatres vary; one pastor representing a conservative community, is not ambiguous in his viewpoint of the picture theatres, — " As regarding their total effect I think they have been and still are the most damnable thing which has come into life today." But an opposing judgment by another pastor is that the pictures are very " clean and wholesome." Another more or less recurring opinion " On the whole very good, but once in a while the cloven foot is seen." Another even more optimistic estimate is " A good thing. Pictures are carefully chosen and general tone is high." But this description is from a community for generations steeped in culture and Transcendental traditions! Our feeling about moving pictures through the state is that conditions on the whole though improving are often prejudicial to wholesome progress. The votes in favor of regulation by the state are more than 3 to 1 compared with opposite expressions of opinion. There is no doubt but that on the whole the answers which we have received reflect a state of things which needs in many cases drastic amelioration.

A large majority of replies favored raising the school age limit, one suggesting 17 years, several 16 years. There were many divergent opinions, those from large manufacturing centers being especially noted. A New Bedford answer reads "Am sure it would work a hardship." One reply seemed to the committee especially cogent in suggesting that if the age limit is raised provision must be made for vocational training, otherwise (as another reply indicated) many children are condemned to "two years of loafing." One answer suggests half time in school as a solution of this particular objection. In the mind of your committee, any change in the present requirements would work considerable hardship and injustice in many instances.

Many answers regarding the enforcement of the Volstead Act signally fail in satisfaction over successful achievement; but on the whole there is enthusiasm over greatly improved conditions in many localities. Nothing like adequate enforcement yet prevails. Your committee urges that every effort be made by our people to turn the Commonwealth from its present anomalous attitude to hearty cooperation with the present Federal legislation on the subject of prohibition. Inasmuch as a referendum is to be taken in our state next November on our enforcement code we strongly urge the constituency of our churches to promote to the utmost the work of registering voters and then above all the casting of a large vote in favor of strict enforcement of the prohibition law. We are the more urgent in this plea in view of the fact that in November, 1922, fifty per cent of Massachusetts' possible voters did not go to the polls.

There was greater unanimity of opinion in favor of more definite ethical instruction in our public schools than on any other proposition in our questionnaire. However, the voice of remonstrance is heard even here as elsewhere. Some favor an arrangement by which religious instruction can be given in connection with the school curriculum and believe that ethical without religious instruction will fail of its purpose. Many reply that school instruction in general should have a larger ethical content. The chief hope of several is in an improved teaching personnel. The feeling is general that there is need of more ethical training as an important function of the public school. We hereby call the attention of our State Commissioner of Education and our various superintendents of schools to this important subject and ask them to work out some definite policy of ethical instruction in our public schools.

Our replies on the question of Sunday recreation are vigorously divisive. One pastor of one of our largest churches writes: "Certainly not; we can never compete with the devil." He is upheld in this opinion not only in substance but in expression. Nevertheless, a large number of our correspondents are convinced that Sunday recreational activities under the right supervision will be fruitful of considerable benefit. One writer in speaking of "hiking" says: "Such a walk under the right leader would be both worship and study and health exercise." Another favors such recreational activities "where the home does not function." There are many who fear "letting down the bars" and a number who believe that in any case local conditions must be the deciding factor. The number favoring and opposing Sunday recreational activities was almost exactly evenly divided.

The Daylight Saving question was included in the questionnaire not because your committee supposed it to be especially vital, but as a matter of interest in view of the probable state referendum on the subject. If our replies were to constitute a referendum, standard time for five months in the year would turn its face to the wall. There are to be sure not a few complaints as to the injurious effects of daylight saving upon the farmers. One reply says "it is hard upon the mothers of children" another that evening church services suffer, and one Sunday school superintendent feels that it is a movement in line with the general trend of a pleasure-loving age with too little sense of responsibility toward the more serious aims of life. Replies of this tenor, however, are rather surprisingly few. The verdict is for daylight saving.

Few churches apparently are doing extensive organized welfare work outside of the usual church routine. Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops flourish in many communities, however, fostered by the churches. One of the Holyoke churches has maintained "a drinking fountain in the midst of a district (formerly) thick with saloons and on a boulevard where sometimes over a thousand people a day stop to drink cold water." The same church maintains the only public playground in the section open on the same terms to all. In other churches Saturday picnics for city children, hospital visitation, etc., are features. It would seem to your committee, judging from our replies that in community work of the type carried on by these churches there is a field of endeavor too largely unutilized. Many rural churches should make themselves in a larger degree than at present social and civic centres and many city churches could well engage in welfare work as in the Holyoke instance.

Our report on the questionnaire, as is seen, carries with it such specific recommendations as our committee feel it wise to make.

We have chiefly sought the point of view of our Congregational people. We have discovered that there is, strictly speaking, no such thing as unanimity. But though the points of view are many and divergent, they are strikingly independent, and afford us information which may be not unwelcome as to some of our varied attitudes toward important problems.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

I

In submitting a report of its activities during the past year your committee would emphasize four definite accomplishments which we trust will prove of value to the churches.

1. Lantern Slides. The sub-committee on the preparation of a set of stereopticon slides illustrating the best methods and equipment of good departmental work in the church schools has made real progress. There is now available a small but select set of these slides representing work done under the best conditions, and carrying a story which needs no accompanying written lecture.

2. Young People's Conferences. With the help of our committee a number of young people's conferences have been held in such localities as Hyde Park, Norwood, Dorchester and Framingham. These conferences, or religious institutes, were in the main, conducted by and for the young people themselves, closing with an inspirational address by the Pastor or one of our Educational Secretaries. We believe that such conferences resulted in a spiritual quickening and a deeper loyalty to the church on the part of the participants.

3. State Young People's Rallies. A word might be spoken concerning the young people's rally held in conjunction with the State Conference last May in Great Barrington. This conference, limited primarily to the Berkshire region, drew large numbers of our young men and women from Pittsfield, North Adams and Dalton who came by motor busses and brought box lunches. Tables were prepared and cocoa furnished by the First Church in Great Barrington. Following the supper the group adjourned to the First Methodist Church where eight young people spoke enthusiastically and thoughtfully on the general theme, " The Young People and the Local Church." The meeting closed with a brief inspirational address by Secretary Harry T. Stock, who summarized the main points brought out in the discussion.

The young people's session of this State Conference has been made possible by the splendid work of a sub-committee which has had the loyal co-operation of a group of key young people from various churches. A letter was sent to every Pastor in the state signed by these young people of our high schools and colleges for the purpose of creating enthusiasm for this meeting. Mr. Bryant Nichols reports that the young people have been extremely alive to the possibilities of their conference and have cheerfully supported his sub-committee.

4. The Function of Our Committee. And finally, your committee would report that it has given time and study to a consideration of its primary aim and purpose. Created by the Conference, and a servant of all the churches in the state, we are most anxious to discharge the duties you have imposed upon us, and by way of reminding ourselves of the greatness of the task we conceive of our function somewhat after this fashion — to develop in the church leaders and workers of the state the desire and the ability to use adequate methods and materials of religious instruction. This conception of function is comprehensive, yet definite, and we look to you for support in our work.

II

Desirous of complying with the request of the National Council, and in order to emphasize certain outstanding educational ideals common to all Christian churches, your committee makes the following recommendations:

1. Educational Emphases.

a. Education for World Peace. In order to educate our youth for world peace we would recommend that in the various departments of our church schools, especially in the younger grades, by the means of worship programs, lesson courses and problem projects we seek to create definite and positive attitudes and ideals opposed to the principles of war and in harmony with the principles of good will and international brotherhood. In times of peace prepare for war and you get war. In times of peace prepare for peace and you get peace. Let us educate our young that they may organize the world into a Christian family.

b. Respect for Law. We would also recommend that the idea of the sanctity of the law be kept before our young and that they be reminded that obedience to law is liberty. This refers to all law, but has a special reference to the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

c. Social Problems. We would further recommend that the members of our church schools both by precept and by example be taught that the ultimate and only solution of all of our social, racial and industrial problems is to be found in the Christian Gospel of justice, brotherhood, cooperation and righteousness.

2. The Organization and Work of the Committee.

a. In the light of our primary aim we would recommend that members of this committee be selected on the basis of their interest in religious education, their intimate acquaintance either through training or experience with the subject and their willingness to study the needs of the churches throughout the state.

b. Intensive Spiritual Cultivation. We would recommend that the conference approve our plans to secure results by actually demonstrating methods and ideas in certain selected fields, that these specific projects be carried to completion and the results of this intensive work be made available for the use of the churches.

3. Appropriation.

We would recommend that an appropriation of $250 be made for the coming year.

Pastors, Directors of Religious Education, Church School Officers and Teachers are urged to avail themselves of the agencies and advisors in the State office of our denomination and to write to the members of this committee concerning suggestions and help.

Respectfully submitted,

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RELATIONS BETWEEN THE CHURCHES AND THE COLLEGES

We have divided the report into four parts: A general discussion of objectives and methods; a brief review of conditions in churches and colleges the country over as they have come under the observation of the educational leaders of our denomination; a digest of replies to a questionnaire sent to a large number of Congregational clergymen; a brief statement of the reaction of college students to certain questions laid before them at a preliminary conference, including some facts relative to methods of religious education in colleges.

The entire report must be regarded as distinctly tentative, both with respect to the general discussion and to the conclusions to be derived from facts presented.

1. Objectives and Methods.

To come to grips at once with the subject the main questions may be stated as follows:

The objectives of church and college religious work divide naturally into two groups — the obligations of the churches and the obligations of the colleges, and both not so much with respect to each other as institutions, as with respect to the welfare of youth.

The main objectives of the churches would seem to be fourfold:

1. To give adequate religious nurture to children and youth before they get to the college age.

2. To present to youth sufficiently adequate explanations of religion so that when they reach college, they are not easily thrown out of balance by the study of science and philosophy.

3. To keep in close touch with students who belong to the church, while they are in college.

4. To give them, as students and graduates, really worth-while tasks in the field of religious enterprise.

The obligation of the colleges seems to be also four-fold:

1. To reconcile in the minds of the students the teachings of science and the explanations of religion.

2. To convince students that religion is both natural and essential to personal and social life, as well as to stimulate them to make the religious motive dominant in their lives. It is assumed that the colleges will do everything within their power to provide a good moral background.

3. To send students out inspired with the spirit of service and with some knowledge of both the field and the method of service. Enlistment for life work in the religious field or at least determination to make religious and social service an avocation are both important aspects of this obligation.

4. To give students some practice during the college period in attractive and useful forms of religious work.

Your committee makes no attempt at this time to go into detail concerning methods of accomplishing these objectives. We present, however, some suggestions that are at least illustrative.

THE CHURCHES

1. It is generally believed that there is a sad lack of distinctly religious nurture of the children of the church. If knowledge of the Bible is any criterion whatever, the situation is really deplorable. Officers of the Young Men's Christian Association estimate that among high-school students not one half of the Protestants are in Sunday School and that there is a lamentable lack of biblical knowledge. Present family discipline and education practically neglects the religious element. Every subsequent endeavor on the part of the church or the college to develop the religious life is handicapped by this lack of religious nurture during the period of childhood and early youth. The whole matter needs a thoroughgoing reorganization and possibly an entirely new approach.

2. It is obvious that both the preaching of the pulpit and the teaching of the church school must be such that youth of high school age shall come to some understanding of the elementary explanations of religion. Here too, we need a systematic and scientifically organized approach. Doubtless the root of the difficulty of securing and keeping properly trained teachers in the Sunday School is one of the main things to be remedied.

3. It is important that the local church shall keep in touch with its young people when they are away at college, gathering them into groups in vacation time, using them in every possible way, referring them to pastors in college communities. The churches should encourage daily vacation Bible school movements with the hope that each Massachusetts college shall support at least one such school and that many of our churches shall employ college students in this type of work; call attention to the possibility of greater cooperation between colleges and the Congregational Sunday School Extension Society, to the end that students may become better informed with regard to summer work offered by that Society and that Massachusetts churches may be encouraged to assume the responsibility of such work and that other possible fields in that work be investigated.

The Daily Vacation Bible School finds a happy illustration in the relationship long existing between Amherst College and Grace Church, Holyoke. Although this Church is one of the largest churches in the state, the proportion of its young people that attend college is very small. Fifteen years ago the Amherst College Y. M. C. A. established a Daily Vacation Bible School at Grace Church. The student Y. M. C. A. provides a student leader each summer, and pays him $150. Alumni provide generously for the other expenses of this school. Among the students that have served as leaders have been Julius Seelye Bixler, Leland Olds, George D. Olds, Jr., Charles Mills, Walter Greene, and Daniel Bliss to mention family names well known in Congregational circles. Work at Grace Church, in many cases covering a much longer period than that of the Vacation School term, has brought not merely the student leaders but also wide circles of their friends into touch with the work and life of a large, highly organized, and deeply religious industrial church, thus enlightening the student point of view. On the other side, it has given industrial boys and girls an introduction to the best type of college man, and it has brought them into a happy relationship with the campus, with members of the faculty, and under the influence of the great intellectual, religious, and missionary traditions of the College. It has refreshed the pastor of this industrial church by giving him an ever-increasing number of intimate contacts with college men living under extremely different conditions from those under which his difficult duties are performed.

4. How can the churches give students and college graduates worth-while tasks? We reach here a vital aspect of the whole question. Vigorous college men will have no interest in petty or inconsequential details of so-called "church work." They want something that challenges them. The heart of this matter is giving these men a chance to save boys (and what is said in this report applies equally to men and women students and girls). Perhaps Sunday School teaching is a hopeful outlet. The churches and pastors have no more important duties than to find real jobs for college students. We might as well face the issue squarely. Very few young people of today can be appealed to for loyalty to the church simply as an institution. Their loyalty must be gained because the church gives them worth-while service for worth-while ends. The churches in a college town have a peculiarly important and difficult responsibility. Fundamentally, the over-churching of smaller towns and the lack of cooperation between the churches are factors.

THE COLLEGES

1. With respect to the work in the colleges, there must be first of all, courses in religion. If these can be given with college credit, so much the better. Religion must be clearly defined. The significance of religion must be emphasized. There must be close sympathy between the teachers of science and the teachers of religion. There must be a sound intellectual basis for the religious motive.

2. The devotional aspect also needs attention. Church service, Bible study, emphasis upon the religious interpretation of life, stimulus to daily devotions are all methods to be invoked.

3. The practical aspect of religion needs to be enforced through presenting to the student a Christian program for society, so that when he leaves college he will have some specific background for applying the Christian spirit to daily work and life and for assisting other like-minded men in the same task. Of course enlistment for distinct religious service is important but, if possible, it is even more important that the laymen shall be thoroughly indoctrinated with the idea that our economic, political, and social life must be made fully Christian.

4. Practice work can come only when the college and the community cooperate in offering opportunities for the student enterprise in the community and in the surrounding communities.

5. Apparently all this calls for the development at each college of what is really a School of Religion, with one or more employed student pastors who will gain close personal touch with individuals and groups, offer definite courses, and give public addresses. Doubtless a student organization of some sort, like the Y. M. C. A., is almost indispensable. Faculty aid is also imperative.

A successful teacher of religion in one of our New England colleges, in answer to a query concerning the problem discussed by this committee, has made the following suggestion which your committee has paraphrased giving, however, the substance of his remarks.

Contrary to the views of many, the college student not only is not uninterested in religion but he is more interested in religion than in any other subject.

Religion, however, must be presented to him as a great reality, and cannot be sugar-coated or camouflaged. Moreover, it must harmonize with science.

The courses in religion at the college should be as follows:

a. A required course for Freshmen on the elements of religion. The Freshmen should be required to face the real problems. Better not to take the Bible first, because it immediately raises problems in their minds.

b. Elective course in the Sophomore year on the Bible.

c. Advanced elective course on the general line of significant aspects of the history of religion and of applied religion.

The churches in a college town should present a united front and every effort should be made to federate or unite the Protestant churches so that the student is brought into contact with a big, strong, vital church.

Even the Freshmen should be brought to see the significance of religion in its three main aspects, namely, ethical, mystical, and practical or social. It is important to have projects in which students shall take part, preferably organized by the local churches and organic in their work, thus bringing the student into contact with real problems.

We may summarize this general report by stating the problem through a series of vital questions:

1. How may we persuade youth that the religion of Jesus is a spirit, an attitude, a way of life, — not a set of dogmas nor even a list of beliefs?

2. How may we define this spirit of Jesus in terms of present-day thinking and speech?

3. How can we make clear the fundamental beliefs of Jesus about God, immortality, prayer, sin, brotherhood, purity, Nature, as well as about the social and political problems of His time?

4. How may we inspire youth with the purpose to develop and to manifest this same spirit of Jesus in the inner life of thought and imagination, of goals and of will?

5. How demonstrate the need and the possibility of vitalizing and directing, by this spirit of Jesus, all the collective activities and relationships of men — economic, political, social — in all small groups and in all large groups, even classes, races, and humanity itself?

(General Nation-Wide Conditions)

Preparation for College Experiences.

Taken the country over, a relatively small proportion of our churches are, in any adequate way, fitting their youth for the experiences of college life.

Many of the churches from which these youths come are small, the salaries are low, the community ofttimes is provincial, the religion which is taught is conservative and neither the church nor its minister is strong and aggressive. The church, in many of these situations, is dominated by the older, more conservative folks, who determine its programs and policies and often the message which is preached from the pulpit. Thus, the young people are not given the share in the church life which they should have, and do not find teaching which develops a religious outlook easily adjusted to the modern scientific world in which we live.

In a considerable number of our larger, stronger churches, and even in some of the smaller ones, there is a leadership, a point of view, a virile type of thought, and a church life, which does, to a very considerable degree, prepare the young people for collegiate experiences. On the whole, however, probably not more than one quarter of the young people, who go to college and to the universities, have such religious experience and outlook as easily makes them at home in the college atmosphere.

The Interest of the Church.

In the middle west, where special efforts have been made to get pastors of churches to send in the names of young people going from their congregations to tax-supported universities, a surprising lack of interest has been shown. In many of these centers, there is a student pastor whose business it is to get into touch with these young people, help them with their personal problems and religious life, and in their church relationships. It is almost impossible to get more than one pastor out of four to write in, giving the names of the young people coming from his church, to the college or university center

This same lack of interest obtains in New England, and in Massachusetts, although such data has not been solicited from ministers here, as it has farther west.

One wonders whether a pastor, who neglects to render this service, can have much genuine interest in his young people who go to college. It would seem that no amount of work, however excessive, could be an adequate excuse for this neglect.

What the College Does for the Student.

Conditions in colleges and universities vary widely all the way from constructive, positive Christian effort and teaching, to negative, destructive, agnostic and atheistic teaching and influence.

In most of the colleges and universities, presidents are thoroughly interested in the welfare of the young people who come to their institutions. Many of them, however, say that it is impossible to secure the type of people desired for their faculties — that the universities are not turning them out. Religious interest and Christian character have had too little consideration in selection of faculties. More emphasis has been put upon a Ph.D. degree and the writing of a book, than upon teaching ability. Many professors say, " I am here to teach my subject, and have no responsibility for the student." This is both stupid pedagogically, and outrageous from the standpoint of common human relationships.

Mechanism Versus Theism.

While churches and church people waste time and energy over unimportant and inconsequential questions such as the virgin birth, the real issue which the church of today faces is a mechanistic naturalism which is being taught by biologists, physicists, psychologists and chemists, which is frankly agnostic and materialistic.

A man like Prof. John V. Watson of Johns Hopkins, a leader of the Behavioristic school of psychology, tells his students that " freedom of the will has been knocked into a cocked hat " and that such things as the soul, consciousness, God and immortality, are merely mistakes of the older psychology.

Professor Wiggam, in his recent book, " The New Decalogue of Science," says " It is, I think, safe perhaps to assert that a majority of all biologists, psychologists, physicists, and chemists and critical thinkers generally, are either thorough-going mechanists, or have espoused some form of pragmatic naturalism or new realism."

The naive assurance of this entire school, and the inability of the average student to cope with the data and experience which they bring to bear upon the subject, is causing great numbers of students in attendance upon many of our institutions to say, " There is nothing in religion. We have passed it up altogether."

It is exceedingly easy for the negative religious conclusion of this school of thought to disturb and undermine the religious thought and life of students. It is always a far more difficult thing constructively to build such a foundation for our religious nature and life as to give these support in our universe as a whole. This school practically holds that purposive action is a delusion, and that " man is no more capable of creative activity than the lowest animal or the crystal in the test tube."

Thinkers like Dr. McDougall, of the Psychology Department at Harvard, in such books as his "Outline of Psychology," show the weakness of the mechanistic position, and he, with many others, is leading in making that position increasingly untenable.

It seems, however, that the general attitude and contentions of the mechanistic school, in some way, fit in well with considerable of the temper of our present time. Thus this school is having a wide-spread influence and significant effect upon the problem of Christian thought and life.

In general, it would have to be said that the average faculty member in our colleges and universities, is more capable in the matter of raising questions and difficulties in the way of faith, than he is in the more synthetic, constructive process of laying an adequate basis for making a man's moral and religious nature at home in his universe. Probably this is true, partly, because it is very much easier to do.

Religious Forces.

An increasing number of the colleges are putting in thoroughly equipped departments of Biblical Literature and Religious Education, led by capable, constructive, scientific leaders. In many schools the influence of these departments is distinctly felt for good.

Volunteer organizations, such as Christian Associations, and workers representing churches, in certain schools, have made a real contribution to the Christian life of students. But this has usually been more in connection with the students that are already attached to the Christian life and the Christian church, and has apparently not been able largely to reach the more indifferent and less interested group.

It could not be said that there is less interest among students in religion than formerly. On the contrary, it is one of the general topics of conversation among college students.

From the point of view of the church and church life, when the students come out, there are many who question whether the compulsory college church service on Sunday, differing as widely as it does from normal church life, where students come and listen to the finest preachers the country affords preach their best sermons, and have little or no other responsibility in connection with the service — whether these services help toward the student's interest in church life when he leaves college. It is argued that the student is likely to feel, unless he happens to locate in a community where there is an exceptional preacher, that he can get nothing in any way comparable to what he got while he was in college. If he is in a small community, with a conservative and provincial outlook in religion as well as in community life, he is likely to turn away from the church altogether. In some colleges, however, the authorities believe these college services to be a distinct asset.

The only thing that can save the student to the church in situations of that kind, is that in some manner, while in college, he shall come to the point where, because of the college opportunity, he recognizes his responsibility to find some way of making his Christian contribution through the church after college days are over.

A book such as " The Plastic Age," which is being widely read by students in our colleges, certainly is intended to remove all ignorance in the minds of students with reference to what is going on in the worst side of college life. While the author probably intends to be fair, the book, though it may be true to the general situation in a few institutions, is probably untrue to the situation in a majority of institutions. On the other hand, in a large number of institutions, everything that is mentioned in the book is actually done and is true of some students.

One must not, however, too hastily conclude that the situation is worse than it has been in former times. One thing is certain — that the worst is being better known, and, in fact, that many agencies are working to publish abroad that worst. What the effect of this realistic portrayal of the seamy side of college life is to be, it would be hard to tell. We are rapidly approximating a single standard of morality, but it is the man's rather than the woman's standard.

On the whole, the relationship between ministers over the country and many of our colleges, is hardly one of full confidence on the part of the former, and not one, generally speaking, of full respect on the part of the latter.

In some sections of the country, it does not appear that some of the colleges have any particular advantage in the minds of the Congregational constituency, from the point of view of Christian influence, over the tax-supported universities. It is a rather general feeling that the students in the tax-supported institutions are about as well off from a religious point of view, as those in the independent or church colleges.

3. Replies of Ministers Concerning the College and the Church.

The following letter was sent by the committee to the ministers of the state.

March 22, 1924.

To the Congregational Ministers of Massachusetts,
Dear Fellow-Workers:

The State Conference at its meeting in May, 1923, appointed a Committee on the Relations Between Churches and Colleges in Massachusetts.

This Committee has been making investigations in the colleges to discover conditions, and has had a most interesting conference with students, drawn from a number of colleges, to find what preparation they received in their homes and churches to fit them for college and also what training they are getting in the colleges to fit them for service in the communities in which they are going to live.

This data is most interesting, and will be submitted in the report at the next meeting of the Conference.

Enclosed you will please find eight questions dealing with this problem from the point of view of the home and the local church. Will you kindly cooperate with the Conference and its Committee by sending us, as nearly by return mail as possible, the most definite answers you can give to the questions?

Students and faculty folk have spoken their minds with utmost freedom. We trust you will do the same.

Enclosed please find a stamped, addressed envelop for reply.

Thanking you for this cooperation, we are,

Very sincerely yours,
KENYON L. BUTTERFIELD.
JOHN A. HAWLEY.
E. B. ROBINSON.
H. S. COWELL.
MARY A. CHEEK.
FRANK M. SHELDON.

The following digest is based upon the replies to the questions made by 167 ministers. It should be said that the answers usually showed thoughtful consideration of the questions, and there was a marked absence of dogmatism or snap judgment.

Question 1. What definitely is your church doing to prepare your young people who go to college for the experiences of college life?

1. About a third say that they have no young people preparing for college, and that the question consequently does not apply to them.

2. About a third answer, "Nothing," with certain explanations or reservations, as for instance:

The large part of this group feel that what is done by preaching, mid-week services, young people's organizations, etc., either for all young people, or for both young people and adults, is sufficient. That is to say, they have not felt that young people planning for college need special attention any more than young people planning for business.

In giving this reply, a number mention the following as being of some assistance in preparing for college:

Graded instruction and worship.
Preaching a modern gospel.
Service in church activities.

Several unusual replies:

"Nothing as a church. Would be glad to know what can be done."
"Nothing definite. Much in general and indirectly."

"Nothing. It is left entirely to the schools."

"Am not sure that I see why college students should need a different preparation from others."

"Nothing or much, as one views it."

3. About a third mention the type of preaching which is intended to prepare all young people for any intellectual difficulties. There are no replies which indicate that the ministers are denouncing modern viewpoints from the pulpit; all who mention the character of their preaching hold that it is in harmony with science. Typical suggestions are:

Giving a sound and scientific faith.

Wholesome, liberal atmosphere.

Avoiding any teaching which will later have to be untaught.

Preaching a truth which will stand the test.

Teaching them to think for themselves.

Development of an atmosphere not different (intellectually) from college.

Sermons on the "Meaning of Natural Law," "Theistic Interpretation of nature."

Harmony of science and religion.

Training them so that they are safe anywhere.

4. The various young people's groups in the churches are constantly referred to as being the main medium through which the church works for the ends named. Usually there is little specific suggestion given of special ways in which the need is being met, which leaves one thinking that perhaps the "usual" methods of Christian Endeavor and Sunday School teaching are employed.

The types of young people's work referred to are as follows:

The Christian Endeavor meetings, and the opportunities for service offered by the societies.

The confirmation classes, or preparatory classes, conducted by pastors. There is a respectable minor fraction of the answers which include this.

Classes in the Church School:

Bible classes, facing modern viewpoints.

A class on leadership.

A class of those who are going away to college.

Young people's clubs, etc.

Where free discussion prevails.

A pastor and his wife who have weekly conferences with high school people, in which they discuss all kinds of problems of religion, ethics, sociology, and economics.

Sunday night forum — general discussion.

Young men's club.

Club of those planning to go to college — discuss the problems and conditions of college life, send for catalogues, etc.

Debate questions which will be faced in college.

Talks on vocations.

Various opportunities to share activity of the local church.

Sending young people to summer conferences.

" Maintaining the best and most modern methods in religious education."

5. Frequent reference to the personal contacts with young people as part of the pastoral opportunity.

A large number mention the fact that they urge young people to go to college.

Private conversations frequently referred to — probably rather sporadic.

Occasional mention of a systematic method of personal conferences with all young people who should go to college.

One mentions his help in planning the details of college with his young people.

One mentions suggesting helpful books to read.

Another circulates helpful books, naming: Fosdick, " Christianity and Progress "; Jacks, " Religious Perplexities "; Kennedy, " Lies," and " The Hardest Part."

6. A few miscellaneous replies may be noted:

" Simply praying."

Seeks to deepen spiritual life.

A series of studies on " How to Avoid College Upsets."

" Trying to lay the basis for character that has stability."

Teacher training.

Securing a definite decision for Christ.

Moral influence of Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, etc.

" Trying to forewarn and forearm them, and send them out in Christian faith and profession."

" Going-Away-to-College " Sunday every September.

Using college young people in Christian Endeavor during vacations.

Influence of a college graduate as a teacher of young men.

Having college students " tell their story " when they are home.

" College Night " — discuss education, its problems, etc., college students among the speakers; forum discussion followed.

RESUME. As one goes through these replies, he feels that the answers generally lack definiteness. Whether this is due to haste or to a lack of many concrete things to report may be a question. However, it seems that the following things may be said:

1. Most ministers have comparatively few definite things to report which indicate special preparation for college life.

2. A few ministers recognize this group as needing definite instruction, counsel, and comradeship. There are several genuine attempts to prepare for the college experience.

3. The general feeling seems to be that the pulpit, the Church School, and the Young People's Society is making a contribution in this direction. However, this contribution is much the same for all young people; it does not help the young person headed for college in any different way from that in which it helps the girl about to be married.

4. It seems that the church has not given much thought to the idea that it has an opportunity or responsibility along the line suggested in this first question.

Question 2. What are your average church homes doing toward this same end?

The replies to this question are varied, and give very little definite suggestion. They represent different viewpoints on the part of different ministers, as for instance:

A certainty that the home is not doing its work well.

A certainty that the homes from which young people go to college are making a genuine contribution.

An unwillingness to judge the home.

A failure to comprehend the implications of the question.

Those replying unfavorably may be listed as follows:

Saying definitely, " nothing " or " nothing in particular " — 24.

Saying " very little " or " not much " — 24.

Among the replies along the same line are:

Few of the parents know anything about college.

They are not cognizant of their responsibility.

They do nothing more than help them get their education.

The homes expect young people to seek employment early (many replies indicate this).

They prepare them thoroughly socially, carefully intellectually, and moderately religiously.

The average church home has fallen down.

They do not take parenthood very seriously.

Pastors who say " do not know " — 15.

Several do not know what the questions mean.

" I can't see why any peculiar preparation is needed other than for going elsewhere."

The replies which are favorable do not number more than 35.

Among the favorable statements made are:

They give full co-operation with the pastor — 2.

There is a good home atmosphere — 3.

Good religious journals in the home — 2.

The young people who go to college come from good Christian homes — 3.

The parents are anxious for their children to get a good education — 3.

Homes are trying to do the right thing.

The homes encourage their young people to participate in religious activities.

The average church home is emphasizing unselfish service as the right life ideal.

Are trying to establish young people in the essentials of moral integrity.

Want young people to be church members and Christians before they go to college.

The home makes a genuine effort.

Question 3. What do you and your church do to put pastors in town or college where your youth go to school into touch with those going from your church?

The replies here show the following:

A number did not answer the question.

Those saying that they did not write to the pastors in college towns — 27.

Those indicating that they sometimes do — 37.

Those indicating that they make a practice of writing to college town pastors — 31.

Those who say they have not done it in past, but will do so in the future — 8.

Those who answer the question by saying that they contribute for the Education Society — 4.

Those whose students commute or come home every week — 14.

Among the explanations of failure to do this:

Pastor is always ready to do this if it is wanted.

Has done it when necessary.

Has felt that there is little use of doing it.

Offers to do it.

Did not know that college town pastors wanted such information.

Urge students to become affiliate members — 2.

Pastors in college towns can have no individual touch with such a mob.

Tried it years ago; nothing came of it.

Town pastor doesn't figure much in college circles.

Has not seemed necessary; colleges have "their own centers of religious life."

Except where the college chapel takes care of religious life.

Leaves it to the young people who are urged to make the connection.

Usually such things take care of themselves.

It is taken for granted that the youth themselves will find affiliations.

Question 4. What does your church do to keep in touch with your students while in college?

Number of pastors who write their students away from home, either regularly or occasionally — 53.

Number whose young people commute or come home so frequently as to make this unnecessary — 18.

Number sending parish literature to them — 10.

Number reporting "nothing" — 27.

Number reporting special recognition during vacations — 34.

Other special items noted:

Parties before they go away to college.

"As a church nothing should be done. The personal friendship of the pastor alone can do anything here."

Church school classes write.

Christian Endeavor society writes:

"Pastor requests letter from each student to be read at annual meeting of church."

Cards on birthdays.

Annual College Night — letters from students to pastor read.

"Write a letter, warning them to avoid new fangled notions and stick to virtue and tell your troubles to mother and father."

Send them a letter annually if they belong to the church.

Question 5. What, as you see it, does the college do for young people? Does it send them back more or less interested in the church? Has their attitude been improved and their equipment for effective Christian service increased?

The replies to this question are cautious and discriminating. Almost none of them is dogmatic. There are few categorical answers. Those who reply, in general, call attention to such points as these:

It depends upon the individual.

It depends upon the college.

It depends upon the church to which they come back.

What happens to college students happens also to young people who do not go away from home.

The general summary of results is:

Those thinking that college usually sends them back less interested — 31.

More interested — 23.

Those who think that it sends them back either interested or disinterested, continuing the spirit with which they left college — 29.

Those who call attention to the fact that college graduates seldom come back to the home town — 13.

It seems important to list some of the expressions of opinion more fully with regard to this and succeeding questions:

"Generally speaking, they have gained a broader viewpoint, but lost a spiritual dynamic."

"Less interested in some of the ways of doing things. Potentially more interested in the better methods and wider ideals."

"They are usually willing to do what they are asked to do, but they want real service. Attending meetings of Christian Endeavor Societies does not appeal."

"The first part of your question depends on what kind of a church the young people have been brought up in; they will be less interested in their church if that church insists on stressing denominationalism and forgets that there may be other good Christians outside the fold."

"The college seems to be taking the very life out of them! When the majority of girls in college major in zoology (which seems to be but an 'expression' of the desire to fathom the Mysteries of Life), leaving literature, art, music, etc., it looks 'bad' to me."

"Probably less interested in the older conception of religion, but more ready to accept religion in its larger interpretation, which is a good sign."

"It depends on the intellectual standards of the church. If they are of college stamp, the returned students are a help. If not, the stduent is rightfully less interested."

"If the parents are interested, the returned students are likely to be. Also, if we get them to some work on their return, they are valuable."

"From the men's colleges the result is negative; from the women's colleges usually positive. This may be due to women, as such, and not to the colleges. Prep school young people invariably come home with deepened interest and desire to serve."

"Girls fit in immediately, but not always the boys."

"I'm a Doubting Thomas. They ask you to reform the church and then 'we'll fall in.' Why not fall in and help in the reform?"

"If the church has been teaching and practicing a reasonable religion the young people are not alienated. They are more critical, of course, and not always helpfully so. They are much improved for Christian service if they are allowed to work on progressive plans and ideas."

"Less, with exceptions."

"Less interested. I do not, however, believe college is responsible. I believe it is a trend of their age in years."

"Less. I can speak only for my own boys. They are noble fellows, but they came home with agnostic inclination."

"Yesterday a typical senior (not a bad sort, and of strong church ancestry) consented to remove his pipe long enough to greet a roomful of ladies. Will he lead Christian Endeavor? Nix!"

"If they are not interested it is because the church does not square with the college."

"After a year or two of college they are useless for church work."

"We dread the influence of New England colleges, taken as a whole. We feel that an indifference to civic, ethical, and religious standards is often 'caught.'"

"The college has quickened the intellectual life of our young people, so that they are more keen in asking questions, but the attitude toward the church depends wholly upon ourselves."

"Less, generally. Not always the fault of schools or of the young people. But the home folks, prejudiced against Modern viewpoint. Rather than hurt the dear old folks they do nothing and say nothing, not being willing to lie about what they believe."

"More interested than the average boy who has not gone to college."

Question 6. What, from the point of view of Christianity and the church, do you think of colleges at the present time?

The replies again indicate an unwillingness to dogmatize, many of the ministers insisting that:

No general approval or indictment is possible; it is necessary to talk in terms of particular colleges.

No sane judgment can be given, because one must always consider the raw material with which the college deals, or the material as it has been handled by the home and the local church.

There are decidedly constructive results, and there are others equally deplorable within the same institution; that consequently, one can hardly register himself either affirmatively or negatively in reply to the question.

The number of replies which are dominantly favorable — 58.

The number of replies which are dominantly unfavorable — 52.

Among the favorable statements should be noted:

"The college is the bulwark of Christianity, with few exceptions."

Many expressions are similar in character, while at the same time indicating a fear that there is much room for improvement."

The unfavorable criticisms of the church are numerous and should be noted in more detail:

"Too much scientific interest; need more social and religious emphasis to prepare young men and women to live together in a Christian democracy."

"I believe they are not keeping pace with the growing moral ideals of the race. One finds in most of them a fearful dualism (sacred and secular); 'efficiency' is their god; utility is more of an ideal than beauty."

"They are a good deal nearer our youth than the average church is."

"The curriculum is built around a classical ideal or a commercial efficiency ideal so much that real character is more a by-product or an indefinite result than a definite achievement."

"Primarily athletic institutions — secondarily, brain athletics."

"Intensive questioning of undergraduates regarding religious opinion in their college gets nowhere."

"On most college campuses an organized religious movement is needed."

"With their costly buildings including frat houses and their endowments of millions they have quite grown away from the church, or from any feeling of dependence upon it and relationship to it. The church and Christianity do not bulk in the thought of the colleges as they did twenty-five to forty years ago."

"Am going through some heart-searching experiences. Used to urge college generally for all. Am coming to feel that college is a fad, much overdone, too many there who might better be somewhere else. Told a girl recently I wouldn't turn over my hand to help her go to college unless she could convince me she was in dead earnest. The heart of education is consecrated purpose, the spirit of responsible service because of educational advantages. This is not what the average college is giving.

"The rising cost is deplorable.

"An emphasis upon negations, rather than affirmations, taking away childhood's crude conceptions, but not always giving something better in return."

"The college lacks interest in the personality of the student."

"I think that they are agnostic and almost atheistic, some of them."

"Too much conventional conviviality in college reunions is my only objection. Their courses are fine."

"The colleges are out of harmony with the spirit of Christianity. The teaching forces in philosophy and science seem to lead the student away from religion."

"The colleges are contradicting the faith which the church has striven at great cost to maintain."

"Denominational colleges waste good money teaching subjects taught in state institutions and not training their students to be more efficient and scientifically trained laymen."

"Need a new type of leadership in the Christian work at college. Think the Y. M. C. A. type has had its day. A student movement with its own leadership, and a few sympathetic older people coaching on the side lines."

"Students seem to learn to regard Christianity as a benevolent myth."

"It would seem as if the college ought to be able to broaden the ideas and views of young people's religious thinking without destroying them, but far too often it does not. The general atmosphere and social conditions of college life seem to make it very difficult for a Christian young man or woman to maintain a vital faith or purpose."

"The colleges do not give a great deal of instruction in religion. A man must have his religion or his quickened religious consciousness when he enters college."

"Most of them do not scratch the surface in dealing with the student's religious nature. Their influence is usually indifference to the church. They rarely do anything adequate or effective to help the student who is upset in his ideas of religion by his new ideas of science. Religion appears an uninteresting luxury."

"They follow too closely the Zeitgeist, but on the whole are preparing for a future leadership which at the present time they do not possess."

"The college, like the church, has largely succumbed to the materialistic spirit. Money, building, success, prestige, are its chief thoughts. Very few of the professors are virile men with a Christian personality. I should say that the colleges are only very incidentally interested in religion."

"The intellectual, social, athletic, and life plans (largely thought of along money or 'success' lines) thought in college shuts out too largely the thought on the spiritual. Furthermore, the emphasis upon social salvation, philanthropic, and social needs of today, etc., kills out thought of the local church and individual Christianity."

"Sometimes I tremble for the boys and girls that go to college. I wish there were a higher Christian tone. I fear more for the girls, because of the moral sag that is certainly evident in most colleges. I think that scholarship and character should count for more than money in selecting students."

"Their chief object is to train young men and women for business life. Their instruction is very definite and concise along these lines, but in religion and religious activity, 'nobody knows,' — do you as you please, have an open mind, one way is as good as another."

"I do not like the jazz tone of much of it. Many college instructors take the attitude toward religion, 'It is to laugh.' Policewomen say that the worst types of dancing come from the colleges. Many college funny papers are as rank as they dare to be. Hundreds are smoking themselves into a coma. Yet, I am not a crêpe hanger."

Other definite criticisms center around:

Teachers smoking at a girls' college.

Need of real Christian leaders on faculties — 11.

Extravagance of social life.

Churches have suffered from destructive preaching of students with student pastorates.

Need of strong Christian presidents — 4.

Some one needed who will give constructive Christian counsel.

Makes them more Christian, but does not increase their faith in the church.

Need of more courses along religious education lines.

Lack of revivals in colleges.

Colleges are not producing ministerial candidates.

Several constructive criticisms follow:

"This is an age of transition. Many college teachers fail to emphasize the positive truths of Christianity because their own faith has become shaken. In due time light is bound to come. Certain Christian truths cannot be shaken."

"Some colleges are more Christian than some churches."

"The average college gives a better Christian impetus now than was the case twenty years ago, and the next decade will see great improvement."

"In these transitional days from the church built primarily on doctrine, to the church which stands for all-round Christ-centered life, the college is playing constructive part. It makes problems, but it solves other problems."

"The church is more at fault than the college."

"With a vast increase in college enrollment, there has been put slight endeavor on the part of our churches to meet the religious need of these embryo leaders."

A fair percentage make the point that what happens in college depends almost entirely upon what has happened before the young people go to college. The local church and the home must solve the main problem before college age.

Question 7. What effort does your church make to put to work students who come from the college into your community?

Practically all of the replies (in cases where they have college young people coming back, or into, the town) indicate that a real effort is made to give them chances to serve as teachers, in young people's work, as leaders of Scouts, etc., on committees, in adult departments, in the choir, in social, and recreational work.

There are several explanations indicating the variety of attitudes:

"We give them a worth-while job, not as flower girls or window openers, but positions which fit in with their intellectual and social training and gifts."

"Rather inclined to over-work them."

"Occasionally they consent to help."

"For church school teaching we find our college-bred men and women superior, as a rule."

"Those who return are 1000 miles from church. There isn't a lawyer, doctor (with one exception) dentist, in the town conspicuous for churchmanship."

"In the last two years we have employed for pay four students, — two from a technical school and two from a university. None was efficient as Sunday School teachers. Three of them were woefully deficient of ordinary Biblical knowledge and seemed to have made no preparation for teaching their classes. They were poorer than my uneducated, untrained laymen."

"They are among our best and most active workers."

"I find they hesitate to teach in Sunday School, rightly fearing the effect on folks who will not think. Have been pleased at the lack of bumptious conceit on the part of returning students who might think they knew it all."

"No such need has presented itself."

Question 8. In general, the helpful replies here may be summarized as dealing with such main considerations as:

1. Better understanding between colleges and churches. The faculties do not understand the church, and vice versa. Ministerial conferences in college towns would help; more visits from college faculties to pulpits of churches.
2. More carefully selected personnel, both with regard to faculties and to the pastorates of the churches.
3. A more adequate religious work on the campus; through the church in the town, through college preachers, etc., or through student organizations.
4. A better plan of follow-up of students by the home churches, with the cooperation of the colleges.

5. A revamped system of religious education; the home, the church school, the college curriculum.

"Hold several thousand funerals of the dear people who know all they ever want to know and who are sure any new idea means the ruin of Christianity. But I don't urge it."

Improvement of the system of religious education:

Sunday School work ought to be prepared and used by the church for students planning for college.

Much of the religious education ought to be simultaneous with the experience; hence the college must share in religious education.

Religious growth of student should be shared by college and by the church in the college town.

Colleges should:

Follow up each student more intimately with regard to personal needs.

Serious courses in religion for credit should be given.

About 99% of our religious education in church and college both is very unsystematic and primitive, or lacking.

"Urge our young people to go to the more religious colleges."

1. Transfer church membership to college church.
2. More conferences like that at Holyoke.
3. Definite introduction of local pastors to the students by the college — thus giving official responsibility to the pastoral relationship.
4. Major responsibility rests upon home — what it has done before college and what it does during college.
5. More emphasis by pastors on the home duties.
6. Emphasizing some facts from Stearns' book.
7. Monthly mid-week meeting devoted to parental problems.
8. Monthly letter to all parents in parish.

More attempt on part of church and college to understand each other.

Let college groups take the services once or twice a year.

Get young people into summer work — Sunday School Extension Society, Daily Vacation Bible School Work, etc.

The teaching force in the colleges should be chosen with regard to their ability to teach effectively their chosen subject, but granting this, preference should always be given to those of distinctly Christian character and influence.

1. Live college pastors.
2. Church history courses required.

1. Church should prepare young people for the teaching ahead.

2. Should prepare them with a serious purpose and a genuine religious experience.

3. College should conserve all the values contributed by the home and church.

When college learns that a young person is coming, enclose some helpful information about the college and its problems, etc., to the minister, that the minister may counsel the young person wisely.

"I trust that problem to you."

"The churches and ministers should hear the college's and the young people's presentation of the case."

"Let deputation teams of students spend week-ends at churches."

4. The Reaction of the Students.

A conference of students from Mount Holyoke, Smith, American International, Amherst, Massachusetts Agricultural, and Springfield Y. M. C. A. College was held at Holyoke in February at the suggestion of this committee. The committee did not attend the discussion sessions, feeling it wiser to allow the young people free opportunity for expression without the presence of adults. The assistant pastor of Second Church, Holyoke, Theodore L. Safford (Union Seminary, 1923) was in charge.

Six questions were submitted for discussion, but the time was inadequate for full consideration of all of the elements involved. The summary of opinions given below represents the spirit of the discussion, rather than the carefully formulated judgments of the group. The students themselves realized how difficult it was to arrive at final conclusions during the four hours given to discussion, and voted that this conference should be considered only as introductory to more thorough consideration of the problems involved. They asked the committee to call another such conference next year.

The questions, together with a digest of the student opinion, follows:

1. "Did the home and church adequately prepare you (outside of what school should have done) for the thought and experience of college? If so, how? If not, where was the lack?

The home did not adequately prepare, although it did make a small attempt. Religious interest in the home is lacking, both in the matter of religious practices and conversation and in the matter of dominant interest.

The church does not even make a small attempt to prepare for the thought and experience of college. Specific questions which would raise the problems to be faced in college are avoided in Sunday School. Ministers seem too unapproachable.

2. "Does Christianity seem to students a spirit, an attitude, a way of life — not a set of dogmas or even a list of beliefs? (Christianity meaning what Christian churches from 33 A. D. have produced.)

The question was hotly debated and took more time than any other in the conference. Representatives of different colleges disagreed concerning the presentation of Christianity in their respective schools. It was agreed that among the students there were three groups:

The active Christians, who think of Christianity as a way of life. It was estimated that about 36% of the students belonged to this class. (The estimated percent in each college differed, but the average of these percentages was 36%.)

The passive Christians, who think of Christianity as an institution combining dogma, ritual, aesthetics, etc., but not a way of life. The estimate of students belonging to this class was 54%.

The non-Christians — 10% were classed in this group.

3. "Does the church make clear the fundamental beliefs of Jesus about (a) God, (b) prayer, (c) sin, (d) the social and political conditions of His time?

a. The students felt that the church deals too much with abstract theories. It does not make real an immanent God. They get help along this line from their science courses.

b. Too much formalism in prayer. The church does not show the value of prayer as a constant spirit or practice. A majority agreed that the church during the war was too much interested in praying for success, instead of emphasizing righteousness above winning.

c. Too much emphasis upon the particular form of sinning, instead of trying to inculcate the mind and spirit of Jesus. Country churches, particularly, preach the gospel of fear; Old Testament severity is preached too much. The churches fail to teach as sin the things which Jesus condemned; e.g., the unequal distribution of wealth, the inequalities of the existing social order, etc.

d. The church does not give a plain message about wealth and material things. It gives two antagonistic views of war: 1, regretting it, but still blessing it; 2, condemning it. A vote was taken on: "Is there a discrepancy between the churches' teaching on war and Christ's teaching on pacifism?" Yes, 29; No, 2. (The two were from Smyrna.) Eleven did not vote.

4. "Is your college (meaning both curriculum and extracurriculum) giving you what you need along idealistic, moral, religious, and service lines? If so, how? If not, where is the lack, and why?"

The answers here differed, according to the colleges.

Among the lacks pointed out by one group were: (a) No elective courses in religion, psychology, psychology of religion; (b) The professors don't think far enough. They are inconclusive. They awaken questions and give no answer; (c) No world outlook or questions are brought before the students.

5. "Is the church in your community such as to offer satisfactory opportunity for service to a modern-minded, dead-in-earnest Christian college graduate?"

The answers here varied, according to local conditions and personal interpretations. The church was given credit for a strong influence in politics, community service, etc. Ministers were criticised because they often possess few qualifications for leadership. The church interests students in many pleasant affairs, but does not make God real to them.

6. "Youth criticizes. Can it offer definite proposals to improve now the church and college it will some day run?"

Among the suggestions made were:

a. Encourage children to think.

b. Don't teach children things which will need to be untaught later.

c. Get college-trained students to give their college course in child psychology and the Bible to teacher-training classes.

d. Get better Sunday School teachers. Pay them if necessary.

e. Get teachers to realize fully the power of example.

f. Organize daily Bible schools, for which credit is given in the school.

g. Wake the home up in the matter of giving religion to children.

h. Less theology in preaching for adults, and more applications of the life of Christ.

i. Clearer teaching from the pulpit regarding the things people should live and die for.

j. In the college curriculum, there should be more of the practical in the curriculum and less of the theoretical.

Regarding the effort made at the colleges to meet the religious needs of students, the following facts are presented as a mere indication of what is being attempted in the three schools mentioned:

(a) Mount Holyoke. Regular chapel service is held five times a week, the President being in charge. In addition there is a compulsory Sunday service, a number of "cuts" being allowed on the honor system. There is a department of Bible which is maintained on a high academic basis.

A Y. W. C. A. secretary is employed on full-time, and she has a vote on the faculty. The college contributes board and room to this secretary. The work carried on through this agency is considered very effective, although it does not reach every student in the college.

(b) Smith. The daily chapel service is voluntary, but it has the strong support of the Student Government. The Sunday service is also on a voluntary basis. About 700 students are enrolled in courses of the Biblical Department. The Christian Association is strong, but a large number of students are not effectively reached by it or by the Catholic Club, Episcopal Club, and similar organizations.

(c) Massachusetts Agricultural College. Chapel services are held twice a week and on Sunday. They are on a compulsory basis, this compulsion being voted by the students themselves each year. The Sunday service is more popular than the week-day. A Student Secretary gives his full time to the religious interest, his salary being paid by four denominations.

Your Committee recommends that the Committee on Relations between Churches and Colleges be continued,

a. To make further investigation of the situation.

b. To hold additional Student Conferences and also conferences of faculty representatives and ministers.

c. To discover ways by which understanding and cooperation between churches and colleges may be increased.

d. To plan ways by which colleges and churches may make larger use of their resources, each in cooperation with the other, especially by indicating specific service that can be rendered each to the other through cooperation such as that now being given by students through the Sunday School Extension Society in connection with the Daily Vacation Bible Schools, and possibly through plans that may be worked out with the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and the Congregational Education Society.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON EVANGELISTIC WORK

The Committee on Evangelistic Work has been in conference regarding the possibility of rendering some assisance to the pastors and the churches of the state. The members of this committee recognize and appreciate the valuable work of the Commission on Evangelism of the National Council, under the capable leadership of Dr. F. L. Fagley. The question arises, Can this state committee supplement to advantage the service rendered by the Commission?

This report contains three suggestions which are placed before the churches and pastors of the state for their consideration. First: That the Committee on Evangelism, cooperating when practical with the Home Missionary Society, arrange for a series of conferences of pastors at such strategic points in the state as would best serve those pastors to whom a conference of this nature might be acceptable. The meetings might begin in the afternoon and extend into the next day, or they might be one-day gatherings. The chairman of the committee has conducted a one-day conference for the pastors of Franklin Association, on Ash Wednesday, for the last eight years. Such leaders as Dr. Fagley, Dr. Potter and Dr. Sheldon have taken charge of these sessions and the men were greatly strengthened by the fellowship and the consideration of high spiritual matters; the pastors have been the guests of the local church in the matter of entertainment.

Our state might hold a series of "retreats" in mid-winter, preferably just before the Lenten Season. If thought desirable a team of speakers and leaders could well cover the state beginning down in the Brockton, or the Cape section, and then up in the Lowell section, and at Worcester, Springfield, Greenfield and Pittsfield. The Commission on Evangelism, through Dr. Fagley, has expressed its willingness to gladly cooperate in securing leaders if such a program were undertaken.

A second suggestion is that this committee try to arrange a Visitation of Associations, say for the fall of 1924 or the spring of 1925. It would be necessary of course to have the Associations agree to dates, and to make it possible for a group of men to go from place to place. Here again Dr. Fagley has offered to assist the committee in securing speakers, etc.

The third suggestion comes direct from Dr. Fagley and has to do with the care of ministers coming into Congregational churches: We are all the while having pastors come to us from other denominations as well as from other lines of work coming new into the ministry. The state committee on evangelistic work could be of splendid service in trying to reach these men when they come into our ministry with words of fellowship, perhaps a personal visit, and let them know the cordial, enthusiastic and deeply spiritual type of evangelistic work in our denomination.

REPORT OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Your Committee have attended to the special duties devolving upon them since the last session of the General Conference. and have Voted to empower the Secretary to print certain tables of special statistics in the "Minutes," also to leave to the discretion of the Secretary the matter of publishing the regular statistics of the churches in the "Minutes."

The Treasurer was given discretion to act as seems best to him in regard to the dilatoriness of some of the Association Treasurers.

The Treasurer's bond of $3,000 was continued as heretofore.

It was Voted that the same number (eighteen hundred) of copies of the "Minutes" be printed and distributed, as last year.

Rev. H. L. Packard of Worcester and Rev. C. H. Williams of Jamaica Plain were chosen Finance Committee.

Secretary Bailey was authorized to fill vacancies in Conference Committees during the year.

FRANCIS J. MARSH,
Secretary of Committee.

STATISTICAL TABLES

EXPLANATORY

The tables which follow comprise:

1. The statistics of the churches, giving the ministers, church membership, additions, removals, baptisms, Sunday schools and families; the statistics of the Young People's Societies; the amount of benevolences and expenses. These tables, in accordance with the vote of the Conference, in 1887, are made to conform to those in the Year-Book; but names in the pastoral column are changed according to the latest information before going to press.

2. The Associations of the churches, with the names of officers and the times of meeting.

3. The Ministerial Standing, giving the date of ordination of each minister, the date of membership, the residence and his "employment." "P. C." means pastor by council; "P.," pastor otherwise; "W. C." means without church; "Prof." means professor; "C. M.," city missionary; "T.," teacher; other abbreviations are self-evident "W. C.," however, includes many who have retired from active service, and some who are in business.

4. The Ministerial Record, containing lists of ordinations, installations, dismissals, and deaths.

The tables of the first part contain the names of all the Congregational churches in Massachusetts, the towns and cities being arranged alphabetically; churches in each town according to age. If the post office name of the church and the town name differ, a foot note on the page where the post office name would naturally be found will direct the reader to the town name.

Church members and families are reported as numbered January 1, 1924. Admissions, removals and baptisms cover the year 1923. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females" and "total," but included in them. "Sunday school" includes total membership of officers, teachers and scholars, January 1, 1924, or when the school is in operation (if not at that date), covering "branch schools," "mission schools" and "home departments," so far as maintained by the reporting church.

The months and days in the dates of the organization of churches are omitted. They will be found in the publications of 1873, those of churches since organized being given in the "Minutes" of each year Also the months and days in the dates of ordination and installation of ministers are omitted. The former may be found in the lists of the local Associations which follow the tables.

"Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry by the "laying-on of hands." "Commenced" denotes the date of the beginning of his present pastorate.

In accordance with the recommendation of the National Council, in the Statistical Tables pastors installed are marked "i."; pastors recognized by a council called for that purpose are marked "r."; pastors duly called by their churches, but not installed or recognized by council, are not marked.

Blanks in any column of figures are never equivalent to "none," but mean "no report"; but blanks in the column of ministers do mean that the church has no pastor or acting pastor, and the blank is left for the convenience of those who note changes.

Note. — The "year" means what changes were comprised in the twelve months preceding January 1 of the year mentioned. The table was begun in 1866, all preceding years now given being compiled from past "Minutes," — the number of churches in some years varying from the "Minutes" as they were to what they should have been.

The changes in list of churches, ordinations, installations, etc., for the past year, condensed in the above table, are given in detail in their proper place.

* Prior to 1876 "acting pastors" are included in "others" in columns of deaths of ministers.

In the above table, the columns of "Additions," "Removals," "Baptisms," and "Benevolent Contributions" cover the twelve months next preceding January 1 of the year mentioned in a given line. The number of churches, members, and of Sunday Schools was enumerated January 1 of the year mentioned. Previous to 1903 the number of churches "Vacant" includes all churches supplied by licentiates, or ministers of other denominations. Beginning with 1903, churches supplied by licentiates, or by ministers of other denominations, are counted "supplied." For Churches, Membership and Sunday-School Membership, for 1830, 1835, 1840, 1845, 1850, 1855 and 1860, see "Minutes" of 1900.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF MINISTERS

This list gives the names of pastors, or acting pastors, and of all Congregational ministers who are members of the Associations or Conferences that guard ministerial standing.

Ministers who are not reported as having ministerial standing in this state, and who have not been installed by council, are designated by a star(*). This does NOT mean that the man has no ministerial standing.

The first column of figures gives the page on which names may be found of all in pastoral service. A blank in the first column signifies that the person is not reported as being in pastoral service in this state.

The second column of figures gives the page on which ministerial standing is recorded.

The post-office addresses as given below often differ from the places named in the tables, and are supposed to be correct in this list.

An alphabetical list of licentiates follows this list.

SPECIAL NOTICE. — IF your name is not correctly printed in the preceding tables, IF one Christian name is not given in full, IF your ordination is not correct or is not in its proper place, IF your post-office is wrong, or IF before you receive the next Year-Book your post-office is changed, or IF your name is omitted from this list, the needed change or correction should be reported at once to the Rev. Henry Lincoln Bailey, Longmeadow, Mass., Secretary of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

EDITOR'S NOTE

With a sigh of satisfaction the editor presents this volume about ten weeks earlier than the 1924 edition. An effort has been made to revise the Year Book tables and addresses of ministers up to July 25. The vast majority of ministers, however, seem to trust in Providence and The Congregationalist for advising the Conference Secretary of their migrations, and possibly they wonder why he is not more up-to-date when he continues an ancient address in default of a better one.

May the Conference statistician courteously beseech a prompter cooperation from those church clerks who let even February and much of March go by before sending their Year Book reports? It may seem a trifling thing to wait for one report out of 600, but there are a dozen or a score who think and act on that principle, and Massachusetts delays the Year Book more often than not.

Every year, also, at least one church feels aggrieved over its unfair report in the columns of benevolence. This year the generous church at Lee is credited (or discredited?) with $472 for apportionment, when the pastor says it should be above $3,500. But missionary records show that the treasurer of the Lee church got his money into Boston on January 16 instead of before January 10 as statistical rules wisely insist. Next year that church will be credited with almost two years' gifts, which will be another unfair showing. The moral of this story is obvious and is recommended to the attention of all church officials.

RULES OF THE CONFERENCE

ARTICLE I. — Name

This body shall be called The Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

ARTICLE II. — Object

Its object is to promote (a) intercourse and fellowship between Congregational ministers and churches of the Commonwealth; (b) the cooperation of the churches with one another for their mutual comfort and development, and for the religious care of the home field; (c) the presentation and discussion of matters vital to our faith, and the interests of our denomination; and (d) the cooperation of this body with other ecclesiastical bodies for the general increase of Christian union and spiritual efficiency, and the advancement of Christ's kingdom in the earth.

ARTICLE III. — Doctrinal Basis

This Conference declares its steadfast allegiance to the faith which our fathers confessed, which, from age to age, has found its expression in the historic creeds of the Church Universal and of this Communion.

ARTICLE IV. — Denominational Basis

Being based exclusively upon Congregational principles, this Conference shall, under no circumstances, exercise ecclesiastical authority over churches or individuals, or interfere with the government or discipline of the churches, or consent to hear appeals, or give advice in ecclesiastical causes of any kind.

ARTICLE V. — Members

1. Each evangelical Congregational Church, Conference, and Association in this Commonwealth may choose one delegate, and these delegates, together with the pastor or pastors of each church (who shall be members ex officio), the officers and committee members of this body, two delegates from the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, one from the Board of Ministerial Aid, one from the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, one from Andover Theological Seminary, and one from the Board of Pastoral Supply, shall constitute the Conference.

2. Delegates from corresponding bodies and persons appointed to speak before the Conference, together with such other persons as the Conference may vote to admit, shall be honorary members, with the privilege of speaking, but without vote.

ARTICLE VI. — Officers

1. The officers shall be a Moderator, a Vice-Moderator, a Secretary, a Registrar, an Assistant Registrar, and a Treasurer. All members of Congregational churches in this Commonwealth shall be eligible to any of these offices. The officers shall be elected by ballot, the Moderator and Vice-Moderator each to serve one year, the other officers each to serve three years and until the election of their successors. The terms of all officers, save when chosen to fill vacancies, shall begin at the close of the meeting at which they are elected.

2. The officers, together with three delegates annually chosen by ballot for this purpose, shall constitute an Executive Committee.

3. The Moderator, or in his absence, the Vice-Moderator, shall preside over all the meetings of the Conference and shall be chairman of the Executive Committee.

4. (a) The Secretary shall conduct the correspondence of the Conference, collect and publish in connection with the annual " Minutes " the statistics of ministers and churches, distribute the publications of the Conference, copies of which he shall preserve for permanent use, give suitable notice to the churches of the time and place of each annual meeting, notify officers and committees of their election or appointment, and fulfill such other functions as the Conference may from time to time direct.

(b) The Secretary shall receive a salary of twelve hundred dollars, and by the authority and under the direction of the Executive Committee, he may, when necessary, employ an assistant, at a compensation to be fixed by the Executive Committee.

5. The Registrar shall keep a full record of each meeting, which he shall preserve as the permanent property of the Conference, and he shall also keep the minutes of the Executive Committee.

6. The Assistant Registrar shall aid the Registrar in making the records; shall take his place during his absence; and, in the event of a vacancy in the Registrar's office, shall act as Registrar until the office shall be filled by the Executive Committee or by a regular election.

7. The Treasurer shall receive all money raised for the use of the Conference, disburse the same as directed by the Executive Committee and shall make an annual report, to be audited as the Conference may direct.

8. The Executive Committee shall have charge of all the interests and business of the Conference between the annual meetings, shall fill all vacancies occurring during the interim, and shall make an annual report to the Conference.

9. The traveling expenses of the Secretary, Registrar, Assistant Registrar and Treasurer, in attending the annual meetings, shall be paid by the Conference.

ARTICLE VII. — Trustees

1. A board of five Trustees shall also be elected, two to serve three years, two to serve two years, and one to serve one year; and on each election succeeding the first, the successors of those whose terms expire shall be chosen for three years and until others are appointed in their stead by ballot; and all members of Congregational churches in this state shall be eligible thereto.

2. The Board of Trustees shall hold and manage trust funds for the benefit of the Conference and perform such duties as may be prescribed by vote of the Conference for their government, making an annual report to the Conference. The Trustees may receive such property, real and personal, as may be given to the Conference or to the Board of Trustees to be invested, used, and managed in such manner as the Conference shall from time to time direct; and in the absence of such vote of the Conference, in such manner as a majority of the Trustees shall by vote determine at any regular or special meeting of the Board of Trustees, for the use and benefit of the objects of the Conference.

ARTICLE VIII. — Annual Meeting

The annual meeting shall be held at the appointed place on the third Monday of May at two o'clock P.M., or at such other hour as the Executive Committee may find expedient.

ARTICLE IX. — Organization

The Moderator or, in his absence, the Vice-Moderator, shall call the Conference to order. In the absence of both, any member of the Executive Committee may call the Conference to order, and a moderator pro tem. shall be chosen to serve during the absence of the proper officer.

ARTICLE X. — Committees

1. Immediately after the opening of the annual meeting the Moderator shall appoint: —

(a) A Committee on Credentials, to which all credentials shall be referred.

(b) A Business Committee, the duty of which shall be to prepare and present all matters of business at each session, not presented through some other committee of the Conference. All matters of business presented by any member of the Conference shall be referred to the Business Committee unless ordered to some other committee by the Conference. All matters of business referred to any committee shall be reported for action before the final adjournment of the annual meeting.

(c) A Budget Committee of three, which shall report before the close of the meeting on the state of the treasury, the amount of money needed for the ensuing year, and ways and means for meeting the need.

2. At each annual meeting there shall be elected by viva voce vote:

(a) A Program Committee of eight members, of which the Secretary of the Conference and the pastor of the Church which is to entertain the next annual meeting shall be members ex-officiis, the other members to be elected two for three years, two for two years, and two for one year, subsequent elections to be for three years each. This committee shall prepare the program for the next annual meeting, selecting the preacher of the annual sermon, and the various speakers for each session.

(b) A Committee of two, to be elected for one year, to audit the Treasurer's report.

(c) A Nominating Committee of seven, consisting of the retiring Moderator or, in his absence, of the retiring Vice-Moderator, of each annual conference, together with six other members; two to be elected annually for three years, which shall make all nominations required by the Rules of the Conference or by vote. The retiring members of this committee shall not be eligible for re-election for at least one year.

(d) Such other committees as the Conference may vote to elect. Members of these committees shall be elected for such terms as the Conference shall determine. The Executive Committee shall present at each annual meeting a list of the committees the appointment of which it recommends.

3. The reports of all committees that are to be presented to the Conference shall be furnished to the Secretary on or before April 1 of each year and shall be printed and distributed to the churches not less than two weeks before the annual meeting. These reports shall not be read to the Conference save by special order; but the Program Committee may arrange for the adequate discussion of any or all of the topics presented in the reports.

ARTICLE XI. — Massachusetts Home Missionary Society

In the practical administration of its home missionary work, the instrument of the Conference shall be the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, a place for which shall be made in the program of the annual meeting.

ARTICLE XII. — Board of Ministerial Aid

The Board of Ministerial Aid shall be the agent of the Conference in the work of aiding needy ministers and their families, and shall make an annual report to the Conference. On notice of a vacancy in the membership of the Board of Ministerial Aid, the Conference shall nominate a person to fill the vacancy.

ARTICLE XIII. — Boston Seaman's Friend Society

The Boston Seaman's Friend Society shall be the agent of the Conference in the work of promoting the spiritual and temporal welfare of seamen, and shall make an annual report to the Conference. The Conference shall annually elect five members of the Society for a term of three years each.

ARTICLE XIV. — Board of Pastoral Supply

1. The Conference shall elect nine members to represent it on the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply, three members to be elected each year to serve for a period of three years.

2. The Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply shall, through its Secretary, make an annual report to the Conference.

ARTICLE XV. — Special Orders

1. Each session of the annual meeting shall be opened and closed with divine worship, and one minister to have charge of these services for all sessions of the Conference shall be named by the Program Committee.

2. On each morning of the annual meeting, after the first day, the minutes of the preceding day shall be read; the minutes of the last day shall be read immediately before the final adjournment.

3. On Monday evening of each annual meeting the annual sermon shall be preached, followed by the celebration of the Lord's Supper.

4. The place of the next annual meeting shall be recommended each year by the Business Committee and designated by vote of the Conference.

5. As far as possible, all business of the Conference shall be completed by noon of the second day of the annual meeting.

ARTICLE XVI. — Rules of Order

The Rules of Order shall be those of common parliamentary usage subject to the following specifications:

1. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question without leave of the Conference.

2. When a question is before the Conference the Moderator shall entertain motions only as follows: To adjourn, to table, for the previous question, to postpone to a fixed time, to commit, to amend, or to postpone indefinitely; these several motions shall have precedence in the foregoing order.

3. No vote not essential to the conduct of the business of the Conference shall be passed except by a two-thirds vote of those present and voting; nor shall any such vote be passed, except by unanimous consent, until at least fifteen minutes shall have been allowed for debate.

ARTICLE XVII. — Amendments

1. Any of the above articles, except the first five, may be amended at any annual meeting by a two-thirds vote, provided that the proposed amendment shall have been submitted to the Conference in writing on the day previous.

2. Either of the first five articles may be amended by a two-thirds vote but only after the proposed amendment has been submitted to the Conference in writing at the previous annual meeting, and notice has been sent to the several associations, conferences, and churches connected with this body at least three months prior to the meeting at which action is to be taken.

At 2.10 the Conference was called to order by the Moderator, Rev. C. H. Williams, Jamaica Plain.

Worship was conducted by Rev. R. S. Merrill, Longmeadow, in the absence of Rev. F. E. Emrich.

It was voted that the program as prepared by the Program Committee be the order of the Conference, subject to modifications by the Business Committee.

The address of welcome was given by Rev. R. R. Wicks, pastor of the Second Church.

Response was made by the Moderator. The Secretary, Rev. H. L. Bailey, made his annual report.

The Secretary gave notice of a proposed change in Art. V, Sect. 2, regarding the admission of Junior Delegates to the Conference.

It was voted that the Secretary's report be accepted and placed on file.

The Treasurer, E. L. Miller, made his report.

The report of the Auditing Committee was read by the Secretary.

The reports of the Treasurer and Auditing Committee were accepted and referred to the Budget Committee.

The Moderator appointed the following committees:

Business: Rev. S. K. Tompkins, Boston; Rev. J. A. Hawley, Amherst; George T. Slauter, Westfield; John Albree, Swampscott; Rev. H. F. Holton, Brockton.

Budget: Rev. Vaughan Dabney, Boston; Henry K. Hyde, Ware; Rev. E. W. Pond, Deerfield.

Credentials: Rev. S. W. Anthony, Boston; Rev. C. N. Thorp, Holyoke; Rev. H. L. Bailey, Longmeadow.

The report of the Board of Pastoral Supply was made by its Secretary, Rev. A. J. Covell, Boston. The report was accepted.

The report of the Seaman's Friend Society was given by Rev. S. H. Woodrow, Newton Highlands, president of the society. It was voted that the report be accepted and placed on file.

The report of the Missionary and Apportionment Committee was presented by E. A. Harvey, Boston. The report was accepted. The following recommendations of the committee were adopted:

1. That the assignment of $1,087,500 by the Commission on Missions be recognized as Massachusetts' fair share of the $5,000,000 goal and that efforts be made to raise the full sum, with a determined effort to raise at least $821,239, the amount assumed by the churches, by regular gifts from the churches and the balance of the $1,087,500 through special gifts with co-operation of the newly appointed Secretary of the Laymen's Advisory Committee of the Commission on Missions.

2. That the gifts collected and not designated by the donors to specific objects, be divided between the societies on the following basis recommended by the Commission on Missions but with slight alteration in order to provide for the Boston Seaman's Friend Society:

American Board for Foreign Missions	27.0%
Woman's Board of Missions	14.0
Congregational Home Missionary Society Massachusetts Home Missionary Society	19.0
Congregational Church Building Society	8.0
Congregational Sunday School Extension Society	2.5
Congregational Education Society	7.0
Congregational Foundation for Education	3.0
Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief	4.0
Congregational Ministerial Annuity Fund	2.0
American Missionary Association	12.5
Boston Seaman's Friend Society	1.0
Total	100.0%

and that church treasurers be requested to divide the gifts as above or remit to the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, for such division.

The division of the money contributed through the Woman's Home Missionary Association was referred to a committee consisting of Mrs. H. F. Smith, F. E. Rowe and E. A. Harvey.

The recommendation for an appropriation of $500 for the expenses of the committee was referred to the Budget Committee.

The report of the Committee on Relations between Various Organizations was presented by the chairman, J. H. Leman, Boston. The report was referred to the Business Committee.

An Open Forum, "Humanizing the Apportionment" was held. The discussion was opened by Rev. K. B. Welles, Northampton; Rev. H. G. Ross, Pittsfield and Rev. H. O.

Hannum, Newburyport. Representing the Foreign Work, Rev. C. H. Patton, Boston, spoke; and Rev. W. K. Bloom, New York, representing the Home Boards. After participation by several other speakers the discussion was closed by Rev. F. L. Cooper.

Prayer was offered by Rev. A. M. Parker, Bridgewater, and the Conference took a recess till 7 o'clock in the evening.

MONDAY EVENING

The session opened at 7 P.M., with an Organ Recital by Prof. W. C. Hammond.

The work of the Board of Ministerial Relief was presented by Rev. Austin Rice, Wakefield, and an offering of $174.15 was made.

Worship was conducted by Rev. J. E. Park, West Newton.

The Conference Sermon was preached by Rev. J. G. Gilkey, Springfield, on the subject: "The Challenge of the Old Church to the New Generation."

The Lord's Supper was administered by Rev. J. Edgar Park, and after the benediction the Conference took a recess till 9 o'clock Tuesday.

TUESDAY MORNING

The session opened at 9.10 with worship conducted by Rev. R. S. Merrill.

The minutes of Monday's sessions were read and after correction were approved.

The report of the Committee on Federation of Churches was presented by Rev. J. J. Walker, Boston.

The report was accepted.

The recommendation was adopted,

That a committee of fifty-one, one-third of whom shall be ministers, one-third laymen, and one-third laywomen, be appointed for the coming year to represent the Conference in the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, and that the chairman of that committee be authorized to designate alternates for those members who cannot attend the meetings of the Council of the Federation, as such shall be called.

The recommendation that a sum equal to $3.00 for each church in the Conference be appropriated for the support of the Federation was referred to the Budget Committee.

The report of the Committee on Moral and Social Welfare was presented by Rev. W. M. Macnair, Cambridge, who introduced Mr. Roy Coombs of the Y. M. C. A., who spoke of the work of the Hi Y.

The following recommendations were adopted:

That we heartily commend the Hi Y work of the Y. M. C. A. as an agency for the development of Christian character and leadership among high school students.

That we thoroughly endorse every just and well-advised endeavor to create improved conditions in respect to public safety and assure our State Registrar of Motor Vehicles and our courts of our hearty sympathy and moral support in every effort to obtain this result.

That we disapprove of lying propaganda in the promotion of public questions before the electorate.

The recommendation that the sum of $50 be appropriated for the work of the committee was referred to the Budget Committee.

The Business Committee recommended that the invitation of Pilgrim Church, Dorchester, that the Conference hold its meeting in 1926 in that church, be accepted. The recommendation was adopted.

It was voted to recommit to the Business Committee and the Committee on Inter-relations the recommendations of the report of the latter committee, for further consideration.

Prof. James T. Shotwell of Columbia University gave an address on the subject, "America and the Protocol." Following the address, Professor Shotwell answered questions from the floor.

Rev. W. E. Gilroy then led in prayer and the Conference took a recess till after the meeting of the Home Missionary Society.

The report of the Committee on Religious Education was presented by Rev. Vaughan Dabney, Boston. The following recommendations were adopted and the recommendation for an appropriation of $250 was referred to the Budget Committee.

We urgently recommend that the conference go on record as making a definite request of our educational and publishing societies to create and put at the disposal of our churches such material, letters and programs for peace education as will be useful and that our churches be urged to make definite use of them.

In order that the state committee on religious education may be of greater service to every district association, we recommend that each association elect a standing committee on religious education to represent and promote this important phase of the work.

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, that the Massachusetts Conference memorialize the National Council that it provide through a regular or special committee in co-operation with our educational and publishing societies for the creation of such materials, methods and programs for the promotion of instruction in world peace as will be useful to the churches.

The Business Committee made the following recommendations which were adopted:

That we adopt the recommendation of the Interrelations Committee's report, with reference to the formation of the State Committee on Missions and Apportionment.

That we approve the recommendation of the committee's report with reference to the establishment of an Advisory Committee of Six, with the understanding that this recommendation is not intended to affect the existing practice of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society of taking advice of the local associations in applications for aid.

That we approve the following suggestion made in place of the section of the committee's report with reference to the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, namely:

In the judgment of the Conference it is advisable that the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society be a full-time, salaried officer to perform such duties with respect to the affairs of the Society as its Trustees may determine, and that the report be recommitted to the special committee for further consideration of its recommendations in respect to the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society except as already acted upon by the Conference.

That we approve all points in the committee's report not covered in the preceding recommendations.

That we continue this special committee on Inter-relationships between Various Missionary Organizations, until the meeting of the Conference in 1926, for the purpose of taking such steps as may be advisable in co-operation with all the several organizations concerned in order to carry into effect the recommendations contained in the report of the committee.

Resolved, that we endorse the effort of the World Alliance for International Friendship through the churches, to make Armistice Day, Nov. 11, a day "dedicated to peace and the outlawry of war."

Believing that there are yet great possibilities of creating and sustaining new interest on the part of churches and individuals (by linking them up with specific fields) in connection with our missionary enterprises, and that such work need not interfere with but rather support the apportionment scheme,

Be It Resolved, that this plan be referred to the Conference Committee on Missions and Apportionment to be put into practice so far as it appears practicable.

Resolved, that the Massachusetts Congregational Conference assembled in annual meeting at Holyoke goes on record as being utterly opposed to all commercialized sports on Sunday.

Recommended, that the Committee on Relations between the Churches and the Colleges be continued for another year.

Recommended, that the requests of the Committee on the Relations between the Churches and the Colleges for an appropriation for the coming year be referred to the Budget Committee.

Whereas, this Conference recognizes: That aggressive war is the supreme international crime,

And that by the insistence upon the exercise of full neutral rights in case of such a war, we might become the accomplices of the aggressor,

And, that the mere possibility of such an insistence upon our part today constitutes an obstacle to plans by other Powers for the prevention of aggressive war,

Resolved, that this Conference, representing the Congregational churches of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, memorialize the President of the United States to declare as a matter of general policy that, in case of war between states which have accepted tests of aggression as applying among themselves, this country will not so interpret its rights as to furnish support to a Power which has become a self-confessed aggressor.

Resolved, that this Conference also memorialize the National Council of Congregational Churches, meeting in Washington in October, to give consideration to this resolution.

It was voted that the Committee on the Abolition of War be continued.

The Committee on Moral and Social Welfare proposed the following resolution, which was adopted:

We reiterate our demand for thorough-going enforcement of the Volstead Act by Federal, State and Local officials and pledge ourselves to the teaching of obedience to law.

We heartily approve of the recent strenuous efforts of the Federal Coast Guard and the State Police to suppress the illegal transportation and sale of liquor.

It was voted, that the office of State field representative now filled by Rev. Francis L. Cooper be continued for another year, the salary and expenses for office, traveling and incidentals, to be paid by the Commission on Missions.

The Conference then took a recess till 8 o'clock.

The Conference Banquet was held at the Hotel Nonotuck. Rev. H. A. Bridgman was the toastmaster and the following responded to toasts:

Rev. Douglas Horton, Brookline; Rev. E. M. Noyes, Newton Centre; Mrs. H. F. Smith, Medford; Rev. J. Edgar Park, West Newton.

A Young People's Rally was also held at Grace Church with a Banquet and Mass Meeting following.

A special commission of young people consisting of Alden W. Miller, Melrose; Laura Pearl, Campello; George C. Shepherd, Jr., Dorchester; Ellen C. Peterson, Hyde Park; William J. Henrich, Auburndale, reported on "What Should the Congregational Church Program for Young People Be?" with discussion of the report, led by Prof. Herbert C. Mayer, Boston University.

An Address: "A Challenge to Congregational Young People," was given by Mr. Harry T. Stock, Young People's and Student Secretary, Congregational Education Society.

TUESDAY EVENING

The evening session was opened with devotions conducted by Rev. R. S. Merrill.

Addresses were given by Herbert E. Evans, Columbia University, and Miss Margaret Slattery, Boston, on the subject, "Home Training and the Young People's World."

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. R. S. Merrill, and the Conference took a recess till 9 o'clock, Wednesday.

WEDNESDAY MORNING

The session was opened at 9.10 with devotions led by Rev. R. S. Merrill.

The Business Committee made the following recommendations, which were adopted:

That the Moderator and Secretary of the Conference send a telegram to Rev. F. E. Emrich, conveying to him our greeting, our sympathy and our prayers for his speedy return to health.

The 1925 gathering of our Massachusetts Conference of Congregational churches has seemed to all of us notable both for its setting and for its program. We have rejoiced in the unstinted hospitality of our three churches here in Holyoke. They have co-operated most loyally in our entertainment within both the church buildings and the homes of the people.

We glory in the fact that our Holyoke churches are so resolutely, so courageously, and so unitedly facing the demands made upon them in the midst of this industrial city. We congratulate this Second Church on the stately beauty of its edifice and on its equipment so complete in every detail. We have deeply appreciated the opportunity for dignified worship and the inspiring additions thereto contributed by Professor Hammond and his choirs. We have all felt the power of the stimulating program now drawing to a close.

Therefore, be it resolved that we express our hearty thanks to the ministers and the members of these churches and to all others who either on the program or in our entertainment have contributed to the pleasure and to the profit of these days in Holyoke.

The Budget Committee made the following report which was adopted:

That the reports of the Treasurer and Auditing Committee be accepted.

That the following appropriations be made:

National Council	$12,421.52
Board of Pastoral Supply	2,846.60
Massachusetts Federation of Churches	1,809.00
Secretary's Salary	1,200.00

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY

For our third meeting in Holyoke we come as usual to the Second church which entertained the Conference in 1890 and 1912. Dr. E. A. Reed's name still graces the pastoral office here, but now he is pastor emeritus. In 1912 the Year Book listed two churches here, though Grace was quite big enough to deserve an individual rating. Second was then the largest church in the Conference, and such has been the growth of Holyoke Congregationalism, that today even after the statistical separation of mother and daughter, Second ranks third and Grace seventh in the state. All three churches have gained 72 per cent in the 13 years.

The Conference itself keeps growing, not in units but in membership. Adding 10,373 new members, we have gained 3,356, a growth exceeded only four times, practically only twice in our records. It gives us another delegate at large to the National Council. It took 12 years from 1892 to 1904 to gain the 10,000 in membership that lifted our quota in the Council from 11 delegates to 12; then we gained one in nine years, in five, in four, and the last in three which is probably the limit. Massachusetts is now entitled to 75 seats in the Council, 16 for the Conference, 59 for the Associations.

The roll of churches shows a shrinkage of one and is now 603. Salem Tabernacle has absorbed the South church there, and Swedish of Quincy has withdrawn from our fellowship, while we welcome another Quincy church, the People's Union, organized in 1911 but not affiliated until 1924. Trustworthy brethren informed the secretary that the Scandinavian church of Lynn had also withdrawn, but when the clerk, without a sixth appeal or even a second, sent in a report, it was included as usual. Mention was made last year of three churches from whom no report had been received for several years. This year they have all reported, while two others, Charlestown and North Hadley, resisted every appeal of a worried statistician. One of our foreign brethren apparently failed to receive the first blanks sent out. A hurry-up notice in March elicited a request for blankets for the report. He received and returned the blankets and helped make the secretary comfortable. One pastor voiced an uncomplimentary opinion of the voluminousness of the Year Book blanks. He and others may rejoice at the possibility of a briefer questionnaire and a smaller Year Book next year.

Quite a number of clerks this year have imagined that if they report the total number of members, the secretary in his omniscience can readily apportion the numbers for the columns of male and female. If they on the spot find it difficult because of modern feminine fashions to distinguish the sexes clearly, how can the secretary in another part of the state get a true count? The only thing to do is to assume that the gain or loss in the total follows the ratio of male and female for the previous year. The process of equalization of the sexes in church membership goes steadily forward. At our last meeting in Holyoke the ratio of men was 31 per cent; today it is almost 37.

Instead of quoting state totals which may be found in their proper place in the Minutes, the figures of the average church will convey a more concrete picture. The average Massachusetts church has 257 members, 90 men and 167 women. It added last year 10 on confession and 7 by letter, lost 3 by death, 5 by letter, 3 by roll revision, with a net gain of 6. It baptized 4 adults and 6 infants, has a Sunday School of 204, and 34 in young people's organizations. It gave $1,764 for benevolence, 59 per cent of it on apportionment, and spent $5,965 for home expenses. So far as reported, the pastor has a salary of $2,083 and about two-thirds of his house rent.

Apportionment benevolence figures are furnished by the office of the Commission on Missions in New York. Your secretary copies them into ten columns, weeding out gifts from independent churches to be grouped at the end. Then he adds those columns horizontally and vertically, and copies them selectively into the sheets of the district associations, and prays that the sum of 603 horizontal additions of 10 items each may exactly equal the sum of 10 vertical additions of 603 items each and the sum of the same as distributed upon 24 association schedules. When at last they all balance, he sends the totals back to New York where a process known as woman's home missionary Federation distribution is applied, whereby the various home societies are credited with various shares of the $83,360 which the Federation gave last year. This creates new totals whose sad message is that our apportionment gifts fell off $12,270, an average of $20 per church. The four major societies lost; the American Board $16,700, Woman's Board $5,000, Home Missions $11,000, American Missionary Association $3,000; there were gains in the other columns, especially that one which groups other apportionment items such as the Foundation for Education, the Seaman's Friend, and the Annuity Fund. Our grand total is $30,000 below last year's mark.

The statistical marvel of the year is reported by the West parish of Taunton. That church of 17 members was among the dozen smallest in the state last year. It has added 33 on confession, 22 by letter, a net gain of 306 per cent, and has climbed 133 rounds on the ranking list. There are 57 churches which report the same membership as before, 26 having no change while in 31 there were balanced gains and losses; 212 churches lost and 334 gained; the average loss was 8, the average gain 15.

Only 64 churches lost more than 5, while 219 gained more than 5. No additions on confession are reported by 165 churches, as compared with 183 the year before.

Our obituary list carries 19 names, or 20 if we include David P. Hatch who had barely removed himself and his ministerial standing to Connecticut after his pastorate in Lancaster. Preaching in his son's pulpit on an August Sunday he dropped dead. The roll is one of veterans, since their average date of ordination was 41 years ago and their average age was over 70, Wolcott Calkins reaching 93. The honor of seniority was shared almost equally by three. Dr. Calkins was ordained in October, 1862, L. Clark Seelye the next January, and John C. Labaree in February. In contrast, Henry Arnold was ordained in 1914 and Garabed Missirian in 1916.

A recital of these 19 names might mean much or little to those who hear or read it. To most of you some of the names are merely names, as they are to me who have copied them several times a year for 17 years or less. Yet names, like statistics from churches beyond my personal acquaintance, evoke guesses as to the unwritten romance, courage, service and sacrifice that the recording angel knows. Sometimes I know the story without knowing the man, a record of brilliant pastorates in the public eye or of devotion to some little home mission field. Six men were pastors in Massachusetts, and one, Garabed Missirian, beginning with us and retaining his standing here, was pastor of the Presbyterian Armenians of Fresno, Calif. Henry Arnold, beginning at Bradford in 1914, had just come back to our state and was in his first year at Eliot, Newton, when a brief illness removed him the day after he was 40. William France had been serving some of our smaller churches since 1909, and died in Phillipston in January. Eugene M. Frary gave the last 20 years of his life to the church at Bernardston, with a previous record of 16 years in two other parishes. Selden E. McGeehon was pastor at Northboro and scribe of Middlesex South Association, and had earlier been pastor at Southampton. Frederick G. Merrill graduated from the law to the gospel, jumped from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast, and gave a score of years to North Weymouth, Amesbury and Charlton. There on an April morning his friends discovered that in his sleep he had wakened to eternal morning. Charles Talmage came to us from Methodist ranks and had been pastor in Barre and Taunton before beginning his final pastorate at Charlestown in 1914.

Two men were listed as pastor emeritus. After 14 years with the North Presbyterian church of Buffalo and 15 with the Eliot church of Newton, Wolcott Calkins was pastor and pastor emeritus of the Montvale church of Woburn from 1898. Evarts Kent came late in life to Sterling and after a few years was honored with the emeritus relation as he retired from active service. Three college presidents are on the list. Smith College, which last year had more ex-presidents than the United States, lost them both in October and February. Dr. Seelye began his career in a pulpit, but his fame rests upon his 35 years of building up Smith College from its beginning. He lived on, loving and loved, into the semi-centennial year but not quite to the celebration which would have been his collegiate apotheosis. Marion Leroy Burton retained his standing with us after leaving Smith to become in turn president of the universities of Minnesota and Michigan. Famous in the educational world, he added popular laurels by a political speech last June. After eight years in a Taunton pulpit Samuel V. Cole became an educator. He died this month after 27 years as president of Wheaton Seminary which under his administration developed into Wheaton College.

Seven others are marked on the roll as without a church. They had retired from active service to enjoy a few months or many years of the afternoon of life. Asher Anderson will be remembered as secretary of the National Council for a dozen years, his editorship of the Year Book for 14 years overlapping the other at each end. He made the Year Book the best of its kind in the country. For the past decade he rendered valuable service to many of our churches as interim pastor. George H. Cate came to Massachusetts 30 years ago after a number of brief pastorates elsewhere. For two years he assisted at Shawmut church, Boston. Then he organized the Health Education League and gave the remainder of his life to its promotion. John H. Dennison was for several years pastor of the College church in Williamstown, back in the '80's. Before that he was pastor of the First church of New Britain and in Hampton, Va. His afternoon was long and more comfortable economically than physically. Robert Humphrey was my colleague in the Madura mission. We went out together and were both compelled to make an early return. He was in mission work in the South for a time and held the pastorate of many modest churches in Massachusetts and elsewhere. He had just retired to his own vine and fig tree when he was called to eat of the tree of life. John C. Labaree gave 50 years to four of our churches,—Sterling 4, Randolph 27, Saugus 13, South Dennis 5,—and then had more than a dozen years of twilight ere the close of day. Francis Moon spent most of his ministerial life of 44 years in the town of Plymouth, pastor for six years at Manomet and the now extinct Fifth church of Plymouth, then residing at Chiltonville some 15 years, and after a five-year pastorate at Beechwood, coming back to Manomet for a home since 1914. Albert W. Moore spent less than half his professional life in the pastorate. Three brief episodes in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine preceded his 18-year pastorate at the Central church in Lynn. He retired in 1900 and resided in Lynn and its suburbs until his death in December.

Time forbids mention of many others who have served in our pulpits and gone to other states or who have grown up in our pews and found ministerial fields elsewhere. But it is fitting to pay a passing tribute to one deacon who was quite as much a leader in religious and reform work as any of our pastors. Dr. Williams gets his opportunity to preside over the Conference a year earlier than was planned because Deacon Frederick Fosdick, moderator of our body, died suddenly from heart disease last July. Not slothful in business, he was fervent in spirit, serving the Lord. He had wide business interests, but I suspect that he sought first the kingdom of God with especial emphasis upon righteousness. He had been a deacon since 1883, a mayor of Fitchburg, prominent in Y. M. C. A. and Anti-Saloon League leadership, and was withal a loyal and humble disciple of Jesus Christ.

TO THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE:

I have examined the accounts of Ernest L. Miller, Treasurer, for the year ending May 1, 1925, inclusive, and find them correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

The receipts from the different associations and miscellaneous sources appear to be properly accounted for, and I have been shown vouchers for all expenses, which have been approved by H. L. Packard.

The balance on hand at the end of the year, amounting to $4,247.11 after allowing for checks outstanding on May 1, agrees with the balance on deposit in the Beacon Trust Company to the credit of Massachusetts Congregational Conference.

I have been shown a bond of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in the name of the Conference for the sum of $500 belonging to the permanent fund.

WALTHAM, May 8, 1925. CHARLES F. ALLEN, Auditor.

REPORT OF THE CONGREGATIONAL BOARD OF PASTORAL SUPPLY

REV. ARTHUR J. COVELL, SECRETARY
ROOM 615, CONGREGATIONAL HOUSE

BOSTON, MASS., April 1, 1925.

The Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply respectfully presents herewith its tenth annual report to the Congregational Conferences of New England.

An outstanding revelation of the past year is the apparent passing of the abnormal difficulties in pastoral supply. In certain respects we seem to be back to pre-war conditions. The fever has gone so far as the special difficulty in securing men is concerned, and the unusual burdens placed upon pastors as a result of war conditions are less conspicuous. Some time ago, at the installation of a prominent Massachusetts pastor, the minister preaching the sermon congratulated the congregation, not simply that they had secured this particular man for pastor, but that they had been able to secure any man. The girding up of relaxed moral standards and the facing of new conceptions of life remain as a legacy from these past troubled years for both ministers and churches, but the acute shortage of ministers is past. Within the year the Committee of Vacancy and Supply of one prominent denomination announced the fewest vacancies in years in country districts and very few in cities. So far as our office has knowledge the same condition prevails with New England churches and is true of northern as well as of southern New England. It is not perfectly clear how this changed condition has come about. More churches are federated than ever before, more general missionaries are in the field ministering to Home Missionary fields than in the past, and perhaps an illuminating hint comes from a recent interview with a theological student. This young man, soon to graduate from a leading seminary, belonging to another denomination, and his father a conspicuous minister in that communion, had assumed that he was to continue in the ministry of his own church. But in a recent letter the father had said that if his own denomination was likely to spend its energies for the next twenty-five years upon futilities it might be well for the young man to consider carefully in what fellowship he should find his life work. And the young man was turning to the Congregationalists. Many of the ordained men of at least three strong denominations have had similar convictions for several years past, and it is probable that our ministry has received considerable accessions from these sources. We have with us the continual problem of securing an adequate number of the right kind of men to serve as pastors. The imperative need of emphasizing quality and adequate training was never so great as now. But the abnormal phase so far as quantity is concerned has passed.

We have rendered service this past year in response to request for aid in pastoral service to 285 churches. These churches are largely from New England states, yet more than the usual number are from outside New England, and they are from thirty-one states and one territory.

Of these churches there were located in Maine, 32; in New Hampshire, 37; in Vermont, 14; in Massachusetts, 107; in Rhode Island, 6; in Connecticut, 24; in Illinois, 9; in New York, 7; in Iowa, 5; in Minnesota, 5; in Florida, 4; in Michigan, 3; in Missouri, 3; in Pennsylvania, 3; in Wisconsin, 3; in California, 2; in Colorado, 2; in Kansas, 2; in Nebraska, 2; in New Jersey, 2; in Ohio, 2; and one each in Alabama, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Indiana, Louisiana, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Utah, and Washington.

We have not included in this statement of service rendered the furnishing of supplies, occasional or temporary, nor taken account of commendations for teaching or executive positions.

So far as reports have come to the office the number of pastoral settlements in which the Board had an important part is 101. We have not taken account of arrangements with ministers for less than six months, nor of successful commendations of ministers to positions kindred to the work of the pastor.

It is of interest to know of the membership and financial strength of the churches conferring with us this past year about pastoral settlement. Of these churches, 105 had less than 100 members; 98 had from 100 to 300 members; while 82 had more than 300 members. Of these same churches 67 paid a salary of less than $1,200 and parsonage; 135 paid from $1,200 to $2,000 and parsonage; while 83 paid more than $2,000 and parsonage. The proportion of churches with larger membership and those paying the larger salaries seems to have increased in the last few years.

Opportunities for preaching were furnished during the year to 259 men, of whom 124 were candidates for settlement. To the large majority of these men repeated opportunities were given. This refers only to the appointments specifically made by the office. Many churches ask for commendations of suitable men and make their own arrangements with them.

The Secretary has travelled during the year on Board business approximately 5,800 miles.

The number of letters sent out from the office this past year was 5,560.

The Treasurer's account, with the Auditor's statement, will be found in the appendix. The surplus is materially less than would appear, since Massachusetts and Connecticut have paid in advance. The office receipts have increased and the expenditures have been lessened.

The amount received for the Secretary's preaching is the largest in the history of the Board, except in one post-war inflation year. The office expenses are more than $200 less than for the previous year.

The Treasurer's report from the constituent New England Conferences indicates the following:

Maine: Paid in full for 1924. (Remittance for first quarter of 1925 received after closing the books for the year on March 31.)

New Hampshire: Paid in full for 1924.

Vermont: Paid in full for 1924.

Massachusetts: Paid in full to April 30, 1925.

Rhode Island: Paid in full to March 31, 1925.

Connecticut: Paid in full for 1924 and $800 for 1925.

Since there are variations in the times and methods of payment of the different states it may save confusion to report specifically. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Connecticut begin their year January 1 and compute the 1 5-6 cents per member from the Year-Book at hand at the beginning of the calendar year. Massachusetts begins her year January 1, but changes her basis of computation May 1, taking the figures of the new Year-Book for the balance of the year. Rhode Island's year begins April 1, and the figures of the Year-Book issued January 1 are used by this state.

On July 6, 1894, the original Board of Pastoral Supply, of which we are today the direct heirs, began its work under the auspices of the Massachusetts Conference. We are, therefore, well past our thirtieth birthday. It would be interesting and profitable to trace the history of our denominational life during this period and note the worth-while contributions made by our Board. Our work is non-spectacular and has to do with individual ministers and churches, and yet it has both responded to changing conditions in the ministry, and made its real contribution in improving general conditions. It still has its original problems in the ambitions of ministers and the demands of the churches; but these have, we may hope and believe, been purified and made more reasonable. And the Board has had its new problems emerging from time to time.

Two things were clear in the minds of the founders. One was that the waste in our organized church life was nowhere greater than in the method of transfer of ministers from pulpit to pulpit. The number of pastorless churches in Massachusetts alone is spoken of as one hundred, and of churchless pastors as three hundred. The chaotic condition is deplored, and the churches are exhorted to develop method and cooperation. Our work may fairly be called one of the first efforts for the more effective Congregationalism which has been developed in our day. Certainly it is the one vital effort of its kind, since it has survived more than thirty years and gained an increasing hold upon the churches.

The difficulty of the work was also recognized at the outset. The founders were under no illusions as to that. Other attempts had failed. The report to the General Association of Massachusetts says: "Private and union agencies preempt the field of vacancies and supplies. Candidates from folds non-Pilgrim and non-Puritan come into too free connection with our congregations." The work must be brought under responsible control to safeguard the best interests of our churches. How through a method of cooperation to find a way to preserve the freedom of action and sense of responsibility of individual churches, and at the same time give to them the advantages of more highly organized denominations, is an undertaking that has often been declared impossible. Certainly it is difficult. From the point of view of the office the problem is how to meet the individual case with personal sympathy and generous action, and yet act in such a way as to do justice to the whole situation. On the one hand we are dealing with individual churches and ministers. Each situation is likely to be different in some respects from every other. We are always dealing with men and women, and not with problems. The Secretary needs constantly to realize this fact. On the other hand it would be fatal if partiality prevailed or if the Board be not guided by principles capable of application to the whole work. The Secretary of the original State Board in a report speaking of the constant purpose to bring the conduct of the Board under definite rules, and to reduce the personal element to the lowest terms gives a summary of the Board's principles, and then says: "Any person with fitness for administering the affairs of the office must soon learn to desire to follow the guidance and to gain the shelter of these principles of action. . . . Out upon such a sea, swept by these winds of personal influence blowing from every corner of the sky, the mariner will fare but roughly in trying to sail before every breeze, and he will find rest and satisfaction only in laying a steady course, mindless of the winds."

In our thirty years of history we have had an interesting development. For the first nineteen years we were a State Board, but doing missionary work as called upon outside of Massachusetts. For a time in its early life the outcome was not quite clear. Like all pioneers it must pass through its struggle for existence. It had no precedents to guide its course. But the possibility of serving effectively free churches, and in a truly Congregational way, was demonstrated. Principles of action were developed through experience, and under the wise guidance of a Congregational statesman the foundations of our work were laid broad and deep.

In the last twelve years the work has changed. In 1913 the Directors sought the advice of the different Massachusetts associations, and as a result adopted the expanded form of work which meant closer contact on the part of the Secretary with churches and ministers, the appointment of Advisers, and the encouragement of closer connection with other states, particularly those of New England. Shortly after this, through the fostering care of the Secretary of the National Council, a plan of cooperation with western and southern superintendents was adopted. For the past nine years the Board has been a New England Board, representing the conferences of the New England States. The Directors have reached the clear conviction that this is its most effective form of organization for some time at least, on the one hand having an adequate field for service, and on the other hand avoiding the twofold dangers of a National Board, — undue centralization, and undue separation from vital contact with its field.

In establishing the Board there was the possibility that it might soon pass beyond the work of cooperation and become autocratic. In the first report of the Massachusetts Board the Secretary said: "It can never be the wish of the churches that this Board, or still less its executive officer, should have the power to induct men into the Congregational ministry." This conviction has been followed with rather scrupulous care. New situations have arisen, but not such as to call for the turning aside from this principle. The federated church has developed and there is greater freedom of transfer from denomination to denomination. Federation has not only raised up a new type of community pastor, but has also served as a bridge from one fellowship to another. With such churches there has been freedom of action. Sometimes when two denominations come together they call for a neutral pastor, one who belongs to neither of the two fellowships. Students not yet fully ordained, but properly vouched for, and with full determination to seek Congregational ordination, may frequently be commended to our churches. If churches near an educational center insist upon a young man, who with his wife may live upon a field and do part-time work, there is often no available Congregational man. In such cases men of other denominations have sometimes been commended. Always the Board has exercised freedom to report about men of other denominations when asked to do so by churches. But we have refrained from initiating such commendations unless under extraordinary conditions. Councils and local associations have been assumed to be the proper agencies to determine the fitness of men for our fellowship. The business of the Board has been to take the material at hand in the Congregational ministry and aid to bring about the wisest adjustments.

Our work has at no time been conducted in a spirit of competition. The first report of the New England Board to the constituent states contained this paragraph: "The Board will endeavor to cooperate with every legitimate Congregational agency. It does not consider itself in a competitive relation with any agency which may be established within a state. It will endeavor to aid, so far as it may, the home missionary agencies of the states, and proposes to consider itself subordinate to home missionary officials when dealing with home missionary churches. It will count it a privilege to aid the students from each of the Theological Seminaries to find settlement. It will endeavor to cooperate with committees of local associations and state conferences in the matter of pastoral supply, if associations of churches and state conferences so desire and plan. It has no purpose to supplant, but rather to cooperate." The same statement applies also to the commendations of individuals. Of course it was hoped that the number of careless, injudicious and unsuitable commendations would be reduced and perhaps eliminated. At any rate the churches would have less excuse for being influenced by them. On the other hand our work has been based on the collective wisdom of individual commendations, and sympathetic interpretation of a man's work by those able to interpret and in a position to know. We have had a constant aim to avoid the perils of bureaucracy. Personal commendations of men by discriminating persons, who know both the men commended and the field to which they are suggested, are encouraged. In conferring with a committee the Secretary from time to time finds a commendation on which he cannot improve. We are more concerned about the end than the specific method by which it is attained. We desire to aid churches to secure the most effective pastoral service.

The conception of the ministry is not today what it was thirty years ago. We have been called upon to serve not only a variety of types but constituencies with changing standards. At the outset the heat of waning theological controversies was still felt, and the doctrinal views of ministers were very important in the minds of church committees. The Board has been loyal to our denominational standards, but has not been concerned with promoting a theological type. We have rather taken to heart the apostle's declaration that neither circumcision availeth anything nor uncircumcision, but a new creature. The spirit of the Master has wonderfully used on occasion both the old and the new. The needs of a particular community should have most to do with determining the viewpoint of the minister.

The social applications of the Gospel were being increasingly emphasized thirty years ago. A new evangel began to be declared by zealous young ministers. This interpenetration of the forms of life by the spirit of the Master must continue doubtless until all be leavened. But of late there have been heard increasing summons back to personal religion.

And what shall we say of the increasing burdens upon the minister through the institutional developments and outward activities that have increasingly emerged in the last third of a century? Who had thought then of moving pictures, boy scouts, camp fire girls, radio and the like? When we think of the program of the popular minister of today we say: "Who is sufficient for these things?" and we question the ultimate effect upon the pulpit and upon the spiritual life of our churches if the emphasis upon externalities continues. The demand for youth and versatility in the ministry is doubtless due in part to this development.

The value of the by-products of the Board in these thirty years has been continuous in the life of the churches. The work of the Board itself has some analogies to the building of the temple at Jerusalem, of which it was said that "there was neither hammer nor axe nor any tool of iron heard in the house while it was in building." We are concerned that the spiritual building be erected. The value of the work is the chief consideration. It is not necessary to call special attention to the workmen. Church committees do not always take the people into their confidence in reporting the sources of their information. Installing councils may give generous approval of the Board's work without knowing that the Board has had anything to do with the result. In an installation in one of our most important churches some months ago there was no intimation in the report of the committee of any connection with the Board of Pastoral Supply. And yet the man settled was first commended to the committee by the Secretary in response to their request for advice. This commendation was, of course, submitted to many others who gave strong endorsement. For six months a representative of the committee was in frequent touch with the Board. Arrangements for delegations from the church to hear the man in his own pulpit were perfected through the Board, and a hearing was arranged by the Secretary for the man in a nearby church. The Board can feel the satisfaction that comes from a major part in a very important work. And that is enough. And so it is with the by-products of our work.

One such by-product concerns the methods of candidating. We have constantly to deal with this problem, and recognize the right of the churches to test in some fair way the qualities of the man who is to serve them as pastor. And yet we advise against indiscriminate candidating, and committees will listen after they have had a little experience, and sometimes before. The method of more consideration for the real qualities of the man, and less emphasis upon the impression made by a single pulpit appearance, is steadily growing, and a fair measure of responsibility for this "more excellent way" rests with the steady work of our Board.

Another by-product is the indication that the cry for youth in the pulpit is a little less pronounced than formerly. Dr. Jowett once spoke of the folly of the churches in preferring the "blossom rather than the fruit." No one can deny the irresistible charm of youth, and it has peculiar power if rightly directed. But the eyes of many have been holden by "the young man obsession." The Secretary of the Board has been accustomed to point out to church committees that personality is the dominant factor to be considered rather than the number of years. To be useful in the ministry or elsewhere a man must have the power of adaptability to new conditions, and the power of growth. A man may become obsolete, like certain outworn words, very young; and he may grow old in years and remain spiritually vital. In a little leaflet on this topic the Secretary has said: "A man's power in the ministry is not necessarily diminished by the fact that he is fifty years of age. For the purposes of spiritual leadership, the most desirable qualities of youth may often be found in those past fifty, and may be lacking in those under that age. Even the young people in a church may find in the wise charity that is long-suffering but kind a quality of leadership far more helpful than that which comes from an inexperienced comrade. What the churches want in their leader is the power of growth, of fresh adaptation, of new insight, of buoyant hopefulness, of spiritual vision, and of capacity for sustained work." Through annual reports, the use of printed literature, and constant conference with committees and individuals we have made a real contribution to a saner view.

Other by-products, not a few, could be specified: We have helped to make the value of the stated supply appreciated more fully, and have thus promoted spiritual conservation. We have helped make fees for Sunday supplies more uniform and adequate. We have helped in the work of grading up ministers' salaries to a more just level. We have helped ministers, young in the work, to adjust themselves in minor ways more perfectly to the tastes of their congregations, and have been able to persuade church committees to be more hospitable and considerate to their candidates and supplies. We have been able through this nearly a third of a century to interpret the ways of churches and ministers, to apply principles of action, and to discover better methods.

Our work has its rewards. In aiding churches to find the man best fitted to serve that particular field at just that time in its history, we are aiming at achievement of prime importance. And in aiding men to fill the place where their own talents can be most fruitfully invested we are enriching the life of both churches and ministers.

REPORT OF THE BOSTON SEAMAN'S FRIEND SOCIETY

Three years have passed since, on the recommendation of the Commission on Missions of the National Council, this Society was reorganized and its property, worth $200,000, and its financial and administrative affairs were taken over by the six New England Congregational Conferences. The forty-two representatives, pastors and business men, chosen by these state bodies to shape the policy and direct the efforts of the Society have diligently attended to their duties. They regularly attend the meetings of the Society and cheerfully serve on its various committees. As the result of this united effort the Boston Seaman's Friend Society is today better and more favorably known throughout New England. Its support from our churches is larger and its work for the sailors more efficient than ever before.

For the calendar year 1924 the Society received $9,786.93 from 591 Congregational churches of New England, a gain of $498.50, and 216 churches over the year 1923. Of the total amount received from the churches, Massachusetts gave $7,016.50 from 344 churches; an increase over the preceding year of $64.35 and 48 churches.

The activities of the Society have been carried on during the past year with gratifying results. More than 50,000 seamen are annually served at the Society's Bethels at Boston, Vineyard Haven and Cape Cod Canal. Attendance at free concerts and entertainments, 15,012; at religious services, 16,917. Dormitory privileges provided for 10,044 sailors. Bibles and New Testaments given away, 2,025 copies. Shipping the past season has been bad. This has caused much unemployment and a great deal of destitution among seamen. The Society has daily given generous aid in the matter of food, lodging and clothing to large numbers of these men, in addition to serving them in many other ways.

The Society could do a still larger and more effective work if a more commodious building were provided. Such a building is now available if the Society had the funds with which to buy, equip and manage it.

As opportunities offer, the Society purposes to inaugurate work for sailors at other New England ports not now served. A committee is at present looking into possibilities of establishing a Bethel at Providence in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce and churches.

The Woman's Seaman's Friend Society with its 800 members now has its office with this Society at 14 Beacon Street, Room 618, and is of marked assistance, especially in our social and relief work. The room long occupied by the ladies at the Sailor's Rest, but given up during the World War, is again used by them in their local work.

The Boston Seaman's Friend Society being now owned, controlled and managed by the Congregational churches of New England, we believe that every Congregational Church should esteem it a privilege to be an annual contributor to its unique work. We should be pleased to send a copy of the Society's publication, "The Sea Breeze," to any interested person who requests it.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON FEDERATION OF CHURCHES AND COOPERATION WITH OTHER DENOMINATIONS

The Committee represented the Conference in the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, November 6, 1924, one of the most successful meetings in the history of the Federation. The reports of officers and committees showed a broadening program of service. Members of this committee have borne their part in the work of the various committees of the Federation.

The most significant advance of the year is the organization of the Country Church Department. Such a department had long been advocated by Dr. Butterfield, the former president of the Agricultural College, but the difficulty of securing funds had prevented the realization of the project. At the recent annual meeting, however, the Committee on Rural Life proposed a plan, endorsed by the Executive Committee, which the Federation adopted unanimously, and the former committee was authorized to raise funds for the support of the department. Already sufficient financial support has been assured to warrant the engagement of a special secretary. Rev. Kenneth C. MacArthur, pastor of the Old Cambridge Baptist Church, has honored the Federation by accepting the call to the new service and will have begun his work before the meeting of the Conference.

The purpose of Mr. MacArthur and the Committee on Rural Life is to concentrate the work, at the beginning, in Worcester County, bringing to its many rural churches all possible aids in the development of their work. We trust that he will be welcomed heartily as a brotherly helper by our Congregational churches in that county.

We record the sense of our deep personal loss in the passing from us of one of our members, Mr. Raymond L. Bridgman of Auburndale. He had long been devoted to the promotion of mutual good will and cooperation both interdenominational and international.

We present the following recommendations:

I. That a committee of fifty-one, one-third of whom shall be ministers, one-third laymen, and one-third laywomen, be appointed for the coming year to represent the Conference in the Massachusetts Federation of Churches, and that the chairman of that committee be authorized to designate alternates for those members who cannot attend the meetings of the Council of the Federation, as such shall be called.

II. That a sum equal to $3.00 for each church in the Conference be appropriated for the support of the Federation.

For the Committee,
JOHN J. WALKER, Chairman.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MORAL AND SOCIAL WELFARE

Our report is somewhat composite in its nature, various sections being contributed by individual members but adopted by the committee as a whole.

One of the matters of the most immediate concern is the question of life or death on our public highways. We are continually menaced, as never before, by drunken and irresponsible drivers of automobiles. An outraged public opinion seeks some substantial remedy.

We thoroughly endorse every just and well advised endeavor to create improved conditions in respect to public safety and assure our State Registrar of Motor Vehicles and our Courts of our hearty sympathy and moral support in every effort to obtain this result.

An address was given not long ago in the Old South Church in Boston by the pastor, Dr. George A. Gordon, on the present wave of crime and brutal violence sweeping over our country. This address, widely quoted, represents the attitude of our people in the churches in regard to law and order. We commend that address and hold to its principle that we are now surely facing, in our American life, the disintegration and overthrow of our institutions unless all the moral forces at our command are gathered to battle against this impending collapse. We have confidence to believe that the conscience of our Commonwealth is sound, that more people honor justice than injustice, that the great majority seeks order rather than disorder, that we love law better than lawlessness and integrity rather than viciousness, but the great peril lies in the fact that this vastly larger but timid element in our Commonwealth allows itself to be overrun and victimized by the brutal and vicious forces in society. The results are apparent everywhere. There is no alleviation and no hope of a more safe and better ordered society unless every means is utilized by all our moral agencies to arouse the dormant conscience of the American people. We, therefore, earnestly recommend that during the coming year the influence of our pulpits and of our churches be exerted as never before in favor of vigorous measures to protect society from the evils of violence, recklessness and disorder.

It is encouraging for us to report that there is a movement now in operation among the youth which bears on the situation. The Hi-Y Movement among high school boys by the Young Men's Christian Association is accomplishing splendid results. It is a new emphasis in older boys' work having been started in Massachusetts in 1920 under the State Leadership of Roy E. Coombs.

The movement is better known in the western and middle western parts of the country where it has been very active for a period of more than ten years. It includes the Juniors and Seniors in the school and gives them a purpose to create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character, through clean speech, clean living, clean scholarship and clean athletics. The dynamic of the movement is Contagious Christian Character.

The membership is open to all boys of all denominations and enables the Church to present a united front and Christian appeal to the boys at an age when mortality from Sunday School is greatest.

The Hi-Y aims to:

1. Help high school boys to become loyal and active members of the church and church school.
2. Help high school boys to do something definite to "help the other fellow."
3. Interest large numbers of high school boys in Bible Study and the discussion of life problems with business and professional men.
4. Help high school boys discover the life work for which they are fitted and encourage them to get the best preparation for the work.
5. Extend a clean standard of speech, living, scholarship and athletics in high school life.
6. Develop an interest in and spirit of brotherliness toward boys of other lands.

While statistics are not available it is surprising to find large numbers of outstanding boy leaders in the life of many schools who have had little or no experience with the church or church school. In one case a boy was the son of a professor in a leading New England college. He held the most responsible positions of leadership in his high school and was able to wield a greater influence than the members of the faculty. He could not remember when he had ever gone to Sunday School. Through the Hi-Y appeal to service and strong emphasis on the devotional life, boys like him have been won to active work in the church.

Ten district one- to two-day conferences are held annually in various sections of the state. These gatherings unite 4,000 selected boys from the upper classes of approximately 100 different schools. There is also an annual high school student conference held for five days prior to the opening of the school year, at Camp Becket in the Berkshires. This has begun to take a place in the lives of high school students which the Northfield and Silver Bay Conferences take in the case of college men.

At these conferences Dr. Sidney A. Weston, Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, President of Princeton Theological Seminary; Prof. Ralph Harlow, Smith College; J. Kingsley Birge, formerly American Board Secretary to Smyrna; Dr. Homer P. Little, Dean of Clarke College; Dr. Henry H. Crane of Malden; Rev. J. Franklin Kennedy of New Haven and others have contributed greatly in winning many boys to Christian service.

As to the influence of the Hi-Y in high school life the following letter from a principal of a large city high school gives testimony:

"To the Members of the Hi-Y Club:

It is with a deep feeling of regret that I find I must decline your cordial invitation to attend your Faculty Night. This has been a very strenuous week for me, and I have other responsibilities to meet tonight. I do not wish, however, to let this opportunity pass without expressing my hearty appreciation of the fine spirit that has been exhibited, in the Hi-Y members and their loyal support in matters pertaining especially to the government of Tech. All good government, as you know, rests on the consent of the governed, but more than that, it rests upon the enthusiastic support of those who share in the benefits of good government. Sometimes it seems as if school boys and girls do not appreciate the fact. I have found — in fact, I was assured in the remarkable boys' assembly to which I was called by the Hi-Y Club a few weeks ago, that the best element in Tech stood loyally behind me in my efforts to bring about desirable improvements in spirit and conduct. No incident in my long experience as a teacher or as a principal has impressed me so deeply as that surprising event did; and I feel that I ought to put on record in writing, as I have already verbally, my strong feeling of pride and of appreciation.

Very sincerely yours,

Principal of Tech High."

In order to keep a unity in the movement and to relate the movement to boys' work in towns where the Hi-Y does not exist, a method of ancient times is being used. As Cyrus the Great sent couriers over the Persian kingdom with a torch calling the nation to arms and as Wallace sent his flaming torches over the Highlands of Scotland, so a torch is being carried by older boys over Massachusetts and Rhode Island calling the boyhood of the two states to prepare for Christian citizenship. The torch holds three messages, one from former Governor Channing Cox of Massachusetts, a second from Governor A. J. Pothier of Rhode Island, and a third on Brotherhood Loyalty, Chivalry and Courage. It is carried on foot, never by vehicle, and passed from hand to hand. Everywhere it goes meetings are held where the boys read the messages to those assembled. Public officials, ministers, business men and older boys of 52 towns and cities have assembled at these meetings. To date the torch has been carried 575 miles by 525 boys.

The torch will proceed to the farthermost part of western Massachusetts and to the State High School Student Conference at Camp Becket. From there it will return across the two states to the 36th Annual Older Boys' Conference at New Bedford on December 5, 1925. Arrangements can be made through Mr. Roy E. Coombs, 167 Tremont Street, Boston, to have the torch stop in any town or city where there is no Y. M. C. A. This work is uniting the older boys for the advancement of the Kingdom and should be used by the Church in winning youth.

In view of this splendid service we heartily commend the Hi-Y Movement of the Young Men's Christian Association as an agency for the development of Christian character and leadership among high school students.

One of the regrettable outcomes of prevailing social conditions is a common practice on the part of some to take the law into their own hands and in so doing they menace the very foundations of government. In so far as any organization, secret or otherwise, attempts to do this, it is breaking down the bulwarks of our civilization. In our Commonwealth, however, the chief aim of such organization seems to be directed, not so much against disorder and lawlessness as against sectarian encroachments. We can have no sympathy with the spirit which stirs up racial or sectarian animosities. The very life and integrity of our Christian civilization is dependent on a broad and tolerant sympathy among all creeds and classes. But it must be said that if we deprecate the spirit which would cultivate racial or sectarian strife, we deprecate also and equally those conditions which tend to provoke such strife. No religious group can assume an arrogant or encroaching attitude in our American republic without doing violence to the spirit of brotherhood and democracy. We believe in the rights of all to worship God according to their conscience and we would uphold the rights of all irrespective of race or creed to an equal opportunity in our American life.

As at all times heretofore, we urge upon the Churches the necessity of promoting, by every possible means, the enforcement of the prohibition laws. There is no way out of the present lawless situation, but to go straight on, to demand with greater force and insistence the enforcement of the Volstead Act and not to neglect, for a moment, the propaganda of education which teaches sobriety and allegiance to the highest American ideals.

The Committee was represented at a public hearing on commercialized Sunday sports. The legislature defeated the demands of the sport promoters to our great gratification.

A member of the committee expresses as follows our feeling in regard to false and misleading propaganda concerning important public problems calling attention particularly to the recent discussion of child labor:

"Public opinion is influenced largely by what people read and hear. It is very important that the facts and arguments upon which public opinion must be based should be presented fairly and clearly. It is to be expected that men with convictions will seek to influence the judgments of their fellows and it is by the friction of opposed minds that light is produced.

But public opinion in this country is menaced by the unfair methods of certain groups who use subtle and misleading forms of special pleading to accomplish their ends. Half truths and even falsehoods are put forth in the expectation that the people ignorant of the facts will be misled. This form of propaganda is vicious in the extreme. Men who use it ought to be pilloried as enemies to the spirit of America. One illustration of this evil method is some of the literature spread broadcast throughout the state last fall in opposition to the child labor amendment to the Constitution.

Misleading statements were made regarding the men and women laboring in behalf of the amendment. Repeatedly it was suggested that the amendment had its origin in Soviet Russia and that it was a veiled Communistic attack upon the Constitution. It is easy to say that people ought to know that such foolish statements were false. But many did not know and were — let us use the right word — frightened into opposition.

Propaganda which seeks to enlighten is beneficial but propaganda which aims to befog and deceive is deadly. Let it be fought as one would fight a forest fire."

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

Your Committee on Religious Education, in submitting its annual report, does not wish to comment upon the routine business transacted at the regular monthly meetings of the Committee. We seek to point out certain definite projects in which we are interested, to which we have given much thought and attention with some degree of success, and for which we feel we are held responsible by the churches of the Conference.

I

1. Young People's Institutes. The State Committee or its members have been active in the promotion of at least three Young People's Institutes. The young people of Hampden County met in the North Church, Springfield, on March 28, in a well attended Institute at which addresses were given by Secretary Shaver and Dr. Ernest M. Halliday. The outstanding feature was the series of group conferences, one for leaders and five for young people.

The supper hour and evening of the meeting of the Franklin Association on October 8, 1924, at South Deerfield was given over to a young people's rally. Brief addresses were given around the supper table by representative young people, and the address of the evening was given by Rev. George W. Owen. The exact number present is not known but the new banquet hall of the South Deerfield Church was well filled as also was the auditorium for the evening service.

For several years an Institute has been held in the Hyde Park Church with a large attendance and great enthusiasm. An interesting feature for the Institute this year, held on November 29, 1924, was that the young people chose for the topic "The Problem of World Peace" and around this all of the group conferences and the address of the evening centered.

A very keen and real interest and a very encouraging participation have characterized these Institutes and others of which the Committee has not definite information.

The Mendon Association of Congregational Churches, which met in Milford, April 17, gave a whole day to a discussion of the church school. In the afternoon Secretary Shaver spoke on "An Adequate Program of Religious Education." Rev. George W. Owen made an address on "Building the Church School." A lively and helpful discussion period followed.

2. State Young People's Conference. As part of the Annual Meeting of our Massachusetts Congregational Churches a Young People's Conference was held on Tuesday evening, May 20, 1924, at the Porter Congregational Church in Brockton.

Following the supper, which was served at 6.30 P.M., toasts and responses were given by five young people from various churches following the general theme of "The Development of the Individual in the Fourfold Life for Greater Service in the Church."

The evening session of the Young People's Conference was presided over by one of the young people, Mr. Philip Landers. As this meeting was held for the purpose of securing from the young people a frank expression of their views as to the part played by young people in the local church, the major portion of the evening session was given over to conference. The representatives of various churches present were asked to give brief reports on eight questions which had been printed beforehand and which were in the hands of all the delegates. That there was a lively interest in the topics which a young people's committee had prepared is evidenced by the fact that in less than sixty minutes one hundred and six separate reports were given, and in addition several votes were taken to secure the opinion of the five hundred delegates present on important issues.

The findings of this particular part of the Conference have been prepared by the Religious Education Committee and have been sent to the various young people's groups over the state. Further copies are available for pastors or others interested upon request to the Educational Society.

The Conference closed with a fifteen-minute address by the Rev. Robert Wood Coe of the South Congregational Church, Campello.

We wish to remind our pastors and Sunday School superintendents of the value of these findings and to urge upon them the desirability of making use of this valuable material.

3. Specific Work in Special Fields. Early last fall, after considerable discussion, your Committee, in the interest of efficiency, decided to limit the field of its activity by confining its labors to certain representative situations where constructive work might be accomplished through council and cooperation between the local pastor and the State Committee. A sub-committee on "Leadership Training" was appointed consisting of Mrs. Manley F. Allbright, of Allston; Rev. George W. Owen, of Hyde Park, and Secretary Erwin L. Shaver. This committee invited various ministers from over the state to meet with them for the discussion of matters of common interest. As a result of these conferences certain places were chosen in which the committee sought to help the local situation by visitation and suggestion. Some of these fields chosen were West Medford, Holyoke, Westboro, Dorchester, Hyde Park and Allston. A few of the spheres of activity included teacher training, as at West Medford; developing leadership among the young people; providing materials for plays and pageants, as at Holyoke with Rev. E. B. Robinson; helping to plan parish surveys, etc. In one case, that of Allston, the problem was the organization of a Young People's department. The committee was able to advise as to curriculum, organization and project suggestions.

It is difficult to report on the outcome of these and some other projects less definite which have been referred to the committee, since most of them are still in progress and, therefore, are incomplete. Furthermore such results cannot be measured in any exact way. The work has been in general that of suggestion and cooperation and has been suited to the individual situation. The committee hopes that it has shown that one of its functions, at least, is of practical advantage to the ministers of the state.

II

1. Peace Education. We are not primarily interested in the formation of a resolution to prevent war, but we are deeply concerned in educational processes which will train the young to think and act peace. We believe the time has come for us to give greater attention to the education in our church school. Old standards, in which militarism predominated, should be replaced by new ideals of brotherhood.

We urgently recommend that the conference go on record as making a definite request of our educational and publishing societies to create and put at the disposal of our churches such material, letters and programs for peace education as will be useful and that our churches be urged to make definite use of them.

We urge also that the necessity of including this peace education in our public school programs be not overlooked, but that they consider it an important part of their program of religious education to promote the cause of world brotherhood through these public educational agencies.

2. District Association Committees on Religious Education. In order that the state committee on religious education may be of greater service to every district association, we recommend that each association elect a standing committee on religious education to represent and promote this important phase of the work.

3. Appropriation. We would recommend that an appropriation of $250 be made for the coming year.

Pastors, Directors of Religious Education, Church School Officers and Teachers are urged to avail themselves of the agencies and advisers in the state office of our denomination and to write to the members of this committee concerning suggestions and help.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON EVANGELISTIC WORK

The Committee on Evangelistic work last year placed before the State Conference a resolution which was adopted as follows: That the Committee on Evangelistic work, cooperating when practical with the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, arrange for a series of conferences of pastors at such strategic points in the state as would best serve those pastors to whom a conference of this nature might be acceptable.

The occasion of submitting a resolution of this nature was the desire of the committee to supplement if possible in a practical way the contribution which the Commission on Evangelism of the National Council makes annually to aid in the work of the pastors and the churches in the special field of evangelism and in the development of the devotional life of the people.

This year the committee met with the hope that the purpose of this resolution might be carried out, and to this end the Rev. John J. Walker, Secretary of the Home Missionary Society, was invited to sit with the committee. It soon developed that the situation confronting the committee was not unlike that of last year — that the thoroughness of the work of the Commission on Evangelism, with the printed aids, including the Fellowship of Prayer, available for the Lenten Season, seemed to make almost superfluous even the very existence of a state committee.

Then there was another phase of the situation, presumably a result of the fact just noted, which the committee considered. No word had come to any member or to the Secretary that a conference or conferences along the line contemplated in the proposal of last year were desired. Thus the situation seemed to leave little for the committee to do other than to submit its annual report.

The Evangelistic Committee feels that it should again urge upon the State Associations and community leaders the wisdom of conducting special Pre-Lenten or Lenten Conferences. These might take the form of retreats in which the program of evangelism would be considered, and time allowed for discussing the problems confronting pastors in adapting such plans to their particular fields. This applies especially and peculiarly to the small parish and the rural community. In this connection the committee might hope to serve as a sort of clearing house for such sectional meetings.

The committee is also of the opinion that whenever there happens to be a member from our State Conference on the National Council Commission on Evangelism this member ought to be invited to serve on the Conference Committee as a member ex officio. Such an arrangement could not fail to be of value to the State Committee work.

The outlook in the field of evangelism is encouraging. The signs of promise are good, and indicate a healthful and growing interest, which is all important in the life of the church.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RELATIONS BETWEEN THE CHURCHES AND THE COLLEGES

The committee this year considered that its opportunity lay along four major lines. It was apparent that only small progress could be made in any one or two of these fields, and that the effectiveness of any state conference committee would depend upon a policy developed through a period of years and carried out slowly and scientifically. The report for this year, therefore, indicates a direction rather than a great achievement.

1. Conferences of College Students. The student conference held a year ago at Holyoke under the auspices of this Committee requested that a second such gathering be assembled in 1925. The Committee made plans for such a meeting, but decided that it would be unwise to hold a session in the Connecticut Valley this spring because of two other conferences which had already been arranged. The two conferences to which reference is made were the following:

The second annual student conference for New England held under the two Christian Associations at Northfield in February was attended by 165 students. The group discussion method prevailed, the general theme being, "God and the World We Live In."

The Connecticut Valley Intercollegiate Missionary Union Conference was held at Mount Holyoke over the week end of March 6. The program was participated in by a number of prominent adult leaders in mission enterprises and also by representatives of the student bodies. Personal interviews with Board secretaries were included in the regular program. About 150 delegates attended.

While we all rejoice in the work which is being done by such agencies as the Christian Associations and the Student Volunteer Movement, we must recognize that they appeal after all to a limited and sometimes specialized constituency. Upon a number of campuses the Christian Associations render only a meager service, while the prophetic spirit of the Student Volunteers reaches only a small group. It is true also that the student often does not think of these "arms of the church" as really being part of the church. Even where a "Christian Association consciousness" prevails there is often lacking a "church consciousness." Observers of student life the country over are forced to the conclusion that the church has not made a deep impression upon students, and that if it intends to do so in the future it must supplement or modify the program of undenominational religious bodies.

Although the conference originally planned by this committee was not held, a second conference arranged for the eastern part of the state met at Wellesley the first of March. The committee invited Prof. Ralph Harlow of Smith College to guide the discussion.

The questions around which discussion centered were: (1) the problem of the college student in his college environment; (2) the college graduate in his relation with the church. The conference was characterized by utter frankness in the evaluation of the church both regarding its contribution to the young people's lives and the type of programme which should invite the energies of college students and graduates.

Students attended from Boston University, Simmons, Sargent, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Wellesley.

After an afternoon and evening of discussion, the opinions expressed were summarized in the following way:

The discussion did not lead to any particular conclusions or agreements, but the following points were emphasized:

1. We are not satisfied with the interpretation of the ideals of Jesus which is given by the organized church.

2. Still we owe much to the church.

3. The church is behind hand in many ways. A representative from one school contended that the church is mediæval and that some more progressive institution should take its place. All others insisted that the church is flexible, and that it needs the allegiance of liberal people in order to make it up-to-date.

4. The church has rendered important service to great causes.

5. The church needs better leadership, both in the ministry and in the work of religious education — lay leaders. The general opinion was that full-time Christian service is not interesting, profitable, or inspiring enough to justify one's entrance into it.

6. Students lack time for church work. There was a difference of opinion as to whether students had a real obligation to maintain church contacts while in college. On one side it was contended that a student's first loyalty should be to his school work, and that inasmuch as the college years are transient ones, church loyalty might well be dispensed with during this period. On the other hand it was argued that these are formative years; and the question was raised as to whether or not the church was an institution which should during these years help the student to learn his own power.

7. The church needs students and the students need the church.

8. We need to know the facts of church history and of the church program in the world of today.

Professor Harlow's own reaction to the conference may be seen in the following statements: "The average Christian student feels that for the Christian man or woman who is deeply interested in such problems as war, race relationships and industry the church is not the organization through which he can best give expression to his life. They feel that church secretaries, officials of church boards, are restrained by their position from any full and free witness to the ideals of Jesus along these lines. The church is still hesitating, it has no fearless stand before the world on any of these vital problems. Other bodies have taken such a stand, for example, the League for Industrial Democracy, the Fellowship of Reconciliation, etc. Here and there an individual pastor may win his right to speak openly. . . . The students blame the church for their own lack of historic background. They claim that the churches talk in denominational terms, act as units, and give no instruction which would tend to awaken a consciousness of THE CHURCH as 'holy, apostolic, and universal.' "

In an article growing out of his experience in two of these Massachusetts student gatherings, Professor Harlow makes a point which should be borne in mind in evaluating these student reactions: "There were many opinions, some advocating the abolishment of the church. The faults of the church were fearlessly attacked, but the statements were all generalizations so far as the universal church was concerned. Petty faults in individual churches, in Four Corners or Oak Squares, but of the historic Church few concrete facts were known. After several hours of such discussion, little of which was constructive, a question was raised as to the Federal Council of Churches. Not a student in the group knew anything of this greatest unifying force in Protestant Christianity." Regarding the discussion of war and other social issues, Mr. Harlow continues: "Assuming the right, apart from expert help and leadership, to attack these great problems they are failing to spend the time and the thought essential for any true understanding of the problems themselves. Nevertheless, they do not hesitate to go on 'discussing.' "

The committee's experience thus far leads to the following conclusions: the student attitude toward the church is often indifferent, ignorant or antagonistic; one reason for this is that the home church has not impressed the young persons as a prophetic institution; another reason is that there has been little profound, sympathetic, expert church leadership around the campus which has made the close contacts with student life. The committee believes that more conferences like this should be conducted in the future under the auspices of the church. But it believes that the mere holding of conferences, valuable as they may be as "exhausts" for student criticism and judgment, must not be the end in itself. They are rather the introduction for the constructive work which the churches must undertake.

2. The committee believes that in the future it would be wholesome for ministers and faculties to meet together in the consideration of common problems. There is, after all, no more potent influence upon student opinion than that which comes from faculty members. Some of them still hold the opinion that the modern church is the church of the middle ages, and are frankly indifferent to it. Some of our ministers believe that faculty men, for the most part, are dangerous to the cause of religion. It would help for the two groups to meet for two or three days of discussion and fellowship.

3. The committee considered the question of conferences of academy students and concluded that there was no great need of its services at this point. From the facts elicited at the college conferences, however, the committee is impressed with the need of holding well led institutes for high school young people at central points throughout the state.

4. The project which the committee believes should be carried out during the next two or three years involves a careful study of student life, Christian influences on and around the campus, and necessary religious emphases at college points. If the function of this committee is that of bringing aid to particular situations, a real study of those situations must first be made. It is the hope of the present committee that those appointed for the next year will undertake a careful survey at several educational centers. This survey would, of course, take account of such facts as have been brought to our attention through the activities of the committee this year and during the preceding year, but it should go far beyond this. We believe that there is a need for real scientific study, not for the study's sake, but as a first step in state policy with reference to student life.

The committee recommends that the state conference authorize the same appropriation for 1925–26 as for the current year.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON MISSIONS AND APPORTIONMENT

During the year the work of the superintendent, Mr. Cooper, has been increasingly directed toward co-operation with the Associations and Churches in our endeavor to increase interest in missionary study through familiarity with the work and to discover successful methods of obtaining support. A conference of representatives of the Associations was held in Northfield in October.

As a special project, Mr. Cooper has held conferences in the individual associations at which financial statements of the individual churches, covering expenses and benevolent giving for three years, were discussed and each church requested to assume its own fair share of the total financial responsibility resting on Massachusetts for the work of the national societies. New apportionment figures were adopted by most of the churches in lieu of the historic ones. These were added together for new Association assignments. The total for the state came to $821,239, a figure to be compared with actual giving in 1923 and 1924 of approximately $690,000, and with the assignment by the Commission on Missions of $1,087,500. It is hoped that the giving under this new voluntary plan will exceed that in past years and that growth in giving and supplementary gifts will bring the state up to the quota of $1,087,500, adopted by the Conference for each of the five years 1921 to 1925.

The new quotas are as follows:

Association	Old Apportionment Quotas	New Self Assumed Quotas
Andover	$35,000	$27,600
Barnstable	5,000	2,500
Berkshire North	52,500	42,012
Berkshire South	20,000	9,248
Brookfield	16,250	12,505
Essex North	25,000	18,737
Essex South	43,750	41,280
Franklin	26,250	25,695
Hampshire	37,500	37,500
Hampshire East	22,500	20,875
Hampden	87,500	72,185
Mendon	10,925	7,070
Middlesex South	26,250	20,965
Middlesex Union	21,250	21,250
Old Colony	12,500	11,630
Pilgrim	....	30,079
Suffolk North	52,500	52,500
Suffolk South	62,500	41,304
Suffolk West	250,000	154,375
Taunton	41,575	31,177
Woburn	57,500	47,820
Worcester Central	67,500	54,595
Worcester North	16,250	10,400
Worcester South	41,250	27,185
Total	$1,081,250	$821,239

At the suggestion of the National Commission on Missions a missionary dinner was held in Boston in March, attended by most of the ministers and many laymen of the three Suffolk Associations and the Woburn Association. Dr. Watts O. Pye of China, Dr. Rockwell Harmon Potter of Hartford, Dr.

George A. Gordon of Boston, and Dr. Raymond Calkins of Cambridge spoke at the dinner. Their messages stimulated the interest of all and created interest on the part of some who had been doubtful as to the wisdom of foreign missions. We believe the occasion was of such value that it may prove desirable to arrange similar dinner conferences again, in Boston and perhaps at other points in the state. This meeting this year in Boston was held in the main dining-room of the Chamber of Commerce, and 327 attended. The place proved a most desirable one.

Plans for 1925 now under way contemplate missionary rallies under the auspices of the Associations or groups of Associations to be held in October and November. Several teams of two or more outstanding speakers are to be supplied by the Commission on Missions. This work is under Mr. Cooper's charge. It is hoped that these meetings will greatly stimulate interest in missions. They will have as their immediate objective an increase in reading and study in respect to actual work in the field, in the belief that knowledge of what is going on is a most powerful stimulant of interest. The speakers will suggest the most successful experiences of individual churches in getting a wide interest in mission study as well as successful methods in canvassing for support.

Final figures for 1924 covering gifts with apportionment credit are not yet available, but it is thought that the total is slightly less than in 1923 when the total was $688,903. During the years 1922, 1923 and 1924 the giving has been about uniform. The variation throughout the country has been about the same as in Massachusetts. This record is on the whole most gratifying; our churches responded to the post-war emergency and have not slumped during the past three years, in which there has been let-down in more than one direction.

On the other hand, no fair-minded person who knows both the work in the mission fields and the financial capacity of Congregationalists can think that the giving as yet reflects a sufficiently general knowledge of and interest in the work. It reflects rather great interest on the part of some, sacrificial giving on the part of a few and well-organized effort in many churches, but it also reflects lack of knowledge and interest on the part of the majority. It must be recognized that promotional efforts of the denomination under the apportionment plan have accomplished much but by no means enough. There are manifest lacks that must be remedied. This Committee is earnestly hopeful that ways will be found of humanizing the apportionment and is most sympathetic with efforts in this direction.

The $5,000,000 apportionment figure has been adopted again by the Commission on Missions as the goal for 1926. The Commission realizes that when this figure was first adopted in 1919 the purchasing power of the dollar was far lower than during the past three years, and that $4,000,000 now would be as adequate as $5,000,000 would have been in 1919 or 1920. However, it was thought best to adhere to this goal, primarily because it is urgently needed by the work which is not adequately supported at present, and secondarily because to lower the goal now would not be fair to the churches which by great effort have reached their quotas, and finally because such action would imperil the position of the Missionary Societies by risking a falling off in the giving of those churches which are reaching their quotas. We are convinced that $5,000,000 is needed, but we believe that we shall make better progress by following the method now adopted, of asking the churches to assume quotas rather than assigning quotas to them.

A matter of great interest to the denomination is the getting under headway of the Laymen's Advisory Committee of the Commission on Missions. For some time there has been effort to form a Committee on Supplementary Gifts. This Committee has now been formed and the name of Laymen's Advisory Committee adopted. Rev. William S. Beard, formerly promotional secretary of the Commission on Missions, has been given the place of secretary. He is now visiting the schools and churches of the American Missionary Association and the stations of the American Board in Mexico, and will spend the summer and fall in establishing relations with state forces and getting the lines of work laid out. He has accepted the invitation of the American Board to spend several months, beginning next February, 1926, in visiting the work of that Board, especially in China, Japan and India. It is hoped that this work will result in the cultivation of interest and the will to give on the part of persons of imagination and wealth. While this work will be distinct from the regular promotional work and not be associated with the Every Member Canvass or any regular promotional campaign, but rather a seeking for help in special projects, nevertheless it is contemplated that practically all gifts received by or solicited by the Laymen's Advisory Committee or its secretary will be given apportionment credit.

In the matter of the Seaman's Friend Society, you will recall that support of this has been laid on the New England Churches by the Commission on Missions with apportionment credit. As agreed last year, we have included the percentage for them within the 100% instead of adding it as an extra. For the Society we ask the churches to assign 1% of their benevolent gifts. This work is most necessary and should be liberally supported. We call attention of the churches not now contributing to this Society to its place under the apportionment and urge its support.

We call to the attention of the associations and churches the necessity of supporting certain local institutions that should participate in apportionment funds and yet cannot be assigned a percentage either by the Commission on Missions or the State Committee, owing to the local nature of the work. The associations or the individual churches should make a place and adopt a percentage for these.

We make the following recommendations for the year 1926:

1. That the assignment of $1,087,500 by the Commission on Missions be recognized as Massachusetts' fair share of the $5,000,000 goal and that efforts be made to raise the full sum, with a determined effort to raise at least $821,239, the amount assumed by the churches, by regular gifts from the churches and the balance of the $1,087,500 through special gifts with co-operation of the newly appointed Secretary of the Laymen's Advisory Committee of the Commission on Missions.

2. That the gifts collected and not designated by the donors to specific objects, be divided between the societies on the following basis recommended by the Commission on Missions but with slight alteration in order to provide for the Boston Seaman's Friend Society:

American Board for Foreign Missions	27.0%
Woman's Board of Missions	14.0
Congregational Home Missionary Society	7.6
Massachusetts Home Missionary Society	11.4
Congregational Church Building Society	8.0
Congregational Sunday School Extension Society	2.5
Congregational Education Society	7.0
Congregational Foundation for Education	3.0
Congregational Board of Ministerial Relief	4.0
Congregational Ministerial Annuity Fund	2.0
American Missionary Association	12.5
Boston Seaman's Friend Society	1.0
Total	100.0%

and that church treasurers be requested to divide the gifts as above or remit to the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, 14 Beacon Street, Boston, for such division.

3. That wherever a church remits 14% of its benevolences through the Woman's Home Missionary Union (which has its office at 14 Beacon Street, Boston), that the percentages to the following societies be changed as follows:

	By the Church Treasurer	Through Woman's Organization
Congregational Home Missionary Society	5.60%	2.00%
Massachusetts Home Missionary Society	8.65	2.75
Congregational Church Building Society	6.00	2.00
Congregational Sunday School Extension Society	2.00	0.50
Congregational Education Society	5.50	1.50
Congregational Foundation for Education	2.25	.75
Congregational Board of Ministerial Relations	3.00	1.00
Congregational Ministerial Annuity Fund	1.50	.50
American Missionary Association	9.50	3.00
Total	44.00%	14.00%

4. We ask for an appropriation of $500 for expenses of the Committee to be used if needed.

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY VOTE OF THE MASSACHUSETTS CONGREGATIONAL CONFERENCE MAY 20, 1924

The Massachusetts Congregational Conference at its meeting at Brockton, May 20, 1924, passed the following vote:

"Voted: That a commission composed of the following named gentlemen be appointed to study the inter-relationship between the Massachusetts State Conference, the Missionary Committee, the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, the Congregational Church Union, the City Missionary Society, the local associations, and matters relevant thereto, and make a report to the next Conference:

J. HOWARD LEMAN, Chairman
H. LEBARON SAMPSON, Secretary
REV. WILLIAM R. CAMPBELL
SAMUEL USHER
OREN C. BOOTHBY
WILLIAM ELLISON
REV. ASA M. PARKER
REV. EDWARD M. NOYES
DR. ENOS H. BIGELOW
REV. SIDNEY LOVETT
ELBERT A. HARVEY

and that this committee have the power to fill vacancies, and add to its number not to exceed fifteen and its secretary is authorized to call the committee at the earliest convenient date."

The Committee designated by the foregoing vote, organized on August 13, 1924, added Harold S. Davis to its number, and decided to make a thorough study of the situation before attempting to reach any conclusions.

Pursuant to this plan fourteen meetings were held. Six of these meetings, each lasting an entire evening, were devoted to hearing representatives respectively of the following:

Committee on Missions and Apportionment of the Massachusetts Conference
City Missionary Society of Boston
Congregational Church Union of Boston and Vicinity
Massachusetts Home Missionary Society
Suffolk North, West, and South Associations and Woburn Association
Congregational Church Union of Springfield
Worcester City Missionary Society
Boston Seaman's Friend Society
American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions

In addition to the representatives of these organizations, various individuals were asked to attend the meetings.

The work carried on by these organizations was carefully outlined and fully discussed. In addition, letters in the form annexed to the report, asking for full information, were sent to representatives of all the associations in the state and to various local organizations, and an investigation of the work of the Chicago City Missionary Society was made. At the executive meetings of the Committee the information available has been considered from every angle. A large majority of the members of the Committee have themselves served at some time on the boards of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, the Congregational Church Union of Boston and Vicinity, or the City Missionary Society, and some of them have served on more than one of these boards. The Committee has spared no pains in its effort to understand the problems and the facts which underlie them, as well as to ascertain the views of representative Congregationalists.

It is interesting to record that of the twelve members of the Committee, six attended every one of the fourteen meetings and three others were absent only once.

A proper understanding of the problem requires at the beginning a statement of the present organization of the home missionary and church extension work in the state. The following agencies are at present working in Massachusetts.

State-wide Agencies

1. The Committee on Missions and Apportionment of the State Conference is a standing committee of the State Conference consisting of nine men and women representative of different areas of the state and elected three each year for terms of three years by the Conference. The Committee usually meets three or four times a year. The members receive no compensation. A small appropriation is made each year by the Conference for travel and printing. It is the duty of this committee to bring before the Conference the apportionment assigned by the national Commission on Missions to Massachusetts, and to apportion the amount accepted by the Conference to the associations, also to co-operate with the Commission on Missions, the various missionary societies, the associations and the churches of the state for the purpose of creating interest in missions and obtaining support.

This Committee through an arrangement with the national Commission on Missions has employed a full-time secretary since September 1, 1922, and maintained an office in the Congregational House. The expense of this, approximating $8,000 annually, has been borne by the national Commission on Missions.

2. The Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, organized in 1799 and incorporated in 1808, is responsible for the home missionary work of the Congregational churches in Massachusetts, supplying the ministry of the Christian religion to places and races in need of it.

It assists rural churches which have become weakened by loss of population and material resources, supplies the opportunities of religion to people of foreign speech, in their own tongue, and gives aid to churches of the colored race.

It assists churches in the older sections of our cities which are no longer able to support themselves by their own efforts and supplies financial assistance to new church enterprises in the suburbs or in new communities.

It was originally self-perpetuating, but for many years its voting constituency has consisted of the members of the Massachusetts State Conference for the time being, together with certain life members. The voting control is, in fact, in the Conference, and to a very large degree the Society represents a permanent organization of the Conference. The Society is under the direction of fifteen trustees elected three each year by the Society at the meeting of the State Conference. A full-time secretary and a full-time treasurer are employed and an office organization is maintained in Boston. In 1923, Dr. Emrich, who for many years rendered invaluable service as Secretary, was made Secretary Emeritus.

In the year ended March 31, 1925, this Society had income and expenditures as follows:

Income

Contributions	$69,506
From invested funds	66,464
Unrestricted legacies	20,677
Total		$156,647

Expenditures

Aid to English-speaking churches	$70,407
Aid to foreign-speaking churches	37,623
Miscellaneous aid	2,840
Administration	19,919
Commission on Missions	2,939
Balance	22,919
Total		$156,647

The Society has invested funds of about $1,400,000. It is thus seen that in the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society the state forces have an agency well organized, well equipped financially and now operating on a budget of about $130,000 a year.

3. The Congregational Church Building Society. This is a national society, the purpose of which is to assist in the construction of buildings for church enterprises. This Society receives the funds raised under the apportionment plan for church building purposes and makes grants and loans for such purposes. The amount of such grants and loans made to Massachusetts churches in 1923 was $16,827.93, and in 1924, $19,400.

Local Associations and Organizations

1. The several associations of churches are loosely organized unions of Congregational churches in various geographical areas which, in a general way, have an oversight of religious conditions and church facilities within those areas. They have practically no funds of their own, but serve as a connecting link between the churches on the one side, and the State Conference, the Committee on Missions and Apportionment and the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society on the other, in respect to missionary giving and in making recommendations for aid to needy churches.

2. The Congregational Church Union of Boston and Vicinity, an incorporated organization established in 1895, assists in church building enterprises in what may be defined as Metropolitan Boston, and protects and preserves for the benefit of the denomination the title to aided churches within the area. The Union is made up of representatives of the local associations of churches, controlled by a board of 23 directors. Up to the end of 1924 it had assisted 45 churches with total grants of $128,222. Its officers have given unsparingly of their time and effort entirely without compensation. It relies for its funds on annual gifts of the churches and individuals within its district. It has received in recent years about $6,000 annually. It influences by its recommendations gifts of a considerable amount made by individual churches within the district.

3. The City Missionary Society of Boston, founded in 1816, is managed by a Board of Directors which is self perpetuating but which has made itself representative of the Congregational churches of Greater Boston. It maintains an office in the Congregational House, and employs a Secretary and more than thirty full-time women missionaries who are assigned to Congregational churches in Boston and who act, in effect, as pastor's assistants engaged in field work. The Society also operates a summer camp used alternately by boys and girls and a summer home for mothers and young children. The Society also dispenses some relief through its missionaries.

In the year ended December 31, 1924, this Society had income and expenditures as follows:

Income

Contributions	$33,245
From invested funds	10,581
Legacies	14,782
Total		$58,608

Expenditures
Missionary work	$24,591
Recreational work	7,332
Relief	5,591
Administration	9,149
Balance	11,945
Total	$58,608

The Society has approximately $212,000 in invested funds.

It is to be recognized that we have in the City Missionary Society of Boston a well organized, strongly endowed missionary organization, which is showing rapid growth both in its work and in the support which it receives from its constituency and which is performing a necessary function.

4. Other local bodies. There are several local organizations which carry on missionary activities. The two largest are the Congregational Church Union of Springfield and the Worcester City Missionary Society. The Springfield society takes charge of nearly all home missionary work in that city. Its work for persons of foreign birth, carried on under the direction of Mrs. Mallary, has been conspicuously successful. The Worcester City Missionary Society assists in the construction of church buildings in Worcester. Many of the churches in Worcester have been established through its aid. An organization for local church extension exists in Pittsfield and there are local societies in other cities.

The Boston Seaman's Friend Society

This Society, organized in 1827, was until 1922 a self-perpetuating society carrying on a special work for seamen at Boston, with a branch at Vineyard Haven. In 1922, on recommendation by the Congregational Home Missionary Society and the Commission on Missions, the support of the Society was assumed by the New England Congregational churches through their Conferences, and its property turned over to a board of 42 members elected by these conferences. Of this board Massachusetts elects 15 members.

The support of this Society has been given apportionment credit. Massachusetts assigns 1% of apportionment funds to this Society.

The Society maintains headquarters in the Congregational House, and employs a secretary and a clerk. It maintains a building at 287 Hanover Street, Boston, with a chaplain and five other employees. This is run as a sailors' rest with dormitory, canteen, religious services, concerts and lectures. The Society maintains a launch in Boston Harbor and a sailors' rest and launch at Vineyard Haven. Here there are three employees. It publishes the Sea Breeze.

Its income and expenses for the year ended April 30, 1925, were reported as follows in a preliminary report:

Income

Contributions	$22,026
From invested funds	7,938
Miscellaneous sources	295
Free legacies	41,373
Total		$71,632

Expenditures

Hanover Street work	$19,970
Less rentals, charges, etc.	11,956
		$8,014
Vineyard Haven work		5,928
Other work		1,459
Cost of Sea Breeze		1,005
Administration		9,940
Balance		45,286
Total			$71,632

As of April 30, 1925, the Society had investments and cash amounting to about $150,000, and real estate valued at $125,000.

The foregoing is a general statement of the present organization of missionary work in the state. The views expressed before the Committee were practically unanimous to the effect that this is too complicated and that some simplification or better co-ordination between agencies should be attained. The work naturally divides itself along the following lines:

(a) The promotion of the missionary program as a whole. This includes the program of education in missionary giving, as well as the actual raising of funds for the work.

(b) Assistance to churches. This work includes (1) the support of churches in the smaller communities, (2) assistance to churches in various cities where, on account of a change in the character of the population the churches are losing their old constituency, (3) the support of foreign-speaking churches the members of which are unable to sustain the work, and (4) the provision of church facilities for growing communities.

The Committee's Findings and Suggestions

The Promotion of the Missionary Program. This branch of the work is in charge of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment appointed by the State Conference. Recently the Committee has employed a secretary, paid by the Commission on Missions, but working under the direction of the Committee. A part of the budget of the Commission on Missions is met by grants from the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society. The arrangement is somewhat of a makeshift. The secretary has no adequate re-enforcement through association with other workers. He needs more co-operation than can be obtained from a lay committee scattered over the state, meeting only three or four times a year. We believe that successful methods of promotion can be worked out only by the continuous joint effort of several persons with adequate interest, time and responsibility.

In order to secure full representation of both the foreign and home missionary interests, we recommend that the present Committee on Missions and Apportionment of nine be reorganized as a committee of seven, to be chosen annually by the State Conference, two on the nomination of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, two on the nomination of the Trustees of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, and three to be chosen as members at large. Such a committee should be able, with the backing of the societies, to work out in time a more satisfactory basis of financial support and to secure the co-operation of the existing agencies at the Congregational House in the effective prosecution of this part of the missionary program.

The Support of Churches. The support of the declining churches in the smaller communities and the support of the foreign-speaking work are the fields which the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society has taken peculiarly as its own and in which it has made a most conspicuous success. The work in the declining communities is being prosecuted by the executive officers of the Society with devotion and intelligence. Their theory is that each member of a church of twenty in a small town needs the gospel as much as each member of a church of 1,200 in a city. Some of the English-speaking churches now aided by the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society are doubtless bound to decline with their communities and very few of these churches promise to become self-supporting. The work is necessary, but is essentially conservative rather than constructive.

The object of the foreign-speaking work is to afford to Protestants who do not readily understand English, or do not feel at home in an English-speaking church, a chance to hear the gospel in their own language and to worship as they have been accustomed. This work has been of the greatest value in keeping many an immigrant from going spiritually adrift. These congregations, however, are essentially temporary. The children of those who belong to them should and, in many cases do, turn to English-speaking churches and this should be an ultimate object of this work. The work is essential during a transition period but should not be continued longer than necessary in any particular community. The Massachusetts Home Missionary Society is able and willing to assume all of this work for which there is any real demand or need.

The work in the cities presents sharply different aspects. In certain sections of our larger cities, notably Boston, homes which were once inhabited by Protestants who would naturally attend a Congregational church are now filled with a different class of tenants who have no interest in such a church. The change is always gradual. The old inhabitants do not move out in a body, but only little by little, until eventually the Congregational constituency may entirely disappear. In some cases, it seems possible to foresee definitely the ultimate extinction of the existing churches. On the other hand, the people who have left the old location move into new centers, usually in the suburbs. There are, therefore, two independent problems, the first of which is that of sustaining the old church so long as need for it exists, and the second that of founding a new church in the suburbs or strengthening an existing church so as to provide facilities there. The second of these problems is considered later in this report. The problem of sustaining the old churches while the change is in progress is a vital one. While these city churches remain open, they minister in many cases to a very large number of persons. They cannot be self-supporting but require comparatively large expenditures. The decision as to whether one of them should be closed or continued and, if it is to be continued, what kind of work should be conducted and on what scale, is a momentous one, as it affects the spiritual welfare of a comparatively large number of people. The problem presents itself with peculiar force in Boston. The usefulness of such a declining church there is greatly increased by the assistance given by the workers of the City Missionary Society. In many cases the church cannot maintain itself without the aid of some organization like the Congregational Church Union to advance funds for needed repairs or renovations. It cannot maintain its annual budget without the help of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society. Under the existing plan, by which these societies work individually, the pastor of such a church has no one person or organization to whom he can go with a program for his particular work and from whom he can receive approval with the promise of support. In order to carry out any program, he frequently has to get the concurrent support of each of the three societies mentioned. Differences of opinion which may develop between any of these societies may compel him to delay or abandon his program. The result is that initiative is not stimulated and unnecessary time and effort are spent in securing the concurrent action of the three societies. The feeling is practically unanimous that some improved plan should be adopted.

The situation is further complicated by the fact that the resources of the Congregational Church Union of Boston are insufficient to meet the legitimate needs for building, maintenance or improvements. Aid which might reasonably be expected from the Congregational Church Building Society, if a well thought-out program for carrying on a particular piece of work could be laid before it, is much more difficult to secure in the absence of such a program. The methods of the Congregational Church Building Society, in our judgment, have been open in the past to criticism in various particulars, but these methods have now been materially modified as a result of representations made by the Congregational Church Union, the Chicago City Missionary Society and other local organizations.

The same shifting of population which leads to the decline of some city churches opens the way to the founding of new churches or the strengthening of existing ones in the suburbs. Up to the present time the method of starting new work which has prevailed is that a few persons, usually self-appointed, would start a society in such a growing community and ask the assistance of the local association, the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and the Congregational Church Union or the Congregational Church Building Society to maintain services and, little by little, first to establish some kind of a temporary building and then to add to it or replace it as the church grew. This method does not fit present-day needs. In the first place, such questions as whether the work ought to be established at all, in view of the probable character of the community in the future and of existing church facilities, may be determined merely by the zeal of a few individuals having no special qualifications for passing on such questions. In some instances, churches are started where they never should have been. Lots are acquired and buildings erected without taking sufficiently into account the facts which should be considered. Even if the new church is started in a location and according to plans which are adequate, it is often started on such a meagre scale and with such small resources that its growth is greatly retarded. Present-day transportation makes it comparatively easy to attend church several miles from home. The result is that the devout in these newer communities frequently prefer to make their church home with a strong church some distance away rather than to become associated with a feeble local work. The Committee feels that it is of vital importance that where there is a growing center which is naturally Congregational and a large enough constituency to support a Congregational church, such a church should be established under auspices which will insure its success. It is largely a waste of effort to attempt to establish a Congregational church in a growing suburb of the better class unless the church starts with considerable resources and under the direction of a pastor who will win the support of the community. Opportunities for planting such churches do not frequently occur in Massachusetts, but where they do occur, they should be taken advantage of effectively. The new church should be strongly financed, capably manned and given a fair chance for early success. Before it is started, there should be a most intensive local study of the situation by someone who can give a large amount of time to it and who is qualified to judge of the probabilities of success and of the character of the church that should be planned. For illustration, it may be that a community is now being built up with cheaply constructed two-family houses very close together and of such a character that they will depreciate rapidly. While new, they may be rented to young people of American birth just getting their start in life, who are attracted by the low rents but expect to move into a better neighborhood as soon as they are financially able. The chances are that in fifteen years the houses in such a community will have deteriorated to a great extent and will be occupied largely by families of a different type. It may be wise to establish a church in such a center in order to provide church facilities for the existing population, which is ideal material for a Congregational church, but it ought to be recognized that that church will probably fill only a temporary need and may eventually cease to exist.

On the other hand, there may be a rapid development in some part of a community characterized by the building of good single-family houses with adequate grounds and streets well laid out, under circumstances which indicate that this community will retain its type indefinitely. The church which is planted in such a community ought to be built with a view to future growth.

What has been said is merely by way of illustration, to indicate some of the factors which should be considered in this extension work. The Committee feels that there are sufficient resources now available to make at least a beginning in this work and that such work if once begun would command the hearty support of men and women of means who are interested in seeing results achieved. It is further to be borne in mind that churches properly planned and started in such communities rapidly become not only self-supporting, but a source of strength to the denomination.

This kind of work is not adequately done at the present time. The problem is not confined to Boston, but is particularly difficult in that city and in its suburbs. It is complicated, as has been noted above in the discussion of the declining churches, by the multiplicity of agencies and the lack of any single agency which can plan a unified program. This lack of leadership and direction is felt by the Committee to be the fundamental difficulty.

In order to utilize to a greater extent the experience, facilities, resources, devotion and initiative of the three organizations and others now assisting in various ways the churches of Greater Boston, we recommend that the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, the City Missionary Society and the Congregational Church Union establish an Advisory Committee of six, consisting of two members appointed by each society, to which all applications for aid in the Greater Boston district, whether for the building and maintenance of church property, for the supplying of ministerial or missionary assistance, or for any other purpose, should be referred. Under this plan, such applications must be submitted to the Advisory Committee by any one of the above mentioned societies before action is taken thereon, and may be presented directly by the applicant to the Advisory Committee, which will consider each application and transmit recommendations to the respective societies. These societies are to be under no obligation to accept the recommendations of the Advisory Committee, but our experience leads us to believe that a committee of this character, presided over by a chairman actively interested in the extending of aid wherever needed in the Greater Boston district and having as associates on the committee representatives of each of the societies, will be able readily to reach conclusions which will commend themselves to the societies as fundamentally sound and beneficial to the work of the denomination.

None of the foregoing societies will surrender under this arrangement any prerogatives, but we believe the work of all will be materially facilitated, much duplication of effort eliminated, and necessary decisions reached with far greater promptness. It is not contemplated that any grant shall be made by the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, the City Missionary Society or the Congregational Church Union to the Advisory Committee or to each other, but that all grants shall be voted by the respective organizations to the various churches or workers as at present, after receiving the recommendations of the Advisory Committee. It is intended that the applications for grants from churches, no matter to whom made, shall be immediately referred to the Advisory Committee for action. We believe that this plan will permit each aided church within the area in question to work out a unified program with the advice and counsel of the three constituent organizations, through the Advisory Committee, and will avoid the difficulties which now arise from divided responsibility. We believe that this plan will offer a means by which not only all the financial resources, but also those of organization, experience and spiritual power can be coordinated and made effective under a common direction, without in any way infringing on the rights, activities, responsibilities or traditions of any of the societies.

The Boston Seaman's Friend Society

The support of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society has now been taken over by the Congregational churches of New England. The churches are assuming this burden, however, in varying degrees. The Committee recommends no changes in the organization of this Society or in the method of its support. It urges that the churches should observe generally the recommendation of the Committee on Missions and Apportionment, by which 1% of that portion of the benevolence budget of each church which covers the purposes included within the apportionment should be sent to this Society. It earnestly commends, however, to the directors of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society consideration of the question whether, as the support of the Society through the operation of the apportionment plan becomes more adequate, steps should not be taken materially to reduce the present office expenses of the Society and the further question whether the effectiveness of the work cannot be much increased by affiliation with other agencies of a similar character.

Certain Relations of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society to the Churches

It is recommended that no new organization which is not self-supporting be recognized by any Association as a Congregational church without the approval of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society.

It is also suggested that recommendations and resolutions of Associations and Councils as to the expediency of carrying on any particular work shall be treated by all as purely advisory, so far as the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, the City Missionary Society and similar societies are concerned, and as not obligating them to act in any way contrary to the judgment of their trustees. The Committee does not intimate that these societies are now under any such obligation. The recommendation is that the absence of such obligation should be generally recognized.

It is recommended that the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society and other societies which may make grants to churches should give consideration to the adoption throughout the state of the policy now pursued by the Congregational Church Union of Boston whereby suitable measures are taken for preserving the title to the property of aided churches for the benefit of the denomination in case the aided work should be discontinued.

The Office of President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society

The Committee feels that the time has come when the President of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society should be a full-time officer who should receive a suitable salary and be the executive head of all Congregational missionary and extension work throughout the state. He should be the principal representative of the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society in its relations to contributing churches. He should act in the promotional aspects of the work in co-operation with and under the general direction of the Committee of the State Conference on Missions and Apportionment. It should be one of his duties to keep informed as to opportunities for extension work by founding new churches or strengthening old ones, and to make recommendations to the trustees of the Society as to measures to be taken for meeting such opportunities. He should be regarded, and should regard himself, not as the special representative of the Massachusetts

Home Missionary Society, but as the representative of all the churches, charged with the duty of planning for and safeguarding the religious interests of the denomination in Massachusetts to the fullest possible extent. He should serve in an advisory capacity in dealing with problems such as are referred to in this report and others, giving the benefit of his ability and experience in meeting those problems which are not now capable of solution by any individual church or society and which require special study, judgment and experience and the co-operation of different agencies for solution.

It is believed that if the office as thus defined should be filled by a man of outstanding ability the result would be a great strengthening of the work of the denomination in Massachusetts and that many of the problems now confronting us would be solved.

It may prove to be the case that services can, in due time, be rendered by the holder of the office toward the carrying out of some of the larger purposes of the Conference itself. If the person holding this office comes to be regarded as a representative of all the churches in all their missionary activities, the Conference may eventually wish to charge him with certain continuing executive duties of the Conference.

(Form of Letter Referred to in Fifth Paragraph of Report)

At the last annual meeting of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference at Brockton, the following vote was passed:

"Voted: That a commission composed of the following named gentlemen be appointed to study the inter-relationship between the Massachusetts State Conference, its Missionary Committee, the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, the Congregational Church Union, the City Missionary Society, the local associations, and matters relevant thereto, and make a report to the next Conference:

J. HOWARD LEMAN, Chairman	WILLIAM ELLISON
H. LeBARON SAMPSON, Secretary	Rev. ASA M. PARKER

and that this committee have the power to fill vacancies, and add to its number not to exceed fifteen and its secretary is authorized to call the committee at the earliest convenient date."

The Committee designated by this vote, having met and organized, is seeking all possible information as the subject before the committee is broad and complex. In order to obtain an intelligent and intimate view of the work of the respective organizations under consideration, it has been deemed desirable to ask the officers and members of the executive committees of the various associations to come before our committee prepared to give us detailed information regarding their work, their problems, and constructive suggestions.

We shall appreciate very much indeed your submitting to us in writing any information which in your judgment will help us in our general canvass of the situation and your giving to us the benefit of your views as to any changes in the existing relations of the various societies to one another and to the churches that might promote greater efficiency and the fair distribution of burdens. We shall also be grateful if you will answer the following questions as completely as possible, supplying any additional information which you think might be of assistance:

1 — Within the territory covered by your association are there any organizations or committees working as the agency of a body of Congregational Churches such as a city missionary society or a local committee organized for the doing of specific work?

2 — If so, by what names are they known?

3 — How are they officered?

4 — What is the character of the work done?

5 — Within what area do they operate?

6 — To what extent do the churches within the area participate?

7 — How are the necessary funds raised?

8 — Do they promote or detract from the National Council program as set forth by the National Council officials?

9 — What is the consensus of opinion relative to the merits of the work undertaken and the results thus far obtained?

10 — If the organization is in the main successful, do you know of any other section of the State where a similar oragnization would be advantageous?

11 — What changes, if any, do you deem desirable in the inter-relations, organization, administration or methods of the various societies referred to in the vote appearing on the first page of this letter under which the committee is acting?

Will you kindly send us your reply as soon as possible, under cover of the enclosed stamped and addressed envelope?

Assuring you of our appreciation of your courtesy in this matter, we are

Sincerely yours,

J. Howard Leman, Chairman.

STATISTICAL TABLES

EXPLANATORY

The tables which follow comprise:

1. The statistics of the churches, giving the ministers, church membership, additions, removals, baptisms, Sunday schools and families; the statistics of the Young People's Societies; the amount of benevolences and expenses. These tables, in accordance with the vote of the Conference, in 1887, are made to conform to those in the Year-Book; but names in the pastoral column are changed according to the latest information before going to press.

2. The Associations of the churches, with the names of officers and the times of meeting.

3. The Ministerial Standing, giving the date of ordination of each minister, the date of membership, the residence and his "employment." "P. C." means pastor by council; "P.," pastor otherwise; "W. C." means without church; "Prof." means professor; "C. M.," city missionary; "T.," teacher; other abbreviations are self-evident. "W. C.," however, includes many who have retired from active service, and some who are in business.

4. The Ministerial Record, containing lists of ordinations, installations, dismissals, and deaths.

The tables of the first part contain the names of all the Congregational churches in Massachusetts, the towns and cities being arranged alphabetically; churches in each town according to age. If the post office name of the church and the town name differ, a foot note on the page where the post office name would naturally be found will direct the reader to the town name.

Church members and families are reported as numbered January 1, 1925, Admissions, removals and baptisms cover the year 1924. "Absent" are not additional to "males," "females" and "total," but included in them. "Sunday school" includes total membership of officers, teachers and scholars, January 1, 1925, or when the school is in operation (if not at that date), covering "branch schools," "mission schools" and "home departments," so far as maintained by the reporting church.

The months and days in the dates of the organization of churches are omitted. They will be found in the publications of 1873, those of churches since organized being given in the "Minutes" of each year Also the months and days in the dates of ordination and installation of ministers are omitted. The former may be found in the lists of the local Associations which follow the tables.

"Ordained" denotes the date on which the person was originally set apart to the ministry by the "laying-on of hands." "Commenced" denotes the date of the beginning of his present pastorate.

In accordance with the recommendation of the National Council, in the Statistical Tables pastors installed are marked "i."; pastors recognized by a council called for that purpose are marked "r."; pastors duly called by their churches, but not installed or recognized by council, are not marked.

Blanks in any column of figures are never equivalent to "none," but mean "no report"; but blanks in the column of ministers do mean that the church has no pastor or acting pastor, and the blank is left for the convenience of those who note changes.

Note. — The "year" means what changes were comprised in the twelve months preceding January 1 of the year mentioned. The table was begun in 1866, all preceding years now given being compiled from past "Minutes," — the number of churches in some years varying from the "Minutes" as they were to what they should have been.

The changes in list of churches, ordinations, installations, etc., for the past year, condensed in the above table, are given in detail in their proper place.

* Prior to 1876 "acting pastors" are included in "others" in columns of deaths of ministers

In the above table, the columns of " Additions," " Removals," " Baptisms," and " Benevolent Contributions " cover the twelve months next preceding January 1 of the year mentioned in a given line. The number of churches, members, and of Sunday Schools was enumerated January 1 of the year mentioned. Previous to 1903 the number of churches " Vacant " includes all churches supplied by licentiates, or ministers of other denominations. Beginning with 1903, churches supplied by licentiates, or by ministers of other denominations, are counted " supplied." For Churches, Membership and Sunday-School Membership, for 1830, 1835, 1840, 1845, 1850, 1855 and 1860, see " Minutes " of 1900.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF MINISTERS

This list gives the names of pastors, or acting pastors, and of all Congregational ministers who are members of the Associations or Conferences that guard ministerial standing.

Ministers who are not reported as having ministerial standing in this state, and who have not been installed by council, are designated by a star(*). This does NOT mean that the man has no ministerial standing.

The first column of figures gives the page on which names may be found of all in pastoral service. A blank in the first column signifies that the person is not reported as being in pastoral service in this state.

The second column of figures gives the page on which ministerial standing is recorded.

The post-office addresses as given below often differ from the places named in the tables, and are supposed to be correct in this list.

An alphabetical list of licentiates follows this list.

SPECIAL NOTICE. — IF your name is not correctly printed in the preceding tables, IF one Christian name is not given in full, IF your ordination is not correct or is not in its proper place, IF your post-office is wrong, or IF before you receive the next Year-Book your post-office is changed, or IF your name is omitted from this list, the needed change or correction should be reported at once to the Rev. Henry Lincoln Bailey, Longmeadow, Mass., Secretary of the Massachusetts Congregational Conference.
